The town of San Feliu de Guixols, Spain, is the great cork manufacturing center of the world. The fifty or sixty factories employ 1,200 men and women manufacturing corks.

Snowless Lands.

Over two-thirds of the land surface of the earth snow never falls.

An Isle of Many Names.

The French island which was known as Bourbon under the ancient regime was named Reunion under the revolution, Ile Bonaparte under the empire and Bourbon under the restoration and is Reunion now.

Norway Hay.

In Norway hay is largely cured by hanging it on wooden and wire racks, much as a woman hangs out her wash.

Vladivostok.

Vladivostok, the principal Russian port in the far east, possesses a well protected landlocked harbor, with a depth of from thirty to ninety feet of water over a wide area.

The Greyhound.

The greyhound seems to have been developed in level, treeless and shrubless countries, where a moving object is visible at a long distance, and great speed is therefore necessary to enable a predaceous animal to overtake its prey.

The Roman Warrior's Drill.

The drill of the Roman soldier was exceedingly severe. It comprised not only the use of weapons, but running, jumping, climbing, wrestling and swimming in full armor.

Longwood.

Longwood, the house Napoleon occupied on St. Helena, was given to the French by Queen Victoria.

Camels of Asia.

What are known as camels in Asia Minor are in reality a common species of dromedary. Camels have two humps, while the race found in Smyrna has but one.

The Cotton Gin.

Mrs. Catherine Greene of Rhode Island, widow of General Nathanael Greene of Revolutionary fame, is said to have invented the cotton gin, but to have allowed Eli Whitney to take out the patent through modesty.

LONG FEASTS.

One Chinese Dinner and a Couple of Eskimo Banquets.

Mr. Ward, the American envoy to China, who tried to secure an interview with the emperor, Hieng Fung, in 1859, tells how he was entertained at dinner that lasted from noon one day until 6 o'clock on the evening of the day following. The total number of courses is not given, but Ward mentions that he had to give in after partaking of 138 different dishes, "whereupon his hosts wondered greatly"—presumably at his abstemiousness.

Probably, however, the Eskimo banquets last longer than any others and the quantity of food swallowed is also proportionately greater. Ross records that seven of his party of natives once ate continuously for thirty-three hours, during which time they consumed 200 pounds of seal meat. Europeans exposed to the same climatic conditions act in much the same way. Captain Scott of the Discovery on his return from his long sledge journey over the inland ice of the antarctic continent did nothing but eat and sleep for the space of three days and nights, and even then he was still hungry.

Commander Peary and his party, returning famished from their futile dash for the pole in 1906, slaughtered a herd of seven musk oxen on Hazen island, off the extreme north of Greenland. For two days and nights thereafter they crouched inside their snow huts, eating continuously, and when they had finished the pile of bones outside was "as high as a tall man's chin."

FREAKS OF FOOD.

Queer Effects That Are a Puzzle to the Physician.

As regards drink, writes Dr. Beverly Robinson in the Medical Record, I have known a tumblerful of milk to bring on an attack of asthma with hives in an otherwise healthy child. When the milk was taken and a piece of bread eaten at the same time there was no asthma and no hives. I could explain this by saying that the bread helped break up curd and that stomachal digestion was not interfered with. But why and precisely in what manner and for what reason asthma and hives were occasioned are certainly matters largely of thought and conjecture. I have known mushrooms in good condition and on repeated occasions to cause most distressing oedema of the uvula and palate. Prior to these attacks the same individual had eaten mushrooms repeatedly with no bad or unpleasant effects at all and had thoroughly enjoyed them. I have known an individual in whom a single strawberry would give neuralgia of the teeth which lasted twelve to twenty-four hours. Again, prior to the attacks of neuralgia of the dental branches of the fifth nerve the same individual had eaten repeatedly and abundantly of strawberries without pain, ache or unpleasant symptoms of any kind. In this case it seemed as though the only plausible though not entirely satisfactory explanation was that with increasing years strawberries had become inimical to that patient.

Dreamless Sleep.

Occasionally I have met people who have insisted that they do not know what it means to dream. To them sleep comes like the pall of death, enveloping them so completely as to entirely extinguish the consciousness for the time being. But, strangely enough, I have found that these individuals do not seem to appreciate this blessing of undisturbed repose. Instead, they feel that in some way they are being cheated out of something that belongs to them. Like the Scotch plowboy, they protest at never being able to "enjoy" a night's sleep, because their head no sooner touches the pillow than it is time for them to get up again.—Bohemian Magazine.

"The Prussian Versailles."

It would be as unjust to form an estimate of the Hohenzollerns or of their capital without visiting Potsdam as to form an estimate of Germany without visiting Bavaria, for Potsdam is more than "the Prussian Versailles." It represents the complement of those sterner Hohenzollern qualities which are embodied in the city of blood and iron. Cold, colorless Berlin may well be seen on the gray days of standard Prussian weather. Sunlight seems exotic there. But the characteristic charm of Potsdam is revealed only when skies are bright and flowers are in bloom. Robert Haven Schauffler in Century.

Not Particular.

Mme. Calve at a ladies' luncheon was condoned by an elderly spinster on the ground that a laudatory article about her had not been very subtle or discriminating.

"I know well," said the spinster, smiling behind her glittering spectacles, "that only discriminating praise counts as praise with you."

"Don't talk about discriminating praise," answered Mme. Calve. "Full-some flattery is good enough for me."

The Polka.

The polka dance was invented between 1830 and 1834 in Bohemia and obtained its name in Prague in 1835.

YOUR DYSPEPSIA WILL VANISH PROMPTLY

There Will be No Stomach Distress Follow the Heartiest Meal

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and Indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cts for a large case at any drug store here and will relieve the most obstinate case of indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from the stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one triangule will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of Indigestion.

What Target Practice Costs.

If you give a little consideration to the matter you will find that target practice in the British navy is an expensive necessity. Every time a 12-inch gun is fired bang goes $150 of the taxpayers' money; a 9.2-inch gun fires a cordite cartridge which costs $70; and even the 6-inch gun, which is a modest weapon, uses a $13 charge. Shells run from $60 to $15 for the common varieties, though armor-piercing ones (not used in the ordinary competitions, of course) may cost as much as $130. Then there is the wear and tear of the guns to consider, and this may be reckoned as expensive, seeing that the "life" of each weapon is brief; and while a 6-inch gun costs $8,360, a 9.2-inch runs to $26,250, and a wire-bound 12-inch means an expenditure of quite $50,000.

Putting by For the "Rainy."

The light of victory in his eye, counsel for the defence rose to his feet and witheringly surveyed the sweet and twenty damsel who was suing for breach of promise of marriage.

"The lady talks," said he sneeringly, "about honorable dealings. Well, gentlemen, I say let her look to herself. My client tells me that she gave him her solemn promise to burn every letter she received from him as soon as she had read it. What have you to reply to this, madam?"

The attractive damsel was in nowise disturbed.

"It is quite true," she answered calmly; "but, as I thought the letters might be useful some day or other, and as I didn't want to break my word, I never read them!"

If Susan Only Knew.

If Susan B. Anthony were living now her heart would be glad. A cherished project of hers has just been realized. Permanent congressional headquarters will soon be established by the National American Woman Suffrage association in a large house already leased for the purpose in H street, in Washington. From this coign of vantage the suffragists will keep a watchful eye on legislation affecting the interests of women and children.

Frills That Soften.

There is no disguising the fact that without the immense and lovely jabots, stocks and frilled puffs the present styles would be angular and severe to an unbecoming degree. The softening frill does much to hide the severity of the season's costumes.

It is the opinion of many that women are more furbelowed this year than ever before, but if all those frills were deducted women would look as mannish as they did on the street last year.

There is a new movement among Methodists, headed by Mrs. Phebe Stone Beeman, a niece of Lucy Stone, to have women granted the right to become ordained Methodist ministers. Since 1872 women have been permitted to preach; but, although after three years of preaching men are ordained, women are not, and they are demanding to be made regular preachers.

The bride now presents the guests at the bridal table with souvenirs in the shape of small satin slippers. These are filled with rice. They sell by the dozen at small prices.

Teacher—Why did Hannibal cross the Alps?

New Pupil—Same reason the hen had for crossin' the road. You can't fool me with no conundrums.

Cynical.

A Chicago professor says, "The man who never parleys over cab fare, who never scans the prices on a menu and who hibernates when he's broke carries an infallible amulet against feminine criticism."

JOHANN'S COURTING.

One of the Royal Romances of the Hapsburgs.

More than one royal romance has occurred in the family of the Hapsburgs. The best of all, perhaps, is that of the Archduke Johann, brother of the Emperor Francis I. One day he was traveling incognito when he arrived in a village where he desired to take a coach for Vienna. He looked around to hire a carriage, for which, having been obtained, he sought a driver. At length a lad was brought to him.

"Your name?" queried the archduke.

"Johann, sir," answered the lad.

The archduke was cute. He had seen at a glance that this was no boy before him, but a girl disguised.

"What do you call yourself when you are at home helping your mother in the kitchen?" he asked, smiling.

"Anna Plochl," she answered. "And what is your name?"

"Johann too. I am an archduke."

"I suppose you will say that you are the emperor himself next?" she laughed back at him. Then she drove his carriage into Vienna.

Here, behold, the people saluted, and she made inquiries, thus finding out the real facts. But she thought little more of the matter until a month later the archduke strode into her father's cottage just at the dinner hour and asked permission to join the family gathering. The girl began apologies, but the archduke laughed them aside and insisted on being called plain "Johann."

The visit was repeated again and again, and at last the villagers began to talk—unkindly. Anna at last asked the archduke to come no more because of the gossip. That settled it. He asked her to marry him, and, despite the objections of the emperor, the two were married. Later the girl, once daughter of a jobmaster, was created baroness and countess and at last forgiven by the emperor.

QUENTIN METYS.

How Love Changed a Great Blacksmith Into a Great Painter.

Love made Quentin Metys a painter. This great Fleming, whom both Antwerp and Louvain claim to have given birth, though the palm now rests with Louvain, was the son of an able blacksmith. Trained in his father's craft, the younger Quentin soon distinguished himself by his work in this base metal and among other matters turned out the wonderfully delicate ironwork that surmounts the well outside the Cathedral of Antwerp. Already an acknowledged master of his guild, it came about, writes Helen Zimmern in the Metropolitan Magazine, that the young artisan fell in love with the daughter of a rich Antwerp burgher. When asked to consent to a marriage, however, the father would not hear of it, saying he could not let his daughter wed a blacksmith. Quentin next inquired if he would feel the same objection to a painter? The good burgher, who anticipated no change of craft on the questioner's part, replied that there, indeed, was a more refined profession. What was his surprise and perhaps secret dismay when some months later Quentin Metys reappeared and asked for the fulfillment of the old burgher's promise. He had, indeed, become a painter and one already held in high esteem. To commemorate his love and his serving on her account Metys limned an "auto-portrait" that now hangs in the Uffizi, at Florence. These acquainted with the secret know that if they touch a little spring in this frame the panel opens like a door, and behind the shelter of Metys' own portrait is concealed that of his love and wife, a sweet Dutch face for whom doubtless he deemed it well worth his while to have played the part of the patriarch Jacob.

A Putting Tip From St. Andrews.

A man on his first visit to St. Andrews was much impressed by the high standard of efficiency which he saw displayed on the greens by those with whom he played. He studied the actions of these heroes to see if he could discover any common feature in their methods. At last he saw light. He observed that they all hold the left hand more under the club when putting than they did when driving.

From this he deduced a rule of conduct—"see the finger nails of the left hand when addressed to the ball." For the rest of his stay, and it may be for some time afterward, his own putting improved considerably.—London Post.

Two Straight Streets.

In viewing Manhattan from a point of vantage on the Metropolitan tower, nearly 700 feet from the sidewalk, one is chiefly impressed by the rigid lines which Park and Madison avenues cut through the length of the island. A tapeline drawn through a miniature model city could not be straighter. A twelve inch rifle discharged at Twenty-third street would send its bullet straight into Harlem without touching a building on either side.

A Hard One.

Mrs. Nuvoe Reash—Did you get my letter? Mrs. Bloodgood—The one where you asked me to your holiday house party? Mrs. Nuvoe Reash—Exactly. Mrs. Bloodgood—No, I didn't get it.—

Bought a Wife at 60 Cents a Pound.

At Kolked, Hungary, the custom is that a bridegroom must pay the bride's parents a certain sum for the privilege of marrying their daughter. Jan Koetvoes was engaged in a dispute with his fiancee's parents as to the amount he should pay them, and the mayor was called upon to arbitrate. Being an expert in cattle, but not in women, the mayor decided the value of the girl should be estimated by weight and thought that 60 cents a pound would be a fair price. After the girl's weight had been ascertained Koetvoes handed over the money and was soon married.

Riley and the Scotchman.

Eugene Field was fond of relating the following story of James Whitcomb Riley: "To beguile the tediousness of the return voyage from Europe it was proposed to give a concert in the saloon of the ship, an entertainment to which all capable of amusing their fellow passengers should contribute. Mr. Riley was asked to recite some of his original poems, and of course he cheerfully agreed to do so. Among the number present at this midocean entertainment, over which the Rev. Myron Reed presided, were two Scotchmen, very worthy gentlemen, en route from the Land o' Cakes to the land of biscuits upon a tour of investigation. These twain shared the enthusiasm with which the auditors applauded Mr. Riley's charming recitations. They marveled that so versatile a genius could have lived in a land reputed for uncouthness and savagery.

"Is it no wonderfu', Donald," remarked one of these Scots, "that a tradesman suld be sic a bonnie poet?"

"And is he indeed a tradesman?" asked the one.

"Indeed he is," answered the other. "Did ye no hear the dominie intryjuce him as the Hoosier poet? Just think of it, mon—just think of sic a gude poet dividing his time making hoosiery!"

How to Kill and Cook Possum.

Just how a possum ought to be killed and cooked is told in the Atlanta Constitution by an expert known far and wide in Georgia. He says:

"To kill a possum his head should be placed beneath a stick. Stand on the stick and pull the possum's tail until his neck is broken. A possum requires careful treatment, and to cook one to perfection a peculiar arrangement is necessary. A pan on legs should be provided with a hole in one end which can be plugged. Coals placed under the pan will slowly cook the possum, and as the grease runs out of the carcass it should be drawn off from time to time. All the time the carcass should be basted with a sauce made of pepper and vinegar. In the meantime the potatoes should be boiled. When the possum is almost done the potatoes should be packed in the pan around the possum, a little sugar sprinkled over them, and then the gravy which has been drawn off from the pan should be poured on, after which possum and potatoes should be browned to a turn."

A Cure For Insomnia.

Next time your slumber fails to arrive on schedule time cast all thought of sleep from your mind and start in to name to yourself all the friends you have had or now possess. It's much more interesting than counting sheep. Perhaps you have only one friend, but one is enough—he may be the more appreciated. Just think of how you came to know each other, of how the friendship developed and of the happy incidents that have marked your acquaintance. Or, if you have no earthly friends whatever, let your thought dwell upon the great Friend of the friendless and how you came to know him. Somehow the most precious of our earthly friendships seem poor compared to this one that distance and time and even death itself cannot sever. And there is one advantage in this attempt to defeat insomnia—even your wakefulness will be enjoyable and restful.—Interior.

True Oratory.

"True oratory," said a statesman, "is that which brings results, is that which converts an audience of enemies to an audience of supporters. Such oratory is rare. I have a friend whose wife, a 'suffragette,' is a great orator. Her speeches from the platform are wonderful, and her husband the other day gave me an illustration of the efficiency of her private speeches.

"'An agent called on my wife this afternoon,' he said, 'and tried to sell her a new wrinkle eradicator.'

"'And how did the man make out?' said I.

"'He left in half an hour,' was the answer, 'with a gross of bottles of wrinkle eradicator of my wife's own manufacture that he had purchased from her.'"—Portland Oregonian.

Absorbing.

"Is the new filing system a success?"

"Great!"

"And how's business?"

"Oh, we've stopped business to attend to the filing system."

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

COUNTERFEIT HEROES

SOME NOTABLE INSTANCES OF BOGUS BRAVERY.

Boy Who Told Father He Had Saved Lad From Drowning Was Talk of the Town, Until Mother of Alleged Saved One Showed It Up — Servant's Clever Ruse to Gain Sympathy—Common Seaside Swindle.

"The precocity of youth is one of the most deplorable signs of the degeneracy of the age," a certain well-known author, noted for his pessimistic views, remarked a few weeks ago. His tone might have been even more lugubrious had the Colchester "Koepenick" hoax, as it has been termed, then taken place.

Doubtless, some readers have already learned how, on New Year's Day, a Colchester boy, aged ten, went home very wet, and explained that he had rescued another boy from drowning, who had fallen through the ice in Castle Park lake. The boy's father, a tramway motorman, took the boy round to the local newspaper offices, with the result that the lad's heroism became the talk of the town. Headed by the names of Corporation officials and leading residents, a petition to the Humane Society was prepared. When, however, this document was taken to the mother of the rescued boy, it was found that he had never been in the water at all, and that the story was an absolute fabrication.

No wonder the city fathers went round dark corners and kicked themselves hard; and the very oysters chuckled in their beards, to quote a London newspaper.

Equally deplorable was the hoax played upon a number of Birmingham people a couple of years ago. A girl of sixteen, carrying a baby, arrived at Edgbaston one day, fainted outside one of the large houses of that aristocratic suburb, was seen by one of the servants, and carried inside. It was noticed that she had various cuts and scratches on her hands and face, and when she revived she said that they had been inflicted by her father, who had attempted to murder her baby brother, whose birth had cost the mother her life. Her father was out of work and she had tramped with him from Rugby. When just outside Birmingham he seemed to be seized with sudden madness, and she had only saved the baby from being stabbed after a great struggle.

Touched by her heroism and distress, the mistress of the house aroused the interest of her friends, and they endeavored to trace the missing father. It was all in vain, however, and the girl had been well provided with clothes, food, lodging, and a good situation, and the baby placed in a home, when the report came that the Wolverhampton police were looking for a servant-girl who had mysteriously disappeared. Suspicions were aroused, and the girl was ultimately taxed with being the missing servant. And such proved to be the case. Moreover, the baby was her own, the cuts and scratches being self-inflicted. It was a sordid, pitiable ending to what appeared to be a remarkable illustration of girlish heroism.

A French railway company investigated a curious case last year, when it was proved that a signalman, who had received over $500 from [illegible] passengers for stopping an express before it had dashed into iron grips placed over the rails—which would assuredly have derailed the train—had actually placed the obstruction there himself. His signal-box was about 300 yards distant from the obstruction, and witnesses came forward and gave evidence to the effect that they had seen the signalman leave his box just before the express was due at that point, carrying the grips.

This dodge reminds one of the trick played by a couple of American telegraph operators, attached to a small station "out West," who "faked" a life-saving event. One day, as an express came rushing through the station, the driver and fireman were horrified to notice a man standing in the middle of the track. The sight of the train seemed to root him to the spot, and a terrible accident seemed inevitable, when another man rushed across the track and hurled the other from the course of the train. It was a "magnificent piece of pluck," to quote one newspaper, when describing the incident, and a goodly sum for the "hero" was duly collected.

The bubble burst, however, when the booking-clerk reported to headquarters that he had overheard the two discussing how they might perform this very risky trick.

During the summer season visitors to seaside resorts are often victimized by bogus "heroes." Diving from the pier or a boat to rescue a supposed drowning man—who is really a confederate—or descending the face of a dangerous cliff to "save" another imperilled life, are fairly common tricks of the seaside bogus hero. A novelty was introduced into the tricks of the latter, however, last year, when a fishing-smack put into a South coast resort with another fisherman on board, who said that his boat, representing his entire wealth, had been wrecked, and he would not have escaped with his life if the other man had not plunged into the rough sea and rescued him.

Naturally the story created much interest, and when subscription lists to reward the hero and recompense the unforunate were opened money flowed in readily. And both would have been richer by many pounds had they not been recognized by a native of Dover, who was able to prove that the man who was supposed to be wrecked never possessed a boat of his own and was really in partnership with the owner of the smack.

Land Surveyor to Scientist.

The last of the great Victorian men of science, Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, who has just entered upon his 87th year, was in his youth articled to a land surveyor and architect, but gave up that profession in order to travel and study nature. In some books of reference it is said that he shares with Darwin the distinction of having conceived and demonstrated the doctrine of the evolution of species. But it is a mistake to suppose that he hit upon the theory simultaneously with Darwin. On the contrary, as he himself has often generously explained, Darwin conceived it twenty years earlier. Amongst other things, Dr. Wallace is a convinced believer in phrenology, an ardent spiritualist, and a strong opponent of compulsory vaccination.

Beautiful Beetles.

The exquisitely beautiful gold beetles of Central America belong to the genus plusiotis, and one might easily imagine a specimen to be the work of some clever artificer in metal. The head and wing cases are brilliantly polished, with a luster as of gold itself. To sight and touch they have all the seeming of metal, and it is hard to realize that the creature is a mere insect.

Tommy Atkin's Cigarettes.

"The consumption of 40,000 packets of cigarettes a month is no uncommon thing in a regiment, and if the regiment is a thousand strong the consumption often reaches 80,000 packets a month," declared Lieut. Allan, of the Second Northumberland Fusiliers in addressing a gathering of Dover Boy Scouts recently.

DINNER AND DARLING.

A Railway Incident of a Young Couple's Honeymoon Trip.

Still shedding an occasional trickle of rice from their garments when they moved, a very young couple recently provided for a carful of bored travelers the touch of comedy relief for a long journey through a fog dimmed landscape.

They were so very young, so very fond, so very oblivious of the penetrating quality of the whispers in which they exchanged tender nothings, they had captured the amused attention of the entire car. They had been too occupied with each other to remember to dine until the train was rapidly nearing the place where the dining-car was to be dropped and where they were to leave it for a long drive by coach.

Then the young husband hastened back to see if there was yet time to snatch a mouthful, while the girl wife began gathering their things together, putting on her waterproof and tying a big blue veil over her bridal hat.

Presently he returned, glanced down the aisle, fixed an adoring gaze upon a gray waterproofed figure with a blue veil halfway along it and, dropping into the seat beside her, said rapturously in a voice of excellent carrying quality:

"Darling, we can have an oyster stew."

Waterproofs are deceptive things. The gray figure turned, and a rich Irish voice replied:

"Darlin' I may be, sor—I'll niver be denyin' the name I've often answered to—but I'm not the darlin' ye'll be feedin' eyesters to, worse luck. Ye'll find her three seats beyant."

He found her, rapidly, and the irrespressible titter that followed their exit in search of oysters aroused them suddenly to a consciousness of other inhabitants than loves and doves, even in this rosiest of worlds.

PALACE BUILT BY ONE MAN.

Frenchman Spent 26 Years Erecting a Stone Nightmare.

The strangest-looking building ever put up by man is probably the palace which a French mail-carrier has erected for his own pleasure. "For ten long years," the owner of this house is reputed to have said, "I treasured in my mind a dream which took the form of a fantastic palace, with grottoes, towers, sculpture, etc., and it was my dream to build it myself."

Twenty-six years ago he began building his dream palace, and he has been at it ever since, until recently, when he stopped only because he had finished the palace. Every stone was laid by him. The design was conceived in his own mind as he went on, and was carried out according to the extraordinary plan that he had imagined.

Now that the palace is finished it looks like a petrified dream in which the nightmare played a certain part. It is a fantastic nondescript, combining all architectural styles and adorned with stone creatures which would defy the classification of a naturalist. In putting this stone phantasmagoria together the builder used no fewer than 3,500 sacks of cement.

The palace has subterranean passages in which rudely sculptured elephants and imaginary monsters stand guard. In the very centre of the palace is a tomb, where the owner expects some day to lie. This is the most elaborately-carved bit of the whole house.

"Hanky-Panky Tricks."

Among the stories told by Ellen Terry in her book are several about the late William Terriss. One is to this effect: Irving never could be angry with Terriss, not even when he came to rehearsal full of absurd excuses. One day, however, he was so late that it was past a joke, and Henry spoke to him sharply. "I think you'll be sorry you've spoken to me like this, guv'nor," said Terriss, casting down his eyes. "Now, no hanky-panky tricks, Terriss." "Tricks, guv'nor! I think you'll regret having said that when you hear that my poor mother passed away this morning." And Terriss wept. Henry promptly gave him the day off. A few weeks later, when Terriss and I were looking through the curtain at the audience, just before the play began, he said to me, gaily, 'See that dear old woman sitting in the fourth row of the stalls? That's my dear old mother.' The wretch had quite forgotten that he had killed her!

Bliss.

"What sort of time do you expect to have during the social season?"

"Fine," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls will be so busy thinking about their clothes that they won't have time to notice my grammar."—Washington Star.

The Other Side.

"I've been wondering about something."

"About what?"

"I wonder if cooks ever get together and discuss the mistress problem."—Kansas City Journal.

Virtue has many preachers, but few martyrs.—Helvetius.

ON A MODERN WARSHIP.

The Feelings of a Commander as Described by Himself.

How the commander of a modern big American battleship can feel is disclosed in the following, taken from a letter written by such an officer:

"There are more than 900 men on this ship, and on the theory that an official of the government is a servant of the people I am the servant of these 900 men and am bound to see that they are kept in food and clothing and baseball bats and abundantly supplied with occupation. Perhaps I should feel more independent if I didn't have to listen respectfully to the orderly every time he comes in and makes one of his infinitely numerous reports and put men in jail when I don't want to.

"Some of these 900 men look more dignified and independent than I feel. I wonder whether I look dignified and independent. I suppose I ought to do so, for to swing a steel mass 504 feet long successfully around like monsters and to make 15,000 tons writhe around the corners of narrow channels is something of an art, after all, and one not possessed by many of the inhabitants of the globe.

"With all that swinging of steel monsters around there go the responsibility and the knowledge that if the ship runs aground the whole civilized world will be acquainted with it inside of twenty-four hours."

DEADLY HORNETS.

The Ones That Buzzed About the Young Soldier's Ears.

A great general was taking his regiment into action. He sent forward a detail of men to make gaps in a rail fence to avoid the heavy loss sure to result if the whole body of men paused to tear it down.

The coolest and finest man in the detail was a young soldier who had never been under fire before. When he began pulling down the fence he fancied he had disturbed a nest of hornets, as he thought he heard them singing fiercely about his ears. But the lad was not going to run from hornets when there was more serious business ahead.

Ignoring the angry insects, he opened the fence and rejoined the regiment without being stung.

In a day or two he was surprised to hear that he was to be promoted.

"But," he said modestly, "I don't think I deserve promotion over the others."

"My boy," replied the general, "I saw you pull down that fence. You were the coolest man under fire I ever saw!"

The man gasped, stared and turned pale.

"What!" he exclaimed, regardless of grammar. "Was them wasps bullets?"

Miners on the Corner.

"Those men," said Sherlock Holmes, "are colliers. You can tell it by their attitude."

The men, very clean in white shirts and black overcoats, squatted on their heels on a sunny corner.

"Any other men," continued Holmes, "would stand. They would lean against the lamppost or the wooden Indian of the tobacconist. But these men, in the low galleries or tunnels of coal mines, for lack of space must work seated on their heels—squatting, as we say. And this position, which would become a torture to you or me in five minutes, is to them, from long usage, comfortable and customary. It is their favorite position at all times.

"Hence when you see men idling on their heels on the street corners you can always set them down as miners. If they are bowlegged the case against them is doubly strong."

The Lady Was Not the Ghost.

An Irish family once had a ghost so troublesome that they sent for detectives. One of these men late at night fell asleep in his chair. The lady of the house chanced to come into the room and could not resist the temptation to groan and rattle her keys. She had never played ghost before. It was momentary indiscretion. But the policeman did not and could hardly be expected to believe this. He said it was hardly worth while to bring him from Dublin, and he withdrew in dudgeon. Yet the lady was not really the ghost. He was sulking in retirement; hence doubt has been cast on the ghosts of haunted houses even among reflecting minds.—London News.

Civil Service in England and America.

The difference between the civil service examination in England and in America is important and to the advantage of the English. In the United States the object is almost entirely to discover the immediate fitness of the candidates for the work they are expected to do. In England the object in most cases is to measure what their ability to do the work will be after they have learned it.—From "The Government of England," by A. Lawrence Lowell.

NECESSITY OF MORE BATTLESHIPS

Great Britain's Naval Defence Estimates Are Increased.

PLAN MORE DREADNOUGHTS

Reginald McKenna Explaining Additional $1,000,000 In Money Requirements Says Britain's Safety Demands Twenty First-Class Warships to Germany's Seventeen —Must Protect Themselves.

London, March 17.—The safety of the country stands above all other sacrifices and no matter what the cost the safety of the country must be assured.

This was the ground upon which Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, justified the increase of nearly $1,000,000 in the navy estimates when they were introduced by him in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

"No one can suppose," went on Mr. McKenna, "that the present Government assumes the responsibility of these estimates with a light heart, but there are cases when even the most determined economist will have to make sacrifices."

It was axiomatic, the speaker continued, that Great Britain should have to maintain a navy sufficiently strong to ensure Britain's shores from invasion, the Empire from hostile attempts, and trade from destruction in time of war.

The limits of the navy must be fixed by the progress of foreign powers. Several powers were rapidly developing their naval strength at the present, but not one at a pace to be compared to Germany. Mr. McKenna explained that he only selected Germany as a standard by which to measure British requirements for arithmetical purposes, and he did not presume to any expression of feeling or opinion except one of respectful admiration for Germany's administrative and professional efficiency. The present difficulty of the Government lay in the fact that it did not know the rate at which German concentration was going on.

It is estimated that 13 German Dreadnoughts and Invincibles might be completed by 1911 as against 12 Dreadnoughts and four Invincibles which Great Britain would have by November, 1911. If Germany accelerated her construction work, she would have 17 of these ships by April, 1912.

Great Britain could not afford to take risks, and if she was to maintain her superiority, the Admiralty must be in a position to obtain the delivery of four additional Dreadnoughts by March of 1912, thus giving Great Britain 20 such vessels against Germany's possible 17.

In conclusion, Mr. McKenna said he considered that the maintenance of superiority depended upon superiority in Dreadnoughts alone.

Shoots Wife-Beater.

Charlottesville, Va., March 17.—John Armstrong Chalener, a brother of Lewis Stuyvesant Chaneler of New York, and a member of the Astor family, shot and killed an Englishman named Gillard, who was in the employ of Chalener, and who had been beating his wife, who ran to "Merry Mills," the Chalener country home, for protection.

There are seven children in the family.

Chalener, or Chanler, as his name was originally, in 1897 was committed by the New York Supreme Court to Bloomingdale Asylum, but escaped in 1900 to Virginia, where a court declared him sane. Since then he has tried in vain to have his sanity declared in New York State. He is a millionaire.

He was fully exonerated of all blame by a coroner's jury, which investigated the case yesterday afternoon.

Convict Clerk Who Faked Story.

St. John, N.B., March 17.—After taking three ballots a jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the case charging W. Herbert Downie, aged 23, with stealing $1,000 from T. S. Simons & Co., by whom he was employed as a billing clerk. The jury made a strong recommendation to mercy. Downie had tried to make things look as if he had been attacked and choked into insensibility.

To Merge the Breweries.

Montreal, March 17.—As a result of a meeting held yesterday it was stated that the project of amalgamating all the breweries in the Province of Quebec was now a certainty.

The valuation of the properties is to be left in the hands of an American expert.

British Cattle Markets.

LONDON, March 16.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12¼c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9⅞c to 10c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, March 16.—The railways reported the receipts of live stock at the City Market on Tuesday as follows: 74 carloads, consisting of 1227 cattle, 1131 hogs, 770 sheep, 225 calves and 16 horses.

Exporters.

No straight loads of export cattle were offered, only a few lots selected from loads of butchers' cattle, and then not more than about 20 cattle all told, which brought from $5.15 to $5.60, and the Maybee-Wilson firm sold the best six cattle on the market, 1250 lbs. each, at $5.70 per cwt. Bulls sold at $4 to $4.60.

Butchers.

The best butchers' cattle sold at prices nearly as high and in some instances higher than, some cattle bought for export. The Harris Abattoir are buying the best cattle to be had for local killing. Selected lots of the choicest cattle, as good as the best exporters, and in some instances better, sold at $5.30 to $5.60, but there were only 21 cattle out of about 1100 sold as fat that brought these prices, and, therefore, these quotations are no criterion to go by, in a general way. Loads of good butchers' sold at from $4.75 to $5.15; medium, $4.30 to $4.60; common, $3.85 to $4.25; cows, $3 to $4.25; canners and common cows, $1.75 to $2.65; bulls, $3 to $4.

Feeders and Stockers.

In these days of light receipts there is not a heavy trade being done in either stockers or feeders, and Messrs. H. & W. Murby report prices steady at last week's quotations. Best feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs., $3.90 to $4.35; medium of same weights, $3.75 to $4.10; stockers, 500 to 700 lbs., at $3.25 to $3.50.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a moderate delivery of milkers and springers, which sold at from $35 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts were larger, over 250 calves being on sale, which caused prices to be easy, at $3 to $7.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were larger than for several markets. Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5 per cwt.; rams, $3.50 to $4.25; lambs, grain-fed, $7.25 to $7.75, and common, $5 to $6 per cwt.

Only Steerage Passengers.

London, March 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Berlin correspondent of The Standard says the Prince Oscar, the first steamer of the New Kanada line, sails for Halifax March 19, with steerage passengers only. There is no direct steamship communication for better class passengers to Canada, but this is to be altered shortly.

ON EVE OF WAR.

Austria Is Getting Excited and Puts Troops In Readiness.

Vienna, March 17.—The Bourse yesterday was again greatly depressed by fears of the outcome of the Servian difficulty. The situation is officially admitted to be extremely grave, although not hopeless.

The Emperor yesterday received Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Dr. Wenkerle, the Hungarian Premier, with whom he conferred at length on Servia's unsatisfactory reply to the Austro-Hungarian note of March 6. As a result of this conference, Austria will despatch a note to Servia before the end of the week, demanding a clear explanation of Servia's intentions.

In the meantime, to emphasize this demand, the 66 battalions, now on a peace footing in Boania, will be raised to a war footing which is equivalent to an additional 40,000 men. Action in this direction has already been taken by the War Office.

Public opinion is greatly excited and the belief is strong among Austrians that the country is on the eve of war. Throughout the dual monarchy there is a violent feeling against the British, Russian and French policy, which has the appearance of backing up Servian aspirations.

The uneasiness has been increased by the fact that the newspapers have been forbidden to publish anything concerning the military preparations.

Drew Pay From Corporation.

Galt, March 17.—Yesterday at the Davidson investigation, Robert Soules swore the town foreman had him working on three occasions out on his farm, for which he drew pay from the corporation.

Charles Larter testified to hauling town sand to his own lot at the instance of Davidson.

Prof. Howard Everts Weed, an eminent American landscape architect, lectured to a large city hall audience last night on civic improvement work. It is one of a series of ten lectures to be delivered in Ontario.

Special Fisheries Department.

Halifax, N. S., March 17.—The Board of Trade fisheries committee has forwarded to the chairman of the standing committee on fisheries at Ottawa a letter urging the reorganization of the Fisheries Department under a deputy minister, separate from the Marine Department, and the appointment of a commission to investigate the condition of the Canadian Atlantic fisheries, with a view to inaugurating a progressive educational policy.

Would Rather Have Subway.

Kingston, March 17.—City Engineer Craig has received from the Grand Trunk Railway a plan showing the overhead bridge proposed to be erected instead of a subway at the Junction. The bridge would be built 1,000 feet south of the railway crossing and would mean the closing up of Montreal street and Perth road. Mayor Couper and the engineer are strongly opposed to the company's plan and will press for the construction of the subway.

Case Against Harriman.

Chicago, March 17.—The Chicago hearing in the Government suit against Edward H. Harriman and his associates, the Union Pacific Railroad and subsidiary railroads, to break up what Attorney-General Bonaparte termed "a substantial monopoly of the transportation business between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast," opened yesterday.

Want Protection.

Montreal, March 17.—The manufacturers of cast iron procelain enamel goods are moving in the direction of more protection against the American article. A deputation will go to Ottawa.

Two Commissions a Year.

London, March 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Army Council have decided that Canada may nominate one candidate half-yearly for a commission in the Army Medical Corps.

Panic Among Prisoners.

New York, March 17.—A panic was for a short time threatened last night among the 1,500 city prisoners on Hart's Island, at the entrance of Long Island Sound, when fire was discovered in a large frame building used as a shoe shop.

New Bishop of Cleveland.

Rome, March 17.—The Pope yesterday ratified the appointment of Mons. John Farrelly, at present spiritual director of the American College at Rome, to be bishop of Cleveland, Ohio, in succession to the late Bishop Horstmann.

WHY AM I ILL?
HOW TO TELL.
Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.
Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?
If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.
Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.
Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

New Testimony Likely To Be Produced In The Kinrade Affair At The Next Session

One Witness is Prepared to Swear That Dead Girl Was With Friends Until Three O'clock, and Another Says Mother Did Not Go Out Until Ten Minutes After Three.

HOW MOTHER HEARD IT.

Hamilton, March 17.—Facts of importance in the Kinrade mystery developed yesterday.

It is now declared positively that Miss Ethel Kinrade was with friends until 3 o'clock on the fatal afternoon, and that she should have reached her home probably five minutes later, while a witness has been found who swears Mrs. Kinrade left the residence at ten minutes past that hour. Both Mrs. Kinrade and Florence Kinrade have testified that Ethel did not go out during the afternoon.

When the inquest resumes Friday night it will not be concluded. There are nearly a score of witnesses already summoned. Most of them will testify as to movements of the Kinrade family on the afternoon of the murder. In fact, it is likely there will be more than one adjournment before the matter goes to the jury for an opinion.

One person will likely testify Friday night that Ethel was in a certain house at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, which would give her time to arrive home about the same time, if not before her mother left. Charles Hossack, who claims to have seen Ethel out walking about 3 o'clock, is positive of his identification. He says he knew the young woman and was not guided by the clothes she wore.

The police are trying to learn the name of a colored girl who, it is said, saw Ethel on Jackson street about 3 o'clock.

The police have located a new witness who is supposed to have seen Mrs. Kinrade leave her house about 3.10 on the afternoon her daughter Ethel was murdered. The witness is said to be a woman, who was sitting in her window, and fixes the time by the fact that she looked at her watch. Mrs. Kinrade stated at the inquest that she could not remember precisely what time it was when she went out.

There is another rumor in circulation which is engaging the attention of the sleuths, but which is thought to be without foundation. It is that Florence Kinrade ran into a house not far from her own on the afternoon of the tragedy, took the telephone receiver off the hook and then replaced it, after which she went to Mrs. Hickey's.

Regarding the condition of Mrs. Kinrade following her acquaintance with the fact that Ethel had met with an accident and had died, Mrs. Reeves, York street, cousin of Mrs. Kinrade, has something to say. She was present when the news was broken to the mother on the night of the tragedy, that Ethel was "hurt." She said the mother became frantic, walked floor and conducted herself in a very distracted manner. Reeves also remembers the birth of all the children.

FOY INVITES HELP.

Wants All the Assistance He Can Get With Law Bill.

Toronto, March 17.—The Legislature yesterday succeeded in passing a large portion of the estimates.

The Attorney-General moved the second reading of the law reform bill. It is provided that the present judges of the Court of Appeal shall constitute the appellate division of the High Court of Justice, and these judges shall ex-officio be judges of the High Court, and vice versa, the judges of the High Court shall ex-officio be judges of the appellate division. To give permanency to the second court of the appellate division, it is provided that the judges of the High Court shall meet in December of each year and designate from their number who shall sit in this court for the following year.

To facilitate the work the courts of the appellate division will sit alternate weeks, and it is hoped thereby that the intervening weeks will enable the judges to dispose of many cases more advantageously when argument is fresh in their minds. The immediate effect of this part of the bill will be to cut out the double appeal which now exists.

A saving of printing expense to litigants in the elimination of appeal books will also be gained, and the typewritten manuscript will be sufficient.

Security for costs of a case in appeal will not necessarily have to be provided.

The clause in the bill under which the Lieutenant-Governor in council will approve of the selection of the judges of the second appellate division will be stricken out.

The question of increasing the jurisdiction of county courts has been brought up. In many of the courts the local judges have not sufficient work to keep them properly employed, while many of the high court judges are overworked. This inequality will be adjusted by the provisions of the act.

The Attorney-General expressed himself as not wedded to all which the bill contained, and would be glad of a free discussion by members of the House.

Several new bills were introduced.

Major J. J. Craig (East Wellington) would give county councils the option of forbidding autos passing through their districts on Saturday and Sunday; would have motorists imprisoned and their cars confiscated on the third offence.

Hon. Mr. Fraser's (Welland) bill to restrict the disfigurement of landscapes by bill posters was thrown out by the municipal committee.

The Bowyer bill to permit country merchants to sell harmless drugs was discussed rather favorably and referred to a special committee.

Friend of Animals Dead.

Boston, March 17.—George Thorndike Angell, "the friend of dumb animals," as the veteran leader in the humane educational movement in the United States was called, died early yesterday, aged 86 years.

In 1866, after seeing two horses run to death in a race, he became interested in humane work for dumb animals, and, prompted by the action of Henry Bergh, who in that year started the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mr. Angell established the publication of Our Dumb Animals.

He traveled many times throughout the United States and in scores of other countries in pursuance of that work and caused to be established more than seventy thousand "bands of mercy" in America and England.

A Revolt In Cuba.

Havana, March 17.—The first armed uprising against the new Cuban republic occurred Monday night within a little more than six weeks after the inauguration of Gen. Gomez as President. How serious the movement is is impossible to determine at present, all that is known being that a sergeant of the rural guard stationed at the town of Vueltas, in Santa Clara province, with a party of seven men, some other members of the rural guard and a number of peasants took to the woods, and that the troops are in active pursuit.

MANAGEMENT OF THE INTERCOLONIAL RY.

Hon. G. P. Graham Plans Board of Four Members.

WOULD RELIEVE MINISTER

Proposed Scheme Announced In the House Yesterday Is That Three Railwaymen and Deputy Minister Butler Make Up a Commission Answerable to Government Through the Minister.

Ottawa, March 17.—The creation of a board of management for the Intercolonial Railway, as an experiment, was the announcement of Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, yesterday afternoon.

The board will consist of four members, who will not be directly responsible to Parliament, but to the Government of the day, through the Minister.

Two members of the board will be high officials of the road; a third will be Mr. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and the fourth will be selected from one of the big corporation railways.

Mr. Graham admitted that a serious condition confronted the Intercolonial. With the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Intercolonial would become a local only, and in view of that fact it would be necessary, in his opinion, to acquire branch lines to bring traffic, or to hand the road over to some company which would have the traffic for it.

He was not prepared to say that the crown could not manage a Government road, and he was not prepared to say that the people would agree that the Government ought to give up its responsibility.

"I have in mind," the Minister went on, "to establish a board not directly responsible to Parliament, but to the Government of the day through the Minister. After all the talk of a commission, the people will hold the Government responsible so long as it is a Government-owned road."

The board would have to meet with the Deputy Minister at least once a month and give a full and complete report of what was being done. The board would not relieve the Minister of responsibility, but it would relieve him and his Department of a multitude of details that ought not go beyond the head office in Moncton.

Mr. Graham began his Intercolonial budget statement with the statement that the people of Canada have greater courage than any other people in the world in taking hold of transportation problems. Even with the completion of the new Transcontinental Railway he felt sure that the commerce of Canada would be sufficiently large to tax the carrying capacity of the railways for some years to come. After observing that there was 23,716 miles of railway in operation and 4,927 miles under construction, the Minister went on to tell of the progress being made in the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Discussing the Intercolonial, a large quantity of the new rolling stock had been purchased out of revenue, and if the wages of the employes had not been increased in 1907-8, there would have been a surplus of $221,000. The capital expenditure on the road last year totalled $4,382,494. On the P.E.I. Railway the deficits were $390,461.

Notwithstanding handicaps, the Intercolonial was as well managed as any railway in the country, hired no more men and paid no more for work done.

On the basis of average cost of train mileage the I.C.R., with 1.192 cents in 1907 and 1.295 cents in 1908, was lower than the average for Canada, 1.380 and 1.304 respectively. The Grand Trunk came next with 1.267 and 1.154.

One source of the comparatively low earnings of the I.C.R. was the lower standard of the freight it carried; another was the competition of water rates. If the C.P.R. freight rates were not 28 per cent. higher than those of the I.C.R. rates it would have lost nine million dollars. On the same basis the loss to the C.N.R. would have been $1,760,628, to the G.T.R. $2,970,000, and the T. & N.O. $166,462. the rates on the latter road being 48 per cent. higher than on the I.C.R. by reason of the superior class of freight it carried.

"How is it," asked Mr. Borden, "that the I.C.R. statistics are so good and the showing so bad?"

"Just because the rates are so low. The I.C.R gives lower rates to the people than any other railway on the continent," said Mr. Graham.

His idea was that the I.C.R. should be "hooked up" to one of the transcontinuental roads. He also expressed the view that either some branch lines must be acquired to serve as feeders, or lease the road to some company that would have traffic for it.

At yesterday's meeting of the Commons' railway committee a bill was reported to extend for five years the charter rights of the Montreal Terminal Railway Co. An application from the St. Mary's and Western Ontario Railway Co. for power to construct a number of branch lines was opposed on behalf of the Ontario Government as an unwarranted interference with the provincial rights. The bill, however, passed without division.

A bill to sanction the construction of a branch line of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. from Piles Junction to Grand Mere in Quebec as well as various extensions of the C.P.R. system in the west was also adopted. A vigorous protest was made against any further renewal of the company's rights in regard to the construction of a line from Lanigan to Prince Albert.

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY MARCH 17 1909

TWO YOUNG GIRLS SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN THE MERCER REFORMATORY THIS MORNING

Created a Scene When They Heard The Magistrate's Judgment—Taken To Cells Shrieking And Screaming.

WANDERED STREETS.

On hearing their sentence of two years in the Mercer reformatory, Evalina Rice and Nellie McMartin, broke down at the police court this morning and were taken down to their cells shrieking and sobbing, the young Rice girl clinging to her mother as though loth to part from her. In fact such a scene was created by Mrs. Rice, she being so terribly affected by the fate of her daughter that she had to be asked to leave the police station.

The two young girls were charged with wandering the streets at night, being unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves. Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for them and pleaded not guilty.

The Evidence

Ernest Buck was called and said that he knew Evalina Rice. In answer to a question from Chief Roszel, he admitted hearing her say in the gaol that her name was Evelyn Thaw and that her home was in Hamilton. She said that her mother was coming for her to-day.

P. C. Newhall swore that on Sunday night last about 7:45 he saw the two prisoners going along Hunter St., West, stopping men. To everyone they passed they would throw out some remarks. He saw Evalina Rice step in an archway and Nellie McMartin walked on. By the way her head was going she seemed to be conversing with someone. A young fellow going west stopped and spoke to the Rice girl. He then walked on to the McMartin girl. They stood there for a few minutes talking and laughing. Some of the words they used were not very nice. The girls crossed the street and stood in a doorway for a few minutes and then went along the street. P. C. Newhall asked them what they were doing. They could give no answer and witness took them to the police station. The McMartin girl said that she was going to meet a gentleman friend. Rice girl said that she was going to meet her mother. Both have been cautioned about their conduct. They have a very bad reputation. He had seen Evalina Rice buy cigarettes and smoke them. He had known Nellie McMartin for about six years. Her reputation was very bad.

P. C. Meharry said that he knew Evalina Rice to see her. She was called a street walker and bore a very disreputable name. From her conduct on the street, he thought that what people said about her must be true.

P. C. Meagher gave similar evidence to P. C. Meharry.

A number of young men also testified as to the accused's reputation.

This concluded the evidence for the prosecution against Evalina Rice. The defence did not put any in.

In the case of Nellie McMartin the same witnesses were heard, and in addition to them, Chief Roszel said that in the month of May 1905, Nellie McMartin's mother laid an information against a young man for abducting her and also against her for being incorrigible.

Given Two Years

Mr. McWilliams ask for the leniency of the court. He said that Mrs Rice would send her daughter to Toronto, where she would be in the care of her sister. The McMartin girl, he said, was industrious and persons in whose homes she was employed as a domestic would state that she was a good worker. He believed that if given another chance they would do better.

His Worship remarked, in sentencing them, said that it would be unkind to allow them to go. In the reformatory they would be well looked after.

MANY INDIANS DYING IN NORTH FROM LA GRIPPE

Winnipeg, March 16.—Seventy-two Indians are dying from grip at Fort Chipewayan and more than 150 in all at Four Posts, in the MacKenzie River district. This is the startling news brought by Angus Beabont, inspector for Hudson's Bay Company. There are nine other posts in the Mackenzie River district from which Beabont has not heard later than September.

Hunters on the trail are stricken with grip and trappers are suddenly seized with fatal effect. Heroic work is being done by Hudson's Bay Company's officials, Sisters of Charity, the Protestant Mission, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and by Dr. Rymer, at Fort Resolution.

Fur is scarce, less than one per cent. of the Indians are living by trapping this winter. They have turned to fishing, and while there is hardship there is little destitution.

The cold has been extreme, the average for two months being 38 below zero. The extreme low point was 70 below.

BUNCH OF SHAMROCKS FROM ERIN'S ISLE

Mrs. W. J. Moher, of East City, has just received from her mother, in Cahir, Co. Tipperary, Ireland, a beautiful little box of Shamrocks, and a post card printed in the Irish language, which is being revived to such a great extent in the motherland at the present time, especially among the rising generation. Needless to say she feels very proud of her present coming as it does from the land of Saints and Scholars, the Emerald Isle.

It is learned that a new building will be erected during the coming summer at the corner of Sherbrooke and George St. on the location of the old fire scorched store that has been at last almost obliterated. The statements regarding the matter are to the effect that Mr. J. K. Brooks, who owns the property, intends to tear down the blackened walls and erect a building which will comprise three stores. One of them will be for a grocery business and another may be used as a butcher shop. It is not known what will be done with the other. It is stated that the contract has already been let, and that the work will be begun with the opening of the fine weather.

CHILD DEVOURED BY WOLVES IN SIGHT OF FATHER

Saskatoon, March 16.—A weird tale of the great north land is brought to Saskatoon from Moose Lake northwest of the pass. A trapper had secured a number of young timber wolves, which he trained for driving, the animals having remarkable endurance and speed. After finishing up a hard day in which the animals had not received any food the driver and team approached the shanty that was their home. His little 3-year-old child ran out to meet them.

As the famished animals reached her they jumped on her and she was dead before her father could raise a hand. Seizing a sharp axe from his "Boat," the trapper went at the wild creatures and never stopped until he had killed the entire lot.

WILL SECURE THE OPINION OF CITY SOLICITOR IN MATTER

The Finance Committee held a short session yesterday afternoon to consider a letter that had been received from the City Trust Commissioners which stated that the Commissioners had decided to refuse to reduce their demand by $8,300, feeling that it would be illegal on their part to do so.

Ald. Bradburn read the section of the Act covering the question and expressed the opinion that the committee should get the opinion of City Solicitor Hall. He moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the City Solicitor be asked to give his opinion as to the legality of the commissioners in reducing their demand.

The motion carried and in the event of the solicitor reporting that such action would be legal, the committee will have a joint meeting with the Trust Commissioners.

Ald. Morrow, chairman of the committee, was in the chair.

EXPRESS WITH ENGINEER AND FIREMAN DEAD IN CAB CRASHES INTO STATION, KILLING MANY

Examiner Special.

Montreal, March 17.—A frightful accident at the Windsor Station here this morning at 9:30 o'clock, when a runaway express train crashed into a crowd of people at the station resulted in the death of at least five people and serious injuries to forty more. A big crowd was waiting at the station platform for the arrival of the train, when suddenly the Boston express, with the engineer and fireman lying dead in the cab and going at full speed dashed into the station, crashed through the bulwarks and stone walls and into the waiting crowd before they could make a move to get out of danger.

The scene was an awful one. Half of the express train fell into the station basement and the dead and wounded were scattered all over the platform. Calls were sent in as soon as possible for ambulances and the two score injured, many of whom were badly hurt, were removed to three city hospitals.

The accident was caused by the plug in the cab blowing out and instantly killing the crew.. This took place at Kensington, five miles out and for five miles the train ran at full speed with no controlling hand on the throttle, until it was brought to a sudden and tragic stop by crashing into the station. A New York despatch places the number of dead at ten or twelve.

Was Given A Week To Make Settlement But The Horse Died In The Meantime

The case of Ernest Buck, charged with obtaining a horse from Allen McCarthy by false pretences, came up before Magistrate Dumble, at the police court this morning. Mr. G. N. Gordon was present in his behalf. The accused was given a week in which to come to a settlement with Mr. McCarthy. However, since last Wednesday the horse died.

Buck said that he left the animal at Frank Kelly's with the order that it was to receive plenty to eat. The horse had bad knees and he traded it for another one. He still had to pay something to "boot."

His Worship sentenced Buck to one month in gaol, but at the suggestion of Crown Attorney Wood he changed his judgment and remanded him until to-morrow morning. Mr. Gordon intimated that a settlement would be made in the meantime with Mr. McCarthy.

Manufacturers' Committee Takes Up The Question Of Freight Rates To Peterborough

The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council took up an important matter at their meeting last night, when the freight rate on coal between this city and Black Rock was considered. It was pointed out that the rate to Peterborough was in excess of that to other places in the district. And the committee decided to see what could be done in the matter.

Ald. Gillespie, chairman of the committee, stated that there was a considerable difference between the rate to Peterborough and to other nearby towns and that it was time something was being done about the matter. The distance from Black Rock to Toronto was 101 miles and the rate 60 cents per ton. From Toronto to Peterborough on the G. T. R. was ninety-four miles, and the rate 65 cents per ton, making the total rate from Black Rock to Peterborough $1.25 per ton.

Belleville is 219 miles from Black Rock, and the rate was only 90 cents. On motion the committee decided to take the matter up with the Railway Commission and Railway companies, and the Board of Trade will be asked to co-operate.

Exceptionally Large Number Of Farms Are Now On The Real Estate Agents' Registers

Quite prominent on the many billboards about the town are notices announcing the sale of farm stock and property. With a view to learning the reasons for the many sales that are now taking place an Examiner reporter made the rounds of several real estate offices and found out that it is a fact that at present there are a larger number of farms that have been sold or are on the market looking for prospective purchasers.

Many Reasons.

There are many reasons for the present conditions. Some of the farmers are going West and are now disposing of their property intending to remain in the new country, and desiring to take with them all the spare cash they can realize from their effects here. Others are moving into town or are moving away from here, and also wish to sell their property. There is also a class of farmer who is nomadic in his methods. He does not remain long on any one farm. These are found fairly numerous in this country, as well as in others throughout the province. The fact that there are a number who are now changing their location is another explanation of the large number of sales that are now announced.

Sold Many Times.

In this a retired farmer by the name of Middleton stated that in his time he had changed his farm twenty-five times and had gone back to one at least eight times. Buying and selling again at increasing prices. There are among the farms now for sale some of the best in the county, and the prices are generally stated to be very reasonable. The City is gaining many prominent farmers by their retirement from actual labour, and among the number of new houses that have been recently built not a few of them are occupied by retired farmers, who intend to spend the remainder of their lives as quietly as they can within the city's limits.

WM. LEAHY'S FARM AND STOCK SOLD BY AUCTION TO-DAY

A sale of farm stock and implements was held to-day at W. M. Leahy's farm in Otonabee, Lot 26, Con. 12. Mr. Chas. Stapleton was auctioneer and a report says that a satisfactory sale was the result. The farm itself has been purchased by Mr. P. Tanguey.

A DETECTIVE WELL KNOWN IN PETERBOROUGH CRITICIZES ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

H. L. Wells, Who Was Here on Dummer Case, Writes Strong Letter to The Examiner in Connection With Matter.

IS NOW IN VANCOUVER.

Peterborough people will remember H. J. Wells, who was here at the time little Johnnie Hill was shot in Dummer, and who was then a detective in the employ of the Ontario Government. Mr. Wells, who is now in Vancouver sends the following letter to the Examiner:

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—Press despatches here state that the Hamilton Police and Detectives are being severely criticized by the people. That criticism may, or may not, be unfair. In murder cases police have got to be sure, and safe conclusions are never arrived at quickly. I would remind the people and the press of Hamilton that they stood pat and allowed the full and complete investigation of the Barton murder mystery to be strangled by the officials of the Attorney-General's department — "strangled," as I have charged in the public press, to cover up the most incompetent, most ignorant piece of detective work ever practised in Ontario.

The Prime Minister alone is responsible. Press reports here quote the Premier as saying that the conduct of his Government has recently been endorsed by the people. He also invites, at all times, the assistance of outside criticism.

On my return in a couple of weeks I will have printed and circulated in Hamilton, ten thousand letters giving full details of the Barton murder investigation. I take this course because the press does not seem inclined to deal with the matter, and to see if the Hamilton people do endorse the stand the Prime Minister has taken and still continues to take on this case.

Some months ago I received one unsigned letter and one signed letter from Policeman John Miller, touching on the case and asking for an interview. Fearing some more police trickery, I wrote Policeman Miller, stating that if he was seeking an interview as the direct representative of the Attorney-General I would agree to meet him, but if he was seeking an interview as the friend and representative of Policeman Greer, then I would positively refuse to see him.

That was the last I heard from Policeman John Miller.

I have received all kinds of threats from Government officials in their efforts to silence my tongue in this case.

H. J. WELLS,
Ontario Peoples' Detective.

EXCURSION MAY BE RUN TO TORONTO

An excursion will be run to Toronto on Saturday for the race between Fred Simpson and Alf. Shrubb, if enough Peterborough people express their willingness to go. The people who have been talking of going are asked to leave their names at the Examiner office betwen to-night and noon to-morrow and if there are enough names arrangements will be made to go ahead with the excursion. A very cheap rate can be secured and no doubt a large number of people would like to see the race and root for the Peterborough Indian.

REVOLVER NOT FOUND

Authorities at Hamilton Are Searching The Sewer At Kinrade Home For Missing Weapon.

ARE NOT THROUGH YET

Hamilton, Ont., March 17.—The police authorities had a squad of men engaged this morning digging up the sewer at the Kinrade house, in hope of finding some trace of the revolver which they think was disposed of in that manner. Only part of the sewer had been uncovered by two o'clock this afternoon, and up until that time no trace of the weapon had been found. There remain about thirty feet of pipe to be uncovered and the trap in which the weapon, if thrown into the sewer, would lodge.

FARM OF LATE GEO. YOUNG AUCTIONED THIS AFTERNOON

A farm sale that attracted a large number of farmers was held this afternoon in the Munro House yards. It belonged to the late George Young, who met an awful death last autumn at the station at Winnipeg while on a visit to the West. He was running to catch the train when he slipped in some manner and was thrown beneath the wheels. His father, Andrew Young, is also dead, and that family is said to be extinct. The property reverts to the uncles and aunts of the deceased. The land that is now on the market is lot 3, con. 12, North Monaghan, and is admitted to be some of the finest land, and the most fertile in the whole country. A farmer stated to a reporter that at the time of the young man's death it could easily have sold for $100 an acre.

CHOIR OF MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH WERE ENTERTAINED

On Tuesday evening the members of Murray street Baptist church choir were entertained to a sumptuous banquet in the Sunday School room of the church. After enjoying it to the full the usual toasts followed.

A very pleasing programme was given, as follows:

Violin solo by Miss H. Miller.

Vocal solo, "Queen of the Earth," by Mr. D. Ferguson.

Piano solo, Mr. Bruce Quinn.

Vocal solo, "Grandmother Brown," by Miss Clara Kidd.

Several games were then played, in which all took part.

A pleasing feature of the evening was "The Hurdle Race." This afforded a great deal of amusement, and was watched with as great interest as any races of the present day. Mr. F. McNeil reached the goal first much out of breath and very much fatigued. Mr. Bruce Quinn came in second, receiving a hearty applause.

Mr. Ferguson won the prize for the best telegram of ten words.

The choir then had two flashlights taken by Mr. A. J. Raddon, whose camera does splendid work.

Everybody went home feeling they had spent a very enjoyable evening and hope such occasions will occur often.

SMALL FLOCK OF CANARIES SEEN IN SNOW STORM

An unusual sight was seen by a citizen living on the south part of Aylmer St. During the heaviest part of the snow whirl about four o'clock, he was surprised to hear the notes of a wild canary, and looking up saw a small flock of them that must have numbered a good dozen. They were the ordinary wild canary, and appeared to be totally at sea in the wind and the heavy fall of snow. There is no doubt about them being canaries for other citizens have reported seeing what was probably the same flock several days ago.

LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE AT "AT-HOME" IN LINDSAY

The bankers of Lindsay gave a very enjoyable "At Home" last evening, at which a number of Peterborough young people were present. The event was held in the Lindsay town hall. There were about one hundred and twenty-five in attendance and excellent music was provided by Fralick's orchestra of Toronto. Those who attended from here were Messrs. B. Gillespie, C. Barber and Harold Elliott, of the Bank of Montreal, and J. Clarke, of the Bank of Commerce, and Dr. A. W. McPherson, and Mrs. Pearce and Misses Lizzie and Eva Irwin, and Miss Mamie Hamilton.

VETERANS TO PETITION FOR LAND GRANTS

At a meeting of the Veterans of 1866 Association held in the drill shed last evening it was decided that a petition asking for land grants be sent to Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia. A resolution of condolence will also be sent to the family of the late Col. J. Z. Rogers and to the family of the late Mr. John Irwin, both of whom in their lifetime were enthusiastic members of the Association.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The anniversary of Ireland's patron saint falls on cold weather, but appeals to millions of warm Irish hearts all over the world. It is observed religiously and socially and individually in Canada and in Peterborough. Religiously the day was begun in Peterborough by service at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning. This is meet, for if St. Patrick means anything to the Irish people the religious spirit of the pioneer apostle of the Gospel of Ireland and of the people who owe to his teachings their fervent piety and deeply religious character, holds first place. No one will quarrel with the loyalty of loyal Irish hearts to Ireland, though they are people of this great and free country, where they enjoy the highest forms and degrees of civil and religious liberty. The new love and affection that leads son and daughter to make a home of their own, does not lessen or weaken the love and reverence felt and due to the dear old mother in the dear old home. It is a sign of a sound heart and sane mind to cherish home love, home affection, no matter what new ties are created. Therefore, we all appreciate the honour and love shown Ireland by her children especially on St. Patrick's day, not only because it consists with perfect loyalty to their new home but because the Irish people form so creditable and large an element in our national population. So we rejoice with them that rejoice on St. Patrick's day as we and St. Patrick's sons should and do unite with the Scotch and the English, who on their national days turn their hearts more fondly to the dear old shores, without any less of love for or loyalty to the new land which gives them larger opportunity and more commodious conditions of life than the old homes.

THE BIGGER VIEW

As is to be expected the Conservative newspapers are denouncing the Grand Trunk Pacific loan proposal. It is not uncharitable to pronounce their attitude as pure partyism, engrafted on Little-Canadianism. The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific is everywhere regarded as a national undertaking supremely in the national interest. Even Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, overborne by the steady set of the tide of public opinion in favour of the construction of the line, to win popular favour, declared that if given the opportunity he would finish the railway, which he failed to "finish" otherwise. How will he do this without money? The Grand Trunk Pacific needs money to complete construction of the western section, and it simply asks the credit of the Dominion to the extent of ten million—a loan with undoubted security and assurance of re-payment. The Grand Trunk Pacific is being built to say—permanent bridges instead of rain-shakle temporary wooden trestles and a road-bed costing $32,000 per mile instead of the original estimate of $18,000 per mile. Not only is the security absolutely good in the matter of solidity of construction, but the promise of paying traffic is of similar certainty. Besides there is precedent tending to minimize the element of risk to the vanishing point. The Conservative Government of the day treated the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with princely liberality, yet the company shortly after organization was compelled to come to the Government asking help, thirty million dollars was advanced on the credit of the company. This was not only repaid but the operation of the road brought on by aid of the loan, has resulted in developmental advantages worth, to the country, many times the amount of the loan. Another precedent, the Liberal Government of Ontario advanced to the Amalgamated Soo industries a loan of ten million to place them on their feet, with two effects. The loan has been repaid and as a result of its help the works are now in full operation and form one of our present, and potentially, greatest national industrial assets. We can't afford to be chessparing in these things. We must sow if we would reap. All our future depends upon extension and perfection of our transportation media. Canada has so far gained an hundred fold from her heroic investments in transportation facilities and it is not yet time to withhold our hands. Governments, as the trustees of the people have an important responsibility in this regard. The Conservative Government of Ontario have shown great liberality to the Canadian Northern Railway, but that does not indicate a withdrawal of favour, in respect of the application for aid in the construction of a line from Sudbury to Port Arthur—530 miles. This proposal is held to involve conditions which will prevent the diversion of western traffic to the east and away from Ontario. We must not neglect the bigger view.

There is that scattereth yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.

PETTY AUTOCRACY

The big majority behind Sir. James Whitney at Toronto is a temptation to the indulgence of his natural bumptiousness and tendency to autocratic and bull-dozing methods—to centralizing power, that rightly belongs to the Legislature, in the hands of the Government. The proposal to clip the powers of the Provincial Auditor and remove the check upon the passing of improper accounts, contrary to all precedent and sound principle of financial administration is only one example.

The Whitney Government seems to feel justified in practising the might-is-right principle as shown in "over-riding the courts and legalizing illegality." The claimants in the Cobalt-lake mining right were deprived of the relief they sought in the courts. The judges were superseded and the obedient majority behind the government usurped the place of judicial authority and pronouncement. Now it is proposed to render legal, hydro electric power contracts with municipalities which the courts have declared illegal. King Charles, of England, lost his head for disregard of parliament, and the Whitney Government's course is not far removed for abuse of parliamentary power through an overgrown majority. Sir James Whitney may for a time carry off matters by bluster and strong language, but there will be found a limit to public endurance of methods that might pass in Cromwell and in Cromwell's time.

This tyrant, whose sole name blisters our tongues, was ever-thought honest.—Macbeth.

NEW PROBLEM OF ROADS.

It is a somewhat singular fact that a "sand-blast" directed against the hardest granite, covered by delicate lace, will eat away the granite as if it were cheese, while the delicate tracery of the lace will not be injured, but will leave its pattern in alto relief on the stone. Something as remarkable and as unexpected in involved in the fact that rubber-tired motor vehicles are more destructive to macadamized road beds than steel-rimmed wheels of ordinary vehicles, not through impact but by suction. We have enough destructive agencies of our highways and streets without this new element of bad roads. It was thought that motor cars demanding a smooth, level surface, would have a tendency to improve our highways, but no sooner do we get the roads through the medium of the motors than it is discovered that they are powerful agents of deterioration and ultimate destruction. The following article from the Brantford Expositor on the "New Roads Problem" is worth reading with attention:

While the new automobile has been a blessing to a few, it has been a nuisance to the many in more than one respect. From an economic point of view its worse fault is its destructive effect upon the roads. The best of country roads in this country are macadam; and though a good macadam road will show no bad effects from the passage of an army on foot or the heaviest traction engines, it does not take long for the swift rolling motor car to tear it to pieces. It is not so much the weight of the car that punishes the road, as the speed at which it is driven, and its structural shape. Nor, contrary to popular opinion, is it the wheels that do the most damage. Immune crabb rubber tires might fly along stone roads without doing much harm. It is the suction of the machine that ruins roads.

A vacuum is created under the body of the car, and into this the air rushes from underneath, carrying with it the dust of the road, and the dust—it is the road ground fine. Thus, in the course of a year or so, the top dressing of the macadam road—the earth and sand and gravel—has been sucked and swirled away, and the binding of stone underneath is exposed to the elements. There is nothing to turn the rain that falls on the road; it penetrates the cracks and crevices that had been filled by sand and gravel, and that is the beginning of the end. It will require not more than another year for the road to be completely ruined, unless something is done to give it a top dressing that will keep the wet from the foundation. The question that is agitating many an engineer, and many a county council, in Canada, Europe and the United States is: "What is this something to be done?" If it were a month or two later a very precise answer might be given, for then we shall know how certain sections of road especially treated to withstand the heaviest auto traffic have resisted the frost. However, it may be said with some confidence that the "something to be done" is something in tar or asphalt oil.

There is no question that unless we are to forbid the automobiles the use of the road we must make a different sort of macadam; for it is plain that automobiles are on the increase, and that ten years from now there will be ten in use for one today. So, even if certain of our roads seem to be in godo condition, and have few automobiles running over them, that is no indication that they will be in good repair next year. The part of the province that is remote today, and infrequently visited by a touring car, may be on the main highway in ten years. Therefore no road-builder who hopes that his work will endure can afford to ignore the new element of road construction that the automobile has introduced. He can take it for granted that the old-fashioned macadam road is doomed. The method most generally in use by road builders who have in view a heavy motor traffic is to begin by cleaning the road surface, and freeing it from dust, exposing the stone foundation. All depressions are then filled and the macadam rolled to a true crown and grade. Then a thin coating of tar is spread on the top of the road by a very fine spray, the heated tar being kept under pressure. The surface is then covered with stone dust or with sharp gravelly sand, and rolled. In some cases this treatment answers well; but if the traffic is very heavy it wears out before long, though not nearly so rapidly as the old style macadam. It is plain enough that, although the method described is the best in general use, it leaves much to be desired, and keeps scientific road-builders alert to improve upon it.

In California the problem seems to have been solved by the use of asphaltic oils; but, unfortunately for road-builders elsewhere, the oil that costs a cent and a half a gallon there would cost six cents in Brantford, the mild winters on the Pacific coast relieve road-builders of all apprehension as to what old King Frost is doing to the road from November to March. Down in Massachusetts, where some of the best roads in the United States are to be found, a number of experiments were begun last year on certain highways. Pretty nearly all the road-makers' recipes were tried in different stretches of road, careful note taken of the relative resistance offered to traffic, and comparisons made. But until the frost gets out of the ground it will be impossible to say which mixture has the best all round score. At present the road commissioner of the state thinks that some of the asphaltic oils will be found the best for general use. A road top-dressed with a mixture of oil and sand makes a nice soft cushion for a horse's feet, and unlike tar roads, is not slippery at any time of the year. It costs from 20 to 30 cents a square yard to put this dressing on.

Naturally enough, the municipalities object to bearing all this expense and they are well aware that even if all the automobile license fees collected in a year were spent on the roads they would not go very far towards maintaining them in as good condition as they were before the cars began to use them. Statistics from England show the cost of maintaining the chief roads has increased, on the average, 50 per cent. in the past few years. The increase fluctuates over different parts of the country, and is greater where automobiles are commonest, reaching 70 per cent. in some countries. In other countries the increase is about the same. A tax of $10 a year on every automobile using the roads of Ontario would, perhaps, pay for the damage done the roads on this score. The existing fee does not begin to cover it.

A TIMELY PROTEST.

(Montreal Herald.)

One who is evidently a lawyer, and whose initials "T. C. C." accord with those of a leader of the local bar, writes to the press to protest against the proceedings at the coroner's inquest in the Hamilton murder case. The same thought had undoubtedly come to the minds of many others as they read the reports of the way the Kinrade girl was questioned. Twice she was kept on the rack until her physical strength was exhausted. Twice she was taken over her story, to be led from one contradiction to another, the only inference from the failure to find the man she refers to being that she, as the only person in the house with her sister, had to bear the brunt of suspicion. The hard fact of the case, as it appears, to every newspaper reader, is that the girl was on trial, but she was on trial without being accused. It has always been understood to be the informing principle of British criminal law that a subject is to be held as innocent until proved to be guilty; that he cannot be obliged to testify against himself but is, on the contrary, warned against saying anything that could be used against himself, and that when accused of a crime, he is to be encompassed with all the protection known to the law. Essentially, every one of these provisions has been violated, and that not by coroners' jurors ignorant of the law but by a criminal lawyer especially selected for his recognized ability to lay bare the mind of a witness. The girl in question, unccensed, undefended, has had to bear a moral indictment against her whole manner of living. It does not look like fair play.

The defense of such proceedings will be no doubt that the ends of justice must be served. It is on that ground, and that alone, they defend the "third degree" in certain American cities, on that ground they defend the French system of justice under which the judge of interrogation plays precisely the part played by Mr Blackstock, except that his merciless questioning is done in secret, on precisely that ground the inquisition was maintained in Latin countries, to extract admission of the truth by torture if necessary, for centuries after Englishmen had won their Great Charter.

The coroner's jury in the Hamilton case would easily have brought in a verdict indicating that a murder had been committed, and its obligation would have been fulfilled. When the Crown authorities were prepared to accuse someone of the murder would have been the better time to do much that has now been done.

Plenty of Coal.

Reading, Pa., March 17.—Figures computed here show that there was yesterday sufficient anthracite coal on the surface to supply the trade for the next eight months.

It is claimed that the Reading Co. has at least 2,500,000 tons of coal at its storage yards at Abrams, Landingville and Mahanoy City and that nearly a million more tons will be added by the end of March.

When Polly Ran Away.

By PERRY MOORE.

Copyrighted 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"'Ebullition of pique!'" Polly puckered her pretty face into a scowl and jabbed in her hatpin viciously. "Temper, he meant! As if I hadn't reason and more! And he'll come tonight as usual, will he, in spite of my note, which he is sure says much more than I intended."

Then she glanced at an open letter on the dresser. "Sure, are you, Mr. High-and-mighty? Well, I guess you'll see, and I guess when you arrive with your benignant favor all ready to hand out and find no little sinner anxiously waiting for it you'll begin to think that my note didn't say an atom more than I meant."

She giggled a little, dashed her handkerchief across her eyes, adjusted her veil and slipped out quietly—very quietly—for Polly was running away, and not a soul of them should know her whereabouts until she had indited and dispatched an epistle to Mr. Fred Hanlon giving him to understand thoroughly that their engagement was forever at an end.

This epistle should be very dignified and emphatic, leaving no possibility of its being attributed to mere pique. She would have delighted in imparting her irrevocable decision to Fred personally, only—well, Fred had such a way, and he would just pick her up and kiss her and laugh at her and maybe say, "Nonsense, little girl!" and make her effort ridiculous.

Of course she would have to laugh, even if she were angry, and when she laughed once it would be all up with her dignity. She would give in and take Fred's petting and chocolate creams instead of carrying out her serious intention. The dear boy always remembered her taste for chocolate creams, but she must remember he wasn't a dear boy any more.

He was an autocrat who had assumed authority over her beyond his right, had dictated as to her conduct and made himself so disagreeable that she was determined to put up with it no longer.

She had been merely amusing herself with that new, Spanish looking young man, who had a delightful accent and a gratifying admiration for Miss Polly. It was great fun to engross him entirely and render him oblivious to the charms of the other girls.

She had meant nothing more at all, but now, since it was to be all off with Fred—Mr. Roderique was very wealthy—perhaps she would eventually consent to reign in the ancestral halls he had described so glowingly.

Polly was swiftly pursuing her way, mindful that there was need of haste if she would reach her destination before it was "scary" dark, when a couple of the girls appeared around a corner and hailed her.

She shook her head and passed on, a little vexed, for she was obliged to make a long detour to avoid their company and her own inclination to tell things.

Nobody should know of the rupture with Fred until she could exhibit the Roderique diamonds in her engagement ring. Then if Elsie Wilson, who admired Fred openly, could capture him let her! Anybody was welcome to Fred. Nevertheless she felt a twinge of jealousy and sneered at herself for it.

"Wait, Polly, wait!" She turned to see three of the girls, this time hurrying toward her with "news" on their eager faces. She coolly deflected from her course again, obviously avoiding them.

"Such a time as I'm having running away!" she mused whimsically. "Heroines usually have adventures and difficulties in escaping, but they run away at night. I'd be scared to death! Then, too, Fred will be sure to come early, whistling 'Pretty Polly Oliver.'"

With a shriek Annabel Hanlon fell upon her.

"Oh, Polly! Isn't it awful?"

"I should think so by your looks." Polly smiled, though she heartily disliked Fred's cousin.

"You've been so thick with him I thought you'd feel sort of disgraced—or mortified anyway. I'm thankful I was never intimate with him—gambler, blackleg, thief!"

"What are you talking about, Annabel?"

"Then you haven't heard—and they trailed him here, arrested him and took him away handcuffed—that fine Spanish gentleman, impostor, fraud, you've gone to such lengths with?" Annabel laughed maliciously.

"And with whom any of you girls would have been glad to go greater lengths if he had looked at you!" Polly flashed and marched on.

She was intensely shocked and—and Fred had been right in his estimate of the fellow. He would be justified in his position now; he would be more autocratic than ever. She must assert herself and break the engagement, even if she afterward forgave him.

As she finally boarded the car she recalled, with a throb of dismay, the long country lane she would have to traverse in the gathering dusk from the trolley line to her old nurse's home.

The car was filled with suburban laborers, and she did not notice a square jawed young man who had persistently but cautiously followed her swung himself on behind, where he presently appeared to be arranging something with a rough but honest looking man, who nodded and winked knowingly as he pocketed a generous bill.

Square jaws squatted on the car steps out of sight; the other crowded inside and seated himself close to Miss Polly. She glanced at him anxiously as the men dropped off one by one, hoping he, too, would leave. But when she alighted he sprang off and slouched away.

She looked doubtfully at the darkening road, half determined to go back to the car, but discarded the idea with a toss. "Run away and turn right around and run back, Polly Paget! Well, I guess not, miss. I can sprint like a deer, and in ten minutes I'll be in Marjorie's kitchen."

She caught up her skirts and skimmed away, stopping suddenly, with a frightened squeal. The rough man had stepped into the road before her with an offer of his company.

"No, no! Thank you. I'm not—at—all afraid!" cried Polly, with chattering teeth. Even at that fearsome moment it occurred to her that this was to be expected. Runaway heroines always have adventures. "But I never meant to be in the dark, the girls hindered me so," she moaned inwardly.

"Let me pass, sir," she demanded, striving to be haughty, but quavering woefully.

"I shall walk with you, miss." He put a hand on her arm, and Polly screamed wildly.

Some one dashed up, knocked the impertinent fellow down with surprising ease, and she found herself clinging frantically to Fred.

"Why, Polly, darling! Is it possible?" he exclaimed, simulating great surprise.

"Oh, Fred, Fred! I should have died if you hadn't come!" Polly panted presently. "But how—how did you happen to be here?"

"Oh, I've been out to see a man," he said lamely. "But, say, kittens, I want to tell you that I was idiotically jealous of that Roderique fellow; that was all. I was as much taken in as anybody. I only let on different because I was jealous. I thought him the sure thing and was afraid he might"—

"Oh, but he couldn't, Fred!" Polly asserted, promptly forgetting certain things. "And, Fred, I was running away because"—

"Never mind, little girl.' Who cares a hang? If anything's said on account of your little flirtation with him, I'll take the brunt of it. Yonder comes the car, and we'll go home and arrange our wedding."

They had the car to themselves, and when Polly essayed another embarrassed explanation of her running away Fred laughed, softly whistling "Pretty Polly Oliver."

It Was a Boy!

There was no booth in the corner drug store. The young man at the telephone, therefore, could be heard by all the customers ranged about the soda water fountain. His face beamed as he talked.

"Everything is all right," he was saying.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Eleven pounds. Beautiful boy. Like me, they say.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Resting quietly. Would have sent for you, but thought it best not to. Didn't want to worry you.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. I'll attend to all that.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. I'll tell her you're coming down right away. Beautiful boy.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Eleven pounds and looks just like me."

He rang off and walked proudly out of the drug store apparently oblivious of the smiling countenances of his interested listeners ranged around the soda fountain.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Meant Her Invitation.

Mrs. Simmons, who had been spending the day with Mrs. Mayes, was preparing to go home. Susie, who had been very troublesome all day, begged her earnestly to stay to supper.

"Why, dearie," said Mrs. Simmons, "I did not know you were so fond of me."

"It ithn't that, Mitheth Thimmonth," said Susie honestly. "Mother thath the'th going to give me a good, thound thwitchin' ath thoon ath you go home."—Delineator.

An Appeal to Self Interest.

"Why do you keep advising me to advocate good roads and forest reserves?" asked the obstructive politician.

"Well," answered Farmer Corntossel, "mebbe those things 'ud make it some easier fur you when it comes your turn to take to the woods."—Washington Star.

ATTACKED BY A LION.

Awful Experience of a Railroad Man in Africa.

IN THE JAWS OF A MAN EATER.

Dragged From His Bed by the Fierce Monster, He Was Mangled and Gashed and Carried Off Bodily by the Brute.

The following description of an attack by a lion, as related to Mr. St. Michael Podmore, F. Z. S., while he was returning from a sojourn in the wild places of the earth, is so terribly realistic that we offer no apology for printing it. Mr. Podmore met the hero of this story while on a trip across the Pacific ocean and was shown the terrible scars on the man's body:

I was engaged on the transcontinental Cape to Cairo line, and our gang consisted of two white men and fifty blacks. We each occupied a separate hut.

One dark night I was aroused from sleep by hearing something moving backward and forward beneath my bed. Becoming alarmed, I listened breathlessly to a loud, long and indescribable sniff-sniff which broke the stillness of the night. My experience of Africa was not extensive, but I instantly realized that some wild animal was under my bed. Every one of my faculties became immediately paralyzed with horror. I was unable to utter a sound.

After a moment or two I became aware that a man eating lion was sniffing his way along the edges of the bed, perhaps a little puzzled at the mosquito curtains. I then felt I must do something, and instinctively, yet noiselessly, I huddled all the pillows and bedclothes over my head. No sooner had I done this than the lion, with a horrible pur, grabbed me by the right shoulder and dragged me out on to the floor and immediately began to suck the blood which streamed down my neck and chest, and every time I moved he bit me more savagely.

As I raised my knees to get into a crouching, protective position he gave me a little pat with his paw which nearly broke my leg and inflicted a dreadful wound. Then suddenly the monster dropped me out of his mouth, placed one massive paw on my chest, and then, throwing back his noble head, he gave four terrible roars of triumph and defiance.

My chum walked round the hut and then saw with horror the hole made by the lion, who had torn out the mat walls and crawled under my bed. Then it dawned upon him what had happened, so he ran round to the other side and kicked the door down.

All this time the only thing I seemed to take interest in was the loud sipping suck, suck, made by the lion as he drew my blood into his reeking jaws. I remembered, with a pang of regret, that I had not lived a model life recently, and I began to pray as I had never prayed before. As I prayed I thought how curious it was that I did not feel the slightest sense of pain with a man eating lion chewing my flesh and drinking my blood.

I had been lying on my back, with my neck and head resting against the side of the hut, when my friend smashed the door. As he did so the lion drove his terrible fangs into my right groin and leaped out of the hut into the darkness. As he ran with me he seemed to be twisting and jerking me round sideways, as though striving to get me on his back.

The lion ran across the clearing with me for about thirty yards and put me down under a big boabab tree. I lay on my back with the lion on top of me, occasionally gazing with his great luminous, greenish yellow eyes, which filled me with unutterable loathing, so expressionless and cold were they, yet so diabolical in their ruthless cruelty.

The lion seemed perfectly content with his prey. I felt his long, rough tongue scraping up my thighs and abdomen, and as it crept higher and higher I felt little gusts of his horrible breath. I half turned my head away, but still the long, greedy tongue worked its way toward my throat. I could distinctly feel each bite, because, although it did not cause the slightest pain, yet as the fearful fangs were driven into a fresh place I was conscious of a strange numbness in that particular part.

During all this time the negroes kept screaming, "Nkanga, nkanga!" My friend kept running round the clearing in utter bewilderment. The appalling blackness of the night added horror to the thing which no pen could describe.

At last two negroes were induced to make a couple of torches of dry grass, and by the lurid and uncertain light of these the lion was seen standing over my prostrate body. He was an enormous brute, over ten feet in length, and with a luxuriant, tawny mane that imparted to him a most majestic appearance. My friend told me afterward that as he approached with his gun I was moaning and crooning softly to myself. For some time he was afraid to shoot lest he should kill me instead of the lion. He screamed out, "Keep cool, Jack, and I will see what I can do for you!"

As he crept nearer the lion took his fangs out of my groin and faced about, growling and snarling horribly. The rifle was leveled, there was a sharp report, and the first shot hit the lion in the eye. The ball as it came out shattered his lower jaw. Two more shots were fired, and the fierce monster fell dead by my side.—London Ideas.

When we hear a girl refer to her dresses and shoes as frocks and boots we know her father is making more money than he used to.—Ohio State Star.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

La Grippe is Epidemic Catarrh.

THE disease now known as 'grip' used to be called 'influenza.'

It very closely resembles a cold, but is more tenacious in its hold upon the system and produces more serious disturbances.

Grip is in reality epidemic catarrh. When it once begins it spreads over the country very rapidly.

People do not catch the grip from each other, but each one catches it from the atmosphere.

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

Healthy Mucous Membranes.

Those who are fortunate enough to have perfectly healthy mucous membranes ordinarily do not catch the grip.

The mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and lungs, when in a normal state, are an effectual barrier against the invasion of grip.

But, if there happens to be the slightest catarrhal derangement of the mucous membranes, then the victim becomes an easier prey to the grip.

This in part explains why some people get the grip, while others do not.

The rational thing to do is to keep the system free from catarrh. In attempting to do this most people have found Peruna to be invaluable.

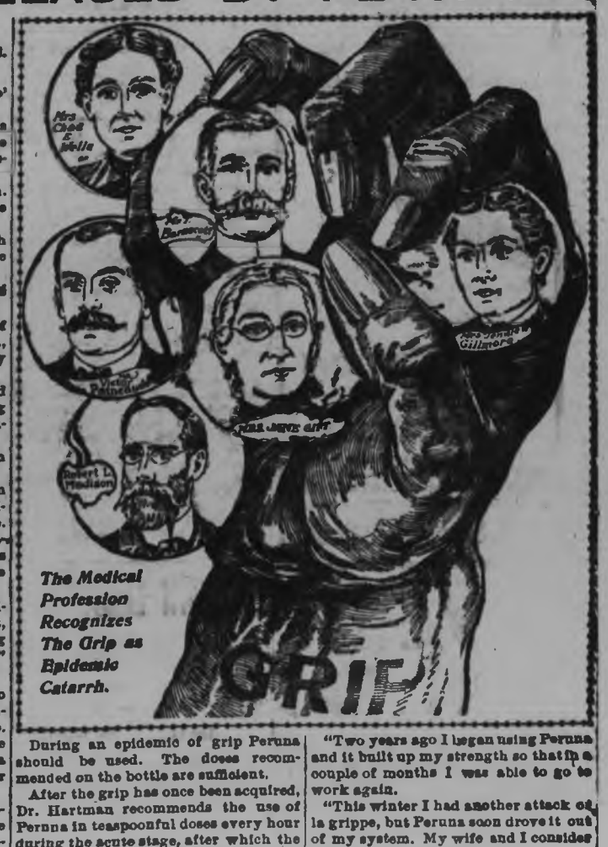
Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."



The Medical Profession Recognizes The Grip as Epidemic Catarrh.

During an epidemic of grip Peruna should be used. The doses recommended on the bottle are sufficient.

After the grip has once been acquired, Dr. Hartman recommends the use of Peruna in teaspoonful doses every hour during the acute stage, after which the directions on the bottle should be followed.

Experience has shown that the people who use Peruna as a remedy for grip generally recover sooner and are less liable to the distressing and long-continued after-effects of the grip.

When Peruna has not been used during the course of the grip and the patient finds himself suffering from the after-effects of this disease, a course of Peruna should be resorted to.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 828 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, Ohio, writes: "Six years ago I had la grippe very bad. I read a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. My husband bought me a bottle of Peruna. I was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was cured."

A Washington Anecdote.

Rev. Mason L. Weems, who first published and is believed by many persons to have invented the story of George Washington and the cherry tree, used many anecdotes in his life of Washington to illustrate his exalted view of the liberator's character. One of these shows Washington as a talker of politics. At the age of twenty-two he was colonel of the Virginia military organization stationed at Alexandria. A local political campaign was on. Washington was a great friend of one of the candidates. A Mr. Payn was strongly in favor of the other man. Argument waxed warm. Young Washington made a heated remark, to which Mr. Payn took offense. Mr. Payn carried a cane—one of those heavy sticks so popular in colonial days. He raised his cane, brought it down upon the head of the future Father of His Country and laid the young colonel along the floor.

Some of Washington's soldiers wanted to fight, but he restrained them. He went to his room, pondered all night over the affair and next morning sent for Mr. Payn. The latter, of course, expected that Washington was going to challenge him to mortal combat. He had visions of a pair of pistols. Arriving at Washington's room, he was amazed to find wine and cheese on the table, of which the young man invited him to partake. Then Washington apologized to the man who had knocked him down. He admitted that he had been in the wrong. Such is Parson Weems' account, who goes on to moralize at length over the story.

An Inference.

"I have lost my best friend," sighed the poet.

"Cheer up. I will loan you my rhyming dictionary."

Euchre an Old French Game.

Euchre is the ancient French game of triomphe. The early French settlers brought the game to America and played it with thirty-two cards. As commonly played in this country today twenty-four cards are used in four handed games.

Just as a Compliment.

Count Baldissare Castiglione wrote of manners in sixteenth century Italy: "Discourse of love is used by every gentleman, * * * not only when impelled by ardor, but also merely to do honor to the lady with whom he speaks. The pretense of loving her is, at any rate, a testimony to her worthiness to be loved. She, on her part, will for a time seem to fail to understand and anon will take it all as a merry jest."

Compassionate.

Small Margie drew the picture of a dog and cat on her slate, and, calling her mother's attention to it, she said:

"Of course a cat ought to have only four legs, mamma, but I drew this one with six so it could run away from the dog."—Exchange.

Effect of Colors on Animals.

The effect of color upon mind is most easily noticeable in dumb animals, because they make no effort to curb or control their emotions. Wave a red flag at a bull and he becomes violently angry. Shake a red shawl in front of a turkey gobbler and he will storm around fearfully. I made an experiment in the country one summer to see if this same fact held true of other animals. On my farm I had an enormously fat, lazy pig that disliked nothing so much as to move. All day long it used to lie asleep in the sunshine, and sometimes even the attraction of food could not budge it. I took a number of pieces of silk of the same quality, but of different shades, and, after waking the pig, waved each strip of silk in front of it. For the blue and green it never moved, but when I waved the red and orange strips it jumped to its feet, stamped about and appeared to be thoroughly angry. Time and again I repeated this experiment and always with the same result.—Frank Alvah Parsons in Good Housekeeping.

Recognized Their Old Friend.

The late Sir John Steell, who was sculptor to Queen Victoria, was modeling a bust of Miss Nightingale when an officer of one of the highland regiments which had suffered so cruelly in the Crimea heard that the bust had just been completed and was in Sir John's studio. Many of the men in his company had passed through the hospital at Scutari, and he obtained permission from the sculptor to bring some of them to see it. Accordingly a squad of men one day marched into the studio and stood in line. They had no idea why they had been mustered in so strange a place. Without a word of warning the boat was uncovered, and then, as by one impulse, the men broke rank and with cries of "Miss Nightingale, Miss Nightingale!" surrounded the model and, with hats off, cheered the figure of their devoted nurse until the roof rang. So spontaneous and hearty and so inspiring was the whole scene that in after days Sir John Steell declared it to be the greatest compliment of his life.

Hard to Kill.

A distinguished entomologist, J. C. Warburg, writes: "When I was still new to collecting, in the south of France I discovered one day, to my great joy, a large female of Saturnia pyri hidden away in some bushes. The specimen was the first I had ever caught, and I decided, on account of its large body, to stuff it (a quite unnecessary operation; I have kept dozens since unstuffed). The moth was first apparently killed by being forced into a cyanide bottle, where it was left about an hour. The abdomen was then emptied and the cavity filled with cotton wool soaked in a saturated solution of mercuric chloride. The insect, pinned and set, was discovered next day attempting to fly away from the setting board."

A Friend In a Fog.

"In one of the worst London fogs," said an Englishman, "an old friend of mine tried to find his way from Trafalgar square to the Savoy, where he had an engagement to dine.

"The sulphurous air made the eyes smart and the head ache, and it brought on terrific fits of coughing. You could not literally see your hand before your face. There was a continual crashing in of windows, bells jangled, vehicles and foot passengers collided, and shrieks and oaths arose.

"Threading his way in the midst of this pandemonium through the Strand, as he supposed, from Landseer's lions to the waiting dinner at the Savoy, my old friend, to his great bewilderment, soon found himself descending a broad stairway. He put his hand to the balustrade. Yes, a broad and stately stairway with a rail of carved stone. Amazing!

"Suddenly in his descent my friend collided with some one ascending the stairway.

"'Hello!' he said.

"'Hello!' a gruff male voice replied.

"'Can you tell me,' said my friend, 'where I am going?'

"'Certainly,' said the other. 'If you keep straight on you will walk into the Thames, for I've just come out of it.'"

Early Methods of Curing Skins.

The original process of curing skins was probably the simple one of cleaning and drying them. Removal of the hair by maceration in water seems to have been common among the very early tribes, and one writer has suggested that the idea was obtained from the natural process of depilation. They must certainly have been familiar with it in the case of drowned animals, where maceration can be plainly observed. Following this smoke, sour milk, oil and the brains of the animals themselves were found efficacious. Many of these primitive methods are employed in remote places at the pres-

Unappreciated.

The lady killer was boasting of his prowess.

"One girl whom I knew," he said, "actually died for love of me. I was her last thought."

They eyed him malevolently.

"I should think," remarked one of them, "that you might be anybody's last thought!"—New York Times.

Professional Pride.

"I should regret very much to hear that anybody has ever offered money for political influence."

"Yes," answered Mr. Craftwell, "your hearing of it would indicate very crude work on somebody's part."—Washington Star.

The Law of Gravity.

"Silence in the court!" thundered the judge, and the laughter died away.

"Mr. Bailiff," continued the instructions from the bench, "eject the next man who defies the law of gravity."—

YOU CAN CURE CATARRH

J. H. Taylor, 54 Bond Street, Toronto Breathed Hyomei and Cured a Long-Standing Case of Chronic Catarrh That Defied All Other Remedies, Also Toronto and New York Specialists.

Without taking a drop of medicine into the stomach, J. H. Taylor, 54, Bond street, Toronto, tells how the distressing troubles of Catarrh were overcome by simply inhaling Hyomei air. It's the history of tens of thousands similar cases on record, proving that Hyomei can be depended upon to cure Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Croup. It has no equal for any distress of the breathing organs.

Mr. Taylor says: "Some years ago while on a hunting trip in Northern Canada, I contracted a severe cold that settled in my head and finally attected my throat. It rapidly developed into catarrh and caused a miserable throat weakness. My head would become clogged during the night and there was a catarrhal dropping from the nose into the throat. Many days I had been unable to breathe other than through my mouth, and the constant hawking and spitting was almost unbearable. I had been treated by the best throat specialists here and in New York, but else failed."

EPWORTH LEAGUERS IN GOOD DEBATE

Was Held on Monday Night Dealing With the Local Option Subject.

An interesting debate was held at Mark St. Church on Monday night at the Epworth League's regular meeting. The subject was "Resolved That Peterborough Should Have Local Option." Messrs. Stanley Matchett and Horace Coon composed the affirmative and Messrs. Joshua Gamble and T Record the negative. The judges were Messrs. M. McIntyre, John Kerr, and F. B. McKee, of Fort William. Mr. Wm. Succee was chairman. A number of interesting points were brought out by both sides resulting in a most interesting affair.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

RAGTIME DEAD

Pinehurst, N. C., March 17.—"Ragtime has had its funeral," said John Philip Sousa, the bandmaster, now here, in discussing popular music. "It had the gout or dyspepsia long before it died. It was overfed by poor nurses. Good ragtime came and then half a million imitators sprang up and as a result the people were sickened with the 'stuff.'

"I have not played a piece of ragtime this season," continued the march king, "and it's simply because the people do not want it. I do not discriminate between ragtime and grand opera or anything else that possesses merit."

'ROUND THE STORES.

Fashionable creations in fine furs at Lech's have been offering this month at remarkable reductions in price. The high qualities of Lech's furs continue to be recognized, and the bargains just offered have been very favourably received. The handsome Persian Lamb jackets are shown in Lech's showroom originally marked at $180 and $150 are offered to-day at $50 less.

The show of men's clothing in Merrell & Meredith's reveal many smart styles &—none smarter or more advanced than the 20th Century Brand. Overcoats for Spring, submitted to the critical judgment of good dressers, are certainly models of good tailoring and cloths. The show windows are decked out in attractive Spring garb, shamrock flowers and shamrock price cards being tastefully introduced by the artistic window dresser.

Housekeepers are directed to the special prices offered in table supplies this week at Jas. R. Bell's two stores, Hunter street West and East City. These appear to be very practical bargains, but there are many others in this healthy business concern. How well Bell has satisfied his customers is evidenced by the splendid growth of his business.

"Busier every day," so say the clerks in C. B. Routly's store. Did you ever step in at Routly's and not find it a busy, hustling cheerful place? No. Why? Because Mr. Routly can't stand still — he's got the public interest at heart as well as his own — and you're impressed with this if you get a chance to talk to him. C. B. goes right ahead and "saws wood" and "cuts prices," and serves the people, and that's why he has a hustling busy store. Read his new advertisement in another column of genuine money saving snaps.

"Fancy" groceries are among the attractive specialties of the E. F. Mason & Co.'s three stores. These departments are as complete as that of any metropolitan store. Out of the ordinary goods are here in large assortment. The other stocks are of the freshest kind. You can find what you want without any delay. This week they have a "clothes basket sale." They are wicker baskets, and this is a good time for housekeepers to get one, as they are being offered at less than cost. Read the firm's advertisement in another page.

It is not within our province to judge too closely of store values, but it is safe to say that the sterling values offered by Mr. J. P. Cunningham of The Peterborough Music Company on George street must give this store considerable preference for musical instruments and musical supplies. If the reader is interested in pianos, it will be worth while to call and inspect the bright toned upright piano offered at $180, which has only been in use a short time.

Clegg's Furniture Store is the store that helps the wage earners by letting them have goods at a small margin of profit. This store makes a splendid exposition of furniture, and it will be well worth the trouble of visitors just now to spend an hour inspecting the beautiful designs. What has been done for others, Mr. Clegg will gladly do for all. Whether it is a single piece of furniture desired, an entire room, or the whole house furnished throughout, your fancy can be suited. The prices of the handsome dressers and iron beds advertised ought to induce an early call.

Milburn, the jeweller, is engaged in a Spring clearance of his china department; and if the securing of buyers depends upon the price, the clearance should be effected quickly. For instance: $5 vases are offered at $2.50, and $3.00 fern bowls at $1.50. These are only two samples of the cut in prices, but everything else is ticketed at half price. Read the advertisement elsewhere. The good housewife is a great financier, and will no doubt realize that every penny saved now is twopence gained.

If you are keeping eyes open for Saturday bargains, look up McDermid & Jury's advertisement. Among other attractions is a 50c hair brush for a quarter. This should be a good chance to provide the children with a nice new brush for their own use. In the rush for these brushes, don't overlook the other features at this store.

Now for the Spring Millinery Openings to-morrow.

ATHLETIC SECTION OF ST. PETER'S T. A. S. PREPARES FOR SUMMER

An enthusiastic meeting of the Athletic Section of the T. A. S. was held last evening at 8:30. The secretary's report showed that the past year had been a very successful one financially. Considerable discussion touching on the prospects for baseball, football and track teams for the coming year was indulged in. The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres., Rev. Dr. O'Brien; Hon. 1st Vice-Pres., Robert Begley; President, L. J. Picard; 1st Vice-Pres., F. Whaley; Sec.-Treas., Wm. J. O'Brien; Manager, John Deannard; Executive, J. Shevlin, J. J. Hanrahan, Wm. Landry.

Mr. Fred McGrath was elected manager of the track team. As soon as the fine weather arrives the work will be begun in earnest. All the young men are deeply interested in the different branches of sport, and should make things lively.

BILLBOARD ACT KILLED BY THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE

Toronto, March 16.—With an almost unanimous blow the Municipal Committee applied the axe to E. E. Fraser's bill to give municipalities the power to regulate the placing of billboards on highways.

H. T. Kelly appeared for the billposters, who were up in arms all over the province against the measure.

"What taxes do these agencies which deface the country pay?" asked Hon. W. J. Hanna, who seemed inclined to favour the measure. In reply, Mr. Kelly told about the big plants of the lithographers.

W. D. McPherson, A. E. Fripp, of Ottawa, and other lawyers strongly opposed it, claiming that municipalities already had the power to regulate, and this gave them power to prohibit.

"I am in sympathy with the bill," declared Mr. McNaught.

Scores Toronto

"We have been discussing it simply from the legal standpoint. Let me now discuss it from the commonsense standpoint," put in Allan Studholme, who was strongly opposed because it would hurt lithographers and bill posters. Besides he thought the pictures were modest enough.

"Go down Front street here," was where he scored, "and have you ever seen anything more dirty than the site where the fire was? Wouldn't it be better to have billboards all along there?"

When the vital question was put for or against, a loud "No" sounded the knell of the measure.

DECIDED TO HAVE NO UNION WITH THE MISSION OF NORWOOD

Examiner Special.

Havelock, March 16.—A meeting of the Congregation of St. John's Church was held to-night, at which the Rural Dean, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, presided. The object of the meeting was to consider a proposed union with the Mission of Norwood, and also to take steps towards procuring a clergyman to fill the vacancy. The unanimous opinion of the parishioners was, not to unite with Norwood and thus to give up Havelock's independence, to which after due deliberation the Rural Dean consented.

As to the appointment of a new Rector, a petition will be sent to the Bishop, through the proper channels requesting the appointment of the Rev. C. W. Holdsworth, M.A., of Rosemont, who will be communicated with at once. Rev. Mr. Holdsworth is a clergyman of great ability and has done splendid work wherever he has been.

THE PRESENTATION OF "TRUE IRISH HEARTS" AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE

From all appearances and advance notices there will be a record attendance at the Grand Opera House to-night to witness the presentation of the Irish comedy drama "True Irish Hearts."

Miss Lavina Hallihan and Mr. George Lynch have the leading roles, and are assisted by an efficient cast who should give a fine portrayal of the piece. Master Joe Clancy has a part that will undoubtedly appeal to the audience. The songs have been well chosen and should greatly please those who will be present to-night.

CELEBRATED THE 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A pleasing event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stanley, Stewart St., last night, when they celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage by a silver wedding. Some twenty-five guests were present and the evening was a most enjoyable one, the time being spent in games and music, while refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, who were married in Yorkshire, England, on March 16, 1884, were warmly congratulated by their friends, while letters were received from many of their former acquaintances in England. Mr. Stanley is the steward of the Peterborough Club.

NEGLECTED SCALD CAUSED MONTHS OF AGONY

Spent Dollars in Vain But Zam-Buk Cured Her.

Following we give the testimony of a lady who if she had known of Zam Buk earlier would have been saved nine weeks of agony:

Mrs. Frederick Bryant, of 69, Railway Avenue, Stratford, Ont., says: "I scalded my foot while preparing supper. Next day the skin came off and my foot was in a serious condition. I could not wear my shoe and had to lay up for nine weeks. During this time I used dozens of salves but none did any good, in fact the wound developed into a running sore. I got no rest day or night from the pain. At this point a supply of Zam-Buk was obtained and a few applications had immediate effect in soothing the pain and irritation. A small supply proved sufficient to heal the scald, although I had spent dollars in other remedies. New skin has now formed nicely over the open sore.

"Zam-Buk is the most wonderful and effective remedy I have used, and I advise others to use it."

Zam-Buk is equally effective in curing burns. Mr. Geo. Gilmore, caretaker of the E. Clements Block, Winnipeg, testifies as follows: "I sustained a series of bad burns while attending to the large furnace which heats the buildings. One burn on my wrist was particularly bad and gave me great pain. I applied some Zam-Buk, and in forty-eight hours all that remained of the burn was a slight scar. Zam-Buk seemed to take splendid balm to keep handy, its healing powers being simply marvellous."

There is nothing to equal Zam-Buk as a family balm. Its uses are so wide. It has been proved a sure cure for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. Rubbed well into the parts affected it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

To-morrow the New Millinery takes Prominence in a Beautiful Opening Exhibit

¶ Of all the Opening Exhibits of a new season's fashions the first display of the New Millinery takes precedence in feminine interest. No one knows better than fair woman herself that the hat is her crowning glory and she is anxious to see what newness in shapes, trimmings and colours have been involved. Ready to show you to-morrow.

¶ Our Millinery Department has entered the realms of spring. It is in full bloom with new hats— they are the most gracious, most charming, most becoming and bewitching hats that it has ever been our privilege to show or yours to look upon.

¶ Sizes; large, small and "in-between". Shapes; varied past description, yet all becoming. Materials; straws, some of large coarse braid, others of fine soft weave. Trimmings; flowers in profusion and of every kind—fruit, foliage, feathers, ribbons and ornaments jet, cut beads, etc.

¶ Those are hints but a poet and a painter with a page of space couldn't depict the almost-fragrant beauty and spring-like charm of these hats. Your eyes tell you all to-morrow. WELCOME.

The City's Power Committee Will Not Secure Report Until Further Information Is Available

The Power Committee of the City Council, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon, decided to wait for several weeks before taking steps to secure a report from an engineer as to the water power available at the Auburn and Waterworks dams. The delay is occasioned by the fact that the committee expects a report from Ottawa in a short time, on other water powers in the neighbourhood of Peterborough that may be available for the use of the committee.

The committee had been called together for the purpose of meeting the Water Commissioners in connection with the new dam proposition, but owing to the absence from the city of Chairman Mathews, it was not possible to hold the joint meeting, but the Power Committee decided to discuss the appointment of an engineer for the purpose of securing a report.

Ald. Morrow and Bradburn were in favour of waiting in the matter, until further information had been secured from Ottawa.

Ald. Hicks thought the whole matter should be turned over to the Water Commissioners, who had the necessary information in the matter and should take the responsibility.

Ald. Morrow explained that the Commissioners had not recommended the development of water power at the dam, but the report of their engineer had shown that there would be power available, and the city had seized the opportunity. The matter might be turned over to the Commissioners after the by-law had been carried.

Ald. Gillespie concurred with Ald. Morrow, saying that the city was going on the report from the Commissioners' engineer.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that the matter of appointing an engineer be left in abeyance until April 1.

Ald. Morgan wanted to see an engineer appointed at once to go ahead with the work of securing a report, and moved an amendment along that line seconded by Ald. Hicks.

Ald. Morrow's motion was carried, only Ald. Hicks and Morgan opposing it.

THE CHILDREN'S AID WILL PLACE BOYS IN FOSTER HOMES

They were charged with the theft of brass from a gasoline launch, afterwards selling it to a junk dealer. A large number of witnesses were examined as to the past conduct of the boys, Mr. E. L. Goodwill appearing in the interests of the Children's Aid Society.

After hearing the evidence, His Worship gave the boys over to the Society. They will be kept at the shelter until suitable homes are found for them. In the future they will receive proper care and attention.

THE FOREIGN LEGION.

A Peculiar Body of Fighters in the French Army.

The French foreign legion is a heterogeneous organization. It is composed of disappointed men of every country—political refugees, military fugitives. In fact, all varieties of the world's restless citizens go to make up this wonderful mongrel fighting machine. "No questions asked" might well be the regimental motto. Each man signing his bond of service sells his soul for five years at the wage of 1 sou (about 1 cent) per day.

The officers are French, but the men hail from everywhere and nowhere. Under various names the French legion has existed since the eighteenth century and was finally constituted as at present in 1830. It consists of twelve battalions divided into two regiments, mustering a total strength of 12,000 men. Eight thousand are kept in the far east, the remainder serving in northern Africa. In the early days the regiments were divided into "national sections," men from the same country being kept together.

This resulted, however, in continual racial disputes, and each company consequently was given a cosmopolitan composition. Since its formation the officials have guarded closely against desertions, and as the legion only serves in French colonial territory where the centers are remote and transportation is difficult a successful desertion is a rare feat.

A Dickens Manuscript.

H. F. Dickens, K. C., tells an interesting story concerning the original manuscript of his father's famous "Carol." The novelist presented the MS. to Thomas Milton an old schoolfellow. In 1875 Mr. Milton sold it to Francis Harvey, a bookseller, for £50. Then it passed into the hands of George Churchill, an enthusiastic autograph collector. Mr. Churchill treasured it until 1882, when circumstances compelled him to part with it. After photographing every page of it, it was sold to Mr. Bennett, a Birmingham bookseller and curio dealer, who eventually found a purchaser, who readily signed a check for £200 for it. Finally it was bought by Stuart M. Samuel of Kensington Palace Gardens for £300, who is said to still retain the precious document.—London Tit-Bits.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Little Helen Bentley of Los Angeles, aged five, dearly loves her grandma, who has been living with her and her parents. Recently grandma went to Seattle for a visit and caught cold on the way. When she arrived there, she wrote back to Helen's parents that she had reached Seattle, but had had a hard fight with the grip. Helen wanted to hear what grandma had to say, and the letter was read to her. Soon afterward she saw one of her neighbors and exclaimed: "Oh, Mrs. Smith, we've had a letter from grandma. She got to Seattle all right, but she had a terrible fight with her valise!"—Los Angeles Times.

What Counts in a Story.

As I heard a famous raconteur telling a story I had heard in one form or another for many years I could not but recall the statement of some one to the effect that there are but five stories extant and that all we have are merely variations from the original five. As General Taylor, who is something of a story teler himself puts it: "The story doesn't amount to anything. It's the edition that counts."

GUARDING H.M.'S GEMS.

How the Buckingham Palace Police Protect the Royal Treasures.

Very elaborate precautions are taken to ensure the safety of the various priceless treasures at Buckingham Palace and other royal residences. So complete is the organization that exists for this purpose that the capture of any of the royal treasures is regarded, even by the most daring and skilful burglars, as quite beyond the possibility of achievement; though, were the vigilance relaxed for a moment, there is not the least doubt that an attempt would be made to burgle some of the royal palaces.

At Buckingham Palace there is a special staff of detectives, whose sole duty is to watch over the safety of the royal treasures. In all, there are five entrances to the palace, and at each there is, during the day, always a servant to see that no one who has not the right of entry passes in. At specified intervals a detective makes a round of three of the entrances, and receives from the servants the names of all who have passed in or out. These entrances are used by tradespeople, who are constantly passing in or out of the palace. The other two entrances are the general one at the front, and a private one at the western side of the palace, for members of the royal family.

The front entrance is never visited by the detective staff, for there is always a number of servants in the entrance hall, and at least one official of the household, to whom any visitor's name is handed before he can proceed any further; it would be, therefore, simply impossible that anyone could enter the palace this way for any evil purpose. The private entrance, however, is watched with very great care; it is, as a matter of fact, seldom used by any members of the royal family, who nearly always enter by the front.

The only attempt on record during the past forty years to burgle Buckingham Palace was made at this entrance. It was left ajar by the Prince Consort one evening, and a few minutes later a man made his way through it into the palace. He was caught in the palace by a servant, and handed to a detective. An elaborate plan of the palace was found on him, and it was ascertained that he belonged to a daring gang of thieves, who at that time were operating extensively in the west end of London. He was ultimately sentenced to a long term of penal servitude.

The King had catalogues made out of all the chief pictures and priceless gold, silver, and china works of art in each of the royal palaces when these were rearranged after his accession; these catalogues are all checked over at regular intervals by the assistant private secretaries in the private secretaries' department, and any changes made in the disposition of these works of art—for many of them are being constantly moved from one royal residence to another—are carefully noted.

An Unsung Hero.

No list of English heroes ought to be considered complete without the name of the policeman who sacrificed himself in the cause of duty the other day by having a perfectly good tooth pulled in order to provide direct evidence against an unqualified dentist, says a London correspondent. As yet the name is not forthcoming, and the modest hero refuses to disclose himself. Only the story is known. There are recipients of the Victoria Cross who would shrink from the ordeal of a tooth extracted without gas, and the policeman in question could not take gas as he had to keep wide awake to watch the illegal act as it proceeded. The dentist in the case had evaded the law for some time and the only way to catch him seemed to be to arrest him in the very act of pulling a tooth, so the policeman, anxious to win laurels, agreed to go and lose one of his molars in the cause. He went and suffered at the hands of the unqualified extractor of teeth and promptly arrested him after the operation, to the amazement of the dentist.

The City's Power Committee Will Not Secure Report Until Further Information Is Available

The Power Committee of the City Council, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon, decided to wait for several weeks before taking steps to secure a report from an engineer as to the water power available at the Auburn and Waterworks dams. The delay is occasioned by the fact that the committee expects a report from Ottawa in a short time, on other water powers in the neighbourhood of Peterborough that may be available for the use of the committee.

The committee had been called together for the purpose of meeting the Water Commissioners in connection with the new dam proposition, but owing to the absence from the city of Chairman Mattnews, it was not possible to hold the joint meeting, but the Power Committee decided to discuss the appointment of an engineer for the purpose of securing a report.

Ald. Morrow and Bradburn were in favour of waiting in the matter, until further information had been secured from Ottawa.

Ald. Hicks thought the whole matter should be turned over to the Water Commissioners, who had the necessary information in the matter and should take the responsibility.

Ald. Morrow explained that the Commissioners had not recommended the development of water power at the dam, but the report of their engineer had shown that there would be power available, and the city had seized the opportunity. The matter might be turned over to the Commissioners after the by-law had been carried.

Ald. Gillespie concurred with Ald. Morrow, saying that the city was going on the report from the Commissioners' engineer.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that the matter of appointing an engineer be left in abeyance until April 1.

Ald. Morgan wanted to see an engineer appointed at once to go ahead with the work of securing a report, and moved an amendment along that line seconded by Ald. Hicks.

Ald. Morrow's motion was carried, only Ald. Hicks and Morgan opposing it.

TO BANQUET CHAMPIONS OF THE CHURCH LEAGUE

A largely attended meeting of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild was held last evening and an interesting time was spent. The president, Mr. Ernie Reid opened the meeting. George McDonald and William Richardson. The affirmative speakers won.

The executive committee were appointed to arrange for a banquet to be given St. Andrew's hockey team, champions of the City Church League.

DAVE HARTLEY HOME FROM NEW YORK—REPORTS THAT HE WAS TREATED WELL BY ALL

David Hartley, Peterborough's veteran walker, returned last night from New York, where he took part in the six-day International go-as-you-please race last week. He reports the best of treatment at the hands of those in charge o fthe race, and states that he was carefully looked after by them. He was provided with an attendant, who saw that he wanted for nothing, was housed at a good hotel and finally was given transportation home.

Speaking of the race itself Hartley states that with a partner as good as himself he would have finished close to the top. For over half the race he was alone and his time individually was as good as that of any of the men he was up against. The two partners with which he started out had no speed and endurance, and were quickly killed off with the result that he had to finish alone. The crowd, he states, sympathized with his efforts, and during the last two days, when he was plodding around the track alone he was roundly cheered by the spectators, who showed their appreciation of his efforts in many ways.

It was a great race and brought together runners and walkers from all parts of Europe as well as from this continent.

'TWAS BAD NIGHT FOR THE EXAMS. BOTH TEAMS BADLY TRIMMED

It was a wild night at sea last night for the Examiner bowling teams, both the A's and B's being everlastingly trimmed. The A's, who were tied with the Pacifics for first place, needed at least two games out of the three to put them ahead of the bunch, but instead they were able to nip one, and as a result instead of being in front, have dropped back to second place with the Bankers. The rolling on both sides was not up to the mark and there were few good scores. In spite of the fact that the Exams. got one pin more on the total they lost two out of the three, the second game being the only one they grabbed, while they dropped the last by eight pins.

Earlier in the evening the Exam. B's tried conclusions with the Grays, and what the Perry Brothers and McFadden combination did to the Busy Bees was a shame. All three games went to the Grays, the last by a margin of only four pins.

Following were the scores in the two events:

Exam. A's.—
Cairns	159	158	161—	478

HASSAN ABDALLAH THREW MOHL TWICE IN SUCCESSION

Hassan Abdallah, the Turkish grappler, won two straight falls from Fritz Mohl last night in the Riverdale Roller Rink. The first fall was in 5.34, a bar-lock and half-Nelson hold doing the trick.

The Turk is a well built fellow, weighing close to 200 pounds.

It looked as if another fall would not take place. The Turk did the most aggressive work and got the fall in 45 minutes with a hug hold. An effort is being made to match Hassan Abdallah with Yussif Mahmout.

The preliminary proved to be a good bout between Kid Batten, who recently won from Artie Edmunds, and William Sheridan, the Oshawa featherweight. The match was a handicap one, Batten agreeing to throw his opponent three times in 30 minutes. Sheridan was as slippery as an eel and Batten only got one fall. This took 16 minutes.

Formation Of Tennis League Is Advocated By Local Players

The formation of a tennis league is being advocated among some of the local enthusiasts and there is a strong possibility that during the coming summer a schedule of contests will be arranged which will greatly increase the present interest that is being taken in this splendid outdoor game. Among those who played last year, there are many who are very much in favour of forming a tennis league or whatever arrangement of games is devised. The idea of a league has been broached already this year, and it only awaits those clubs that are interested to meet in the near future and consider the possibility of a successful league. Besides the clubs that played last year there are other societies that might be easily induced to equip a court and get into the game. There are besides private courts throughout the city that could easily furnish a couple of doubles. Those who are most interested should arrange the preliminary work and make a strong effort to stir up general interest in the proposed league.

CHIEFTAINS TO PLAY BRIDGENORTH

The Chieftains, champions of the Junior City League, will play the Bridgenorth team to-morrow night at Brock Street Rink between 8 and 9 o'clock, and an interesting game is looked for. The Chieftains beat Bridgenorth last year, but the Villagers are confident of reversing the score on the youngsters to-morrow night.

The Chieftains have signed Gavin Koyl, brother of the only Leon Koyl, of the Lindsay Midgets, who is now living in Peterborough, and he will be on the line-up to-morow night. Ken. Crane will be unable to play on account of illness. The Chieftains will line up as follows:

THE RING.

DON'T WANT TO SEE JOHNSON'S WHITE WIFE.

Galveston, Texas, March 16.—If the coloured heavyweight pugilist champion, Jack Johnson, who is scheduled to arrive here next Thursday, cannot deny that he has a wife, a demonstration being arranged by Galveston negroes in his honour will be abandoned. It is planned to meet Johnson at the train with a band and a long line of carriages for a parade over the city.

Receptions and other features are also scheduled, but leaders of the movement said yesterday that all hinged on the truth or falsity of reports as to the white wife. Reception committeemen say that they consider the marrying of a white woman by Johnson would be a violation of the laws and customs of the country of his birth.

• • • •

ANOTHER FOR WILLIE LEWIS.

Neuilly-on-Seine, March 16.—Willie Lewis added another to his long score of victories in this country when he won a decision over Smith yesterday. There was a good deal of haggling over terms before the men got into the ring. Smith refusing to go for more than ten rounds.

Lewis finally consented and was so much superior that except for an accident to his right hand in the second round he almost certainly would have had a knockout instead of a mere decision to his credit.

Smith had angered Lewis so much before the battle that the latter went into the ring with the unquestioned intention of making the affair as short and decisive as possible. He gave him an awful walloping, but the injury to his right made that arm practically useless, and so there was no knockout. He beat Smith down five times in the tenth round and only the bell saved him.

• • • •

BARRY AND SAM LANGFORD SIGN.

Philadelphia, March 16—The Washington Sporting Club is arranging for a special show Wednesday night to take the place of the one called off for to-morrow evening. It will bring together Jim Barry and Sam Langford. The club made official announcement of the bout last night.

Barry says that should the bout end the way he believes it will, he will get right after Johnson.

NOTES OF THE FIGHTERS.

Syracuse, N.Y., March 16.—Before the Syracuse A. C. here last night, "Billy" Allen, of Ottawa, Ont., champion featherweight of Canada, met "Kid" Eagan, of New York, in a six-round go. The bout lent considerable interest by reason of both men being hard after Abe Attell. They met at 124 pounds. While no decision was permitted, most of the experts considered it a draw.

• • • •

New York, March 16.—In a ten-round bout before the Marathon Athletic Club in Brooklyn last night, Johnny Frayne, the California lightweight, outpointed Bert Keyes, of this city, by a good margin.

HOCKEY

The Chieftain Seconds will play the All Stars to-night at Brock street rink, between 7 and 8 o'clock, and an interesting game is expected. The Chieftains will line up as follows:

Goal, Wilmot; point, Howden; cover, Minorgan; rover, Mills; centre, Stratton; wings, Eastwood and Stevenson.

RUNNING.

Tommy Longboat pulled another funny one yesterday, when he found the crowd in Toronto all talking of the Shrubb-Simpson 12-mile race at the Armouries Saturday night. He hunted Shrubb up, and gravely offered to take Simpson's place and pay Simpson his own price to drop out.

"Get out, man!" returned Alfie. "I'm not running easy marks."

"I'll beat you," returned the Onondaga, as mad as a wet hen.

"Why, man, in your present condition Simpson will beat you, and do it easily," said Shrubb. "I've got a real runner to beat here Saturday night. There would be no honour in beating you as you are now. Get in shape and I'll run you two weeks after the Marathon Derby."

When Simpson heard of Longboat's temerity he remarked: "The nerve of him. I've got my chance now. Do you think I would sell it out? No chance. I'm out to win or go into the athletic discard."

Tom Eck simply smiles, and says: "This is the year for dark horses. Remember Jack Johnson and Tommy Burns, and Tom Longboat and Alf. Shrubb in the Marathon and St. Mikes' hockey team and Kingston 14th. All considered lemons in their big events, but every one came home on the bit. Watch my Ojibway Saturday night. If Shrubb beats him he'll step faster than he ever stepped 12 miles on this continent."

THE TWELVE-MILE RUNNERS

The physical contrast between the two contestants in Saturday night's twelve-mile professional race in the Armouries is a remarkable one. Here are some facts and figures:

	Shrubb	Simpson
Race	Anglo-Saxon—	Indian
Birthplace	England—	Canada
Age	31 years—	27 years
Height	5' 6¾"—	5' 11½"
Weight	119 lbs.—	147 lbs.
Chest	32 in.—	38 in.
Calf	12¾ in.—	14.1 in.
Stride	5' 5"—	5' 7"

Shrubb worked ten miles in 52.10 at Varsity, paced by relays, on Monday, and walked twenty miles yesterday. Simpson jogged for 90 minutes at the Armouries yesterday morning, and worked two miles in 10.15 in the afternoon.

Simpson's record for ten miles is not quite as good as Shrubb's, but the circumstances were all against the Indian, who made his mark on a hard board floor, with many turns, while Shrubb ran outdoors, on a fast track of only four laps to the mile.

The plan of seats for Saturday night will open at 9 o'clock this morning at the corner of Yonge and Adelaide streets. Accommodation will be provided in the four galleries and in four rows of chairs around the clay track, which is ten laps to the mile, accurately surveyed by Major Van Nostrand.

Longboat Joins Simpson.

Tom Longboat came back to Toronto last night and will get to work here. "I want to train with Simpson," he said, "and I am going to do some running with him while he is getting ready for Shrubb. He's a good man, Simpson; not as good as me, but you see if he don't beat Shrubb." The Onondaga always held a high regard for his own ability.

BASEBALL

The Lindsay Watchman and Warder says: The prospects for baseball for the coming year are being discussed in Peterborough and The Examiner says there will be no Midland League.

That settles it!

Whatever The Examiner says goes, see?

Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville and the other towns had better keep their baseball togs in camphor moth balls this summer and resign themselves to Fate.

The Examiner also says that Peterborough may enter the Toronto City League as the fifth team.

That would be handy, too, for the Peterborough ball team. They could live at their homes in Toronto and come down occasionally to play in Peterborough.

Lindsay will have to be content with occasional exhibition games and a town league, unless The Examiner relents or a new league composed of Uxbridge, Orillia, Cannington, and other northern and easterly teams be formed.

• • • • • • • •

The Lindsay Warder is in wrong in saying that The Examiner had stated that there would be no Midland League this season. What the Examiner did say was that Peterborough was not likely to have a Midland team. However, the other teams in the circuit may go ahead again this year, but after the experience of the last couple of years it is hardly likely that the Lakeshore towns will be sweet on another season. These fast teams cost some money, and the gates have failed to come up to the standard of the ball played. And baseball is pretty near a question of finances when you get down to rock bottom. The club with the money can get the players and this year the Cobalt district teams will have lines out for nearly all the Toronto amateurs from which the Midland League clubs have been recruited during the past couple of years. Lindsay had better get a franchise in that bush league the Warder mentions just as soon as possible.

• • • •

The Lindsay Warder remarks that it would be handy for th Peterboro Bial Club to have a team in the Toronto City League as the players could live at their homes in Tornto and come down occasionally to play in Peterborough. Might as well do that as hang around the main grocery store as certain members of the Lindsay hockey team have been doing all winter. And then, too, there is no amateur rule in the Midland Baseball League.

MISS ALLAN'S MILLINERY OPENING

Will take place To-morrow and following days of this week. The Styles in Spring Hats will embody the latest ideas of leading designers upon which Dame Fashion has placed the stamp of approval.

OUR FIRST MUSTANGS.

They Were Probably Brought to This Country by the Spaniards.

The first horses of the western plains were probably brought there by the Spaniards. In 1545, almost fifty years before Jamestown was settled, Coronado, the Spanish captain, was roaming about the plains of New Mexico, and he tells of the dogs used by the Indians to haul their plunder on lodge poles, indicating that they had no horses at that date.

In 1716 the Spanish again worked their way eastward across the plains, and their letters tell of the astonishment of the Indians at seeing the horses they had with them. The expedition was constantly losing horses, and there is little doubt that the first droves of western horses originated from these strays.

In the early days upon the plains they were a great pest to travelers. Woe be unto the luckless camper who allowed a band of wild horses to get close enough to his gentle horses, turned out for the night, to sweep them off. It was almost useless to follow, for the call of the wild comes to the gentlest of horses when he is thrown with a band of his kind that have been born and raised free of all restraint. It is a well known fact that the hardest one to "cut out," the leader of them all in a mad race across the prairie, is the old, gentle, well broken saddle or work horse once he gets a taste of such freedom.—Will C. Barnes in McClure's.

PAPUAN COIFFURES.

Heads in New Guinea That Look Like Rising Suns.

"One of the most interesting things that came under my observation was the odd manner in which the people wore their hair," said a physician, describing a visit to New Guinea and the leading traits and characteristics of the inhabitants, known as Papuans. "One type wore the hair standing up from the head at a length of seven inches or more. It was trimmed with wonderful regularity and with mathematical accuracy. The hair was greased with cocoanut oil and painted red. At a distance it looked like a rising sun."

Another type of the inhabitants who wear their hair in an unusual fashion was described.

"Starting from the forehead," he said, "the hair is brushed back over the scalp and hangs down to the waist. It is a perfect mass, an intricate jungle. I am sure it was never combed, and it was impossible to run the fingers through it. At a distance it looks like a cap with the visor turned downward.

"One other odd type of hairdressing—coiffure, if you will—was observed on this visit. The hair was gathered at the front and back, then brought together above the head, where it was inclosed in a basket-like cylinder. The end spread out about two inches. Apparently these caps are never removed from the head."

Playing Greenhorn.

"Why did you tell the manager of that employment agency that you had just come over?" said one servant girl to another. "You didn't, you know. You have had three situations in New York."

"I know that," said the girl. "I pretended to be green so she would try harder to get me a good place. At most of these agencies the managers have green girls on their conscience. The sharks in the business, of course, will fleece them, but the average manager is sympathetic and gets them easy places to start with. I'll have a snap where I am going. The woman thinks I have just arrived and that she will have to break me in. Breaking in means that she will do half the work, while I will just stand around and look on. It pays sometimes to be a greenhorn."

Hygiene and Aeroplanes.

Top floors are healthiest. On the same principle a nest like birds among the trees is a sound practice hygienically and one that is indulged in every summer by Princess Marie of Roumania, who owns an airy habitation that was erected for her by the King. This consists of a small two-roomed simply furnished cottage, with a kitchen, and has for its support four big fir trees. The idea is not original, but it suggests the most convenient form of abode for an aeronaut, as it facilitates the process of launching. Thus a man could step out of his dining-room into the car. A possibility of the near future is the aerostation treatment of invalids. Instead of sending his patient to a health resort a doctor will prescribe some hours a day in a balloon at an altitude adapted to the case in hand. In this respect there has already been considered a perfected system of balloon car with a library, a recreation hall and a portable laboratory complete.

THE OLD MASTERS.

How Modern Artists Make a New Painting an Antique.

Europe is full of artists who, as far as line and color go, can turn admirable copies of anything. These copies are made on old canvases mounted on a framework of old wood, and when the paint is dry the picture is put through an ingenious aging process. A certain kind of varnish gives a ripe golden tone, and deepening of shadows, with a suggestion of the soil of centuries, is had by the smearing of licorice juice. As for the cracked paint surface—sure sign of age—that is obtained by baking the picture carefully in an oven or by laying a plaque of metal on the canvas and striking it gently with a hammer. Worm holes in frame or panels are merely a matter of fine shot fired in and afterward picked out. And fly specks to deceive the flies themselves may be had by the judicious spatter of india ink.

No doubt to the sure connoisseur there is something hard and cold about the copies, something vaguely unsatisfying, but no one can deny that they are enormously like the originals—so much like them that the great museums of Europe, all unsuspecting, have hung their walls with these mellow masterpieces of yesterday. It is said, for instance, that Rembrandt's portrait of Sobieski in the Louvre is not the original at all, but only a copy, the original being in Russia.—Cleveland Moffett in Success.

ANOTHER WORLD.

This Charming Bit of Philosophy Points the Road to It.

I live in two worlds—one in which I must consider the weather and clothes and meals and bills coming due and a host of duties and obligations, some of which weary me. It isn't really a bad world, and I haven't much ground to complain of it. It is comparatively a poor world, however, when set against that other world into which I retire with every opportunity—the glorious, free and perfect world of my imagination. The common world, the world of meals and clothes and weather, I share with everybody. No preference or special consideration is given to me. I often get a kick or a cuff that I despise, even though I know that I earned it. But the other world is all my own. I am its creator, king and master. Nothing happens in it that does not please me; nothing exists without my consent. It revolves around me. I am its sun and center; all else is subordinate. There is no order, system or law in it that gives me the slightest trouble, for I alter, change or abolish these at my pleasure. Of course I escape whenever I can from the common everyday world in which I am so insignificant into the world which is wholly my own.—Orlando Jay Smith.

The Journey.

A little work, a little sweating, a few brief, flying years; a little joy, a little fretting, some smiles and then some tears; a little resting in the shadow, a struggle to the height, a futile search for Eldorado—and then we say good night. Some moiling in the strife and clangor; some years in doubt and debt; some words we spoke in foolish anger that we would fain forget; some cheery words we said unthinking that made a sad heart light; the banquet, with its feast and drinking—and then we say good night. Some questionings of creeds and theories and judgment of the dead, while God, who never sleeps or wearies, is watching overhead; some little laughing and some sighing; some sorrow, some delight; a little music for the dying—and then we say good night.—Walt Mason in Emporia Gazette.

Syringe Bearing Fireman.

A studious fireman looked up from his book.

"In place of all these here electric engines, automatic chutes and so on," he said, "the only instrument they had to fight fire with in the seventeenth century was the syringe. Under the roof of every building that they thought worth saving—like cathedrals and such—there were big tanks to catch the rainwater, and beside each tank hung a syringe a yard long. Then when a fire came—squirt, squirt, they went with their syringes, and the building quickly burned down to the ground."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The most valuable work in existence is said to be a copy of the Koran, now treasured in the Mohammedan city of Ispnan-Ruza, Persia. The covers, 9 1-2 inches by 4 inches, are of solid gold, 1-8 of a inch thick, while precious stones set in symbolic designs figure in the centre and at each of the corners. The book is written upon parchment, and this part of the work alone is valued at $50,000.

WATER COMMISSIONERS WOULD NOT TAKE OVER RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE POWER BY-LAW

Conference Was Held Between the Bodies Yesterday—By-laws Will be Submitted on the Same Date.

MUCH DISCUSSION OVER IT.

The city's power committee and the Water Commissioners had a conference yesterday afternoon in regard to the water works dam and the power house by-laws that are to be submitted. As a result of the interview the Water Commissioners refused to take over the power end of the scheme. They stated that the proposition was not their's, that they did not recommend it, and that they wanted it understood that the $15,000 by-law for a new power house had nothing to do with their by-law to provide $120,000 for a new dam and pumping station.

The Commissioners, however, also stated that their two outside engineers had estimated the amount of electrical power that could be developed and also estimated the cost of the power house, sluice ways, wheel pits. And they did not think the council would go far wrong by submitting the by-law. They stated that it would be a crime to allow 600 or 800 horse power to go to waste.

The Special Power Committee then decided to go ahead with the by-law and have it submitted on March 30th, with the water works by-law.

Chairman Ald. McIntyre stated that the object of the meeting was to discuss the power by-law. The committee had found that there was a division of opinion as to the amount of information available.

Mr. T. F. Matthews stated that he considered the Power Committee was at fault. There had been ample time from the time the Water Commissioners submitted their report to secure all the information the people desired. The commissioners had no information and he did not know how they could help the council.

Ald. McIntyre asked if the commissioners would sanction the by-law if the committee submitted it.

Mr. Moore replied that the Commissioners would sanction nothing.

The Commisioners also stated that the people should have more information. The Commission was not in possession of that information. All they knew was the cost of the power house foundation and sluice-ways.

Mr. Matthews stated that he did not recommend the submission of the by-law at the present time. He said the power house could be built more economically now. Had the Commissioners had their way they would not have the power by-law submitted at the same time as the water works dam by-law.

Ald. Hicks still maintained that the council should have more information.

Ald. Gillespie stated that he thought the Council would not be far out by building the power house now and taking a chance on securing the machinery and putting up the pole line at a reasonable cost afterwards.

Mr. Moore stated that it would be better to submit the power by-law later on as there would be plenty of time to do so. By submitting the two by-laws together both might be defeated, while if submitted at different times both would probably be carried. The power house, however, could be built somewhat cheaper when the dam is being built than later on.

Ald. Morrow stated that the committee had prepared a circular which they intended to have printed and placed in each house and there were some members on the committee who wanted the commissioners to sanction it. The committee would not be unanimous in recommending the circulation of the circular without the sanction of the Commissioners.

City Clerk Armstrong was then asked to read the circular for the benefit of the commissioners.

Mr. Moore stated that he wanted it distinctly understood that the two by-laws were controlled by two separate bodies.

Ald. Hicks said he would like to see the water works dam by-law go on now and the Commissioners make provision for the construction of the power house at a later date. Then the council could get the information required and submit the by-law in January and then hand it over to the commissioners. He wanted the responsibility put up to the commissioners if the power by-law was submitted now. He said he had not sufficient information at the present time.

The Commissioners said the city had all the information they had secured.

Mr. Matthews said that the power by-law was simply a matter for the council to consider.

Ald. Gillespie said that personally he was quite prepared to go on with the power by-law now with what information they had, and was convinced that the people would support it.

CONDUCTOR JUMPED AT FIRST SIGN

Examiner Special, 2:45 p.m.

Montreal, March 18.—The seventh victim of the wreck at the Windsor station is Mark Cunningham, the engineer of the Boston express, who died in the hospital this morning from the injuries he received. At the inquest, which was held Conductor Harvey stated that he jumped from the train as soon as he saw something was wrong and did not wait to apply the air brakes.

MAN ACTING STRANGELY WAS SEEN IN NEIGHBOURHOOD OF KINRADE HOME ON AFTERNOON THAT ETHEL WAS MURDERED

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Hamilton, Ont., March 18.—Although the police laugh at the tramp theory and scout theory, a man committed the murder, several neighbours of the Kinrades have come forward with what might be taken as evidence that there was a man in the job. It appears that about ten minutes to four on the afternoon of the crime Mrs. Arthur Taylor, who lives on Markland street, the first street back of the Kinrade residence, saw a man running along the lane which devides the Kinrade property and the rest of the Herkimer street residences from the Markland street houses. The man was acting in a very strange manner and he crossed the Taylor yard, over the fence into the street. Mrs. Taylor's evidence is corroborated by Mrs. Wm. King the next door neighbour, who says that she saw this man running down the lane, jump the fence into the Taylor yard and rap at the back door of the Taylor house. Receiving no response he tried the door, which was locked. He then sat down on the steps and took something out of his pocket, which he laid on the steps, and then started off, only to return and pick up the article and put it back in his pocket before moving off again.

Mrs. King was unable to see what the article was and could not say if it was a revolver or not, but the man's actions were so peculiar and the event such a strange one, coming as it did just a few minutes before four o'clock, that the two women are positive that the man was the murderer of Ethel Kinrade. The police were not notified of this strange happening the night of the crime, and while they looked around for signs of a revolver on the supposition that it was thrown away in that locality and the deed was committed by this person, they were unable to find anything. The evidence brought forward each day tending to show that there was a man in that locality on the afternoon of the crime and the story told by Miss Isaacs, of St. Catharines, that, two days before the murder she met a man on the Buffalo train who said he was from Virginia and talked a great deal of firearms, of the customs of the Virginians and the Canadians on the matter of carrying firearms, the man getting off at Hamilton, the theory that the deed was committed by a Virginian friend of Miss Florence Kinrade is once more being accepted by the public as the correct version.

The police have established beyond a shadow of doubt that Ethel Kinrade was out of the house for over an hour before the crime happened and that the mother did not leave her home until 3:10. In the testimony given by plan her reason for saying that Ethel had not been out of the house while the mother could not tell what time she went out. The police know now that Ethel was out before the mother went down town, and this being the case, Mrs. Kinrade will have to explain why she said that she left the two girls in the house dressing to go out when she left to go down town. Then Florence will be asked to explain her season for saying that Ethel was up stairs dressing when the man came to the door for food, as told by her. Both Florence and the mother will be recalled to the stand on Friday night and in addition other members of the family are very likely to have some pointed questions fired at them.

Toronto, March 18.—Samuel Tanner, his son Robert, aged 9, were found dead in bed this morning at 3 Rideau Ave., having apparently ben asphyxiated during the night. The gas jet was found full on and the house heavy with the poisonous fumes. Tanner, who was an Irishman, aged about 45, came home from the Gutta Percha Rubber Co. last night, and, after having supper, announced that he was going out to celebrate the 17th of March. At a late hour he was helped home in a helpless condition. The bodies were discovered at 6 o'clock this morning.

THE INJURED ENGINEER DIED THIS MORNING

Examiner Special.

Montreal, Que., March 18.—Mark Cunningham, the engineer of the ill-fated Boston express, which crashed into the waiting room of the Windsor Street Station yesterday morning, as the result of an accident to the locomotive, died at the General Hospital this morning, never having regained consciousness. This makes the fifth death. Large gangs of workmen laboured all night at the station removing the debris. The express car, which partly overhung Donegani St. had to be practically torn to pieces to get it away. The rest of the train moved more easily, but the big Mogul still stands in the centre of the waiting rom.

WATERWORKS DAM BY-LAW

The Water Commissioners with a desire to enlighten the ratepayers upon "A by-law to provide for borrowing the sum of $120,000 to pay the cost of construction of a dam and other works for the improvement of the Waterworks system of the City of Peterborough" will on Saturday cause to be published in the evening papers a copy of the by-law setting forth its provisions and requirements. The action of the commission in this regard is to be commended, and it is to be hoped that the ratepawers,so vitally interested, will read the by-law with attention and give it their serious consideration.

As before stated in these columns it will be noticed that the construction of the new dam will add nothing to the tax-rate of the city, the by-law providing that the surplus revenue for the Waterworks shall be applied to the payment of the interest upon and provide sinking fund for, the retirement of the debentures upon which the $120,000, the cost of the dam and connected works, is raised.

The Underwriters' Association demands that the Waterworks system be improved to meet the requirements of adequate fire protection.

FLYING THE FLAG.

The Toronto News has a column double-leaded article urging the flying of the flag as a token of loyalty. The best loyalty is worn in the heart and should manifest itself in action. We have every reason to revere and honour the British flag, which stands for all that is best of human liberty, enlightenment and civilization, but there is no necessity for keeping it everlastingly upon the outer wall. The man whose honesty to be apparent, must be perpetually asserting it, hasnt' much honesty except in his mouth and needs to be watched. The woman would be denied the possession of virtue if she boasted continually of her virtue. A man may have "the root of the matter" in him without repeating the Apostles' Creed every time he can get a hearer. A man who doesn't own a flag, or having one, doesn't fly it maye be, and probably is, at heart and in his life and relations to his fellow citizens and to the state, more loyal than another who nails his flag to the mast, in assertion of a flaunting loyalty which may exist more in the flag than in his heart and life. There is, the Preacher tells us, a time for all things There are times when the display of the flag is properly called for. The News says:

> "It does not hurt any man to be reminded of the privileges of his citizenship and a frequent glimpse of the flag would do that."

The privileges of citizenship must be lightly enjoyed and of little account that require the sight of a flag as a reminder. There is in these days too much assertion of principle and too little practice of it. The flying of the flag may or may not mean loyalty on the part of the flyer. The title "Independent" at the head of the editorial columns of the News, would mean something if every sentence of every column over which this flag flies did not give the lie to the claim it makes. Let the grand old flag fly frequent and forever, as it should, and will do when its symbolism needs expression and its authority is called upon.

Profession without performance is but as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.

PROPORTIONAL VOTING

Parliament has under consideration the appoinment of a commission to investigate the merit of proportional voting in the election of members. An understanding of the nature of proportional voting is exemplified by the Toronto News in the following statement of its mode of operation:

Under the proportional system these abuses are supposed to be obviated. To begin with, the constituencies are enlarged to return a considerable number of members, even up to twenty or thirty. Each elector is allowed to exercise what is called the single transferable vote. He is handed a ballot-paper containing the complete list of candidates with the usual space opposite the name of each. Against the candidate most favoured by the elector he places not the customary cross, but the figure 1. It is possible that the voter may not be interested in the return of more than a single candidate. But generally he is, and in this event he marks the order of his preference in the allotted spaces with the figures 2, 3, 4 and upwards in order, until his interest ceases or the complete list is dealt with.

The returning officer counts the ballot-papers in order to ascertain the quota or number of votes sufficient to secure the election of a candidate. Where one member is to be returned, a candidate will require one more than half the total number of votes to secure his election. Where two are to be returned each will require one more than a third; where three; one more than a fourth, and so on. The working formula is to divide the total number of ballot-papers by one more than the number of members to be returned.

Having thus ascertained the quota the counting of the ballots according to the voter's first choice proceeds. It will probably be found that one or two of the candidates have obtained the quota, and they will be declared elected. In all probability these elected candidates will have a considerable quantity of surplus votes beyond the quota.

Unless these surplus votes were transferable they would be wasted. But dealing with the largest first, the returning officer now transiers the surpluses to the candidates indicated as the electors' second choices, in strict proportion to the number of votes received on the first count—ignoring, of course, candidates already elected. This process is continued until there are no more surpluses to be distributed, and it will probably complete the quota of one or two more candidates.

If the requisite number of elected members is still incomplete, it is made up by eliminating the lowest candidates in order upwards and transferring their votes by the same process until the necessary quotas are obtained.

NATIONAL SOCIAL EVILS.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Dumoulin, in addressing the mid day service at St. James, Cathedral, Toronto, on Tuesday, speaking with impassioned calmness and plainess, touched on three subjects, two of most vital import and one other whose evil or benefit depends upon the point of view. His address was on the subject of the "Broken Home," and he is reported as follows:

He began with a reference to natural separations brought about in the home by death and by the marriage of children. From that he passed on to a portrayal of the effect of wrong living upon the domestic relations. "But there is one thing even worse than these," he said, "and that is divorce. I am glad we have not [illegible] that evil as it is in the United States. It is a curse on a nation, a lasting blight, and I pray God we may keep it from this young nation in which we are blessed to live. And yet, even beyond divorce, there stands out that infernal practice, race suicide. It is an invention by which wifehood and motherhood, and even childhood, go down, down, down. It means the destruction of all that we hold most dear.

"The whole trend of things is in the one direction—that is to take away from woman all that is beautiful. It is to place her on the same basis as the man. Woman's suffrage is the same. It is to take away the respect for femininity, to remove all delicacy of feeling. "What is to be the culmination of this scandal? In England it has reached a pitch of frenzy of public insanity which we have yet to find in Canada, but, tell me this! You women, think it out! If woman is to leave home to enter the arena—the vulgar arena—of politics, if she is to become a politician, to wrangle with strong, coarse men in Parliament until 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning,—tell me, in the name of [illegible] that is good, what is to become of the home? There is only one answer. There can never be but one answer: 'Down with the home.' Down with it. Women! stand with your husbands, with your fathers, with your brothers, and defend the sacred spot."

There can be no two opinions as to the justice and timely nature of the Bishop's denunciation of the first two evils, which are cardinal evils striking at the integrity and very life of the home, which is the very foundation of society and the state as these are estimated under Christian civilization. A difference of opinion, however, finds an opportunity in his reference to woman suffrage. In the abstract woman can lawfully claim the right to vote and to a share in the government of the country through elected representatives. There is no doubt of the legal right, but the question of expediency comes into consideration. In this respect the utterances of the Bishop appeal to the refined woman, to the home woman—the noblest figure in our humanity—the dutiful, devoted angel of the home, the true wife and mother. He asks: "You women think of it! If woman is to leave home to enter the arena—the vulgar arena—of politics, if she is to become a politician, to wrangle with strong, coarse men in Parliament until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning—tell me, in the name of all that is good what is to become of the home?" This would seem to be an overdrawn picture of our politicians, were it not that public men are doubtless spoken of as "strong" and "coarse" in contrast to the comparative weakness and natural refinement, which we all associate with the gentler sex. A natural complement to Bishop Dumoulin's argumentum ad feminam is the argumentum ad hominem. How would a member of parliament, engaged night after night in the "rough and tumble" of real law making like to see the wife of his bosom or his sister or his sweetheart occuping a seat and "keeping up her end" of the squabble, adjourning with the boys to the restaurant, and in all ways comforting herself as the equal of the lords of creation? This is the logical condition. If she claims an equality of right to the suffrage with men, she can logically demand the right to a seat in parliament and in that event she cannot logically demand any indulgence on the score of sex; she must take the rough with the smooth, the bitter with the sweet. By all means give woman the right to vote. She would probably not exercise it. With the sweet inconsistency of her sex she would be satisfied with having had her way. We can safely trust woman with the right to vote. No true woman will neglect the higher duties of home, of wifehood and motherhood in order to exercise that right. The woman that is not true, neglects these higher duties now—in the frivolities of society, and in a thousand other ways. If women were given votes, the true woman would go serenely on her heavenly way; she would resist the lure and blandishments of politics as she now resists the snare of social dissipation, and hallow and uphold the home as she now does without political enfranchisement. The other kind of woman would follow her bent; only,, perhaps substituting amateur politics for real social dissipation waste of time and neglect of higher duties.

For nothing lovelier can be found
In woman than to study household good.—Paradise Lost.

MILLINERY SHOPS AGLOW WITH NEW SPRING HATS

Millinery Monstrosities in Infinite Variety.

Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious spring-time for the daughters of Eve—the spring hats are out.

Grotesque, abominable, beastly, beautiful, bewitching — according to the point of view, the purse of the pater—or the eye of the eternal feminine, describe the indescribable "creations" that burgeon in the shop windows, like—like—like—in the likeness of nothing that is in heaven above or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. Bee-hives, waste paper baskets, battered coal scuttles, soup tureens, musk-rat houses all find affinity of shape in the new spring hats.

Ladies may go into ecstasies over them and husbands and fathers go into bankruptcy over these hats, but they must be bought and worn. The milliner shop windows are "a sight."

If the ladies would give as much attention to the inside of their heads as they bestow on the outside, there would be something more than beauty under their hats when they put them on—straight or otherwise.

TOLD TO BEAT IT BACK TO CHICAGO

Eli Kidd has for the past three nights been sleeping in the police station, but this morning he was dismissed. He appeared before the magistrate charged with vagrancy. He pleaded not guilty, stating that he yet had forty cents in his pocket. "I came here from Chicago about three weeks ago," he said, "and have been spending my money pretty freely."

"Did you make a good living in Chicago?" the magistrate asked him.

"Yes, sir," he answered, and he presented his business card.

He promised to leave town at once and he was allowed to go. Kidd appeared in court about twelve months ago for selling alleged gold rings without a license.

KILLED HIS SWEETHEART

John Mueller Told a Clumsy Tale About Miss Reid Being Held Up —Says It Was Accidental.

IS NOW IN THE TOILS.

Baltimore, March 18. —Under searching questioning by the police to-day, John J. Mueller confessed that it was he who last night shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Regina Reid, and that there was no truth in the story he told immediately after the shooting, to the effect that he and Miss Reid were held up in a lonely spot near Mount Washington, a suburb, by a highwayman, who, after securing Mueller's money, demanded a necklace worn by Miss fired.

Reid, slapped the highwayman's face and thereupon the fatal shot was

Following the investigation of the coroner last night, Mueller was held on the charge of murdering Miss Reid. To-day he made a statement in which he said that when the electric car upon which he and Miss Reid were riding reached South and Hilltop avenues, near Mount Washington, Miss Reid, whose marriage to Mueller was set for April 14, said she must leave the car. They did so, and, according to Mueller's statement after they had walked a short distance, the girl preceding him, he thought he saw a man emerging from behind a tree, and believing himself to be in danger, fired; but, owing to the unsteadiness of his aim on account of fright, the bullets struck and killed Miss Reid. Mueller declared the shooting to have been entirely accidental.

His story, however, is not accepted by the police whose theory is tthat the killing was premeditated. They believe that Mueller wished to break off his engagement to Miss Reid, but had not the courage to tell her so. At the coroner's inquest, a number of persons were brought out that contradicted Mueller's original statement, as well as part of his confession.

It developed that Miss Reid was shot twice, and three witnesses have testified that there was an interval of at least two minutes between the shots.

Mueller and Miss Reid figured last December in an episode in which an anonymous threatening letter and a box of poisoned candy were incidents.

The police believe that Mueller sent both the letter and candy to himself, and that even at that time he was planning to get rid of Miss Reid.

NO EXCURSION IS TO GO TO TORONTO

There will be no excursion to Toronto on Saturday for the Shrubb-Simpson race, as not enough names had been left in of people who desired to go. However, any Peterborough people that desire to see the race may secure a special rate by calling at the railway offices. It is likely that a number from Peterborough will see the race.

TARIFF REFORM BILL PRESENTED

Payne Revision Bill Is Introduced in Congress.

OF INTEREST TO CANADA

Lumber Duties Are Cut In Half and Hides and Tallow Are Put on the Free List—Removal of Duty on Wood Pulp and Cut In Rate In Print Paper Is Recommended —State of Maine Will Suffer.

Washington, March 18.—Downward revision, maximum and minimum provisions, which impose an average maximum duty 20 per cent. in excess of the present tariff, and numerous provisions by which it is estimated that the revenue to the Government will be increased from forty to fifty million dollars, are the salient features of the new tariff bill which was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee.

As was expected, the new tariff bill is made on a maximum and minimum basis, with the provision that the maximum rates are not to go into effect until sixty days after the passage of the bill.

Reciprocity provisions are contained in the paragraphs assessing duties on bituminous coal and coke and agricultural implements, by which these articles are given entry free of duty when imported from countries which permit the free importation of these articles from America.

In order to prevent the confusion which attended the enforcement of the Dingley bill on the day on which it became law, the Payne bill is not to take effect until the day after it is enacted.

The maximum and minimum provision of the bill does away with the necessity of continuing the foreign trade agreements.

The internal revenue tax on cigarettes is materially increased, while the tax on beer and whisky is undisturbed.

A cut of fifty per cent. is made in the steel and lumber schedules.

Hides, tallow, cottonseed oil and works of art more than 20 years old are placed on the free list.

The tariff on boots and shoes is reduced forty per cent., and on other leather made in proportion.

The tariff on wool of the first and second class, used principally in clothing, is not disturbed, but on wool of the third class, known as carpet wool, is reduced on the cheaper grades.

A five cent reduction is made in the duties on shoddy and waste, while wool tops are assessed six cents a pound more than the duty on scoured wool, which is unchanged.

The recommendations for placing wood pulp on the free list and reducing the duties on print paper with certain restrictions made by the Mann committee of the House are incorporated in the bill.

A reduction of one-half cent a pound is also made in the duty on starch. Zinc in ore is assessed one cent per pound for the zinc contained. The tariff on pig iron is reduced from $4 to $2.50 per ton.

Petroleum is retained on the free list and the countervailing duty provision is retained.

A provision in the bill is designed to meet the conditions resulting from the patent laws of Great Britain, which requires that patentees must manufacture their articles within Great Britain. This provision applies the same rules to patents taken out in this country by aliens as applied to Americans in the country of the aliens. Drawback privileges are extended by the bill and the method of valuation on articles upon which the tariff imposes an ad valorem duty is broadened for the purpose of preventing the practice of under-valuation.

Senator Hale, chairman of the Republican caucus, is among those who finds the bill objectionable.

"It absolutely murders the wood pulp and paper industry of Maine," he said. "This is the most important industry in our state, and we shall resist the change with the utmost possible view." He predicted that the bill would be before Congress for the next three months or more.

Builders' Strike In Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alta., March 18.—There is a possibility that all the building trades unions in the city will go out on strike in the spring if the differences with the builders' exchange are not settled. The exchange refuses to recognize the trades' council in signing up agreements for the year, preferring to deal direct with the unions, and the labor unions insist on recognition of the trades' council. Considerable building is planned and a strike would mean a serious setback to the city's growth.

JURYMEN DISAGREE.

Case Against Switchman McGuire May Be Dropped.

Brantford, March 18.—The trial of Jos. McGuire, the Grand Trunk switchman indicted for criminal negligence and manslaughter, ended last night in a disagreement by the jury, which stood 7 to 5 for acquittal. Justice MacMahon traversed the case to the next Assize Court, but it is not thought likely that the crown will again press for conviction.

Grand Trunk officials and employes gave evidence, blaming the prisoner for the Mount Vernon wreck, in which three were killed, on account of his neglecting to protect the yard engine, which he sent out to assist the freight train up grade, from an outgoing train. The specific rule of the company stated that he, as yard foreman, would be held responsible for the safe return of his engine.

The prisoner, testifying in his own behalf, partially admitted blame, but his neglect, he said, had been due to pressure of work, which diverted his attention, while the train slipped out unnoticed.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Albert Baxter of Melvin's Settlement, Winchester Township, shot a big black bear the other day. He was after a lot of wood when his dog located the bear.

President William Cotter of the Pere Marquette Railroad declares there is no truth in the rumor of a pending sale of the Pere Marquette to the Baltimore and Ohio.

Queen Helena's Rib Broken.

Rome, March 18.—Queen Helena is still suffering from the effects of her accident at Messina during the days immediately following the earthquake.

An unexplained rise in Her Majesty's temperature led to a careful examination, and it was found that one of her left ribs was broken. She is obliged to carry her arm in a sling.

The Queen was hurt at Messina early in January. She was in one of the improvised hospitals when she was knocked down by a terror-stricken woman who was trying to force her way through the door of the building with the purpose of committing suicide. The impact was so great that Her Majesty suffered a hemorrhage of the lungs.

Mail Clerk Charged With Robbing.

Belleville, March 18.—E. T. Vandusen, mail clerk of Trenton, was tried by Magistrate O'Rourke, charged with robbing the mails.

It was alleged that there had been thefts, and that a knife, sent as a decoy to a party in Trenton, had been found in Vandusen's possession. He said the wrapper came off the parcel containing the knife, and he was going to hand it to the proper official.

Magistrate O'Rourke deferred judgment for ten days.

Rumored Changes In Alberta Cabinet.

Edmonton, March 18.—It is reported from Pakan district that P. E. Lessard, the Edmonton merchant, who was elected by acclamation as the Liberal representative, is to be called to the Provincial Cabinet without portfolio, and that Duncan Marshall, Liberal candidate in Olds, and Liberal organizer in the province, is slated for the portfolio of railways, and is to preside over the new Department that is to be created as the result of the guarantee of bonds of branch lines.

Liable to Big Fine.

Carson City, Nev., March 18.—The federal grand jury has returned an indictment against the Southern Pacific Railroad, on a charge of granting secret rebates to the California Sugar and White Pine Agency. Fifteen counts are mentioned and the total fine could be $300,000.

After Hidden Treasure.

New York, March 18.—A local broker is to finance an expedition to unearth the notorious Capt. Kidd's alleged ten million dollar treasure, said to have been buried on Oak Island, Nova Scotia.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Higher—Hogs 5c to 10c Higher at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, March 17.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13¾c to 14¼c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9¾c to 10c per pound.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 17.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning the offerings consisted of 500 cattle, 25 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 1,150 calves. An easier feeling prevailed in the market for cattle, and the advance in prices of ¼c per lb. noted on Monday was lost, owing to the fact that supplies were somewhat in excess of the requirements, and butchers were not disposed to provide for future wants, on account of the near approach of Easter; the buying was limited and trade on the whole was draggy. Choice steers sold at 5½c; good at 5c to 5¼c; fair at 4½c to 4¾c, and common at 3c to 4c; good cows at 4c to 5c; common at 3c to 3½c, and bulls at 3c to 4½c per lb. Supplies of sheep and lambs continue small, for which the demand was good, and prices ruled steady, with sales of lambs at 6½c and sheep at 4c per lb. On account of the very large offerings of calves an easier feeling developed in the market, and prices ruled lower, but at the decline the demand was active and a brisk trade was done at prices ranging from $1.50 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

The supply of hogs was ample to fill all requirements, and, as the demand was not so keen as it has been of late, the advance in prices recorded Monday was not maintained, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.75 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Calves—Receipts, 1714; veals firm for top grades; medium grades 25c higher; veals, $8 to $9.75; culls, $5, dressed calves firm; city dressed vals, 9½c to 14c; country dressed, 8c to 12c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 7917; sheep almost nominal; lambs a trifle weak, except for choice light, common to fair sheep, $4 to $5; culls, $3; lambs, $7.50 to $8.10; culls, $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 4389; hogs firm, at $7 to $7.25; light pigs, $6.60.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 19,000; market weak to 10c lower; beeves, $4.60 to $7.20; Texas steers, $4.40 to $5.35; western steers, $4 to $5.50; stockers and feeders, $3.40 to $5.55; cows and heifers, $1.90 to $5.60; calves, $6 to $8.25.

WAS IN BED FOR THREE MONTHS.

PEOPLE SAID SHE HAD CONSUMPTION.

Read how Mrs. T. G. Buck, Bracebridge, Ont., was cured (and also her little boy) by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

She writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A few years ago I was so badly troubled with my lungs people said I had Consumption and that I would not live through the Fall. I had two doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about me. I was in bed three months and when I got up I could not walk, so had to go on my hands and knees for three weeks, and my limbs seemed of no use to me. I gave up all hopes of ever getting better when I happened to see in B.B.B. Almanac that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs. I thought I would try a bottle and by the time I had used it I was a lot better, so got more and it made a complete cure. My little boy was also troubled with weak lungs and it cured him. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything."

Price 25 cents at all dealers. Beware of imitations of Dr. Wood's, Norway Pine Syrup. Ask for it and insist on getting the original. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark.

SUPPER AFTER THE THEATRE

Members of Cast Were Entertained at Coleman's.

After the production of "True Irish Hearts" last night the cast and a few guests were entertained at an impromptu supper at Coleman's. There were present outside those who took part the following members of the committee: Messrs. Robt. Begley, Jas. Hickey, J. Hanrahan, and Mr. N. Bibby, the President of the Society, and Mr. Irving Beers. Complimentary speeches were made in reference to the splendid work of the players and in return Mr. George Lynch, on behalf of the cast, thanked those who had assisted them. The reception the audience greeted the performance of the piece with, was very acceptable to the players, who were pleased that they had been able to provide entertainment of that kind.

FELL ON SIDEWALK AND SPRAINED HER WRIST

While returning from the city last evening, between five and six o'clock, Mrs. Samuel Bredin, whose residence is on Rogers Street, north, met with a painful accident and as a result will be considerably inconvenienced. She was going up the mill hill on Hunter street when, owing to the slippery condition of the sidewalk she fell, and in so doing badly sprained her right wrist. She was taken into the East City drug store, where her injury was attended to after which she was able to go home.

THE WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

Prompts the Use of Worthless Remedies.

Even an experienced physician will sometimes make a mistake in diagnosis, in which event his entire treatment is wasted and may even be injurious to the patient.

The advocates of all other hair restoratives save Herpicide have wrongfully diagnosed the cause of Dandruff and Falling Hair.

They figure on a functional disease whereas it is not known and generally accepted that hair loss is due to a parasitic germ which Newbro's Herpicide destroys.

There is no substitute for Herpicide, accept none.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

MONTREAL GIRL'S HORRIBLE DEATH IN ACCIDENT AT WINDSOR STREET STATION YESTERDAY

Examiner Special.

Montreal, March 18.—Little Elsie Villiers, 12 years of age, Marquette street, Montreal, met a horrible death in the accident at the Windsor Station yesterday. She had been sitting with her grandmother in the station and strayed away from the old lady's side to look at a picture, and half an hour later her poor mangled body was dug from under piles of bricks and masonry.

Nearly every bone in her body was broken. And when the big stone wreckers had uncovered the mutilated body they were unable to take it away because her hair was caught under wreckage. So, hesitating, one fireman pulled out a knife and cut the golden locks. Then she was placed on the stretcher of the Royal Victoria Hospital ambulance.

As she was being taken away a loud wail went up. It was from Elsie's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Hughes, 552 Moreau street. The unfortunate girl had been staying with her grandmother, where a Mrs. Alonzo Schoolmaker, of Albany, New York, had also been paying a visit. The little girl and her grandmother came to see their visitor off on the 8:40 train. The three were sitting together in the main waiting room. Suddenly the girl espied a picture over the door of the ladies' waiting room. She wanted to see the title, and, running over, looked up.

Then a shriek rang out. There was the awful grinding and crashing of masonry, the hiss of escaping steam, the cries of the wounded and the shouts of those who feared. But the little girl had been caught. She was carried forward on the fender and then tons of masonry fell burying her.

As soon as a gang of firemen and wreckers could be got together they worked feverishly tearing away at the bricks with bare hands, and hurrying each other.

The still form was soon found The head was crushed in, the legs and arms and body were mangled, she was beyond recognition.

Special Prizes Are Offered For Dairy Herd Competition

Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association have decided to offer special prizes for competition among the dairy herds of Eastern Ontario. They have ascertained through Chief Instructor Publow that the average quantity of milk per cow delivered to the various factories is but 2,700 pounds. The association feels that this average is too small, so they have decided to divide Eastern Ontario into five districts, and to offer four cash prizes in each district, making a total of $280, as an incentive to patrons, hoping thereby to raise this average. The following groups of counties will comprise the various districts, namely:

District No. 1.—Peterborough, Ontario, Durham, Victoria, Haliburton, Hastings, less townships of Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga.

District No. 2.—Prince Edward, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, and the townships of Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga.

District No. 3.—Leeds, Lanark, Renfrew.

District No. 4.—Carleton, Grenville, Dundas.

District No. 5.—Glengarry, Russell, Stormont, Prescott.

The special prizes are four in number, $20, $15, $10, $5, to the patrons who furnish the first, second, third and fourth largest amounts of milk per cow to any cheese factory or creamery in any of the foregoing districts from May 1st to Oct. 31st, 1909.

HAS BOTH ARMS BROKEN NOW

After having it attended to he went to Peterborough for a rest, and when he returned to work Tuesday he had the misfortune to fall heavily on the hand of the other arm and sustained a Colles' fracture which will lay him up for another 3 or 4 weeks.—Hastings Star.

WM. HAMILTON CO'S. CASE AT OSGOODE HALL

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Toronto, March 18.—Mr. G. B. Strathy to-day at Osgoode Hall, moved for judgment in default of defence on behalf of the liquidation of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Peterborough. The Company has judgment for $12,209.14, received against William Hamilton December 2, 1907.

Chief Justice Mulock gave judgment declaring void a conveyance of property in Peterborough made by Mr. Hamilton to his wife.

SHERIFF DISSOLVED A HORSE TRADE

A resident of Asphodel, from near Birdsall, drove to Peterborough on Saturday and got into a horse trade in which he received $10 to boot for his own horse and was loaded up with a skate, besides the one he was carrying himself. On second reflection he considered the trade was a bad one, and appealed to the deputy sheriff, who forced the other party to trade back, as a man who has a skate on has no business to be dickering with another one.—Hastings Star.

WEB-HANDED BOY AT CHILDREN'S SHELTER

There is now a boy in the Children's Shelter with an unusual physical deformity, or rather, peculiarity. Both hands are webbed, that is three of the fingers of each hand are connected by a web in the manner of the foot of a water fowl. That a child, born with such hands should reach the age of nine years without being relieved, indicates a great deal of parental indifference or great distance from competent surgical skill. By a simple and easily performed operation, the fingers, which are otherwise perfectly formed, can be separated. This will now be done. If it had ben done a few days after birth there would now have been no trace of the peculiar congenital peculiarity apparent.

One Example Of Modern Milk Production Of Interest To All Consumers In Peterborough

The housewives who daily purchase milk from those who deliver it in the city are sure to be more or less curious as to the conditions existing in the dairies where the milk is produced. Recently a dairy authority had the good fortune to visit the cow barns of Mr. W. C. aFllis, one of the milk men of our city , who is building up a trade in town. Mr. Fallis is not in the business extensively. He attends to his cattle himself and right well they speak for the care they receive. We were impressed with the sanitary arrangements of the stables, their cleanliness and their freedom from those objectionable odors so inseparable from many cow stables that we have visited. The cows also attracted our notice. They were the very picture of good health and they reflected credit upon their owner in their seeming contentment, their well groomed bodies being absolutely free from filth.

When we consider the state of cleanliness in which his herd is kept, it is small wonder that once Mr. Fallis obtains customers, he has no difficulty in keeping them. The cows are stabled continuously. The stable is light and is kept well bedded with bright clean straw. The fodder from which his cows produce milk is most wholesome. Bright clean clover hay and a mixture of oats cut green, forms the bulky part of the ration, this being supplemented by a liberal grain ration of peas, oats and barley. Under these ideal conditions, the milk coming from this dairy cannot be otherwise than good flavoured and of a high quality such as the average housekeeper is looking for. On a conservative estimate, we figured that it was costing Mr. Fallis $84 a year to feed each one of his cows. Were this factor always taken into consideration there would be less complaint of high priced milk. Mr. Fallis assured us, however that under proper management there was still a fair living in the business after paying expenses.

Allowed To Go On Suspended Sentence And Will Pay For Horse

Ernest Buck, the young man who was given another day to make a settlement with Mr. Allin McCarthy from whom he had obtained a horse by false pretences, yesterday morning in the police court, appeared before Magistrate Dumble to-day.

The prisoner's counsel, Mr. G. N. Gordon stated that his client had been unable to obtain the money with which to pay Mr. McCarthy. Mr. Gordon asked that the prisoner be allowed to go on suspended sentence. Buck would promise to pay five dollars per week to Mr. McCarthy until the fifty was all paid.

His Worship consented to this arrangement but said that he thought that Buck deserved to go to gaol as he believed the transaction was nothing but a swindle.

Another Stranger Endeavours To Get Fare To Toronto From City

Mr. F. W. Miller had another example of bluff and nerve presented to him last night. A man called and wanted to get a ticket to Toronto. Of course, the town should pay his way. Had not many persons much less deserving than he been helped in this way? If he was not a deserving case well then who was? Mr. Miller listened to his admiring talk but for some reason did not take kindly to him. He proved to be an entire stranger, very likely a mere tramp. He was finally asked to be gone and if his desire to reach Toronto was as strong as he expressed it let him take to the bare ties that extend in monotonous regularity to the Queen City's very heart.

Wanted Assistance In Finding Whereabouts Of Her Husband

In an effort to get assistance in finding her husband, a woman called at the police station this morning and Police Magistrate Dumble being there she told him her story. She said that her husband and oldest son had left home about two months ago going to Oshawa. She had received one letter and a little financial aid from him shortly after he went away. He told her to address his letters to Whitby in the future, which she had done, but had received no reply. She thought that probably the police could help her in learning his whereabouts.

Mr. Dumble told her that they could not assist her very much. Probably if he was found he might be sent to gaol for non-support but that would not help her any. The woman went away without much hope of locating her husband.

"TRUE IRISH HEARTS" PROVES MOST SUCCESSFUL PLAY EVER PRESENTED BY T.A.S. AMATEURS

Miss Lavina Hallihan and Mr. Geo. Lynch, Supported by Well Balanced Cast, Appear Before Largest Audience of Season—A Pretty Play Produced in a Manner Befitting Professionals.

MASTER JOE CLANCY SCORES

St. Peter's T. A. S. may well be proud of its dramatic section. Other departments of this society have had very creditable records, in athletics, in social and in literary affairs, but it remains for those who present the annual 17th of March play to win the greatest praise and credit for the capable manner in which they display their histrionic abilities in the regular productions of Irish plays. Performances of previous years have been marked successes and hundreds of the citizens of Peterborough have been pleased and delighted that the city could boast of amateurs who were so thoroughly at home in dramatic presentations. But past efforts were excelled and past laurels were forgotten in the splendid production of the Grand Opera House last night of "True Irish Hearts," a pretty comedy drama of Irish life. It ran easily along through five acts with bright humour following the tenser intervals as the April sun shines through the intermittent clouds. Well staged, well acted and without a monotonous moment, it was undoubtedly the best production the T. A. S. Thespians have ever essayed. An outstanding feature was the fact that there was not a hitch from the first curtain until the finale when it was plain to be seen that all were to live happy ever after. Thanks to Mr. George Lynch's stage craft and experience the machinery was well oiled and ran smoothly and most effectively throughout The parts were apparently well chosen and could scarcely have been put in better hands. While the preparation for this play has not been as long as most of former pieces, care and diligence must have been exercised, judging from the fact that without exception all the members of the cast were thoroughly acquainted with their lines, expressed them well and the entrances were well timed and correct. Attention to details was noticeable everywhere. Each scene had many extra "props" which strengthened the effect and enhanced the realism.

Large Audience

The house was sold out, with prabably the largest audience of the season. It was very appreciative and manifested its pleasure by frequent applause, and at the most interesting scenes in the five acts. Each of the players was well known and it was generally admitted that their individual work surpassed their appearances in previous productions.

The Cast

The cast of characters was as follows:

Lanty Lanagan—A Boy with a True Irish Heart—Mr. Geo. Lynch.

George Wolfe—By Name and Nature—Mr. Fred Derocher.

Batt Mooney—Better Known as Moon-Face Batt—Mr. James O'Brien.

Miles O'Connor—A Young Lawyer—Mr. John Gorham.

Dennis Doyle—A Jolly Old Fisherman—Mr. Sam Hoolihan.

Sheriff Burke—A Lamb of the Law—Mr. Claude Brady.

Miss Rose O'Neal—The Rose of Kerry—Miss Fanny Holmes.

Danny—Her Brother—Master Joe Clancy.

Mrs. Brady—Miss Helen Kane.

Kitty Brady—Her Daughter—Miss Lavina Hallihan.

Miss Maggie Doherty, Musical Director.

Locale

Act I.—Exterior of Mrs. Brady's Home.

Act II.—Interior of Mrs. Brady's Home.

Act III.—Killarney Lake, from Blarney Bridge.

Act IV.—(Scene 1.)—Road to the Miser's Cave; (Scene 2.)—Entrance to Cave; (Scene 3.)—The Miser's Cave.

Act V.—Exterior of Mrs. Brady's Home.

Story of the Play

The plot was not unlike several other Irish plays but it was invested with charm which was distinctly its own and which was recognized by those who have not missed a 17th of March affair in years.

Terrance O'Neal dies leaving George Wolfe guardian of his daughter, Rose, and his son Danny. Wolfe is anxious to marry Rose but her heart has found its mate in Miles O'Connor, a young lawyer. Wolfe as guardian forbids them seeing each other. The last will of Terrance O'Neal cannot be found. Wolfe claims a bogus article to be the real will, but Rose has found a package in an old box inscribed, "The last will and testament of Terrance," but the last name has been erased. She plans to bring the envelope to Blarney Pass, where she is to meet young O'Connor, who is to examine it. This serves to hinge the play to its dramatic scenes. Batt Mooney, who performs Wolfe's dirty work overhears the conversation between the young lovers, and thwarts their meeting Rose and Danny are kidnapped by Mooney and a chain of evidence is linked around O'Connor charging him with their murders.

Dennis Doyle, and Lanty Lanagan, believe in O'Connor's innocence and the latter discovers that Wolfe hires men to make hideous noises around the cave leading the peasants to believe that the Miser's cave, the place where Wolfe had hidden Rose and her brother is haunted. Lanty finally discovers them and hereby leads to the beginning of the end. On the very morning that Miles O'Connor is to be hanged for murder, Lanty effects their release and all are made happy ever after, except Mooney and Wolfe, who suddenly find the tables reversed.

Other Parts

The brunt of the comedy falls to Mr. George Lynch and Miss Lavina Hallihan, who as Kitty Brady is his sweetheart. Mr. Lynch probably never appeared to better advantage than as the happy-go-lucky Lanty. He was the inspiration to the rest of the cast and was always prominent in the humourous scenes, not a few of which were of his own adaptation. He was ably assisted by Miss Hallihan, who once more proved a favourite with the audience. They were very natural in their respective parts and their flow of humourous jests was always wholesome and appropriate. Mr. James O'Brien as Batt Mooney was capital in his portrayal of an unprincipled scoundrel and an arrant coward. His appearance was funny and his presence added greatly to the scenes in which he took part. The part of the scheming Wolfe was well handled by Mr. Fred Derocher, who had the heavy part of representing the "villain," who was responsible for all the trouble. The character of the young lawyer was capably delineated by Mr. John Gorham. Miss Fannie Holmes and Miss Helen Kane were also very good. The latter as the old lady, the mother of Kitty Brady could scarcely have been acepted in a better manner. Mr. Sam. Hoolihan, and Mr. Claude Brady, as the fisherman and the sheriff respectively, carried out their roles in the same finished style as the rest of the cast. Particular mention is deserving to Master Joe Clancy, who as Danny, won instant favour with the audience. He made a decided hit in his youthful role and well deserved the reception his work was recorded. His stage presence was unaffected, manly and easy. He gave no evidence of stage fright which might have been expected from one so young in a first appearance and he delivered his lines in a manner that left nothing to be desired. The caste is exceedingly well balanced leaving no weak spots. There is a feeling of mutual confidence that is a great strength and a decided asset. Many congratulations were received by Mr. Lynch and those who assisted him in so successfully presenting "True Irish Hearts."

The Specialties

Carefuly added here and there throughout the play were specialties of a most entertaining order. They lent a pleasing variation and were in themselves deserving of the well merited receptions they received. Miss Lavina Hallihan and Mr. Geo. Lynch sang two duets, one entitled "Life is a See-Saw" from Gus Edwards' School Days, and the other "Just Say You Care," from "The Flower of the Ranch." The setting in each case was appropriate. The gallery spot light threw various colours on the singers affecting a coup de theatre that everyone appreciated. Miss Hallihan sang as an encore to the first "Eyes That Come from Ireland." Her singing of "Come Back to Erin" was a treat. One needed not Irish blood in his veins to be haunted by the tender melody of this gem. Miss Hallihan sang it sympathetically and with delightful presence. Her clear soprano rang true and sweet in the highest notes. As an encore she sang "For I Dream of you," from "The Alaskan." It too was splendidly delivered, the chorus particularly presenting those possibilities which bring out Miss Hallihan's voice to best advantage.

Mr. Lynch sang well last night and in his two duets showed himself worthy of the compliments paid him, and he sang "Blow the Smoke Away," in a manner that went home to the entire audience. This song suited him admirably as he showed by the easy and appealing way he delivered it. Mr. Sam Hoolihan's step dance showed that he has not lost any of his grace and cleverness. He was given a hearty encore. Miss Maggie Doherty as accompanist greatly assisted the singers. The Opera House orchestra during the intervals played selections and medleys of Irish music that were thoroughly noticed. Among those present were noticed, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and Rev. Father McColl, who apparently were much pleased with the manner in which the members of the dramatic club acquitted themselves.

Appreciate Assistance.

The committee of the Dramatic Club desire to express their gratitude to Mr. Irving Beers, who lent valuable assistance in the making up. The stage hands are also mentioned as having added in no small degree to the success of the production They had all the settings rapidly in place and took almost a personal interest in the arrangements. The committee greatly appreciate their services as well as of all those who helped make the play the splendid success it was. The balcony lamp was under the direction of Mr. Leo Derocher.

The person who buys any other tea always hopes it will be "as good" as "Salada." 125

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir:—Often one reads something running down Englishmen. Allow me to say how often I am taken in. The last is the limit. A Canadian woman, the other day, stopped me with a tale of a sick husband and young children, living on bread and tea. I gave her money, but hear that they receive altogether eight dollars a week and own their own house.

Yours sincerely,

Y.M.C.A. TRACK AND FIELD CLUB FORMED

Meeting Held Last Night Gives Promise of Good Season.

The Y. M. C. A. young men held a meeting last night when the constitution of the Track and Field Club was drawn up. Purple and white are the Club's colours and the emblem is a block P with an arrow through it. The prospects for the spring and summer's work were discussed and the advisability of holding a meet on the 24th of May was considered. There is a strong likelihood that such will be the case, as the Y. M. C. A. boys are going into the work with a vim that should make the Club's work a decided success.

Track and field athletics is apparently undergoing a revival and some good men should be turned out.

AWFUL DISASTER AT MONTREAL

C.P.R. Express Crashes Through Waiting Room Walls.

FOUR DEAD; ONE WILL DIE

Runaway Train Has Blow-Out on the Line and Deserted by Engine Crew Rushes Into Depot, Slaying and Destroying — Ten Persons Are Injured and Part of Railway Building Is Demolished.

Montreal, March 18.—Several persons killed and many injured was the outcome of a terrible accident at the Windsor station yesterday morning, when the Boston and Maine train, shortly before 9 o'clock, hurled itself through the stone walls of the station, plunging into the waiting-rooms and spreading the wildest terror and consternation.

The casualties are as follows:

Dead.

Villieres, Elsie, 1,000 Marquette street, Montreal, 12 years.

Nixon, Mrs. J. W., Ash avenue, Montreal, wife of C.P.R. despatcher, 32 years.

Nixon, Miss, daughter of above, 10 years.

Nixon, Master J. M., son of above, 13 years.

Will Die.

Cunningham, Mark, engineer, Montreal Junction.

Injured.

Craig, Louis, fireman, 101 Waverly street, Montreal, hip injured in jumping from train.

Gariepy, John, 36 Montcalm street, broken leg.

Anderson, William, inmate at Salvation Army, head cut.

Platte, Wm., fractured ribs.

Buckingham, Robert, scalp wounds, not serious.

Goodleaf, Miss, Indian girl, Caughnawagha, scalp wounds.

Delisle, Miss C., Caughnawagha, scalp wounds.

Wells, Jonah, 244 Guy street, Montreal, bruises.

Book, Wm., C. P. R. interpreter, Montreal, pinned in wreckage, legs badly bruised, doing well.

Unknown farmer, fracture at base of skull, will recover.

No one in the runaway train was killed, all the fatalities occurring in the waiting-rooms, into which the engine plowed. Two of the dead were little girls, who were waiting with their parents for an outgoing train.

The accident has features unique in railway annals. After an investigation held in the C.P.R. offices shortly after the accident, Vice-President D. McNichol gave out the following explanatory statement, based on the examination of witnesses:

"While the night express from Boston was approaching Montreal this morning a plug blew out of the engine boiler between Montreal Junction and Westmount Station with a loud report. The plug was on the side of the cab, where the fireman sat, and he was at once enveloped in scalding steam.

"The fireman at once concluded that something serious had happened and jumped from the cab window into a snow bank. He then got up and followed the train, walking along the track, and found that Engineer Cunningham had also jumped from the cab about half a mile further on. He, however, found that the engineer had not been so fortunate as himself in jumping, and that he was lying unconscious beside the track with a fractured skull.

The train dashed into the station at a speed of over 20 miles an hour. Speeding along track 7, which ends at the wall of the ladies' waiting-room, the engine ripped through the wall as though it were cardboard and careened through the room, dragging with it the heavy coaches crowded with passengers. The engine smashed its way through the second wall and across the general waiting-room, ripping up the tile flooring and opening a gap through which the truck of the baggage car fell to the floor below.

The outside wall facing Donegana street yielded to the impact of the pilot of the engine, and a shower of masonry clattered to the street below.

The victims were in the waiting-room, in which the engine was left standing erect, but twisted into an almost unrecognizable mass of iron and thickly plastered with dust and fragments of stone.

There were about 15 persons in the general waiting-room, while in the ladies' waiting-room, close to the wall nearest the track, sat a little girl waiting for the train. There was little warning of danger. A tremendous crash stupified them and in a moment the air was filled with flying pieces of stone and metal.

The injured were borne out on stretchers as soon as they could be reached, and were removed to the General, Notre Dame and Royal Victoria Hospitals.

Mabel Murdock, a girl in the ladies' waiting-room, was hurled through the northern door and picked up unconscious 30 feet away. She was not severely injured.

It is estimated that the damage to the C.P.R. may reach $150,000. The engine is a complete wreck.

The Windsor Station was built over 20 years ago, and this is the first fatal accident to occur. It is an elevated station, the trains entering on a level with the second floor of the station.

The Grand Trunk had a somewhat similar catastrophe at its Montreal terminal Bonaventure Station, about seven years ago, when the Boston express ran over the stop block and hurled itself against the solid walls of the station.

MAKES ATTACK ON MR. LEMIEUX

Mr. Armstrong Makes Onslaught on Rural Mail.

CALLS SYSTEM A SHAM

Postmaster-General Shows That Difficulty Is One of Expense and Canada Is Not Justified In Plunging Into It as Yet—Dr. Pugsley Replies to Mr. Ames Regarding the Saguenay Piers.

Ottawa, March 18.—Since the opening of the session Mr. Armstrong, the member for East London, has been awaiting an opportunity to speak his mind regarding the system of free rural mail delivery introduced by the Postmaster-General, and he found it yesterday afternoon on a motion to go into supply. Mr. Armstrong's grievance was that the system now working so satisfactorily in the rural districts was so restricted as to be a "sham," and that in announcing the Government's adoption of the reform in September last Mr. Lemieux was guilty of an attempt to bribe the electors. He also complained that the boxes in use had been made in New York, and entered into a glowing eulogy of the system of rural mail delivery in the United States, to show how inadequate and imperfect was the service in the Dominion.

The P.M.G., he said, had tried to make it appear that the routes already inaugurated had proved very expensive, while as a matter of fact only 44 routes had been opened with an extra cost of only $663, or $15 for each route, and the Postmaster-General had not closed the postoffices which the delivery system had made unnecessary.

Mr. Lemieux had gone about the thing extravagantly. He wanted 6,000 letter-boxes and went to the United States for them. The cost, including delivery, was $5, while the average price paid by the United States was less than $3, equipped and delivered.

Mr. Lemieux said he still held the opinion that free rural mail delivery was too expensive to be adopted generally, but he had been investigating the star route system in vogue in the United States, and when he made his campaign speech at Niagara Falls with the Prime Minister he had announced that the experiment would be made. Surely that was not a bribe to the electors, as the farmers could not be expected to be influenced, because the Government was only doing its duty. The system that Mr. Armstrong was anxious to have adopted here had cost the people of the United States last year $34,000,000.

Replying to the criticism of Mr. Armstrong as to the purchase of boxes from New York, Mr. Lemieux explained that experts in Canada had informed him that the particular kind of box adopted could not be made in the Dominion at the price paid to the New York manufacturers.

Mr. Armstrong wanted to know what reason the Government could assign for not having Holstein cattle at the Experimental Farm, and if the Minister of Agriculture stated in public that he did not wish to encourage the breeding of Holstein cattle in Canada.

Mr. Fisher replied that any more breeds could not be satisfactorily dealt with. The answer to the second part of the question was, "No."

Seven companies, according to Mr. Fisher, had taken advantage of the Government bill to grant aid to cold storage warehouses, and among them the following companies in Ontario have received these amounts: Peterboro $2,100, with an equal amount to be earned; Morrisburg, $18,936 to be earned; St. Mary's, $5,100 to be earned.

In supply, Mr. Ames of Montreal exhibited photographs of a Government work on the Saguenay river, and his comments re-opened the whole question of the spending of public money for any other purpose than that for which it was voted.

It was shown that the money was voted for dredging and improvements in the Saguenay, but it was used to construct piers at the mouth of the Dumoulin river, seven miles away. On these piers a municipal bridge had been constructed and the charge was that the piers were constructed to enable the municipality to do this work.

Mr. Pugsley's answer did not satisfy the Opposition, especially Mr. Foster. The Minister said the piers were put there to prevent the silt from coming down the Dumoulin and rendering the Saguenay less useful for navigation purposes.

"Are we here," asked Mr. Foster, "to misrepresent and steal? Do we approve of stealing money under false pretences and coming to Parliament to lie about it?"

Mr. Pugsley assured the Opposition that the work had been done before he became a Minister, but he had given directions that in future no work of the kind should be undertaken if the main purpose was to utilize the piers for a highway bridge.

The Conservatives have determined to oppose with vigor the proposal of the Finance Minister to lend $10,000,000 to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

This was decided on at a party caucus yesterday morning. Accordingly, in the House yesterday afternoon, Mr. Borden gave the Minister a long list of questions, to which he said he wished answers before the loan bill was again before the House. The Opposition will be primed with a vast amount of information regarding the cost of the railway to the country, and it will be urged that it would be in the interests of the country to take over the road and complete it as a Government work rather than to "permit the present reckless spending to go on."

CANNOT FIND REVOLVER.

Search For Weapon In Kinrade Case Is Unavailing.

Hamilton, March 18.—All hope of closing the Kinrade inquest on Friday evening has been abandoned, and it is now proposed to adjourn after hearing the medical testimony Friday evening, and probably some other witnesses, until Monday afternoon, and to continue the enquiry until all the evidence that the police have been able to gather is submitted. Unless there are developments it is likely the enquiry will be kept open for some time in the hope that new evidence may be secured.

The police yesterday failed to find any trace of the revolver in the sewer pipe leading from the Kinrade home. It was found that there was no trap, so that there is no obstruction between the house and the sewer.

Miss McLellan, 94 Herkimer street, says that she saw Mrs. Kinrade leaving her home on the afternoon of the murder at about 3.20. She remembers the time because she was waiting for a friend to call. It had been arranged that the friend was to call at 3 o'clock, and she was 25 minutes late. Miss McLellan says she saw Mrs. Kinrade leaving the house a few minutes before the friend called.

Mrs. Rudd, 76 Charles street, who claims to know the Kinrade family well, says she saw Ethel Kinrade pass the corner of Charles and Jackson street at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder.

King Watches Aviator.

Pau, March 18.—King Edward witnessed two flights by Wilbur Wright yesterday afternoon and showed an equal amount of enthusiasm with the other spectators in the remarkable accomplishments of the American aeroplanists.

Mr. Wright made the first ascension alone. He remained in the air for seven minutes, performing marvelous evolutions with the utmost precision around the King and his party, and coming down to the ground without difficulty.

On the second flight, Miss Wright was a passenger. They soared to a great height, and then skimmed along the ground and disappeared in the direction of Pau. They reappeared after an interval of six minutes, descending amid applause — from the King and other visitors.

Corpse In Runaway.

Toronto, March 18.—Pedestrians on Yonge street beheld a gruesome sight near the corner of Agnes street yesterday noon, when a coffin containing a corpse was tumbled out into the roadway from a wagon, in which it was being driven to the Union Station.

Lipi Kroll, Jewish undertaker, 12 Agnes street, was taking the body of a Jew to the station for shipment. His horse, becoming frightened, bolted and threw the occupants off the wagon, living and dead, to the street.

Kroll's nose was broken and his face cut and he was taken to St. Michael's Hospital, while a friend, replacing the ghastly burden in the wagon, drove it to the station.

Sexton Shot Deacon.

Providence, R.I., March 18.—Hostilities between the two Federal factions of the Olney street colored Baptist Church of this city, which culminated Tuesday night when Nelson Morgan, a deacon, was shot during a fight at the church, was continued in the Police Court yesterday. Robert Russell, the sexton of the church, who is charged with the shooting, was held in bonds of $7,000 for trial.

ROUTINE IN LEGISLATURE.

Large Amount of Business Was Done Yesterday.

Toronto, March 18.—The Legislature put through a deal of routine business yesterday. A full representation of out-of-town members enabled many bills to advance, and a considerable portion of the estimates were passed.

J. J. Craig (East Wellington) asked the House to amend the Public Schools Act. Sir William Macdonald had now withdrawn a large part of his support to the Guelph Consolidated School, and the burden on the township was so heavy that there was a danger of the entire system being impaired.

W. D. McPherson moved the second reading of a bill to improve and make certain tax titles.

The Attorney-General said the proposals were valuable, and, even if the bill did not become law this session, it should at any rate be discussed by the legal committee.

A bill to permit chartered banks to receive the amount payable for taxes was given a second reading.

G. W. Sulman moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Municipal Act by defining the word "wholesaler."

Mr. Macdonald moved the second reading of his bill to empower municipalities to produce and sell steam for heating.

In committee of supply the Premier declined repeatedly to permit any part of the estimates under consideration to stand over.

Hon. Mr. Hanna found some difficulty in explaining why London Asylum required about $3,200 for a year's supply of coal now and only $2,000 in 1908.

The Minister of Education was successful in getting most of the estimates through without discussion, and the Provincial Secretary had the sums for maintenance of public institutions passed.

Three bills were introduced to amend the Municipal Act by Messrs. Bradburn, Bowyer and Gallagher.

Husband Deserts on Train.

Kingston, March 18.—A young Jewish woman, named Riverstein, born in Germany, arrived here with her child, both destitute. She says her husband and child were en route to Dakota. When she woke up in the train at Sharbot Lake she found that her husband had deserted her. She will be helped to Toronto.

"WOMEN!"
"Are You Nervous?"
The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be placated till a remedy such as
MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS
come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

Price, 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The oven walls are coated with anti-rust fused aluminum, which coating reflects the heat back into the oven proper. This coating is never affected by the moisture that always accrues from heat.

DAVE HARTLEY RELATES HIS EXPERIENCES IN THE GREAT NEW YORK SIX-DAY GRIND

The Toronto News gives the following interview with David Hartley :—

David Hartley, the famous little pedestrian, of Peterborough, strolled into The News office yesterday afternoon while on his way back from New York City, and told of his experiences there in the big six day go-as-you-please race, held in Madison Square Garden last week.

The little man of iron was not yet entirely over the effects of the gruelling contest, but he stood the test better than many a younger man; in fact he came through the ordeal in fairly good shape. This is all the more remarkable as he was the oldest man entered—he has turned fifty-six years of age—and for four days of the six he was doing practically two men's work. He was struggling along single handed against teams of two men, and that he finished in last place was no disgrace. But if he had had any sort of a partner he would have been up amongst the leaders. He covered exactly 420 miles in the six days. He hooted every inch of this distance. He was paired up with first one and then another contestant during the early stages of the race, but the distance gained by these men was all deducted.

Might Have Come Second

The winners, Cibot and Orphee, went 723 miles and six laps between them, and Hartley figures it out that with a mate he could have finished at least second. Fred Davis, the Hamilton Indian, captured second place. He, too, had lots of hard luck, but at last found a partner, a Greek, who stuck to him.

"That is probably the last six day go-as-youplease that will ever be pulled off in New York City," said Hartley. "These events are far from being as popular as they were twenty years ago, and as a direct result the box office suffered.

"I was lucky to get my expense money. All the men will get their money alright, but the promoters are way out of pocket. They came to me on the Thursday and told me if I finished they would give me my expenses, and they kept their word. They treated us fine, too, even though the affair was a failure. I guess they will be at least $30,000 in the hole when they come to balance up.

Spared No Expense

"You see they sent men all over to get the runners. The promoters sent to France, Italy, Germany, Canada—in fact in every corner of the globe. After the contestants arrived they were paired up by the management if they were alone. Most of them arrived three weeks or a month before the race to train. They had quarters at Coney Island and all their expenses were paid during that time. Then during the race they had a first class restaurant fitted up, right in the Gardens, where the contestants could eat all and anything they wanted. All this counts up, so you see how soon the figures began to climb. Along towards the end of the race it was almost necessary to have two trainers for each man. The promoters paid for all this too.

"I arrived in New York just two hours before the race began and I didn't get a chance to snatch a bit of rest before I started out. When I began to look for my partner, Anthony Higgins, of Montreal, I found that he had not shown up, so I got hold of someont else and we jogged along for a day, taking turns at the grind. He soon gave up as did another young fellow, who took cramps.

Dave Didn't Run

"Then I kept on alone, going for stretches for five and six hours at a good steady pace. I didn't run any although some trotted for a few miles now and again. I was waiting all the time for some one to drop out, but no one was good enough, so they told me to keep on alone to the finish.

"The last day of the race there were many pitiable, yet laughable scenes. None of the men could sleep much with all the excitement and noise going on, and the strain began to tell heavily on them towards the last. One or two almost went crazy. One poor fellow marked out a narrow path in the track and if any of the others stepped on that strip, he would go wild. He often went to the referee about it.

"Then another contestant imagined his competitors were pouring sawdust down his back. There was nothing there but he went to the referee and showed him all the imaginary sawdust. There was one Jew who was struggling along trying to fight against the stiffness which was gradually overcoming him. He would pied on a few steps and then raise his arms over his head, after which he would 'throw himself' forward for a few more feet. Such scenes were awful.

He Got Donation

"At times the fainting men made one think it was a battlefield, but this was what the crowd wanted. Once in a while rich ladies handed me bills while I was going around. The New Yorkers seemed to take a fancy to me as I was so old, and I made quite a lot on these contributions.

"Nearly every one collapsed after the ordeal was over. I lost over 15 lbs. through the race, but I will soon regain this.

"By the way I stayed over to see Svanberg, the Swede, race Pat White, of Dublin, in a ten mile jaunt. They raced on the same track which was about twelve feet wide. I believe White spiked the Swede in the final sprint, as the latter fell when just about 200 yards from the finish, and when he came in his leg was bleeding badly."

Hartley's feet are in pretty good condition considering what he has gone through. Yesterday he was still wearing moccassins to ease them.

FRED WHITCROFT INTERESTED IN A WESTERN PRO. LEAGUE

Regina, March 17.—There is now a movement among Western men to introduce professional hockey into the West and organize a league for Western Canada. This is considered to be the real thing for the provinces. Already the Patrick brothers, of Nelson, Fred Whitcroft, of Edmonton, with J. McCullough, of Calgary, have the scheme in hand, and the question has been talked over in Regina, but no definite opinions given.

Lester Patrick, of Nelson, B. C., has forwarded letters to several persons in the West desiring the opinions of several prominent sport advancers regarding the proposition. He suggests that a convention be held in Calgary during the Provincial Fair at that city, with representatives from Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Strathcona and Saskatoon. He is sure that a league could be started with little cost, and would prove a great drawing card.

This places a gilt edge on the possibilities of bright, first-class hockey in Regina next winter, and there is no reason why the fast material here could not find a place on the team.

Regina could have as good a hockey team as Winnipeg, Edmonton or Nelson.

Calgary seems inclined to favour the proposition, and no doubt Edmonton and Lethbridge would also do so.

What better proposition could the present professional baseball stockholders have for the winter months after the diamond season is over, than to take up the matter of professional hockey and push it through to a successful issue.

FRED SIMPSON IS BARRED FROM "STEPPING" IN BIG MARATHON RACE

Tom Longboat, the Indian.
St. Yves, the Frenchman.
Alf. Shrubb, the Englishman.
J. J. Hayes, the Yankee.
Dorando Pietri, the Italian.

Those are the entries in the Marathon Derby at the Polo Grounds, New York, on April 3.

Marathon Derby?

Why call it the Marathon Derby when good men are left out? Why not let Matt Malone, the conqueror of Pat White, the Irishman and Pat White, in?

? Why not give John Svanberg, the Swede, a chance?

And how about Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt, who is to run Alf. Shrubb at the Armouries Saturday night?

Irrespective of the result of Saturday night's race, Simpson deserves a chance at the Marathon distance.

He beat Longboat in the English Marathon and crossed the tape seventh, and finished as strong as a horse. He is a grand distance runner, and if he entered there would be a whole lot of Canadian money wagered that Canada would win on her team of Indians.

As it stands now the land of the Maple has to depend on "the daddy of them all," with only two weeks to get into condition.

"Why is Simpson barred?" Tom Eck was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply, "they simply won't let him start. I think they really are afraid of him. They know how good he is at the distance."

The dangerous man in the Marathon Derby is the Italian, DDorando.

Shrubb is a whirlwind and may possibly hang on the full distance out doors, but if Dorando steps along the way he did at the Garden Monday night Shrubb won't hold him.

If Longboat is Right

Longboat, in shape, will run over him in 2.48 time, but can the Onondaga marvel get into condition for a 2.48 Marathon journey in two weeks. True his let-up gave him strength and ginger, but how about speed and reserve for such a gruelling as Dorando's recent effort promises the man who heads him.

Tom Longboat arrived in town last night, and announced his intention of training under Tom Eck's supervision along with Fred Simpson. If Longboat will obey Eck implicitly until April he will be in as good condition as mortal man could get him in the time at his disposal.—Toronto Star.

HOCKEY SEASON WAS WOUND UP

Enthusiastic Meeting Was Held at Park Street Church Last Night.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the men of the Park street church and congregation was held last night to wind up the hockey season business, and to hear the report of the energetic secretary-treasurer, Mr. Herbert Reid. The report was most gratifying, showing a balance on the right side.

It was decided to hold a banquet on the evening of the 30th inst., to which representatives of all the church league hockey clubs and others will be invited.

It was also decided, owing to some misunderstanding to change the name of the club from "the South City A. A. A." to the "Park Street Athletic Club" in order that all members of the Club might be eligible to play in any future games of the church league.

The church has also purchased the lot on which the old church building stands and given it over for the use of the men. The pastor of the church, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, who is deeply interested in all that tends to a four-square manhood, occupied the chair, and explained in detail the purpose and motive of the club.

THE TURK GOT TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Hassan Abdallah Won From Fritz Mohl at Riverdale Rink, Toronto.

The Toronto Star says of the Hassan Abdallah - Fritz Mohl bout :—

For ways that are dark and tricks that are wily, the heathen Turk wrestlers are peculiar.

Hassan Abdallah, the Oriental grappler, who took on Fritz Mohl recently at Riverdale Rink, pulled off the "greasy pig" stunt on the German, and all but broke the bout up in a scrap.

The Turk had won the first fall in 6.30, when he shifted from a bar Nelson and took a head lock, but during the resting time he was anointed with camphorated oil. When he came out again the German caught the trick and protested.

"No! No" grunted the swarthy Oriental.

"Ja! Ja" said Fritz.

Referee Harry Rosenthal looked the Turk over, and decided that he had salad oil or some other top dressing on him. The Turk immediately rolled and rubbed himself around the mat like a big dog, and they went on. The Turk got the second fall in 45 minutes.

It was a grand battle. The German outweighed the Turk 46 pounds, but the Oriental, a ball of powerful muscles, picked him up bodily several times and hurled him over his head. Mohl came down like a ton weight, but fortunately escaped broken bones. They had two or three rough clashes, and once in a battle royal following a strangle the Turk slipped in on Mohl. The German, half blinded with sweat, accidentally gathered the referee's leg in along with a chunk of Turk anatomy and brought him down with a bump, much to the joy of the crowd. The Turk is some wrestler, and by his speed and strength showed that he will give Rogers or any other of the near champions a tight fit. He wants to meet Mahmout, who wrestles Yankee Rogers here this week.

FRED WHITCROFT HURT IN GAME

Fred Whitcroft, writing from Edmonton to a friend in Peterborough says: "We beat Moose Jaw here Tuesday 10-8, and last night 8-3. We could have made it twice as much had we wanted to. I got my teeth knocked out playing against the Winnipeg Shamrocks. I just had them put in again and last night I got my lower lip nearly cut off. We go to Winnipeg to play on Monday and Wednesday of next week."

BACHELORS AND BENEDICTS PLAYED

Hockey Game Resulted in a Tie—The Score Was 5-5.

Keene, March 16.—A very fast and exciting hockey match was played in the Keene Skating Arena last night, when the Bachelors and Benedicts clashed for village honours. After a very strenuous struggle the game ended in a tie, 5 all. At half time the Benedicts led 4-0. The game was very fast throughout and showed that Keene has some brilliant material.

The game started with Cobalt Moore and Chittery Gall at centre. Chittery getting the puck, dived for the opponents' goal. He had advanced about five yards when something like a house loomed up in front of him and poor Chittery took the count for five seconds, Waxie McFarlane, seeing his opportunity, made a sudden dive for the puck, side stepped and sat down. Hockey Keneally, official referee, sent him to the fence for two minutes for getting in the way. A lively dispute followed, but Waxie was shown the error of his ways and finally decorated the time keeper's dock.

At the face off Cobalt Moore gained possession, and after a pretty rush unassisted along the boards, scored for the Benedicts in five minutes.

The play after this was very fast, with honours about even, and both goals were often in danger, but the brilliant work of Pony Moore and Singer Norman in the nets kept either team from scoring.

The Benedicts, however, showed better form and team work, and Barber Quinn, after a mix-up in front of the nets, slammed one past Singer in ten minutes.

At this stage of the game both teams began to mix it up and Hockey Keneally had his hands full handing out penalties. Sawbones McWilliams went off for two minutes for falling. Pony Moore got two minutes for resting on his cranium, and Boat House Dainton two minutes for missing the puck. The Benedicts, however, handicapped as they were, pulled themselves together and Trap Shot Dinsdale and Horse Trainer Elmhirst, after some pretty combination work scored in seven minutes.

With only two minutes to play until half time, Cobalt Moore and Waxie McFarlane advanced wedge fashion, carrying the puck between them for another goal, just as referee Hockey Keneally announced the breathing spell.

The half time score: Benedicts 4, Bachelors 0.

After ten minutes hard earned rest the two teams came back strong as ever, the only change being that Disgrace Spiers replaced Boat House Dainton, who evidently found the strenuous life of an athlete too hard.

Chittery got the puck on the face off and was going right through for a goal but the husky form of Saw Bones was in the way and saved. He, however, was put off for two minutes for interfering with Chittery when he was about to score. In the struggle in front of the nets the Bachelors scored their first goal, stout Jack Elmhirst doing the trick.

This seemed to give the Bachelors courage, and inside five minutes had scored four more goals, giving them a lead of one. The Benedicts, however, had no idea of giving up, and just as Hockey Keneally dinged the dong they slammed one past Singer tying the score. The full time score being 5-5.

Line-up :—

Hockey Keneally handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams and kept the rivalry, which has always existed between the two teams, in check.

"My youngest boy, 3 years old, was sick with fever last June, and when he got better the doctor prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and he liked it so well that he drank it out of the bottle, and is now just as plump and strong as any child of his age anywhere . . . two bottles fixed him O.K."—MR. "NOW A STRONG HEALTHY GIRL"
Saved from the Grave by Psychine

Miss May Moore of Teeswater, Ont., says "A year or two ago my health was in a very precarious state. I was just getting over a very bad attack of LA GRIPPE which had left me prostrate. I had a dreadful hacking cough, could not rest day or night because of the pain in my lungs, and frequently brought up a large quantity of blood. I consulted one of the best physicians in our town, and after sounding me thoroughly, he told me that my lungs were in a very bad state, that I was getting rapidly worse, and that Consumption would most assuredly bring me to my grave in the near future."

"My appetite was entirely gone, and I was simply wasting away to a shadow. At nights I used to perspire so that in the morning I could wring the water out of my clothes."

"At last PSYCHINE was recommended to me as a sure cure, and although feeling most discouraged, I determined to give it a trial. I was surprised at the marvellous result. It acted like a charm. My cough was relieved at once, and soon left me altogether, neither did I have a single hemorrhage after taking the PSYCHINE. I began to put on flesh rapidly, so much so that several of my friends could hardly believe that I was the same person. PSYCHINE does its work thoroughly, and it undoubtedly brought me back from the verge of the grave and made me a strong healthy girl."

DAVE HARTLEY RELATES HIS EXPERIENCES IN THE GREAT NEW YORK SIX-DAY GRIND

The Toronto News gives the following interview with David Hartley:—

David Hartley, the famous little pedestrian, of Peterborough, strolled into The News office yesterday afternoon while on his way back from New York City, and told of his experiences there in the big six day go-as-you-please race, held in Madison Square Garden last week.

The little man of iron was not yet entirely over the effects of the gruelling contest, but he stood the test better than many a younger man; in fact he came through the ordeal in fairly good shape. This is all the more remarkable as he was the oldest man entered—he has turned fifty-six years of age—and for four days of the six he was doing practically two men's work. He was struggling along single handed against teams of two men, and that he finished in last place was no disgrace. But if he had had any sort of a partner he would have been up amongst the leaders. He covered exactly 420 miles in the six days. He hooted every inch of this distance. He was paired up with first one and then another contestant during the early stages of the race, but the distance gained by these men was all deducted.

Might Have Come Second

The winners, Cibot and Orphee, went 732 miles and six laps between them, and Hartley figures it out that with a mate he could have finished at least second. Fred Davis, the Hamilton Indian, captured second place. He, too, had lots of hard luck, but at last found a partner, a Greek, who stuck to him.

"That is probably the last six day go-as-you-please that will ever be pulled off in New York City," said Hartley. "These events are far from being as popular as they were twenty years ago, and as a direct result the box office suffered.

"I was lucky to get my expense money. All the men will get their money alright, but the promoters are way out of pocket. They came to me on the Thursday and told me if I finished they would give me my expenses, and they kept their word. They treated us fine, too, even though the affair was a failure. I guess they will be at least $30,000 in the hole when they come to balance up.

Spared No Expense

"You see they sent men all over to get the runners. The promoters sent to France, Italy, Germany, Canada—in fact in every corner of the globe. After the contestants arrived they were paired up by the management if they were alone. Most of them arrived three weeks or a month before the race to train. They had quarters at Coney Island and all their expenses were paid during that time. Then during the race they had a first class restaurant fitted up, right in the Gardens, where the contestants could eat all and anything they wanted. All this counts up, so you see how soon the figures began to climb. Along towards the end of the race it was almost necessary to have two trainers for each man. The promoters paid for all this too.

"I arrived in New York just two hours before the race began and I didn't get a chance to snatch a bit of rest before I started out. When I began to look for my partner, Anthony Higgins, of Montreal, I found that he had not shown up, so I got hold of someone else and we jogged along for a day, taking turns at the grind. He soon gave up as did another young fellow who took cramps.

Dave Didn't Run

"Then I kept on alone, going for stretches for five and six hours at a good steady pace. I didn't run any although some trotted for a few miles now and again. I was waiting all the time for some one to drop out, but no one was good enough, so they told me to keep on alone to the finish.

"The last day of the race there were many pitiable, yet laughable scenes. None of the men could sleep much with all the excitement and noise going on, and the strain began to tell heavily on them towards the last. One or two almost went crazy. One poor fellow marked out a narrow path in the track and if any of the others stepped on that strip, he would go wild. He often went to the referee about it.

"Then another contestant imagined his competitors were pouring sawdust down his back. There was nothing there but he went to the referee and showed him all the imaginary sawdust. There was one Jew who was struggling along trying to fight against the stiffness which was gradually overcoming him. He would plod on a few steps and then raise his arms over his head, after which he would 'throw himself forward for a few more feet. Such scenes were awful.

He Get Donation

"At times the fainting men made one think it was a battlefield, but this was what the crowd wanted. Once in a while rich ladies handed me bills while I was going around. The New Yorkers seemed to take a fancy to me as I was so old, and I made quite a bit on these contributions.

"Nearly every one collapsed after the ordeal was over. I lost over 15 lbs. through the race, but I will soon regain this.

"By the way I stayed over to see Svanberg, the Swede, race Pat White, of Dublin, in a ten mile jaunt. They raced on the same track which was about twelve feet wide. I believe White spiked the Swede in the final sprint, as the latter fell when just about 200 yards from the finish, and when he came in his leg was bleeding badly."

Hartley's feet are in pretty good condition considering what he has gone through. Yesterday he was still wearing moccassins to ease them.

FRED WHITCROFT INTERESTED IN A WESTERN PRO. LEAGUE

Regina, March 17.—There is now a movement among Western men to introduce professional hockey into the West and organize a league for Western Canada. This is considered to be the real thing for the provinces. Already the Patrick brothers, of Nelson, Fred Whitcroft, of Edmonton, with J. McCullough, of Calgary, have the scheme in hand, and the question has been talked over in Regina, but no definite opinions given.

Lester Patrick, of Nelson, B. C., has forwarded letters to several persons in the West desiring the opinions of several prominent sport advancers regarding the proposition. He suggests that a convention be held in Calgary during the Provincial Fair at that city, with representatives from Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Strathcona and Saskatoon. He is sure that a league could be started with little cost, and would prove a great drawing card.

This places a gilt edge on the possibilities of bright, first-class hockey in Regina next winter, and there is no reason why the fast material here could not find a place on the team.

Regina could have as good a hockey team as Winnipeg, Edmonton or Nelson.

Calgary seems inclined to favour the proposition, and no doubt Edmonton and Lethbridge would also do so.

What better proposition could the present professional baseball stockholders have for the winter months after the diamond season is over, than to take up the matter of professional hockey and push it through to a successful issue.

FRED SIMPSON IS BARRED FROM "STEPPING" IN BIG MARATHON RACE

Tom Longboat, the Indian.
St. Yves, the Frenchman.
Alf. Shrubb, the Englishman.
J. J. Hayes, the Yankee.
Dorando Pietri, the Italian.

Those are the entries in the Marathon Derby at the Polo Grounds, New York, on April 3.

Marathon Derby?

Why call it the Marathon Derby when good men are left out? Why not let Matt Malone, the conqueror of Pat White, the Irishman and Pat White, in?

? Why not give John Svanberg, the Swede, a chance?

And how about Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Thunderbolt, who is to run Alf. Shrubb at the Armouries Saturday night?

Irrespective of the result of Saturday night's race, Simpson deserves a chance at the Marathon distance.

He beat Longboat in the English Marathon and crossed the tape seventh, and finished as strong as a horse. He is a grand distance runner, and if he entered there would be a whole lot of Canadian money wagered that Canada would win on her team of Indians.

As it stands now the land of the Maple has to depend on "the daddy of them all," with only two weeks to get into condition.

"Why is Simpson barred?" Tom Eck was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply, "they simply won't let him start. I think they really are afraid of him. They know how good he is at the distance."

The dangerous man in the Marathon Derby is the Italian, DDorando.

Shrubb is a whirlwind and may possibly hang on the full distance out doors, but if Dorando steps along the way he did at the Garden Monday night Shrubb won't hold him.

If Longboat is Right

Longboat, in shape, will run over him in 2.48 time, but can the Onondaga marvel get into condition for a 2.45 Marathon journey in two weeks. True his let-up gave him strength and ginger, but how about speed and reserve for such a gruelling as Dorando's recent effort promises the man who heads him.

Tom Longboat arrived in town last night, and announced his intention of training under Tom Eck's supervision along with Fred Simpson. If Longboat will obey Eck implicitly until April he will be in as good condition as mortal man could get him in the time at his disposal.—Toronto Star.

HOCKEY SEASON WAS WOUND UP

Enthusiastic Meeting Was Held at Park Street Church Last Night.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the men of the Park street church and congregation was held last night to wind up the hockey season business, and to hear the report of the energetic secretary-treasurer, Mr. Herbert Reid. The report was most gratifying, showing a balance on the right side.

It was decided to hold a banquet on the evening of the 30th inst., to which representatives of all the church league hockey clubs and others will be invited.

It was also decided, owing to some misunderstanding to change the name of the club from "the South City A. A. A." to the "Park Street Athletic Club" in order that all members of the Club might be eligible to play in any future games of the church league.

The church has also purchased the lot on which the old church building stands and given it over for the use of the men. The pastor of the church, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, who is deeply interested in all that tends to a four-square manhood, occupied the chair, and explained in detail the purpose and motive of the club.

THE TURK GOT TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Hassan Abdallah Won From Fritz Mohl at Riverdale Rink, Toronto.

The Toronto Star says of the Hassan Abdallah - Fritz Mohl bout:—

For ways that are dark and tricks that are wily, the heathen Turk wrestlers are peculiar.

Hassan Abdallah, the Oriental grappler, who took on Fritz Mohl recently at Riverdale Rink, pulled off the "greasy pig" stunt on the German, and all but broke the bout up in a scrap.

The Turk had won the first fall in 6.30, when he shifted from a bar Nelson and took a head lock, but during the resting time he was anointed with camphorated oil. When he came out again the German caught the trick and protested.

"No! No" grunted the swarthy Oriental.

"Ja! Ja" said Fritz.

Referee Harry Rosenthal looked the Turk over, and decided that he had salad oil or some other top dressing on him. The Turk immediately rolled and rubbed himself around the mat like a big dog, and they went on. The Turk got the second fall in 45 minutes.

It was a grand battle. The German outweighed the Turk 46 pounds, but the Oriental, a ball of powerful muscles, picked him up bodily several times and hurled him over his head. Mohl came down like a ton weight, but fortunately escaped broken bones. They had two or three rough clashes, and once in a battle royal following a strangle the Turk slipped in on Mohl. The German, half blinded with sweat, accidentally gathered the referee's leg in along with a chunk of Turk anatomy and brought him down with a bump, much to the joy of the crowd. The Turk is some wrestler, and by his speed and strength showed that he will give Rogers or any other of the near champions a tight fit. He wants to meet Mahmout, who wrestles Yankee Rogers here this week.

FRED WHITCROFT HURT IN GAME

Fred Whitcroft, writing from Edmonton to a friend in Peterborough says: "We beat Moose Jaw here Tuesday 10-8, and last night 8-3. We could have made it twice as much had we wanted to. I got my teeth knocked out playing against the Winnipeg Shamrocks. I just had them put in again and last night I got my lower lip nearly cut off. We go to Winnipeg to play on Monday and Wednesday of next week."

BACHELORS AND BENEDICTS PLAYED

Hockey Game Resulted in a Tie—The Score Was 5-5.

Keene, March 16.—A very fast and exciting hockey match was played in the Keene Skating Arena last night, when the Bachelors and Benedicts clashed for village honours. After a very strenuous struggle the game ended in a tie, 5 all. At half time the Benedicts led 4-0. The game was very fast throughout and showed that Keene has some brilliant material.

The game started with Cobalt Moore and Chittery Gall at centre. Chittery getting the puck, dived for the opponents' goal. He had advanced about five yards when something like a house loomed up in front of him and poor Chittery took the count for five seconds, Waxie McFarlane, seeing his opportunity, made a sudden dive for the puck, side stepped and sat down. Hockey Kenealy, official referee, sent him to the fence for two minutes for getting in the way. A lively dispute followed, but Waxie was shown the error of his ways and finally decorated the time keeper's dock.

At the face off Cobalt Moore gained possession, and after a pretty rush unassisted along the boards, scored for the Benedicts in five minutes.

The play after this was very fast, with honours about even, and both goals were often in danger, but the brilliant work of Pony Moore and Singer Norman in the nets kept either team from scoring.

The Benedicts, however, showed better form and team work, and Barber Quinn, after a mix-up in front of the nets, slammed one past Singer in ten minutes.

At this stage of the game both teams began to mix it up and Hockey Kenealy had his hands full handing out penalties. Sawbones McWilliams went off for two minutes for failing. Pony Moore got two minutes for resting on his cranium, and Boat House Dainton two minutes for missing the puck. The Benedicts, however, handicapped as they were, pulled themselves together and Trap Shot Dinsdale and Horse Trainer Elmhirst, after some pretty combination work scored in seven minutes.

With only two minutes to play until half time, Cobalt Moore and Waxie McFarlane advanced wedge fashion, carrying the puck between them for another goal, just as referee Hockey Kenealy announced the breathing spell.

The half time score: Benedicts 4, Bachelors 0.

After ten minutes hard earned rest the two teams came back strong as ever, the only change being that Disgrace Spiers replaced Boat House Dainton, who evidently found the strenuous life of an athlete too hard.

Chittery got the puck on the face off and was going right through for a goal but the husky form of Saw Bones was in the way and saved. He, however, was put off for two minutes for interfering with Chittery when he was about to score. In the struggle in front of the nets the Bachelors scored their first goal, about Jack Elmhirst doing the trick.

This seemed to give the Bachelors courage, and inside five minutes had scored four more goals, giving them a lead of one. The Benedicts, however, had no idea of giving up, and just as Hockey Kenealy dinged the dong they slammed one past Singer tying the score. The full time score being 5-5.

Hockey Kenealy handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams and kept the rivalry, which has always existed between the two teams, in check.

"NOW A STRONG HEALTHY GIRL"

Saved from the Grave by Psychine

Miss May Moore of Teeswater, Ont., says "A year or two ago my health was in a very precarious state. I was just getting over a very bad attack of LA GRIPPE which had left me prostrate. I had a dreadful hacking cough, could not rest day or night because of the pain in my lungs, and frequently brought up a large quantity of blood. I consulted one of the best physicians in our town, and after sounding me thoroughly, he told me that my lungs were in a very bad state, that I was getting rapidly worse, and that Consumption would most assuredly bring me to my grave in the near future."

"My appetite was entirely gone, and I was simply wasting away to a shadow. At nights I used to perspire so that in the morning I could wring the water out of my clothes."

"At last PSYCHINE was recommended to me as a sure cure, and although feeling most discouraged, I determined to give it a trial. I was surprised at the marvellous result. It acted like a charm. My cough was relieved at once, and soon left me altogether, neither did I have a single hemorrhage after taking the PSYCHINE. I began to put on flesh rapidly, so much so that several of my friends could hardly believe that I was the same person. PSYCHINE does its work thoroughly, and it undoubtedly brought me back from the verge of the grave and made me a strong healthy girl."

PSYCHINE is the greatest strength restorer and system builder known to medical science, and should be used for Consns, Colds, Weak Lungs, Wasting Diseases, Loss of Appetite, Weariness, etc. All druggists and stores sell PSYCHINE, 50c and $1 bottle. Threw Man Through Window Breaking Sash And Glass

The residents of Aylmer street, between Simcoe and Charlotte, were given a bad scare last night, between eleven and twelve o'clock. Seven young men, who, it is said, were more or less intoxicated, made themselves exceedingly troublesome by their conduct. They entered one house, but did not remain long inside, the screams of a woman evidently frightening them away. They then came up the street a little farther and started to dance and sing on a verandah of another residence. At the house at the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe streets, they became destructive, and, picking up one of their gang, they threw him through a window, breaking the sash and several panes of glass.

The police, it is understood, have the names of the young men, and a police court case will likely follow.

Driving Rod On Engine Broken And The Engineer Was Hurt

A fatality, on the G. T. R. train number twenty-four, which is due here at nine o'clock, was narrowly averted last night. An accident occurred near Mariposa, as a result of which the engine driver, Mr. Peter McCluskey, received painful but not serious injuries. The driving rod became broken, swinging around and badly wrecking the cab of the engine. Mr. McCluskey was struck in the leg and it was almost miraculous that he was not killed.

He was brought to Lindsay, where his injuries were attended. The train was delayed nearly two hours, not arriving here until ten minutes to eleven, the wrecked engine having to be replaced.

MARINERS BEAT THE EUREKAS

Won an Interesting Basketball Game at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

An interesting game was played in the City Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the Mariners defeated the Eurekas by a score of 31-21. It was a hard fought and well played game and the first half especially was very close, the winners having a margin of only two points at half time. The Mariners, however, drew away in the second half and won handily. A number of new men were in the game and made good showing. Mr. S. Collings refereed and gave every satisfaction. The teams were as follows:—

Mariners.—Hardy and Fox, defence; Laing, centre; Evans and Miller, forwards.

Eurekas.—Martin and Parrott, defence; Downes, centre; Frowde and Meldrum, forwards.

The Maple Leafs and Tigers will play the second game in the Saturday night League, on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

HOCKEY

To-night the Chieftains hook up with Bridgenorth seven in a game at Brock street rink between 8 and 9 o'clock. It will be a case of a light and fast team against a heavy, hard-checking aggregation and should furnish an interesting hour's play.

• • • •

The Lindsay Collegiate team will play the seven representing the local Collegiate here on Saturday afternoon, and an interesting game is expected. The Lindsay team beat Peterborough last Saturday in Lindsay by 8 goals to 4, but the locals are confident that they can reverse the score here. It will be fast hockey all the way if the present weather conditions hold out until Saturday.

• • • •

The Lindsay Warder seems all worked up over the reference in The Examiner to the Lindsay hockey team. But somehow, there is nothing in their heated retort to show why they sidestepped that offer from the picked juniors to play a game in Toronto. Surely the "fastest amateur team in Ontario" is not afraid to tackle a bunch of juniors.

That claim of the Lindsay Warder's that Lindsay is probably the fastest amateur team in Ontario will surely make some of the team sit up and take notice. Let us see, wasn't there a team representing Queen's University which went down to Ottawa and gathered in the Allen Cup, emblematic of the Canadian amateur championship? And then there is that little coterie of Irishmen who captured the Senior O. H. A. championship. Then, too, that bunch of Stratford juniors can't be overlooked, and the Kingston Soldiers, and a few others that might be mentioned when it comes to figure out the fastest team in Ontario. Lindsay would need a line-up of seven Koyls to head off some of those teams, and the Midgets are not all Koyls by any means.

• • • •

The Lindsay Warder says:

Well done, Examiner! Go right at it and tell how great the Peterborough hockey team once was.

Kingston did beat the Petes and so the soldiers must be king pins. That's deduction worthy of Sherlock Holmes.

The truth is that St. Mikes were never challenged until an article in the Toronto Telegram mentioned that the senior champions were willing and anxious to play the other O. H. A. champion teams. The Lindsay at once came forward with an acceptation of the challenge only to find that St. Mikes did not want to play. No mention of "cold feet," etc., was made and Lindsay accepted the ruling of St. Michael's management in a sportsmanlike way.

Whether Lindsay can or cannot beat St. Mikes is a question that only a game between the two can decide. When the Peterborough Examiner says Lindsay cannot the statement is by no means authoritative. There are more things happening in this world than The Examiner ever dreamed of. Of course, what prompts the statement to come from Peterborough is that the Kingston Soldiers once beat the crack Peterborough intermediate team and St. Mikes beat Kingston this year. Experts admit that the soldiers have gone back, though, and one of their best men, Van Horne, was off. St. Mikes won from them this year. Think it over Peterborough and hand out something better.

RUNNING.

Toronto, March 18.—The demand for tickets when the seat plan at Baxter's opened for the Shrubb-Simpson son race indicates the keen interest that is felt in the good distance runners. Toronto people, though loyal supporters of the sport, have had little opportunity to see the men at home, and the Armouries will be thronged on Saturday night, but the place is so big that there should be opportunity for all who desire to witness the contest. The Englishman has hosts of admirers here, and he will undoubtedly set himself to give the opposition a taste of his quality. The forces opposed to him now include Longboat and "Red Hawk" Jackson, these two Indians having turned in to do all in their power to have the Hiawatha tribesman at his best on Saturday. It would be a proud night for the red race if Simpson should surpass Longboat by beating Shrubb at the white man's own distance.

The officials for the race will be:—Starter, Gen. Cotton; referee, Col. Sir Henry Pellatt; timers, Rev. J. D. Morrow, Louis Scholes, Thomas Flanagan and Sergt. W. H. Grant; judges, Maj. J. A. Currie, M.P., and Controller J. J. Ward; scorers, Capt. Michell, Capt. Darling and Capt. Biggs.

Only officials and ushers will be in uniform. About fifty of the latter will have charge of the seating of the crowd. The Band of the Grenadiers will play during the evening.

HEROISM OF NINE YEAR OLD GIRL RECOGNIZED

Jennie McCann, Ill With Fever, Saved Nine Lives From Drowning.

Examiner Special.

New York, March 19.—This city is splendidly stocked with heroes, real heroes, of flood, field, and fire, and most of them admit that their honours came to them unexpectedly and by mere accident, but one of the most remarkable is Miss Jennie McCann, a modest girl whom the United States has just summoned to Washington to receive a gold medal awarded to her for having saved nine lives. Several years ago the excursion steamer General Slocum was destroyed by fire, as were many of her passengers who were not drowned. Jennie McCann, then only fourteen years old and just convalescing from typhoid fever, was living on an island near the steamer's course. Seeing the moving mass of flame she hurried to the shore and out into the water, where she rescued, one by one, nine different children who had jumped overboard or had been thrown over in the hope that drowning might be a less agonizing death than burning. It wasn't the kind of job that a doctor or a whole college of doctors would have selected for a slight girl who had been down with typhoid fever, but it was one that needed to be done and she was the only person at hand to do it, so she does not yet understand why such a fuss is made over her and why the leaders of both Houses of Congress thought it an honour to be asked to be present at the formal giving of the medal. As to the children who were rescued and are now old enough to have heard of heroic women, they think more highly of Jennie McCann than of Boadicea and Ida Lewis and Florence Nightingale and Joan of Arc combined, and their parents and friends are of the same state of mind.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY DRINKING CARBOLIC ACID

Examiner Special.

Philadelphia, March 19.—With his wife on her knees before him begging him to stop, John Murphy, twenty-one years old, committed suicide to-day by drinking carbolic acid. The woman, with their three months old baby in her arms, struggled to gain possession of the bottle, but her husband knocked her down.

A little while before he ended his life Murphy tauntingly reminded his wife that she had consumption, and said the baby also was afflicted, and that he believed he himself had contracted it from her. If he was sure of it, he said, he would not live an hour longer.

The couple were first cousins. The parents of both had forbidden the marriage, but they eloped to Camden fourteen months ago and were married.

Last midnight Murphy came home fagged out and heart sick over lack of steady employment and began quarrelling with his wife.

"You've got consumption," he growled, "and so has the baby. I wouldn't be surprised if I had caught it from you. If I thought I had I wouldn't live an hour longer."

Then he placed a bottle on the table. It bore the label "carbolic acid." Mrs. Murphy would have secured the bottle had not her husband felled her by a blow with his fist. Then he drank the acid and soon he was dead.

Why $15,000 Power By-law Should Be Supported By The Ratepayers Of The City

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—We wish, on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the by-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter for providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the water works property, asked the Council to submit a by-law to the electors for that purpose, which the Council has done. At the same time the Commissioners informed the Council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1,200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the water works department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the Council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when the work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to install the electrical machinery. The would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the by-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the by-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1,275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the water works department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once, and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work the City will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the Committee and the Council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed)
H. RUSH,
Mayor.

Chairman Power Committee.

Paralytic Woman Lay For Two Days Near Dead Body Of Husband

New York, March 19.—The body of Prof. Abraham Zadieson, a veteran music teacher, of No. 168 Boerum street, Williamsburg, was found yesterday on the floor close to the bed on which lay his paralytic wife, aged seventy. The aged woman had been powerless to aid her devoted husband Thursday night when he was stricken with apoplexy, and no help came until Saturday morning.

Zadieson was seventy-three years old and had lived in the Boerum street house for half a dozen years. He was a white haired, white bearded little old man, who loved his wife as much as he did his music, and who was beloved by his pupils and all others who knew him well. He was said to have owned valuable securities, jewels of worth and a considerable amount of cash safely banked.

Last Thursday night the neighbours heard Zadieson practising on the antiquated piano which was the chief ornament in a studio resembling the music room in David Warfield's play "The Music Master." Following his custom he played until late. Suddenly the notes died out. Then irregular footsteps were heard and all was still. It is thought that the old musician was stricken as he sat at the piano and that he died as he reached his wife's room.

It was Zadieson's daily habit to go out and buy food for his wife and himself, and when nothing was seen of him on Friday it was considered very strange. Neighbours decided yesterday to determine the cause of the trouble, and finding the front door of the apartment unlocked they opened it. On the floor at the threshold of his wife's room the man lay dead.

While the neighbours were waiting for the police, a man about fifty years old who called upon Zadieson from time to time, appeared and began to rummage in a bureau drawer. He said he was looking for a will. He was ordered out and was gone when a policeman from the Stagg street station took charge of the apartment.

On the open piano was Handel's "Largo" which Zadieson had been playing when he was stricken. It was said last night that Mrs. Zadieson will probably be removed to St. Catherine's Hospital. According to the police she has been demented for a long time and it is considered doubtful if she will long survive her husband.

WOMEN GETTING MEN'S POSITIONS

Competition Grows Keener in New York Between the Sexes.

Examiner Special.

New York, March 19.—A lot of women in this city are savagely down on men's rights, for they insist that men have already required too many rights, one of which is to get high price positions which used to be filled by men only. Certainly there never was a time in New York when a man had to think so much and hustle so hard to keep his place, if any competent woman wants it. Such competition used to be laughed at, for employers of men clerks, etc., seemed to think gray looks an evidence of business ability, but a man is never too old to cut his mental eye-teeth, and many highly paid desks in offices and other business houses are now being won by women solely on their merits. The professions thought themselves exempt from such competition, but the other day an unmarried woman, only twenty-seven years old, but fully diplomaed as a physician was put in supreme charge of one of our great hospitals. Where next?

THE RACEWAY BEING CLEARED OF UNDERBRUSH

Men are engaged along the bank of the old raceway in cutting down the underbrush and the old willow trees. This is something that will be greatly appreciated as all along this has been a resting place for tramps in the summer time and when some of the trees are taken away, it will not be such a desirable place for loungers about.

MANY CASES HERE OF RHEUMATISM

Noted Authority Tells People How To Get Relief at Small Cost.

A SIMPLE HOME REMEDY

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, colour or rank, will be interested to know that while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system, which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure, become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

EARLY DAYS OF THE PLAINS

VANCOUVER MAN TELLS INTERESTING STORIES.

G. S. McConnell, Who Was Once With the Northwest Mounted Police, Recounts the Rounding-Up of the Indians When C. P. R. Went Through—How Loud Voice Started to Pay Court to Marquis of Lorne.

"When I read in the financial and commercial reviews of 1908 of the tremendous progress that the West has made in the past year I am tempted to look back on those days when a few men were employed in the work of preparing the illimitable prairies of the great Northwest for the advent of the farmer and the tradesman," remarked Mr. G. S. McConnell a few days ago to The Vancouver Province.

For a number of years Mr. McConnell was engaged with the Northwest Mounted Police, and subsequently, with the Indian Department in clearing the plains of the redskins and rounding them up into reserves, where they could be watched over by the officers of the Dominion Government.

"It was a great and important chapter in Canadian history of which I, in some small part, was called upon to assist," said Mr. McConnell reminiscently. "I was a constable with the mounted police when the word was sent from Ottawa to get the Indians of the Northwest congregated together on reserves preparatory to the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That was before 1880, and the Indians living in the district where Regina and Moose Jaw now stand were little less than bands of painted savages, and many of them, in addition, arrant horse thieves. So you will see that we had no light task before us to carry out the mandate of the Dominion Government.

"There was one Indian in particular with whom we had a great deal of trouble in the early stages of the game. This was the notorious chief Whitecap, who was always a thorn in the side of law and order.

"One of the tribes which we had been looking after complained to our Commander, Major Walsh, a native of Brockville, now deceased, that Whitecap was stealing the horses of his enemies. The major sent a peremptory order to the chief to send back the horses, and to deliver the thieves into custody. The chief laughed at the claim, and tauntingly replied that he would make mincemeat of the major and his followers if he dared to come near the camp in search of the horses or the thieves.

"Whitecap had a muster roll of some eighteen hundred warriors, but Major Walsh, nothing daunted, turned out at night with twenty-five constables, myself being one, and ordering four wagons to follow, headed the detachment straight for the renegade chief's camp.

"It was just midnight when we quitted our camp, and by dawn we were on a knoll that overlooked Whitecap's fifteen hundred tepees. The word was given, and we galloped for the middle of the camp where the chief's tepee was situated. Here we dismounted and surrounded the wigwam. A few curt commands were given, and in fifteen minutes we had possession of the thieves without a shot being fired. They were handcuffed and thrown into the wagons which were already waiting for their reception, and we were soon mounted and galloping back again toward our camp. This is a sample of the way hostile Indians were dealt with.

"Although, in the majority of cases, Mr. McConnell got along peaceably with the Indians, there were one or two occasions when relations became strained. One of these was at the time of the visit of the Marquis of Lorne to the Northwest. A circular had been sent to the Indian agents telling them not to permit the Indians to take away any of their cattle from the reserves as the constant marching about to which the animals were subjected by their owners whenever they got the opportunity to exercise them was calculated to reduce their flesh and pave the way to a famine in the winter time.

"Loud Voice, a famous chief of the Crees, had ideas of his own about etiquette and ceremonies," said Mr McConnell. "He declared his intention of taking all the cattle on the establishment with him to pay his respects to the marquis, and gave it out around the reserve in the Crooked Hills that he would march the beasts fifty miles to meet the marquis and would march all that remained after the feast he proposed giving all the way back again.

"He refused to be reasoned with and hinted that if I made any move to stop him, there would be trouble.

"According to his promise, he started out from the reserve one afternoon followed by three hundred braves, each one leading a choice head of cattle. I watched the procession go over the hill, and then mounted my broncho and rode out after them. I gained the head of the column and, as each brute passed, I cut the leading rope, the Indians offering no resistance, while the chief rode on ahead on his big broncho without once looking behind him.

"As soon as all the ropes were cut I headed the cattle back toward the reserve while the Indians marched stolidly after their chief.

"One of my Indians took a great fancy to a naval uniform worn by one of the marquis' entourage, and being a chief, he asked the marquis to send out similar uniforms for the whole of his tribe. His wishes were complied with and a few months later the unique spectacle was witnessed of a thousand warriors attired in old English naval uniforms that, judging from their cut, saw service about the time of the Napoleonic wars."

The Season's Fashions

The care with which we select our fabrics is another reason why we have always won the approval of men who admire cultured dress.

Among the mass of patterns shown, you will find the Semi-ready fabrics very smart indeed.

For business men we are showing some really new designs, personally selected by our resident buyer in England, and passed upon for approval by our designers.

Suits at $25 and $30 that bear the trade mark of distinction in style and in design. Some good suits, too, at $18 and $20. Sacks in three, four and five buttons, single-breasted.

The English Three R's.

We are constantly being misunderstood by the foreigners, says Clarence Rook, and the Frenchman of whom the following story is told contrived to do us something less than justice.

He had been on a visit to this country in order to study at first hand the social manners of the English people.

On returning to his native land he was asked by a friend whether he had discovered the meaning of the mysterious "three R's."

"Oh, I found out what they were on the first day of my visit!" said he.

"And what are they, then?"

"Ripplu', rotten and right-o!" replied the triumphant Frenchman.—London Mail.

Had Them Tested.

The loss and recovery of a $6,500 pearl necklace recall the story of a similar experience which a New York woman had after the last Old Guard ball. She also missed her necklace when she arrived at her home, and the next day it was brought to her by a woman who had shared her carriage on her way home. Handing the necklace to her friend, the finder said: "So glad I found it. We always thought they were real."

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

OBEYED THE DOCTOR.

Did His Best in Keeping a Watch Upon the Patient.

The late Dr. Drummond, the habitant poet, once related an amusing anecdote indicative of the simplicity of the rural French Canadian.

He was summering in Megantic county, Que., when, early one evening, he was visited by a young farmer named Ovide Leblanc.

"Bon soir, docteur," said Ovide by way of greeting. "Ma brudder Moise, heem ver' seeck. You come on d'house for see heem, doc?"

Drummond, always kind hearted and obliging, complied with the request of Ovide and found the unfortunate Moise suffering from what he diagnosed as a fairly severe case of typhoid.

"Wishing to provide Moise with some medicine," said the doctor-poet, "I asked Ovide to accompany me back to the village. The prescription compounded, I proceeded to instruct Ovide. The dose was to be administered every three hours during the night, and, trying to be as brief, plain and explicit as possible, I said: 'Be sure and keep watch on Moise tonight and give him a teaspoonful of this at 9 o'clock, 12 o'clock and at 3 and 6 in the morning. Come and see me about 9 o'clock in the morning.'"

Ovide understood and departed. The following morning he again presented himself, and Drummond asked: "How's Moise? Did you do as I told you?"

"Ma brudder Moise, I t'ink he some better dan las' night," replied Ovide. "I give heem de medecine, but I doan have no watch in d'house, doc. I tak d'leetle clock—d'one what mak d'beeg deesturb for get up. I keep eet on bees ches' all night. T'ink eet do heem good dat, jus' lak d'watch. W'at you t'ink, doc?"

THE QUEEN BEE.

Her Household Service the Most Perfect in the World.

"We must go to the bee for the real solution of the servant question," said a housewife. "The queen bee's service is the most perfect in the world. Why, she even has servants who digest her food for her.

"The queen bee is so entirely occupied in egg laying—she lays 2,500 eggs, twice her own weight, daily—that all other things must be done for her.

"And so a corps of servants makes her toilet. This corps all day long cleans and brushes and polishes her person. It is as though her life were passed divinely in a beautiful parlor.

"Another corps of servants has charge of the air she breathes. The air must be the purest, that her eggs may be the finest. So, standing in a circle about her, fanning with their wings, these bees make a living ventilating system.

"Her most important servants are perhaps her feeders. Their training may be said to begin before birth, since they must be born, from specially molded eggs, with glands in their heads for the reception of bee milk, the chosen predigested food of the queen. The feeders stand always at attention, presenting, like a brimming cup, their head glands, swollen with predigested food, to the queen bee, busy at her task of laying a dozen eggs a minute."

Good Reason Why.

The Woman Hater—Can you explain why it is that a woman hardly ever thanks a man for giving her his seat in a street car? The Man Hater—Easily, sir! It's because she hardly ever gets the chance.—Brooklyn Life.

THOUGHTS IN DREAMS

Startling Rapidity With Which the Mind Works In Sleep.

SOME STRANGE EXPERIENCES

The Events of a Whole Lifetime May Flit Past the Dreamer in a Few Moments—Queer Results of a Dream Experiment by a Noted Psychologist.

A characteristic of dreams which, as the rather materialistic Dr. Clarke says, "hints at a life that has neither beginning nor end and is bounded by no limits which human thoughts can compass" is the rapidity with which events happen in the dream world. Thus, when asleep and dreaming, we live an entire lifetime in a minute; in a space of time that is scarcely more than a second we pass through experiences that could not be duplicated in this objective sphere in hours, perhaps in years.

Count Lavalette relates that one night, when imprisoned and under sentence of death, he dreamed that he stood for five hours at a Paris street corner, where he witnessed a continuous succession of harrowing scenes of blood, every one of which wrought his soul to the highest pitch of excitement. When he woke he found that he had been asleep less than two minutes.

In a more recent experiment, made expressly to test the truth of these theories, the subject was aroused from sleep by a few drops of water being sprinkled upon his forehead. It took but an instant to accomplish this result, and yet in that incalculably brief space of time the man dreamed of going on an excursion; of an accident by which he was plunged into a lake, and during the long struggle to escape death that followed all the experiences of his life seemed to flash before him, just as they are said to appear to a person who is actually drowning.

Dreams are tricksters. Professor Titchener of Cornell university told with gusto of his experience. As a specialist in psychology he interested himself in dreams. Like a true scientist, he once set about gathering data. He wanted to know what caused dreams, where they came from, what they meant, and all that. He determined to watch himself when he slept and to awake himself at once when he found himself dreaming something of value. So, with a notebook on a writing table near his bed, he forced himself to waken for several nights and to write down, while the dream impressions were vivid, his remembrances of the details and by a study of the room, the bed and his physical condition to attempt to arrive at the possible causes of his dreams.

He was getting on famously. One night he had a particularly vivid dream. In accordance with his practice, he forced himself to awake and immediately write down clearly everything about it, then went back to sleep again. The next morning he arose and was astounded to see that his note sheet was blank. He remembered positively the notes he had set down thereon in the middle of the preceding night. The next night again he wrote down his notes after his dreams, only to have the same uncanny sensation the next morning at finding nothing recorded.

The strange circumstances set him to pondering. That night he impressed upon his mind before dropping off into slumber that he must awaken with his first dream, or, if not with that, with his second dream. Subsequently this strong antesleeping command delivered to himself was present all through his dream consciousness. When the first scenes of a vivid dream came before his fancy he felt himself awaken, and he set about writing down the facts upon the pad at his table.

It was then that from some source of inner consciousness he felt the command again to awake, although he seemed at the time to be in full possession of his normal faculties. His eyes opened, and the secret was out. He found himself lying in bed, where he had been all that night. His rising after each dream had become so much a routine that he had dreamed that he had arisen and had made the notes, and his dream was so clear that it seemed reality.

Have You an Unhealthy Skin

IMMEDIATELY your dress or your coat shows sign of wear, you pay attention to it, and have it repaired or renewed. As soon as your gloves wear into holes, you get others.

The mere dead covering to your body, which you can put on and take off, you attend to promptly; but what about your skin itself? Your skin surely calls for more attention than the dead fabrics which cover part of it. You don't give it as much attention, yet you expect it to wear better! See the unwisdom of this?

Winter is just passing. Its cold has split rocks, scarred mountain passes, and iron posts. Yet the delicate fabric of your skin, with its minute pores and blood vessels, its "irrigation system," its "breathing holes," has had to weather it as best it could! You have passed from zero cold to hot rooms; and from hot rooms to freezing air! All tells on the skin.

Can you wonder that you find it blotchy, and with red spots and dark patches here and there? Are you surprised that you have sores, rawness, and chafed places? Perhaps some old sore has again broken out on some part of your body or some eczema patch is again irritating and paining you. Probably some hidden sore, the result of blood-poisoning, while all unseen and unknown to your friends, is causing you torture day after day!

Let Zam-Buk give you relief. It is made from the healing herbal balms and juices which Nature herself has provided. Zam-Buk is Nature's emollient; Nature's healing and soothing balm. Not only does it possess a natural affinity for the skin, but the skin has an affinity for Zam-Buk. Most of the common salves and embrocations never get beneath the hard cuticle. They are too coarse to be absorbed. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, is readily absorbed; and wherever the skin is injured by accident or eaten by disease, Zam-Buk promotes the growth of new, healthy tissue.

In a sentence, the secret of a clear, smooth, healthy skin, both on face and body, is—keep Zam-Buk handy, and use it daily.

MOTHER GRATEFUL FOR CHILD'S CURE.

MRS. GEORGE BOORMAN, of 906, Selkirk Ave., Winnipeg, says:—"Pimples and sores broke out all over my little girl's face and hands. It was impossible to keep her from rubbing or picking at these sores, and this naturally set up much pain and inflammation. First one ointment and then another was used, but there was no noticeable improvement. A neighbour advised me to try Zam-Buk, and leave off all other remedies. I did as she advised, and a few applications of Zam-Buk soothed the pain and allayed the inflammation. Gradually every scab and pimple disappeared, and the sores were soon healed completely, leaving the child's face smooth and white."

Zam-Buk is a positive and certain cure for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, scabs, chapped hands, cold cracks, chilblains, ringworm, scalp sores, bad leg, diseased ankles and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse the harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

THEY WANT ONE ELECTION DAY

Conservatives Argue Against Deferred Contests.

DEFEATED ON PARTY VOTE

Martin Burrell Introduces Resolution as Amendment to Motion to Go Into Supply, and Government Is Forced to Defeat It—Geographical Conditions Make Universal Date an Impossibility.

Ottawa, March 19.—The question of whether there should be any exceptions to the rule of holding the general election on the same day throughout the Dominion gave rise to a debate in the Commons yesterday which was marked by effective speaking on both sides of the House. It arose on a resolution by Mr. Burrell, member for Yale-Cariboo, one of the constituencies where the election is deferred, who sought to have the principle affirmed that "for the purpose of enabling the electors to exercise the full rights and privileges of their franchise the general elections should be held on the same day throughout all the Provinces of the Dominion."

It is the established Parliamentary practice that when a resolution is moved as an amendment to the motion to go into supply the Government are entitled to regard it as a motion of no confidence, and in electing to take that course Mr. Burrell placed the Government in a position in which they had no alternative but to reject the amendment.

Burrell moved "that the House is of the opinion that for the purpose of enabling the electors to exercise the full rights and privileges of their franchise, the general elections should be held on the same day throughout all the provinces of Canada." Under the system of deferred elections the franchise was "a crippled, a maimed thing, which has been robbed of half its value." He would not take the ground that in the past all deferred elections had been unjustified, but he did hold that the 4,000 electors in constituencies where elections had been deferred had been practically disfranchised. The opinion of these people had been stifled.

It was possible to hold all the elections on the same day. In 1900 the Yale-Cariboo election was simultaneous with the others. In 1908 the election was deferred.

Mr. Burrell advocated a fixed term as in the United States.

Mr. Congdon (Yukon) said the matter was not one of fair play or justice, but one of geographical considerations. He agreed that the elections should all be held on the same day, but it was not practical in the Yukon, and he proposed to submit some amendments to the election act to provide that the returning officer may be communicated with by telegraph.

Mr. Fielding said the principle of simultaneous polling was accepted by all parties, but owing to geographical conditions it was impracticable. Mr. Burrell had adopted the way which was the least calculated to bring about the reform desired. He could have introduced a bill to remove the exceptions to the act, but he chose to take another position and introduce a resolution which must be regarded as a want of confidence motion.

Mr. Monk recalled instances of Government supporters submitting a grievance in this way and the Government accepted the resolution with good grace. Deferred elections were a substantial grievance. In Gaspe, Chicoutimi and Saguenay there was serious contests until it was ascertained which party was to sit on the Treasury benches. The electors had been practically disfranchised.

This Hon. Mr. Lemieux denied. He had had to fight for his life in every general election in Gaspe.

Hon. Mr. Templeman agreed that it would be possible to have polling in Kootenay on the same day as other parts of the Dominion, but in Comox-Atlin (the Minister's own constituency), it would be impossible. The constituency was three-quarters as large as Ontario. The only communication was by steamboat and dog train. Had he not been elected by acclamation in February, and had a poll been necessary, half a dozen polling-places would have been without ballot-boxes.

Ruttan (Prince Albert, Sask.) declared his constituency was in the same position.

Ralph Smith pointed to Mr. Burrell's election as a disproof of his argument that deferred elections were invariably favorable to the Government returned at the general election. He hoped, however, the Government would reduce the number of deferred elections. He did not believe that there had been any necessity for one in Kootenay.

Mr. Fowler argued that deferred elections were the enemy of the country, because it gave the opportunity for the worst kind of argument, that the people must vote for the party which was going to exercise the patronage.

GOWAN PASSES AWAY.

Venerable Senator Dies at the Age of Ninety-Four Years.

Barrie, March 19.—Yesterday the citizens here were mourning the death of their most distinguished citizen, Sir James R. Gowan. The venerable knight had been enjoying his usual health up to 9 o'clock Saturday evening last, when he was seized with a fainting spell, which confined him to his bed. Gradually his strength declined till at two o'clock yesterday morning the end came. Despite his more than 94 years, he retained remarkable clearness up to the last.

Sir James Gowan was born in Ireland on Dec. 22, 1815, and for the last 75 years has been a resident in Canada. As a student, he enrolled in the militia in the rebellion of 1837, and participated in the fight at Gallows' Hill, afterwards receiving a commission.

He was called to the Bar in 1839, and at the age of 29 he was appointed judge of the judicial district of Simcoe, which office he resigned after 40 years' service. He fathered many law reforms and was more than once offered a Superior Court judgeship. He acted as judge and arbitrator in different royal commissions and was one of the three judge investigating the C.P.R. scandal.

Although a nonogenarian he kept in close touch with public affairs till a short time ago, and till his last illness possessed a memory and intellect almost unimpaired by age. He was a staunch imperialist, a consistent Conservative, and through his long and active life maintained a high standard of consistency and rectitude.

The funeral, which will take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, from Ardraven, his late residence, to Union cemetery, Barrie, will be of a private character.

FAMILY WIPED OUT.

Father and Two Children Asphyxiated In Toronto.

Toronto, March 19.—With the gas jet in the room in which they slept turned on full, Samuel Tanner, 45 years, his ten-year-old daughter Sarah, and Robert, his eight-year-old son, were found dead in bed at his home, 3 Rideau avenue, near the Lansdowne avenue subway, yesterday morning.

All three slept in one bed in a little room on the first floor of the small house. The children were on the inside of the bed, while the father lay stretched on the outside.

There were also living in the little house Jack Tanner, his wife, his brother-in-law, Alex. Black; Adrina and Bassilla Black, sisters-in-law of the dead man.

All were Irish and had been in the country only three months, coming from Belfast.

Sam Tanner had been "celebrating" St. Patrick's Day and had been assisted home by a man who had found him helpless in the street. He was a widower, and employed in the Gutta Percha Rubber Works, employes of which have subscribed sufficient funds for the funeral to-day.

Fails In Official Attempt to Escape.

New York, March 19.—After 16 hours spent in sawing two of the seven-eighths-inch steel bars of his cell with improvised saws made of nickel table-knives, Francis Louis Boissanade, who was set to the task of making an official attempt to escape from the detention prison at Ellis Island, by Immigration Commissioner Robt. Watchorn, last night, he gave up the attempt.

Boissanade last August effected a real escape from the same cell with the connivance, Watchorn thinks, of one or more of the keepers. To prove the truth of Boissanade's assertion that he had escaped by sawing the bars of his cell in 13 1-2 hours with table-knives, he was made to undergo the test which has just failed. Had he succeeded Watchorn had promised to intercede for his liberty.

"Ruinous," Says One.

Norfolk, Va., March 19.—E. C. Foeburgh, president of the North Carolina Pine Association, controlling a majority of the mills in Eastern Virginia, Maryland, North and South Carolina, declared here yesterday that the 50 per cent. reduction on lumber proposed by the new tariff bill will be ruinous to lumber manufacturers and mills generally on the entire Atlantic Coast.

Ask For Cent Postage.

Washington, March 19.—One cent postage is provided in a bill which Representative Bennett (New York) has introduced. The measure provides that, beginning Jan. 1, 1910, the rate of postage on all letters mailed within the United States for domestic points, including drop letters, shall be one cent per ounce or fraction.

Rifle Trophy For Service Corps.

Ottawa, March 19.—Lieut.-Colonel J. Lyon Biggar of Ottawa has offered a cup to be competed for in rifle shooting by teams from the different companies of the army service corps throughout Canada. There will be a series of four matches, for teams of ten men, the aggregate scores to count.

Wants Heart Removed.

London, March 19.—The will of the late Lord Burton shows that the gross value of the estate entered at the principal probate registry is $5,000,000 at least, as far as at present can be ascertained.

After naming executors the will directs that, "before my body be placed in the coffin the spine and spinal marrow of the neck shall be completely severed by a competent surgeon, and my heart removed and placed in a separate vessel to be enclosed in the coffin."

ART AND WEATHER.

A Storm That Suited the Painter, but Not the Committee.

In a gallery there hangs a large canvas in an imposing frame. The painting shows a waterfall in one of the states' famous for startling natural scenery. The picture has occupied its present place for several years.

"Does it belong here?" asked a visitor of the man in charge.

"No more than the others you see."

"Seems to me it should be in the capitol of the state where this scenery is," said the visitor.

"It was painted for the state," replied the man in charge, "but when it was submitted to the art committee it refused to accept it."

"What was the objection?"

"You see the sky is overcast. The artist put in a gathering storm like an impending calamity. The art committee said it was a reflection on the reputation of the state; that a storm such as is represented was unknown in that latitude."

"Couldn't the artist put in another sky, one that accorded with the state's reputation for sunshine?"

"I suppose he could, but he refused. He said that the rumpus kicked up by the art committee warranted the storm effect on the canvas, and he refused to budge. He sent it here, and here it remains."

WILD MACEDONIA.

Strenuous Life Amid Savage Animals in the Balkans.

Besides some warlike men Macedonia contains an abundance of wild animals. A traveler writes: "By the side of oaks and walnuts you find great tortoises and snakes eight feet long, and bears and wolves abound. They are a serious drag upon industry, and even in civilized Bulgaria it has lately been found necessary to increase the government rewards for killing them. I believe it to be a true story that a party of peasants with horses was not long ago wholly destroyed by wolves in the Mori Hovo mountains, nothing but the bits and stirrup irons being found to record them.

"In the same hills the peasants migrate for the summer to lofty shoulders where the land is flat enough to grow little patches of maize, and here, night after night, they will sit up with a fire to drive off bears. There are tragic stories of women with babies in their arms beating off bears with burning brands from the fire.

"The prevalence of eagles is a delightful feature for the traveler, and on the cliffs of Montenegro I once counted at the same moment thirty-nine ravens."

The Missing Link.

A lawyer having offices in a Philadelphia building wherein there are some hundreds of tenants recently lost a cuff link, one of a pair that he greatly prized. Being absolutely certain that he had dropped the link somewhere in the building, he caused a notice to be posted in the following terms:

"Lost—A gold cuff link. The owner, William Ward, will deeply appreciate its immediate return."

That afternoon on passing the door whereon this notice was posted what were the feelings of the lawyer to observe that appended thereto were these lines:

"The finder of the missing cuff link would deem it a great favor if the owner would kindly lose the other link."

Not Included.

After the dry goods salesman had completed his business with Cyrus Craig, Centerville's one storekeeper, he asked what was going on in the town. "Had any entertainments this season?" he inquired.

"No," said Mr. Craig. "Not one. Salome Howe's pupils have given two concerts, piano and organ, and the principal of the 'cademy has lectured twice, once on 'Our National Forests' and once on 'Stones as I Know Them,' but as far as entertainments are concerned Centerville hasn't got round to 'em yet this season."—Youth's Companion.

Care of Snowshoes.

Snowshoes need very little care. You don't have to wipe them dry with a chamois, for instance, the prescribed treatment for skates. When taking them off merely tap them against the wall or a tree to shake free the clinging snow and stand them up on their heels outside. Never attempt to dry them before a fire. When they are put away for the summer select a dry place where there will be no danger of mice.—Country Life In America.

The Age of the Microbe.

People just now are living in a state of almost morbid apprehension concerning what they should eat and drink. There have been the paleolithic age and the red sandstone age. The present age would come to be known as the bacillus, microbe and tubercle age.—Lord Rabblesdale in House of Lords.

End of a Revolutionist.

Havana, March 19.—Former Capt. Havastida of the Rural Guards, the principal instigator of the uprising in the Province of Santa Clara, who was arrested on Tuesday night, was shot and killed while making an alleged effort to escape. Heretofore this has been a common method in Cuba of dealing with inconvenient prisoners.

Pete's Babette.

By IZOLA L. FORRESTER.

There had always been Pete. At least so the people down at St. Michel said when a stranger would ask where he had come from. Even before the government had built the lighthouse on Presque Isle Pete's fishing hut had been there, and every night he had hung out his lantern on the end of a pole so that the boats rounding the point a mile or two below would see its flicker and steer clear of the long sand bar that ran out like an ant eater's nose from the northern corner of Presque Isle.

Everybody along the strait knew the quaint old figure, but no one knew of Babette until they saw her one morning fluttering along behind Pete, her red calico dress the one bright spot of color among the grays and browns of Presque Isle. The day before Pete had been seen rowing over to the Mackinac shore, but no one knew of his return except Mere M'rie, and she was so old and deaf that all she could do was cook Pete's fish and sit out in the sunshine all day smoking in the kitchen doorway.

When Landry Dubois, from Algonac island, asked the question direct Pete smiled and shook his head, his dark eyes, deep set in the small brown face, watching Babette build houses with the red bark chips around the lighthouse steps.

"She has no one but me," he said, with a dubious shrug of his thin, stooped shoulders. "Babette, who art thou, petite?"

Babette stopped playing long enough to flash a merry glance at him under the shelter of her thick brown hair.

"Pete's Babette," she laughed.

And so, all through the isles of the strait, as far as St. Ignace and even down to Mackinac, she was known as Pete's Babette. Pete taught her all manner of wonderful things in fish lore and ship craft, and before long she knew all the boats that passed by Presque Isle, from the great iron kings and grain boats bound for Buffalo to the gay little yachts that fluttered like white butterflies here and there. But, best of all, she loved the schooners, the old monarchs of the lake, when they came sailing up the strait on a still summer's eve, like wondrous phantom ships, with the glory of the sunset behind, and she called them Babette's birds.

And the years passed by, ten of them, slow and sure and steady, one by one, as the wild geese fly to the southland, and each one left Pete browner and more wrinkled and smaller, while Babette grew up tall and slender and strong as a young pine tree, with hair and eyes brown as dry oak leaves. Then came the terrible winter of 1894, when boat after boat went out on the lakes and no more was heard from them until spring waves brought in the wreckage. It was cold at the little, low house back of the lighthouse on Presque Isle, colder than even Pete could remember, and every week it was harder for him to row down to St. Michel for provisions.

One night he came home half frozen and with a dreadful cough. Babette sent him to bed and said he should go no more. They must make what food they had last until warmer weather. But instead of sunshine and fair seas the clouds swept low and gray like gulls before a storm, and the waves came rolling in, with a deep, heavy swell that sent a dull, threatening roar, as they broke, up to the lighthouse. And here and there in the dark green waters could be seen something else, a clumsy, swaying mass that glinted blue white.

"The ice has come," Babette thought when she saw it from the lighthouse window one morning after she had trimmed the lamp, and there was a queer ache in her heart as she looked off down the strait and thought of how her birds would have to battle with it, but she did not tell Pete.

It was three days later when Mere M'rie showed her the empty meal bag. She smiled. There were still bacon and rice and dried fish. They were rich. At the end of the week there was no bacon, and they had saved the last of the rice for Pete, who lay on the old lounge near the stove coughing, coughing all the time.

The following day Pete was delirious. Babette stood in the old kitchen looking from the flushed, wrinkled face on the pillow to where Mere M'rie knelt over by the stove praying. The provisions were gone. There was no medicine.

Babette took the fur jacket from its nail. Before she went out of the kitchen she leaned over the old half breed woman's bent form. "To St. Michel," she said slowly, pointing eastward and then at the empty meal sack and flour bag thrown in a corner. Mere M'rie understood and stopped her praying long enough to watch the strong, erect young figure pass down to the shore, the wind blowing the ends of her scarf backward over her shoulders like red wings.

Her hands worked quickly over the lines of the boat, and, taking advantage of a momentary lull, she pushed away from the small, tumbled down pier and struck out bravely for St. Michel. She had often been out with Pete when the waves were as high as now, and she loved the excitement of it all. The low, flat shore of Presque Isle vanished entirely behind the veil of waters, but she could catch a glimpse of the dear old lighthouse and its round top above the tossing waves, and the sight strengthened and nerved her for the five mile journey to St. Michel.

Suddenly, when scarcely half a mile out, the boat seemed to strike a new current. Babette caught her breath sharply as she felt the strong, resistless power sweep her from her course, and she bent over the oars with set, close lips and tense muscles, but it was useless. The deep, swelling rush of waters carried her northward, straight on to the middle channel of the strait. The wind had come up again and raged over the lake like a wild beast. Then, without warning, there rose before her the jagged, cruel line of the ice floe, and the next moment the waves had thrown the boat as if it had been a leaf full upon it. Instinctively Babette had risen at that last awful instant. As the boat crashed into the ice with a shock that made it leap and tremble she sprang forward and gained a footing on the ice floe, a slight, perilous one, to be sure, but one that meant safety, for the moment at least.

Already the little boat had disappeared in the whirlpool of dashing waters, and Babette's heart beat fast as she looked about her on her new craft. It was large. It seemed as large as Presque Isle itself, and at first it appeared stationary. But when she had reached its center she could feel the slow, steady motion as it swept on toward Lake Huron.

And now came the division of the channel, and Babette's heart almost stopped its frightened beating as she thought of what would happen if the floe drifted north of Algonac island and out on the great, pitiless waters of the lake.

With hushed breath she waited. The floe was heaving so that she could hardly retain her place, but at last the pine crests of Algonac showed on her left, and she knew she would pass St. Michel. With fingers stiffened by the cold, she untied the red scarf from about her head and let the wind blow it like a danger signal above her as she caught a glimpse of the lighthouse on the west pier. So near it seemed she placed her hand to her mouth and shouted, but her voice sounded like a reedbird's pipe in the noise of the rushing waters.

She was opposite the town now. She could see the waves break on the pier, and yet there was no sign of help. With a fearlessness born of desperation she struggled to her feet and waved the scarf wildly, and suddenly a figure appeared on the lighthouse ladder. Again she waved and tried to call. The figure signaled back and ran along the pier toward town.

It was Landry Dubois. He burst into the warm back room at old Mme. Porteau's breathless and hatless.

"It is Pete's Babette!" he cried to the crowd of fishermen and sailors huddled about the big wood stove. "She is on the ice, drifting out to the lake!"

In five minutes the news had spread, and the shore was crowded, while the strongest boat in the place was manned, with Landry at the rudder, and stout arms pulled away to the rescue of Pete's Babette. And when they brought her back half frozen and half dead and gave her into Mme. Porteau's care she told her errand in the warm back room—told how Pete lay dying without food or medicine and how unless help was sent there would be no light shining from Presque Isle that night.

"The light shall shine," promised Landry, and the waves that had laughed at Babette' little boat bowed before the masterful stroke of ten pairs of St. Michel's strongest arms as they manned the boat that bore Babette and provisions and medicine back to Presque Isle.

"Thou hast saved his life, little one," said Landry when they stood in the kitchen where Mere M'rie still prayed. But Babette only smiled and nodded her head, and she went on to the lighthouse.

The winter twilight was falling swiftly, and the wind had gone down like one tired with its mad play. Far to the west she could see a boat struggling slowly up the strait, its lights gleaming now and then like jewels. She lit the lamp with fingers that trembled, and the broad path of light streamed out over the point. Babette's birds could fly in safety tonight, and below Landry Dubois held aloft a red scarf and told its story, even as it is told today around the islands of the strait—the story of Pete's Babette.

Moneymaking Frenchmen.

If you meet a family party in a finely appointed carriage on the island of Montreal, nine times out of ten it is a French family. That the French can make money when they give their minds to the "game" the fact that the leading family of financiers in Montreal is French indicates.—Toronto Canadian Courier.

Returned by the Glacier.

One of the first instances on record of a body returned by a Swiss glacier is that of the Hamel accident, which took place in 1820. Several guides were swept down by an avalanche and hurled into a crevasse. Hamel prophesied that the glacier would yield them up again in the course of a thousand years, but Dr. Forbes believed that the end of the glacier would be reached by the bodies in forty years. This statement was considered bold, but its accuracy was borne out by the event. In forty years the flow of ice brought the bodies to light.

In 1866 Henry Arkwright was lost in a glacier. In just thirty-one years his brother received a telegram from the mayor of Chamouni that the body was found. Every article of clothing was intact. His name and regiment could be read clearly on his handkerchief, and his gold pencil case opened and shut as easily as when he last used it three decades before.—"True Tales of Mountain Adventure."

Shakespeare and the Actors.

Why do we call Garrick a great actor? Because the box office of his time acclaimed him one. Davies tells us how his first performance of Richard III. was received with loud and reiterated applause. How his "look and actions when he pronounced the words,

"Off with his head; so much for Buckingham,

"were so significant and important from his visible enjoyment of the incident that several loud shouts of approbation proclaimed the triumph of the actor and satisfaction of the audience." A modern purist would have walked out of the playhouse when his ear was insulted by Cibber's tag, but from a theater point of view it is a good tag, and I have always thought it a pity that Shakespeare forgot to set it down himself and left to Cibber the burden of finishing the line.—Judge Parry in Cornhill Magazine.

Why the Earth Cannot Explode.

The theory is frequently advanced that planets and even suns sometimes explode and that the earth may some day blow up like a bombshell. No celestial body the size of the earth could possibly explode. If the entire molten interior of our globe could be replaced with nitroglycerin and detonated the explosion would not lift the earth's crust. In other words, if we assume that the crust of the earth is from fifty to a hundred miles in thickness it would require something much more powerful than even nitroglycerin to burst the shell. It is necessary only to do a little figuring to see that the pressure of the earth's crust at a depth of from fifty to a hundred miles far exceeds the pressure exerted by the most powerful high explosive.—Hudson Maxim.

Too Literal.

"Well, yes," said old Uncle Lazzenberry, who was intimately acquainted with most of the happenstances of the village, "Almira Stang has broken off her engagement with Charles Henry Tootwiler. They'd be goin' together for about eight years, durin' which time she had been inculcatin' into him, as you might call it, the beauties of economy. But when she discovered just lately that he had learnt his lesson so well that he had saved up 217 pairs of socks for her to darn immediately after the wedding she 'peared to conclude that he had taken her advice a little too literally and broke off the match."—Puck.

Chemical Aid to Medicine.

Chemistry may be of use to medicine in at least three quite different ways. One of these is concerned with finding out what things are made of. This kind of chemistry is called analytical chemistry. Another way in which chemistry can help medicine depends upon the ability of the modern chemist not only to find out what the things are made of, but also to discover how the parts are put together. This branch of chemistry is called structural chemistry because it has to do not only with the materials, but also with the way in which these materials are arranged. Yet another method of helpfulness comes from a still more recent development of chemistry, commonly called physical chemistry, which deals with the phenomena lying on the border line between physics and chemistry, especially that part of the border line concerning the relation of energy to material. The physical chemist must know not only what things are made of and how these elements are put together, but also what energy is concerned in putting them together and what energy is set free when they are decomposed.—Theodore Richards in Atlantic.

PLEASANT HOMES.

How to Keep Husbands Amused in the Evening.

If there were any universal rule for keeping a man home in the evenings the person who invented it would reap a large fortune. There is, however, the great underlying principle that if a man is given what pleases him he is likely to stay at home. So it remains for a woman who would accomplish this end to discover what is the best inducement.

There is no doubt that complaining keeps many men from home, and it is equally true that a good many wives complain more than they realize. As an explanation of why men dislike complaints just remember that the average man works hard through the day and has just as many troubles as he wishes without a volume waiting when he arrives at home. One reason that some men find other places attractive is because they hear pleasant conversation, and they get some of the tucks and creases of the day's worries smoothed out in relaxation. Many of these same men would really prefer to have their good times at home did they but sit down and analyze the situation, but how can they when nothing but troubles is poured into their ears?

No person is so unreasonable as to think a woman would tell her husband only the nice things that have happened. She would be more than human could she accomplish this and probably a most uncomfortable person, as most extremists are, in one way and another. But if she will only have the wisdom to choose the time for telling woes there is none, either big or little, that she may not tell and be sure of a sympathetic and champion listener. The wife's mistakes lie in telling her distresses while her husband is filled with his own, augmented by consciousness of the struggle he is making through the day to keep up this same home that at the moment is not all fancy may paint. Let him feel that home is worth the struggle he has been making for it and that his wife is the best ever, and she may then proceed even to tell him servant troubles, and he will still radiate satisfaction.

She is a wise woman who remembers that her husband is tired when he comes home late in the afternoon. She may say, with reason, that she, too, is tired, but it may stimulate good resolutions if she remembers the old saw that "man's work ends with the sun, a woman's work is never done." Just about the most important piece of work she can have in the whole scheme of living is to make her husband think that home is the best place in the world. He really would be glad to think this. Once upon a time he did. If he does so no longer it may be because of faults on both sides, and in this case a woman has not only her own shortcomings to repair, but his, just so far as she can. She can't turn a brute into a gentleman, but she can condone and make allowances and exercise tact, and if life is to be worth anything the more she does it the better.

SUBSTITUTE FOR BRIDGE.

A New Argument in Favor of Card Playing.

"Now that I have mastered bridge whist sufficiently well to be a good average player I am going to learn some solitaire games of cards," recently announced a vivacious young matron, to the astonishment of her listeners. "Why do I bother when I am not keen on cards? Well, I am making provision for old age or in case anything should happen to land me in an invalid chair as a shut-in. I'd try chess, too, if I had the brains and sufficient power of concentration. You know my grandfather was for many years confined to the house on account of rheumatism and later paralysis, and if he had not been a good card and chess player life would have been unbearable for him. Of course he read a good deal, but his eyes would not stand a strain, so cards and chess became his refuge. When he could get any of the family to play with him he was delighted, and of course he was given that pleasure as often as possible. But in the meantime he consoled himself with solitaire games and got so much comfort and satisfaction out of the pastime that I am determined to have a similar resource to fall back upon in case I should ever need it."

"That's a new argument to me for card playing," said one of the listeners, "and I am inclined to think it a good one."

HELPFUL HINTS

When polishing the finger nails rub across, not up and down. Dust the hands with orris powder for excessive perspiration.

In order to keep the head clean for a month a tonic should be used, after which the hair should be thoroughly gone over with a clean brush. It is surprising how much dirt is removed by this process.

A simple but effective way to make hair wave in big ripples, which continue to be fashionable, is to dampen it and tie it down with bands of baby ribbon, pulling the hair out in loose waves between the bands.

To prevent noise round pads of leather cut from old boots and nailed to the legs of kitchen chairs prevent the grating noise upon a brick or tiled floor which is so distressing to the nerves of sensitive people.

For dear old ladies with rheumatism in their knees: In damp cold weather at night draw a pair of old cotton stocking legs well over the knees. In winter use woolen legs for the same purpose. Having tried them once, the sufferers will value them above gold.

Foils Him.

ENGLAND IS SHOCKED BY ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT IN REGARD TO THE NAVY

London, March 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lord Rosebery writes The Times that the announcement in the Commons on Tuesday was the most critical he remembers. Its gravity lies not so much in the question of the navy that is to be secured, because as soon as the nation realizes the threat to its predominance, it will vote all that is possible,, "but what," he says, "becomes of the blue water school with which most of us are in sympathy? Their argument is based on the fact that we had a predominating fleet, which made the islands practically impervious to invasion; that that fact now should be relegated to the region of doubt in the matter of security is not permissible, and so the real issue of the revelation in the Commons is to make us enquire anew strictly into the validity of our arrangements for territorial defense.

REGINALD M'KENNA.
First Lord of the Admiralty.

Are they adequate? Will the territorial army, even if its ranks be filled, be sufficient? Those are the real practical, urgent questions to-day?"

The Evening Standard says:
"The Prime Minister and Mr. McKenna have been frank with the House of Commons. The country has had to wait a long time for the acknowledgments made on Tuesday night. We emerge from a mass, not upon safe ground, not even upon grounds of equality with rivals who may some day become enemies, not upon any summit of a two-power standard; rather upon a quivering morass."

The Westminster Gazette says:
"What we have to contemplate—it is sufficiently serious—is the probable addition of four to the number of German ships which we had expected to be in commission by April, 1912. That addition must be met on our side, if it is to be met at all, by laying down four additional ships in time for them to be in commission by the same date."

The Evening News says:
"The debate in Parliament on the navy estimates must occasion grave universal concern. Well might the Ministerial front bench fidget under Mr. Balfour's words. The German program had admittedly eluded our calculations, yet here we are providing for four possible Dreadnoughts which, even when they are certainties, will only place us on level with the one-power standard.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:
"That the whole national and the empire will be profoundly moved by the revelations in the House of Commons is a proposition which no serious person will dream of denying. Not only is it now revealed to us, as in a flash, that all our calculations of the maintenance of the two-power standard are in a fair way to be upset, but we have also to reckon with the fact that for all practical purposes the Austrian navy of the future must be reckoned as part of the German navy."

The Globe says:
"Never in living memory, never, perhaps, in Parliamentary history has it been the lot of the First Lord to make so sensational and appalling an announcement. Not even now, in spite of their avowals, does the Government show any signs of an endeavor to put us on an equality with Germany."

SUBSIDY IS OFFERED THE CANADIAN NORTHERN LINE

Toronto, March 19.—Four thousand acres a mile for the 500 odd miles between Sellwood and Sudbury is the subsidy to be offered the Canadian Northern Railway by the Ontario Government, mineral rights and pine timber to be retained and the land to be given in the clay belt and not in the mineral region. This, said the Premier, was giving about one-eighth of the clay belt, in order to bring it all into conditions fit for settlement.

So Sir James Whitney, before the rising of the Legislature yesterday evening announced the policy of the Government towards the Canadian Northern Railway in response to the request of the railway committee for assistance.

The C.N.R. which is now partly built west and northwest from Sellwood had made application for railway aid. They made alternative requests. In the first place for the portion of track from Sellwood along the north of Lake Superior down along Lake Nipigon to Fort William they asked for a Government guarantee of bonds for the purpose of building the line.

As an alternative the railway asked for a grant of land and a cash subsidy. This the Government declined to consider.

Sir James' main argument with which he concluded was that while the Government might build an extension of the T. & N.O. Railway westwards the people would value more highly a proposal to give 1,500,000 or 2,000,000 acres, which were now valueless, than the proposal to spend $25,000,000 in building a Government road.

"We will retain the minerals ourselves, and we will retain the right to say when the portion of lands given to the company shall be put on the market, and at what price it shall be sold."

"If the railway company agrees to this, a bill will be prepared containing all the checks, guarantees and conditions I have mentioned, and will be brought down this week."

The Legislature yesterday sat in committee of supply, and took up the estimates of the Minister of Agriculture.

Allan Studholme denounced the payments to the Salvation Army for immigration purposes. He concluded by moving that the votes to assist the Army and other immigration services be struck out.

Premier Whitney attacked Mr. Studholme's views. It was absurd to say the jails were overcrowded with undesirable immigrants.

"I speak of what I know and the hon. gentleman does not know," said the Premier. The Salvation Army did what no other agency did, or attempted, hand-picking the immigrants, so to speak.

Hon. W. J. Hanna announced that $3 a week would be paid by the Government for patients in sanitaria who were paying not more than 70 cents a day.

Big Explosion Kills Three.

Wallace, Idaho, March 19.—Three men have been killed by an explosion in the plant of the Coeur de Alene powder works.

Friction on a copper screen in the mixing-room during the process of manufacture caused the disaster. In this room was stored more than 2,000 pounds of nitro-glycerine, which exploded, together with five tons of giant powder stored nearby.

Boiler Blew Up.

Gore Bay, Ont., March 19.—News has reached here that at Silver Lake, near Silverwater, Manitoulin Island, the boiler in James Crawford's sawmill blew up, seriously scalding five mill hands, namely: J. Teacher's Tragic Death.

St. Catharines, March 19.—A particularly sad death was that of Miss Vera Veitch, teacher of S. S. No. 8, Wainfleet, the school near Beckett's bridge. Miss Veitch went to Toronto on Saturday and was seized with a fainting spell. Friends had her removed to the station and she returned to her home. Medical aid was called, and it was discovered that she was suffering from appendicitis.

Chances of recovery had been wholly removed by the jarring of the journey home.

Obliterate Party Lines.

Washington, March 19.—That party lines will be eliminated during the consideration in the House of the Payne Tariff Bill was indicated by the action of Representative Broussard of Louisiana, in withdrawing yesterday from the meeting of the minority members of the committee because he differed with their views on the tariff.

With few exceptions, each member of the House will fight for the interests of his home district.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK.

Engineer and Yardmaster Lose Lives at Adamville Junction.

Montreal, March 19.—At Adamville Junction, on the C.P.R., early yesterday morning, a head-on collision occurred between a light engine and a freight train.

Engineer Truax and Yardmaster Garvin Shanks were both killed instantly.

The others of the train crew escaped without serious injury.

Shanks, the yardmaster, had been in the service of the company ever since it started.

Mark Cunningham, the engineer of the Boston train, which on Wednesday crashed through the wall of the ladies' waiting-room of the C.P.R. Windsor street depot, died at the General Hospital yesterday morning at 7.45, making the fifth victim of the accident.

Coroner McMahon opened an inquest yesterday morning into this fatality, when Conductor Harvey stated that at Highlands, the first station after the St. Lawrence is crossed, and eight miles from the city. Engineer Cunningham made some slight repairs, and when the train stopped Harvey asked him how long it would take, and the engineer replied only a few minutes. Everything was all right when the train left Montreal Junction, five miles from the city, and it was not until the train swept past Westmount Station, where they should have stopped, that he noticed something was wrong.

NEW EVIDENCE FOUND.

Witness In Kinrade Case Will Swear He Saw a Man.

Hamilton, March 19.—Yesterday afternoon it was announced that a new witness had been found who can give very important evidence concerning the Kinrade tragedy, and if what is said is true, it will throw a new light on it, and substantiate Miss Florence Kinrade's story. This person—the name has not been made public—it is said, saw a man leaving the Kinrade home on the afternoon of the tragedy.

Mr. G. S. Lynch-Staunton, K.C., who will look after the interests of the family at the inquest, was spoken to yesterday afternoon, and asked if it was true that such a witness had been found.

"Yes, it is true," said Mr. Staunton, "but I did not intend that the fact should be published yet." He refused to discuss the matter further.

This is the first time any witness has been found who saw a man leaving the house that afternoon about the time of the tragedy, and if his evidence is positive it will clear up one of the most mysterious points in connection with it: the point that a man could leave that house at that hour and make his escape without being seen.

TO-MORROW'S EXAMINER WILL CONTAIN FEATURES OF MORE THAN USUAL INTEREST

To-morrow's Examiner, which will be of the usual Sa' -day size, will contain, in addition to the news of the day, a number of interesting features that will no doubt be received with favour. Mr. A. B. Cutting, editor of the Canadian Horticulturist, will continue his series of articles on the subject of "Landscape Gardening," in which a vast amount of useful advice is given by a recognized expert on the subject. Mr. Barton Earle's scholar'- treatment of the subject, "Our Schools and Teachers," will be cor .nued in a second article that will be found even more interesting than the opening letter last week. The literary inclined people who have learned to look forward with pleasure to the chats on "Famous Books and Their Authors," will find another able review from the facile pen of "F. M. D." The Examiner's true detective story page, which has come to be regarded as a feature, will have another fascinating story of crime detected and criminals checkmated.

There will be a comprehensive summary of the evidence in to-night's sitting of the Kinrade inquest and many other features that will make to-morrow's issue of the Examiner one that the people of Peterborough cannot afford to miss.

FOUR YEAR OLD BOY SET FIRE TO HIS CLOTHING BY PLAYING WITH MATCHES IN BEDROOM

Father and Mother Were Also Badly Burned About Hands and Arms in Rescuing Their Son—Accident at Home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Doyle, Delora.

NURSE FROM PETERBOROUGH WAS CALLED TO ATTEND HIM.

Marmora, March 19.—As a result of playing with matches and lighting them in a bedroom the other day, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Doyle, of Delora, a few miles from here was badly burned. In saving the boy's life, both his father and mother were somewhat seriously burned but it is learned that the injuries of none will result fatally.

The little fellow was left upstairs to play while his mother pursued her household duties. He had been up there some time before he caught sight of the matches. Lighting a few of them, it was not long before, in his innocent playfulness, he had set fire to himself, and his clothes were in flames. Hearing her child crying the mother left her work and hastened upstairs. There she found him, enveloped in flames. She hurriedly carried him downstairs and called her husband. Mr. Doyle wraped his coat about his son and in that way was able to smother the flames.

The boy was badly burned about the body while the mother and father had their hands and arms severely injured. The little fellow is suffering a great deal of pain and is in a serious condition. Dr. Jones, of Marmora was called and dressed the injuries. Miss C. Steele, of Charlotte St., Peterborough, a trained nurse, is looking after the patients.

SPEED BOAT WITH FIFTY HORSE POWER ENGINE BUILT BY MR. RYE

Mr. H. B. Rye, proprietor of the Otonabee boat livery, has recently completed a new speed boat. It is thirty feet long and four feet, two inches wide, and is fitted with a fifty h. p. engine. It was built for Mr. T. R. Hughson of this city. It is his intention to use it on the Otonabee river and Rice Lake waters. It is built entirely for speed.

Mr. Rye has also built two other gasoline launches this winter, and there promises to be a bigger fleet of motor boats and yachts on the Otonabee this coming summer than ever before. The large addition built to the boathouse will make ample accommodation for those desiring to keep their smaller crafts, such as skiffs and canoes.

STUDENTS OF THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE TO PRESENT A PLAY

The Dramatic Society of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute will present a play on April 2nd, just before the Easter holidays. The name of the vehicle in which the young students will be seen is "The Scheming Lieutenant."

There are two acts and six scenes. The leading roles will be taken by Messrs. Cyril Moore, Max. Dobbin, Alex. Primeau and Misses Willow Blewett and Katie Leary. There are besides officers, soldiers, peasants, etc. Principal Kenner's fostering of the musical and literary natures of the students has been greatly appreciated by the friends of the P. C. I., who have enjoyed the entertainments given during the past winter.

This new venture, a dramatic attempt, will undoubtedly be received by a large audience and future notices will be awaited with interest. It is intended that during the evening a musical programme will be given in which the P. C. I. orchestra will be heard.

WIFE DID NOT LIKE HIS CONDUCT WITH WOMAN HE MET AT DANCE

Sandford Hubble, who resided some ten miles north of town, was up before County Magistrate Edmison on Monday afternoon, charged with the non-support of his wife and child. According to Mrs. Hubble's story the husband threatened to get rid of her and install another lady in charge of his hearth and home, and also abused her by administering corporal punishment in various ways. Hubble denied this and put in a counter account of abuse against his helpmate, whom he accused of attempting to end his earthly career with a butcher knife, and who, inspired by the green eyed monster, jealousy, was continually nagging about a young lady he met at a dance. Last August their domestic felicity terminated harshly, when Mrs. Hubble left his snug nook and refused to return to her wifely duties, taking with her their little two year old son. Since then she has been supporting herself and the boy and the present case was the result of her request for financial assistance. The worthy Magistrate pleaded with the principals in the case to kiss and make up, but all to no avail, and finally Hubble compromised by agreeing to pay over to Magistrate Madgett, of town, the sum of $8 per month for the maintenance of the child.

"Belvidere" Summer Hotel at Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, Sold to Mr. T. Z. Webster.

VERY POPULAR LAKE RESORT.

"Belvidere' summer resort at Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, changed hands last week. Mr. T. Z. Webster, of Lakefield, having purchased the property from Mr. J. R. McKelvie of this village. The deal was closed on Friday. The new proprietor will set to work at an early date to get the place in order for the coming season. Mr. Webster is unable as yet to speak definitely in regard to future plans, but he intends to make a strong bid for a full share of the tourist trade, which will likely mean the enlarging of the premises at no distant date. The cottagers at the upper end of the lake will miss the genial faces of Mr. and Mrs. McKelvie, whom they had come to know as a kind and obliging host and hostess. Doubtless however, the new occupants of 'Belvidere' will endeavour not to be outdone in this respect.

DECISION NOT GIVEN

Judge Weller Was Ill To-day And Douro Election Protest Case Is Not Yet Settled.

THE TIME IS NOW INDEFINITE.

Owing to the illness of Judge Weller, which confined him to the house, the judgment on the Douro election protest was not given to-day. He stated at the conclusion of the hearing that he would take two weeks to consider the evidence on the one charge, and would then deliver his decision. From the many enquiries that have been made to-day, there is apparently much interest centred in the outcome. The counsel for both parties were seen to-day and stated that they did not know when the Judge would give his decision, and that the time at present was very indefinite.

$500 CLAIM IS FILED

Suit Against Management Of Grand Opera House Reported As Result of Recent Occurrence.

"COME BACK TO ERIN" CO.

The outcome of the abrupt conclusion of the play "Come Back to Erin" is a suit for $500.00 damages against J. J Turner and Sons, preferred by the company through the manager, Mr. Brady. An effort will be made to have this tried in the High Court, and if such is the case, it will be brought up at the Assizes. The management of the Grand have a charge against the company for $53.00 for the loss they sustained in the discontinuation of the play. This was brought up at the Division Court this morning before Magistrate Dumble in the absence of Judge Weller, but the case was remanded.

ALEX. SHARPE IS RELEASED FROM PRISON

Was Sentenced in March, 1901, to Fifteen Years in Kingston Penitentiary for Shooting William Hull—His Release Has Been Strongly Advocated by Mr. F. D. Kerr, Whose Efforts Have Been Fruitful.

THE STORY OF THE CRIME

Mr. F. D. Kerr received a letter to-day from Mr. I. Pope, Under-Secretary of State, announcing the release of Alex. Sharpe, who, on March 25th, 1901, was sentenced to fifteen years in penitentiary, having been convicted of killing William Hull, of Dummer. Mr. Kerr's defense of the accused, it will be remembered, was one of the most interesting features of the trial. It was undoubtedly largely due to Mr. Kerr's handling of the case that the sentence was lowered to 15 years. His efforts to obtain Sharpe's release have also been persevering and have at last been fruitful.

The Letter.

The letter Mr. Kerr has received is as follows:

Ottawa, March 18, 1909.

Sir,—Adverting to your letter of the 9th ultimo, addressed to the Honourable the Minister of Justice, with a view to securing some exercise of the Royal prerogative of mercy in behalf of Alex. Sharp, a convict in the penitentiary at Kingston, I am now commanded to inform you that His Excellency the Governor-General has been pleased to order this prisoner's release under a license of conditional liberation, and that the Warden of the penitentiary is this day so instructed.

I have the honour to be, sir,
Your obedient servant.
I. POPE.
Under Secretary of State.

Some Reminiscences

The trial was heard by Mr. Justice Lount, of Toronto, at the Spring Assizes in 1901. Mr. Hugh O'Leary, K.C., of Lindsay, conducted the prosecution. He is now a County Court Judge at Port Arthur.

To Mr. F. D. Kerr fell the burden of defending the prisoner. The Grand Jury returned a true bill and the trial was proceeded with. The evidence of Robert Newell, of Belmont, dealt most fully with the case. He told of Sharpe having called at his father's house the evening of the tragedy and said he wanted to go down to see Stephen Davis. Sharpe had a rifle which he carried up to the Davis house, when they arrived in the yard Newell went to the barn yard to turn the sleigh around. In a very short time he heard a shot fired near the house. It seems that Wm. Hull had gone to the Davis home on the Sunday before the Wednesday on which the shooting occurred. He went away in the afternoon and returned the same evening with what the Davis people thought was his wife, but who really was Mrs. Alex. Sharpe. Hull left on Monday morning returning on Wednesday evening.

"God Save Me"

The woman supposed to be Hull's wife was standing washing dishes, while Hull was sitting near the table with his face to the front door. Sharpe opened the door without rapping and Hull surprised the household by crying out "God Save Me." All looked toward the door. The barrel of a rifle was pointing through about breast high. Sharpe apparently did not take aim. The bullet tore a hole in Hull's right breast, causing almost instant death. Hull had brought Mrs. Sharpe to Davis with the understanding that she was to help in the household duties. They slept together that evening. Hull's return on Wednesday was a surprise to Davis, who did not expect him until Friday. Sharpe said he had fixed the man who had stolen his wife. He gave himself up to the authorities.

The trial excited great interest in the county and city, crowds attending the various sessions.

THE MILLINERY RE-OPENINGS ARE HERE INSPECTION OF PETERBOROUGH STORES SHOWS THE MERCHANTS ARE UP TO TIME

The Peterborough dry goods merchants have excelled themselves this year in the way of making their stores pretty and attractive for the spring openings. Yesterday the ladies were out en masse viewing the newest creations in head-gear and much favourable comment was passed on the splendid arrangements of the store windows and the showrooms.

The hats this season are in marked contract with those of last year, the popular "Merry Widow" sailor having practically passed out of existence. The predominating styles this spring, instead of being very wide are narrow and quite high in the crown.

The Marie Louise Poke hat is creating quite a sensation among the fashionable ladies and promises to be much worn. It is small in shape but looks exceedingly neat and stylish. Another unique model shown in millinery is the Flower Pot hat. It is made of Jumbo braid with a smart trimming of Mephisto wings. A hat of the latest Paris design on exhibition in one of the showrooms is made in Amethyst and gold rustic braid, the only trimming being a large Porcupine mount. The Gage model in Panama straw with quills and ribbon and the small black model known as the Pot Turban with large crown and small rim with trimmings of fruit, are attracting much attention.

The windows of Messrs. Richard Hall and Sons, Robt. Fair and Co., and A. W. Cressman's are beautifully artistic and the different window dressers are to be complimented on their clever work.

PRAISE FOR DAVID HARTLEY FROM THE LYCEUM CLUB OF NEW YORK

The following letter received by the Examiner last night is another proof of the fact that Dave Hartley made a wonderful showing in the New York Race, when the disadvantages under which he laboured are considered:

Editor Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I wish to state on behalf of the members of this club that Mr. David Hartley, of your town, in Madison Square Garden, made the best showing there. It was worth the price of admission to see Mr. Hartley going around. Kindly tell Mr. Harthey we wish him all the luck possible.

Yours truly,
PEDRO GILSBERT.

REPRODUCTIONS OF CLASSIC WORKS AT COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

To teach art to pupils in the schools is one of the most subtle of all the studies in the curriculum. Surround the pupils with the best art pieces and let them casually be educated is the system that is now followed. At the Collegiate Institute there have been a number of new pictures hung in the rooms where art is taught, and from time to time the number will be increased. Mr. H. R. H. Kenner pointed them out to an Examiner reporter yesterday afternoon. They are reproductions of some of the standard works, being "The Gleaners," by Millet; "The Sistine Madonna," by Raphael; "Sir Galahad" and an etching of the Roman Forum in its present condition. There is also the nucleus of a collection of sculpture reproductions: "The Winged Victory," the bust of Tennyson, the head of Venus de Milo and others. The connections and history of each will be common property among the scholars in the course of a short time.

WORK TO SOON START ON NEW ADDITION

Mr. Brooks, proprietor of the South Beach Summer Resort at Clear Lake, was in the city to-day. Mr. Brooks is anticipating a busy season this coming summer and will be in a position to accommodate a larger number of guests than ever before. He is building a large addition to his house, which will give him twenty rooms. Work on the new wing will be commenced in a short while and everything will be in readiness for the opening of the season.

BULLETIN SERVICE OF SIMPSON-SHRUBB RACE WILL BE RECEIVED AT EXAMINER

There is the greatest interest being taken in Peterborough in the Simpson-Shrubb race to-morrow night and recognizing that fact several establishments are making arrangements to give a bulletin service of the big race. The Examiner will be one of these and the people here may keep informed of the progress of the runners by inquiring at this office. The race will commence at 9 o'clock and will be over before 10 o'clock. Bulletins will be received at regular intervals and the public will have an opportunity of knowing the situation. The Oriental Hotel will also get the returns from Toronto. Every one in Peterborough is of course hoping for a Simpson victory.

COUNSEL FOR THE KINRADES HAS NOW SECURED SOME NEW EVIDENCE FOR THE INQUEST

Will Be Produced At The Session To-night And Will Show That a Man Was Seen Leaving The Kinrade Home On The Fatal Afternoon.

MR. GEORGE L. STAUNTON REFUSES TO GIVE THE NAMES.

Hamilton, Ont., March 19.—George Lynch Staunton, K. C., Hamilton's brilliant criminal lawyer, who has been engaged by the Kinrade family to look after their interests at the inquest to-night, has stated that he is prepared to show that a man was seen leaving the Kinrade home on the afternoon of the murder of Ethel Kinrade, and although he would not confirm the report, refusing to discuss the question, he is positive that the skirts of both Mrs. Kinrade and Florence will be cleared of any suspicion in connection with the affair. In doing this, both Mrs. Kinrade and Florence will be recalled to the stand, and there is no doubt but that the session to-night will prove the most interesting of any yet, as Mr. Blackstock is loaded up with evidence and data of the doings of the Kinrade family that afternoon, and his facts are entirely different to the statements that the two women have made in the witness box. The inquest to-night will last well into morning and the general opinion is that unless something tangible is drawn out of the witnesses the murder will remain an insoluble mystery. The police have completed most of their investigations and are right in line for a thorough examination to-night. The police have been swamped with letters signed by people confessing to the crime, but no stock is placed in them, no less than twelve different ones having been received. The entire city is patiently waiting for the inquest to open to-night and the demand for admission is even greater than at the opening session, the interest being greater than ever. It is expected that the whole matter will be pretty well sifted, and some interesting evidence is looked for.

FRED SIMPSON THE MAN WHO MEETS SHRUBB TO-MORROW NIGHT

Fred Simpson has the race of his life before him to-morrow night when he meets Alf. Shrubb, the British champion, in a twelve-mile contest in Toronto, and everyone in Peterborough will wish the Hiawatha boy every success. If he wins, and it is sincerely hoped that he will, although he is going up against about the best man in the world, at his own distance, Fred will have squarely earned his honours and he will no doubt wear them worthily. Those who know Simpson intimately have learned to admire him for more than his running ability. They know that he is bright, intelligent, and amiable. A man who rarely forgets a favour, and one who is true to his friends, who goes into every race with the determination to do his best and, who, when beaten, has no excuses to offer. They know, too, that he is the best of husbands and fathers, that to him home ties are dear and thus his wife and children are not forgotten in the glamour of his athletic career.

Temperate, honest in his habits, ignorant of the taste of tobacco, a man to whom dissipation is an unknown quantity, Simpson should be an ideal runner. Withal game to the core, coming like a whirl-wind in some of his races and mowing down his rivals right and left in a desperate struggle at the finish of a Marathon. Such is the man who will meet Alf. Shrubb to-morow night, and without disparaging Tom Longboat, the Mississauga is a more worthy representative of the land of the Maple than is the Onondaga, great runner as the latter may be.

P. C. ADAMS' CASE AGAINST THE CITY HAS BEEN AGAIN ADJOURNED

The case of P. C. Adams against the City of Peterborough was to have been heard in Division Court to-day, but owing to the fact that Magistrate Dumble was on the bench a further adjournment was called. It will be remembered P. C. Adams apprehended a horse thief and Magistrate Dumble wrote an order . the city for twenty dollars, the usual amount given to those capturing horse thieves. The city claims that it is not bound to pay this money and P. C. Adams is trying to recover it. Judge Weller was indisposed to-day and as Magistrate Dumble gave the original order, it could not well be brought before him in the Division Court.

THE CHOIR HONOURED MEMBERS ON DEPARTURE FROM THE CITY

The Charlotte Street Methodist Choir met at the home of one of its members, Mr. Chas. Harmer for practice of Easter music, last night, when a surprise was tendered two of the members, who leave for the West next week. Miss Sydney Lee and Mr. S. Armstrong, the former going to Gilbert Plains, Sask., and the latter to Moose Jaw. Miss Clarry, organist and leader of the choir, made a very eloquent address, telling of the esteem in which both members were held by the choir. Miss Lee, she said, was beloved by all the choir, and her place would be difficult to fill. She and Mr. Armstrong had done much, not only by their splendid voices in aiding the service, at the church, but by their loveable characters in adding much to the harmony and love that existed between each member of the choir. Miss Clarry said she voiced the sentiment of the choir, when she said it was with deep sorrow that the choir were called upon to say good-bye to two such members, but that all were sincere for their wishes for them in their new home.

Mr F. Skitch, on behalf of the choir, presented to Miss Lee a beautiful necklace with settings of amethysts, and to Mr. Armstrong a handsome tie pin, settings in pearl. Miss Lee and Mr. Armstrong, although taken by surprise, replied in a few well-chosen words, expressing the same feeling of love for the members, as had been expressed by Miss Clarry, and thanked the choir for their beautiful gift.

Refreshments were served and before parting the choir sang "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot."

TAX-RATES AND WATER-RATES

The Examiner is pleased to get the following letter because it indicates a spirit of interest in an undertaking having an important bearing upon the welfare of the city; and more pleased because it is able on the authority of the commissioners to give a favourable reply:

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—You say in last night's issue:

"As before stated in these columns it will be noticed that the construction of the new dam will add nothing to the tax-rate of the city, the by-law providing that the surplus revenue for the Waterworks shall be applied to the payment of the interest upon and provide sinking fund for the retirement of, the depenture upon which the $120,000, the cost of the dam and connected works, is raised."

If Sir, you have the ear of the Water Commissioners, will you be good enough to say, on their authority, that the construction of the new dam will not add anything to the Water-rate.

If, as I believe, the water-rate is most likely to be increased, does it make much difference to the consumer whether he pays an increased tax-rate or an increased water-rate?

Yours, etc.,

RUBIDGE STREET.

Our correspondent is informed that The Examiner, in dealing with the matter of the new dam, has kept its responsibility to the public in mind and has stated nothing which is not in accordance with the facts, and its answer to the inquiry made above should be reassuring. The Commissioners since they took charge of the Waterworks system have made two reductions in the water rate and there does not seem the least probability that the rate will be increased as a result of the construction of the new dam, for the very good reason that there will be no need for an increase of water rates, which increase would be a contravention of the past applied policy of these officials. According to the official figures as set forth in the by-law to be submitted to the people on Tuesday, March 30th, instant, the yearly amount required to pay interest and sinking fund on the debentures to be issued is $7,424.56. The by-law further provides that the annual surplus from the operation of the Waterworks shall be applied to the payment of this interest and sinking fund. Last year, 1908, this surplus amounted to $9,200, practically $2,000 over and above what is needed to meet interest on debentures and sinking fund. The amount of this surplus is humanly certain to increase year by year, for it has increased every year since the Commissioners assumed charge of the works, notwithstanding that, in that time two reductions in water rates have been made. The extension of the system, which will continue as the city grows, accounts for the increase of revenue. It is therefore morally certain that there will be no increase of water rates on account of payment for construction of the new dam, as it is equally certain that the construction of the new dam will add nothing to the general or other tax-rate. "Rubidge street" and all other streets, can rest assured that the construction of a new waterworks dam, and all the benefits it involves, including an auxiliary pumping plant—something absolutely essential to security of water supply under all circumstances, and to the obtaining of the most favourable insurance rating—will not mean a cent of additional taxation or a cent of increase in water rates.

It is to be particularly kept in mind that the proposal to raise $120,000 to erect a new waterworks dam is quite separate and distinct from any power proposal except the indirect connection with a new dam.

The tariff "reform" measure introduced in the House of Representatives, Washington, meets the national ideas of reform—money making. It is estimated that the new tariff schedule will increase the national income about fifty millions of dollars.

THE UNITED STATES TARIFF BILL

The United States tariff seems to have been revised on rational principles. Evidently a leaf has been taken out of Canada's book. As the Canadian revision of the tariff of a dozen years ago, which involves a general decrease of duty, resulted in more revenue, so the United States revision while having been lowered, will, it is estimated result in in a very substantial increase of revenue, not all but principally, gained by tariff readjustment. A decrease in the imports on raw materials conjoined with an equalization of revenue and expenditure encouraging importations will have a beneficial effect. It is perhaps too early to determine now the proposed tariff legislation will affect Canada, but it pointed out by the Ottawa Free Press that:

"The provision for reciprocity in coal is a most important one. While we to-day allow the free importation of anthracite coal, we levy a duty upon bituminous coal, principally for the benefit of the miners of Nova Scotia and British Columbia, but they ought to be able to secure so substancial a share of the markets of New England and of the Pacific State cities respectively as to compensate them for the competition which they will have to meet elsewhere. In any event they have the benefit of water carriage for their coal as far as Montreal, and should be able to compete there with the railway-hauled coal from Pennsylvania and Ohio. Free bituminous coal will be a great boon for the Province of Ontario and of the central provinces, which have long borne the burden of protection to the coal industry of Nova Scotia.

Other concessions involved in the tariff suggest a benefit to Canadian interests, but they also carry a danger. The reduction in the duty upon lumber will naturally stimulate the Canadian lumber trade and the admission of wood pulp free and reduced duties on printing paper will have a similar effect upon the industries concerned. In view, however, of the desirability of conserving our lumber resources, in the interest of this country and of providing for their perpetuity, anything that will injurously accelerate the exhaustion of these resources is to be regarded as a menace to our national interests. The United States have not reduced their duties on these products in the interests of Canada, but in their own interests. It has been specifically declared that the more easy admission of timber products, lumber and pulp wood to the United States was proposed for the protection of the forest resources of that country—if the supply from Canada could be increased the vanishing stock of United States timber would be protected. The reduced duty on paper is unobjectionable, because pulp wood in that form represents the highest form of pulp wood conversion, really giving Canada the greatest benefits in the employment of labour and other advantages. But free wood pulp is a danger. If we wish to get the greatest benefit from our pulp wood resources we should provide in both our industrial interests and in the interest of the preservation of our natural resources, that not an ounce of pulp wood except in the highest form of manufactured condition should leave the country. This might deprive us, according to the Payne bill, of the benefit of the reduced wood pulp tariff but we should have the benefits arising from the manufacture at home, and a market, if not so convenient as the United States, could easily be formed. The hostile tariff legislation of our neighbours has forced us to find other markets, to the increase of our independence and even material profit.

Self preservation is the first law of nature.

NATIONAL FOLLY

Representative J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y., has contributed some interesting observations upon peace and war between nations. He speaks with peculiar emphasis of the spectacle of national folly presented by the United States spending millions for a navy and sending it round the world on a display voyage, with the incongruity of its being convoyed by foreign flags.

Speaking of the world-famous cruise of the battleship fleet, Mr. Fassett said the trip was a "glorious inspiration. It had given a thrill of pride to every patriotic American, established a world's record, put America first in a great and daring undertaking, and established the fact that this country can build as efficient and excellent fighting machines as any nation. It had also established the excellence of our commanding officers, and the excellence of the boys in blue and their superiority in ability to perform their duties.

"From the time our fleet left our shores until it returned, the only American flags our navy saw were those carried at their own mastheads," continued Mr. Fassett. "The accompanying colliers carried the flags of our trade rivals, because the lowest price at which American bidders could carry coal was $8 a ton, whereas our foreign rivals carried the coal for us at $5 a ton. And so our ships were followed around the world by the commercially triumphant flags of our commercial rivals. All the long thousands of miles about the coasts of South America our men looked in vain for a single American flag flying from a single American ship.

"At Honolulu, Yokohama, Shanghai and Hong Kong they may have seen a few, but from Hong Kong until they returned home again they saw no trading ships carrying the Stars and Stripes. We have trade with the growing markets of the world, but our goods are carried by our trade rivals. This was not always so. One hundred years ago there was engaged in deep sea foreign trade under our flag, 981,019 tonnage more than we have to-day. In 1861, the highest point we ever reached in deep sea tonnage, the total American tonnage was 2,496,894 and we carried 65 per cent. of our trade. To-day we have a tonnage of 940,068 and carry less than 10 per cent. of our trade. There are less than seven first class steamers on the Atlantic plying between our ports and those of Europe; there are no steamers plying between South American ports, save four which go to the Caribbean Sea. There are but six on the Pacific, and we are already almost eliminated from the struggle of the ocean carrying trade.

"Future contests are not to be naval wars or wars with guns and arms, but they are to be trade wars conducted on a war basis. It has been the universal experience of the world that those nations enjoy commercial supremacy who dominate the trade routes of the world, whether upon land or sea. The great contests of coming years are to be to secure trade and new markets." Mr. Fassett concluded by saying that the government should encourage the building of American merchant vessels in order to engage in the contest for the trade of the world, which would benefit both American labour and capital. He pointed to the Government appropriations for the irrigation of arid lands in the West to introduce settlers: land grants to railroads, the improvement of rivers and harbours and other assistance which the Government had given to the development of the country, and said that the American merchant marine was worthy of similar consideration.

These remarks not only illustrate the folly—to describe it most mildly—of nations wasting millions to produce practically useless, or at least unnecessary, war fleets, and thereby withdrawing millions from objects of legitimate expenditure which would be a benefit to the nation concerned and also to the world at large. Under a protective system of half a century the United States sees its merchant fleets practically swept from the seas. That great country can't find a coal lugger of her own to carry her own flag, though it can build battleship after battleship costing five or six million dollars each. Such folly is only parallelled by the action of a farmer who would invest all his money in an automobile or grand pianoforte and be compelled to borrow a plough from his neighbour to till his land.

"Having for years suffered from catarrh and a cough, and being run-down owing to a severe attack of bronchitis, and after seeking relief in vain from several so-called remedies, I took three bottles of Vinol, which completely restored my usual vigor, entirely removed the mucus and cured the cough.

"I consider Vinol the greatest and most beneficial remedy ever offered the public, and am glad to testify to its efficiency." George Cole, "The Pines," Kincardine, Ontario.

This is because Vinol is a sanguine tonic and builder which contains peptonate of iron together with every one of the body-building, medicinal elements of cod liver oil, but without one drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol acts directly upon the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements from the food eaten to make rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue and create strength.

Your money back if Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid and Jury, Druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets, also Payne's Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets, Peterborough.

DECORATES CAKE WITH TRADE MARK

Chinese Cook Makes Novel Pastry For London Missionaries In China.

Mrs. S. Percy Westaway (daughter of Mr. Wm. Moore, of West London), who, with her husband, are now located at Chentu, Sz Chuan, WestChina, supported by the Dundas Centre Methodist Church, writes a descriptive letter of the events transpiring in her present home, and among the incidents related in her most interesting letter received this week is one that brings out the Chinaman as an imitator, and shows his ideas of advertising matter in certain Canadian papers. This Chinaman evidently knew that the advertisement was a most characteristic and attractive one, and from the manner in which it is displayed, thought it was an advertisement of some confectioner in this country. The advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills has been printed for years as a trade mark in almost every paper published and has become well known. The following is taken from the letter, and fully explains the circumstances:

A Good Laugh

"Once in a while we find something to have a good laugh at. Let me tell you this incident. The West China Educational Union was holding meetings in the City; one session met at this house. We in Chentu follow the English custom and serve tea and cake at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Carson was going to serve tea to the members and we wished to help. I was still in bed, and told the cook to make a cake. Our cook is a pretty old fellow, about 30 or 35 years of age, and has worked 'for the foreigner' for a long time. He can make a good cake when he so desires, and this day he made a layer cake, icing it with white, with red trimmings. He delights to get a new recipe or some new way of decoration. The London Advertiser, after we have finished with it, frequently finds its way to the kitchen, and as a proof that the cook 'reads it' we give this:—About three o'clock Percy went into the kitchen to see how things were getting along. The cake was there, iced with white and decorated with red, forming three rows across the cake, and this is what Percy saw and read:

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

"On the table beside the cake was that well-known advertisement — the circular box, with this inscription. He, poor fellow, had taken it for a well made cake, and decorated his like it. They are splendid imitators and clever in their way, every one of them. The cook knows considerable English, but when he tries it on us we pretend not to understand him."

HARTLEY'S CALLER.

By COLIN S. COLLINS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Lady to see you," announced Jimmie, one of the office boys, with a deference that he showed only to Hartley, the dramatic critic, and Murphy, the sporting editor. The sporting editor could call all the baseball players by their first names, but Hartley had only to write on a slip of paper and it would take Jimmie into the much desired "show." Such small fry as editors and star reporters were not at all in the same class with a man who carried passes in his pocket every day.

"I've told you a hundred times to get the name, Jimmie," was the testy response. Hartley was ill at ease with the whole world that morning.

"I know," admitted Jimmie, with unembarrassed truthfulness, "but, say, Mr. Hartley, she's a peacherino for fair!"

"I'm not interested in fruit," was the cold response as Hartley turned to his desk. He hated all women at the moment, for he had had to do a thing which would probably cost him the love of the one woman he really did care for.

He had had to tell the cruel truth about Norma Keating as an actress, and he felt that the high spirited girl never would forgive him.

Jimmie, the persistent, hung over the desk.

"She don't look like an actress," he declared, using the argument he knew to be most potent. "An' she's a pippin for fair!"

"I can't see any one who does not send in a card," declared Hartley as he turned to his work again, and Jimmie dashed out presently to return with a bit of pasteboard.

With a start Hartley read Norma's name and gave orders that she be ushered in. It was better perhaps that since there was to be a quarrel they should meet on his own ground.

Somehow, with the familiar surroundings, he felt more safe than he ever could in the parlor of the little actress' suit at the hotel. With a sternness that indifferently masked the misery that he felt he prepared to receive his caller.

He had expected that she would come storming in to denounce him for his criticism and to declare him biased and unfair.

He was braced for the shock and fly prepared for the sight of the dejected little woman who came timidly into his dingy office, her rich furs forming a strange contrast to the bare walls and cheap furniture.

Jimmie slipped away after one last admiring glance, and then the girl raised her eyes to Hartley's and met the pity in his bravely.

"I did not come to reproach you for your notice," she said, with a quick appreciation of his attitude. "It was your right to say what you pleased. I paid a big price for the special performance in order to get the metropolitan notices, and in doing so I exposed myself to every form of critical attack.

"I suppose that you are expected to be severe on beginners, to ridicule them and beat them down and force them into their proper places.

"You demand that we start at the bottom. I can see now that it was absurd to think that I could win favorable comment from the great men who have made their reputation more through the savageness of their attacks than through their ability as critics."

"And yet you said you had not come to reproach?" he asked gently. Even in her bitterness he noticed a new note in the rich voice. It hurt him to think that he was in part responsible for that little catch of pain which would sound, try as she would to be hard and cynical.

It was as if her whole quivering soul was laid bare in spite of the dress of words with which she sought to clothe it.

"I did not mean to say that," she cried. "I only meant to come and ask you if you would let me have my photographs back. You and the rest of your confreres have beaten me. I am in retreat. I am going as far from New York as I can. I want to take with me everything that is mine."

"You should have sent your agent and spared yourself," he reminded her gently. "I will see that the pictures are found for you. Will you sit down?"

He indicated a chair as he rang for a boy, and presently Jimmie went away with instructions that Miss Keating's photographs were to be returned by the art department at once.

Neither spoke until the boy had laid the package down and had departed for the outer office. Then Hartley rose and placed them on the chair beside her.

"There is another one," she said uncertainly, "the one that I gave you. May I have it back, please?"

"If you wish," he promised as he turned again to his desk to draw from one of the recesses a photograph with a flowing autograph across its face. "Does your anger go so deep that you are unwilling to leave me even this souvenir of a friendship that I shall always treasure in my memory?" he asked. "May I not keep it?"

"To add to your sacrificial heap," she retorted bitterly. "I suppose you must have a goodly collection of those you have flayed."

"I have few photographs—and few friends among the women of the profession," he said simply as he opened a drawer for an envelope. "I had hoped to number your first among those few."

He held the envelope toward her, and for a moment she hesitated. She seemed about to leave the room, but she turned and faced him again.

"You told me once that you never would marry an actress," she said tensely. "Was it because—because you did not want me on the stage that you—that you wrote as you did?"

"I have made no secret of my admiration for you," said Hartley simply, "and I may have made the remark you attribute to me, but it was with no desire to drive you from the stage that I framed my criticism as I did."

"Can't you see," he continued passionately, "the awful position in which I was placed. If I praised your acting, I should have made my paper the laughingstock of the town. If I spoke the truth I knew that I should lose you. Every line of the story in this morning's paper was studied that I might speak as warmly as I dared without stultifying the paper."

"It was a little better than the rest," admitted Norma, "but I thought you had been a little kind so that I would not suspect how you had induced the other critics to be so merciless."

"On the contrary, I saw none of the boys," he declared. "I was far too sick at heart to mix with them and hear their ugly comments."

"Was I really as bad as that?" asked the girl wonderingly. "I thought it was because I was an amateur and had the money to hire the theater and the company. They always jump upon the rich amateurs, I had heard. I thought that was it. Was I really as bad as all that?"

"Don't ask me," pleaded Hartley, but the girl persisted.

"You have a good voice and a good presence," he said slowly. "You have some crude ability, but that is all. You lack the spark of genius. Even money cannot buy that."

"Then you think I will never be an actress?" she asked with quivering lip. Hartley shook his head, and she turned away to the window, pressing her brow to the cool pane, against which the sleet rattled angrily.

For several minutes she stood thus looking out into the whirling snow and hail with unseeing eyes, while Hartley silently watched her.

He would have given the world to take her in his arms and comfort her, but instinctively he realized that she must fight her battle alone. She was the one woman in all the world to him, and yet he dared not speak.

At last she turned, and now her eyes were smiling, though her lips still were drawn and white.

"Why struggle against unanimous condemnation? You must be right," she conceded. "I never shall make an actress, and you said that you never would marry an actress."

"I'd marry you if you were Bernhardt and Duse in one," he cried, "but I rather would marry just you, dear. Will you have me? In spite of the blow that I have struck your pride can you love me?"

"I hate to marry a wife beater," she said, with a wan little smile, "but, Frank, I think I'd rather have your love than to be a great actress, and I don't mind the notice—now."

Jimmie, coming in with a card, turned and fled precipitately.

"I used to think that Mr. Murphy had the best of it, goin' to prize fights an' ball games," he said reflectively, "but I guess it's Mr. Hartley that has the cinch. I'd rather kiss that pippin than know the hull ball team."

English Hunting Dress.

When out hunting everybody should be dressed as a gentleman, and the most detrimental thing to fox hunting is the modern innovation (really gross laziness and an insult to the hunt and the master) of young gentlemen coming out dressed in rat catching clothes, shooting caps and fancy costumes of their own, and much harm is done.

There is nothing the farmers dislike so much as this habit, for they never know whether such persons are rough riders or gentlemen or people from the towns or who they are galloping over their land and over their fences.

There is but one proper and legitimate fox hunting dress for gentlemen, and that is red and black coat, white breeches, top boots and a high hat, and certainly thirty years ago nobody would have dared to come out dressed otherwise. Where the hounds belong to the country, landowners are entitled to wear the hunt button, but I do not think that this entitles the subscribers to wear it unless they are invited to do so by the master or by the committee, as the case may be.—"The Highest Authority" in Bally's Magazine.

Wild Animals Asleep.

It is always a pretty sight to come upon wild animals asleep, so graceful are their attitudes. The fox curls himself up with all the charming, luxurious air of a cat. He rests his head in the lap of the two front pads, then twines his brush neatly round over his long pointed nose. He is a light sleeper, but hares and rabbits are still more easily roused.

We believe they sleep with their eyes wide open. The uncapped lenses of the eyes remain active through sleep, so that any vision of danger impressed on the retina conveys an automatic alarm to the slumberer's brain. People are sometimes puzzled when in open fields they notice a dozen or more hare forms within a few yards of each other. They may conclude hares swarm in those fields. Probably the reason for the many forms is that a hare likes to face the wind when sleeping and so scratches out many forms to suit the wind's changing directions.—St. James' Gazette.

Very Wise.

Photographer—Look pleasant, please.

TO OPEN UP MINES.

Road Wanted to Tap Rich Similkameen Valley.

With the backing of the Vancouver city council, the board of trade and the tourist association of that city, as well as the support of the residents in Chilliwack, Mr. Robert Stevenson, one of the oldest pioneers of British Columbia, and the first white men to enter the Similkameen country, will petition the Government of British Columbia to build a wagon road this summer from Hope across the Hope mountains to Otter Flat, in the Similkameen valley.

Mr. Stevenson, who owns no less than thirty-four claims in the valley, states that the only thing which is retarding the development of some of the richest mines in British Columbia is the lack of facilities to get the ore out of the valley.

"Large numbers of rich mineral lodes are known to exist all the way along the old trail, which is now blocked by fallen timber," said Mr. Stevenson the other day to a representative of The Vancouver Province.

"Most of these lodes have passed the prospective stage of development. Tunnels and shafts have been sunk on many claims, and in some places ore has been piled up ready for shipment, and mining men are literally crying out for a road.

"There are platinum deposits in this district which have attracted the attention of the Dominion geologist, Mr. Camsell, who will spend all next summer in the Similkameen valley."

Mr. Stevenson went to the Similkameen valley in 1860. There were no bridges in those days, and when high water was met there was nothing for it but swimming. Many of the Indian tribes were hostile, and at one time Mr. Stevenson and a companion held sixty native warriors at bay.

"We were armed with six-shooters, a novelty in those days, and the Indians were afraid to approach too close as they thought that the revolvers would never cease discharging their little leaden pellets."

IS NOT A CANNIBAL.

Joseph Grassette Did Not Eat Companions on Trip.

Through the exertions of the department of the attorney-general of Quebec and Detective McCaskill, the whereabouts have at last been discovered of Joseph Grassette, a Frenchman, supposed to be the sole survivor of the ill-fated hunting and trading party which came to grief in the winter of 1907-08, in the vicinity of Lake Mistassini.

It will be remembered that in May, 1908, portions of the human body were found in the woods, which were identified as those of the guide, Auguste Lemieux. They were horribly mutilated, conveying the impression that they had been used as food by other famishing members of the party.

Grassette is at Albany. In a letter to Detective McCaskill, Grassette says: "Learning that I am sought by the police under the accusation of the murder of my two companions, I write to you to say that I am at your disposition in order to rid myself of this serious accusation. I might say that my two guides set out for Lake St. John, Dec. 18, 1907, from the confluence of the rivers Chibogamu and Ibatogoman, where we had passed the autumn. I was to follow them several days after with my dog, but having been unable to move for several days after freezing my foot and having then only a few pounds of provisions left, I had to give up my intention of going to Lake St. John, and then I betook myself to the Washwanipi post, a distance of almost 70 miles, where I arrived dying of hunger."

Not That Kind of an Indian.

An amusing illustration of the way some of the New York papers sacrifice everything to the telling of a good story, was afforded by the Longboat-Shrubb race. One of these journals in describing the race said that at one stage the Indian was pretty well tired out and needed to be cheered up, so Tom Flanagan brought Longboat's Indian bride down to the side of the track where her husband could see her.

The paper went on to say: "The Indian could not understand a word of English, nor could he understand signs made to him by his trainers, but the smiles of his wife and her cheering words woke him into new life."

This would have been true of Longboat's great-grandfather, but, of course, he talks English and little else, while his bride was a schoolteacher before her marriage a few months ago.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Mounted Police Travel Far.

An evidence of the extreme measures to which the Northwest Mounted Police will go in bringing delinquents to justice is marked in a visit of one of their officers to Toronto a few days ago, to take back a horse thief.

The prisoner is Thomas H. Webb, arrested in Owen Sound, charged with stealing the horse, harness and buggy of Ernest Machon, a reporter on The Calgary Herald. Sergt. J. J. Wilson, N.W.M.P., brought Webb to the city, and took him to Calgary.

The sergeant is a famous traveler after criminals, and arrested the notorious train robber, Miner, whose escape from prison has been a topic in Parliament.

Not a Favored Location.

The beauties and wonders of nature as displayed in Vancouver have formed the theme of many a traveler's rhapsody, but it appears that there are people who do not appreciate them. One such woman, born and bred in Vancouver, recently visited in New York.

"It must be wonderful to have lived and grown up in such a place," said a New Yorker who had traveled round the world.

"Why, I don't know," said the native of Vancouver without enthusiasm. "We've just got the mountains and the sea; that's all."

A FIRE IN JAPAN.

The Victim Has Other Troubles Besides Loss of Goods.

An American missionary living in Japan recently lost his dwelling by fire. He described in an amusing way the polite condolences which his neighbors showered upon him. "We were deluged with visiting cards," he says. "They were forced into our hands by sympathetic inquirers, friends offering aid and tradespeople soliciting orders. The conversation with each comer was somewhat as follows: 'You have indeed had an honorable disaster,' says the friend. 'I have humbly caused a great disturbance,' I reply. 'Please honorably excuse me.' 'Indeed, it is honorably sad for you,' the friend answers. 'I have done an unheard of thing,' I say. 'I am overcome that you should have come to call on me on purpose. Thank you very much.' 'Please honorably excuse me for being so late in coming,' says the friend. The energy required for such a conversation can be imagined by accompanying each sentence with a low bow and repeating the process about fifty times.

"About 10 o'clock we two foreigners escaped to face our next duty, which consisted in apologizing to all the houses in our section—about fifty. It was nearly 12 o'clock at night when our apology tour was completed, but our last visitor called at 2 o'clock in the morning. Callers began coming again at 6 o'clock and kept on coming steadily. During the day we received many visitors and paid twenty-eight or more calls. The strain of all this, together with our other tasks, including the receiving of the stream of visitors, which lasted a whole week, is better imagined than described.

"All day after the fire and for three days more people from all over Gifu and from out-stations, kept bringing sympathy from their families and presents of cakes and fruit and other articles. We can never repay all the kindness we received."—Chicago News.

THE ELBE RIVER.

How the Stream Was Brought to an Even Slope and Current.

In the beginning the Elbe, like any other river, wandered at its will, now spreading out among a multitude of islands, now narrowing into a short and crooked turn, now widening over a shoal. As a proper beginning for the correction of this sort of thing the Prussians, in true German style, prepared a map of the stream as it was, decided by a simple mathematical calculation how wide a channel 1.50 meters deep at middle water could be with the existing flow and then upon the map in red ink, eliminating all sharp turns, drew in graceful curves and long straight reaches regardless of the existing banks two nearly parallel lines, indicating the banks as they were intended to be.

The engineers began at the head of the stream and built out from the old shore to the location of the red line transverse dikes, ground sills—ordinary contraction works. Sometimes where they seemed to be needed they built long parallel dikes exactly on the new red line. Sometimes they wove hurdles and revetment mattresses of willow brush, much as we do at home, and sunk them on bars between the tips of the transverse dikes, and then on the top of them set up upright sticks and wove "wattle" or basket fences of willow through them to make pens, and into these piled sand dredged from the stream, to build up the shore. Mile by mile they advanced, dredging the river or letting it dredge itself, leaving no ends loose to ravel out, gradually reducing the river to an even slope and current.—Boston Transcript.

His Dinner Guests.

In a volume published in London, "Piccadilly to Pall Mall," there is this queer anecdote of the vagaries of social life in the capital: Some years ago an eminent personage accepted or suggested a dinner with a certain millionaire, at that time comparatively unknown. The first guest to arrive, having explained to the butler that, being unacquainted with his host, he would wait till some one else came who could introduce him, lingered in the hall. The second was in the same predicament, as were the third, fourth, fifth and other guests up to the ninth, who chanced to be "the eminent personage" himself. Upon the dilemma being explained to him he cheerfully said: "Oh, come along with me! I will introduce you all. I know him."

Clown Dogs In Demand.

There are dogs and dogs, but not all dogs are fitted for clown work in the circus or a dog and pony show. Clown dogs are a source of great amusement with the children, and when a pup is found which has a keen sense of the ridiculous he is the one for the sawdust ring. Sometimes pups of no particular breed are found which fill the bill for harlequin roles, and the circus man is glad to get them. When a humorous dog is small and agile he is in great demand.—Chicago News.

Practical Proof.

Did the Best He Could.

In the absence of the regularly appointed spokesman, Mr. Makinbrakes had reluctantly consented to make a presentation speech.

"Miss Higham," he said, "unfortunately it is my—er—fortunate lot to fulfill the embarrassing—the pleasant duty of—of inflicting a few remarks upon this occasion—which is highly appreciated, I assure you, and by none more so than myself, for the reason that—in short, as I may say, it falls to my lot to convey, so to speak, the assurances of—that is, with the assurances of those to whom—to whom I have occasion to refer to—more or less—in this connection, together with the best wishes, if I may so express myself, of those who have clubbed together—who have associated themselves—not that you need anything of the kind, of course, but as a token of—as a token of—of—with which few remarks, Miss Higham, it is my—my pleasant surprise to hand you this gold watch and chain. I—I thank you."—Chicago Tribune.

A Moqui Repartee.

A certain commissioner was given to treating the Indians with a scorn they did not deserve. One day as he sat with a great chief in his tepee, smoking the pipe of peace, the chief entertained him with many quaint legends.

One of these dealt with a plague of locusts, and the grim orator described in flowery language how they had swarmed over the land, eating every herb and green leaf and blotting out the light of day for very number. Then he concluded by remarking that it was not until the medicine man made an offering of a silver locust to the Great Spirit that the creatures disappeared, and this they did swiftly and suddenly.

Loudly the commissioner laughed the superstitious Indian to scorn.

"Do you mean to say you're such fools as to believe that rubbish?" he asked.

"Not much," replied the chief gravely, "or we would have offered the Great Spirit a silver paleface long ago!"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Heroic Husbands.

Some women were discussing over their afternoon tea the statement that a man is no more a hero to his wife than to his valet. There seemed to be no opposition to the idea that a man's servant did not appreciate him, but all stoutly maintained that their husbands were heroic in one way or another.

"My husband is very heroic," said Mrs. Black. "For instance, he will give up his visit to the club to play jackstraws with my old mother, and she is his mother-in-law, you know."

"I think I can beat that," remarked Mrs. Gray. "When my milliner's quarterly bill comes in my husband smiles as he writes a check and never thinks of looking at the items."

"I can give you a better example than either of those!" exclaimed Mrs. White. "When the morning paper comes at breakfast time my husband always offers me the first reading of it."

An informal vote awarded the last speaker's husband the medal for heroism.—Youth's Companion.

When Boys Were Taught to Smoke.

The habit of juvenile smoking in England in the seventeenth century was practically universal. Jorevin de Rochefort, a French traveler of that period, in an account published in 1671 gives a description of an evening he spent at Worcester. He was catechized by one of the townsmen as to the habits of the French people.

"While we were walking about the town," he writes, "he asked me if it was the custom in France, as in England, that when the children went to school they carried in their satchel with their books a pipe of tobacco which their mother took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast, and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in their tobacco, thus accustoming them to it from their youth, believing it absolutely necessary for a man's health."—St. James' Gazette.

Telling Electric Currents.

It is often desirable or interesting to find out whether the current in an electric light circuit is continuous or alternating. The appearance of an incandescent lamp to the naked eye is precisely the same in both cases. It may be desired, for instance, to use a small motor, and those for use with the two kinds of currents are of entirely different construction. If a small magnet be held near a lighted incandescent lamp the filament, if a continuous current is passing through it, will simply bend slightly as the magnet nears it. If, on the contrary, the current is alternating the filament will begin to vibrate, which will make it look as if it were continually changing in thickness. The magnet used may be a small one, easily carried about in the pocket.—Chicago Record-Herald.

CANADIAN BINDER TWINE PRAISED BY THE INSPECTOR

The following article was taken from the Trade and Commerce weekly report, March 15th, 1909:

Canadian Binder Twine Industry.

Special report by the Dominion Inspector, Mr. J. L. Haycock, indicates gratifying conditions.

In response to a request from the Department of Trade and Commerce, Mr. J. L. Haycock, Dominion Inspector of Binder Twine, has submitted a report upon the binder twine industry in Canada. It is gratifying to learn that the Canadian product holds highest rank, that the exports of twine are gaining and the imports declining, and finally, that the Canadian manufacturers adhere rigidly to standard. Mr. Haycock's report states:

"Canadian binder twine has established for itself a reputation in the world's markets. In fact, Canadian binder twine in the market claims rank similar to 'Scotch tweed' in the cloth market, and it may be of interest to know that at present Canadian mills are exporting twine to many foreign countries, including Russia, Roumania, Argentina, Australia, and England, Scotland and the United States of America.

During the past season, it is equally gratifying to learn that no binder twine was discovered below the standard of the Act.

No doubt Mr. Haycock had the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Co. of Peterborough specially in his mind when he made up his report, as we understand he visits the mill at least once a month, and has often given expression to the fact that he is very highly pleased indeed with the product of our local mill. It is highly gratifying to us to hear one of our large industries spoken of, in such glowing terms, especially by the Inspector of Industries. May they continue to merit such high measures of praise.

Labour Organizations.

There is again an increase in the returns from the labour organizations being 32 as compared with 271 last year and 157 the year before, which is pleasing to note; there is still manifested, however, a reluctance to make these returns, though the trades unions of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Continent of Europe take the broad view that the publication of such statistics is beneficial to organized labour as well as of interest to the general public.

Interesting Feature at Annual Meeting of All Saints W. A. Yesterday Afternoon

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saint's Church was held yesterday afternoon and proved very successful. A large number of the ladies were present and the reports of the various branches of the society were read and adopted. The past year has been a most successful one. A great deal of work was accomplished, and a large sum of money was raised.

One of the most interesting events of the meeting was the presentation to Mrs. Wm. Best of a life-membership certificate pin. Mrs. Best is one of the oldest members of the auxiliary, and she has always been a most active worker. The address was read by Mrs. Gilbert, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Thomas Hooper.

An interesting address was delivered by the rector, Rev. H. R. Trumpour.

Spring Millinery Exhibit Saturday

Throngs visited our Millinery Exhibit on the opening days and expressions of admiration were prevalent. This season is decidedly "floral"—the displays are veritable exhibitions of the most exquisite flowers, so arranged as to produce the most artistic effects — what is nicer than flowers — representations of nature's own handiwork? And the shapes too are indeed masterpieces of the art. Altogether, we believe our showing for this spring caps all previous years for Women's Millinery. Visit our parlours on Saturday and view the display of New York Models.

Women's Exquisite Costumes

Among the beautiful costumes that are on exhibition this season, our showing cannot be equalled for exclusive style. An elegance pervades the whole that is luring to the eye and pleasing to artistic sense. Note our popular priced suits at $15 $18 and $20—They're stunners.

MANY PEOPLE HAVE CONFESSED TO THE MURDER OF ETHEL KINRADE

"Dear Sir.—You needn't bother looking any more for the murderer of Ethel Kinrade.

"I done it, and you can't catch me. I fired eight shots at her and got away." ... ...

(Examiner Special.)

Hamilton, March 18.—The above is the startling letter received by Detective Miller, of the Provincial police force, who has charge of the investigation into the murder of Ethel Kinrade.

There is no signature to the letter, and it is post-marked Montreal, so if the officers were inclined to take the matter seriously, they would have some difficulty in locating the writer.

But, of course, they do not take it seriously for one very good reason that this is the twelfth letter confessing to the murder of Ethel Kinrade, which has been received by those working on the case at Hamilton.

All of these letters have been anonymous, and have come from different points in Canada and the United States. There is one post-marked Toronto, Guelph, Detroit, Buffalo, New York, and others from smaller places.

This constitutes one of the most curious features to date of the great mystery tragedy of February 25th.

It indicates in some measure the hold the murder has taken on the public mind.

A NIGHT OF GRAND OPERA.

The presentation of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" at the opera house last night by the Italian Grand Opera Company was not only an intrinsically worthy musical and dramatic event, but a fine fillip to musical culture in Peterborough. It gave our music-loving citizens an opportunity to compare the sterling quality and solidity of classic grand opera music with the ephemeral froth of so much of the opera bouffe music that wins so wide a vogue in these comparatively degenerate days. The splendid and competent presentation of Il Trovatore last night cannot help but stimulate a local taste for legitimate musical and dramatic motive, and another visit from Hammerstein's grand opera company on March 25th should be welcomed by a much larger audience than that delighted at the opera house last night. There is a prejudice against grand opera sung in a foreign tongue, but after all it is the music and dramatic action that speak. Any one familiar with the plot of Il Trovatore would, if it had been sung in Choc-taw, have had an intelligent appreciation of it. The beautiful music and the excellent acting would speak for themselves if it had been known to all that the gypsy Azucena, (the magnificent contralto of the company) in revenge for the burning of her mother as a witch steals the younger brother of the Count de Luna and brings him up under the name of Manrico as her son. He becomes a troubadour, as the name of the play indicates. Both fall in love with Leonora, and out of this motif rival love and zingara revenge weave the complicated and beautiful action of the tragedy—the gypsy camp, with its ever charming anvil chorus, the prison scene, the magnificent pathetic Miserere scene and the beautiful and thrilling tragical finale.

All the principal characters were very ably taken, both vocally and dramatically, the singing was superb, the tenors and baritone being well up to the highest mark. The rich and sweet contralto of Azucena was matched by the more brilliant but not less effective and cultured singing of Leonora. The magnificent arias, duets and trios were greeted with tumultuous applause and it was richly deserved. The chorus gave robust volume of good singing. The orchestra was effective, the opera was well staged and in all respects a delightful presentation of high character, whether from the viewpoint of art or entertainment, was given.

Will Hold Stallion Show On Market Square April 17

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Directors Will Conduct First Spring Show—Very Enthusiastic Meeting With Great Deal of Work Done.

QUESTION OF ATTRACTIONS.

The directors of the Peterborough Agricultural Association held a meeting in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon, which was largely attended and like others held this year, was marked by a great deal of work being accomplished. The prize list was gone over and revised. The amount of the prizes were increased in some cases and in others the entry fee was reduced. This was done in the classes which were weak last year and it is hoped that by this means they will be strengthened and will bring out a larger number of entries this year. The membership tickets are now for sale and an effort is being made to secure a large number of members thereby guaranteeing the success of the exhibition. Arrangements are also under way to provide meals on the grounds that will please the public. The directors were not satisfied with this department last year and intend to give this matter more attention.

Another matter that will receive more attention is that of the special attractions. "It is simply a case of necessity," one of the members stated. The citizens want something good in this regard and the fair directors intend giving a splendid list of attractions. But more about this will be announced in the proper time to show that the exhibition this year will be well up to any outside the big cities.

Stallion Show.

The fair directors have decided to hold a Spring Stallion show on Saturday, April 17th, on the Market Square. It will be opened at two o'clock and an effort will be made to get stallion owners to enter this show and make it the success that all local horsemen consider it should be.

There are several classes in which prizes will be offered. They are Clydesdales, imported and Canadian bred, Shires, Percherons, Standard bred, Thoroughbred and Hackneys. There will be no entry fee, but all exhibitors must be members of the Agricultural Society. Farmers throughout the country, as well as all horsemen, will undoubtedly be interested in this show and for that reason an effort will be made to secure entries from all the stallion owners in the county. The limits have not been announced, but further notices will be awaited with interest. The fair directors are determined to make it a success and therefore are looking for the co-operation of those stallion owners who are known to the people of the county and district.

A Case Regarding Tenant's Duty Heard In The Division Court

An interesting case at Division Court this morning dealt with the giving up of the keys of a house by a tenant who claimed to have given sufficient notice. Magistrate Dumble in the absence of Judge Weller, ruled in favour of the landlord and ordered the payment of a month's rent. Mr. Giles, of the Brinton Carpet Works, and his wife were the defendants. They claimed to have given due notice and left the house before the first of January last, but did not give up the keys until the sixth of January. It was stated that Mr. G. N. Gordon, who received the money for the landlord was not in his office on December 31, and as the next day was a holiday the defendants claimed that they had no chance to give him the keys. They were ordered to pay the month's rent for January, nine dollars.

REPORTS SCARLET FEVER CASE NOT QUARANTINED

While it is reported that the scarlet fever epidemic, if it had reached that state, is now practically subdued, one of the latest cases is said to be a student of the Normal School. In this connection the statement of another of the pupils of the school made sometime ago is of more than passing note. He remarked that the method of quarantining cases is simply a farce. He knew a family whose residence was placarded and yet the children were going in and coming out of the house as if nothing were the matter. This is only one of the cases of this kind that has been reported.

MR. HUGHES IS TO SPEAK AT THE NORMAL SCHOOL

The last of the season's series of lectures in the Normal School will be heard to-night, when Inspector Jas. L. Hughes, of Toronto, will give an address on "The Old Training and the New." There will, no doubt, be a large audience on hand to hear Mr. Hughes, who is widely known in educational and other circles as a clever, fluent speaker.

LEFT TO-DAY FOR THE WEST ON BUYING TRIP

Mr. Thomas Barrie leaves to-night on a business trip to Western Canada. He intends going as far as Edmonton, Alta., and will buy furs in their raw state, for next season's trade.

MUSICAL ADVANCEMENT OF A PETERBOROUGH BOY

The numerous friends of Mr. Norman Joliffe, an old Peterborough boy, will be glad to learn that his splendid baritone voice and cultured musical ability are bringing him both profit and glory. He has recently been appointed leader of the musical service of the Church of the Puritans church, Fifth Avenue, New York, one of the leading Presbyterian churches of that city. It is understood that this fine recognition of his musical capabilities is accompanied with a corresponding salary. The Examiner's congratulations will be joined in by a large circle of friends and admirers in this city and district.

JUDGING A CIGAR.

On no point is the average smoker so ill-informed as that of judging a cigar. Nine times out of ten, upon being handed a cigar, he will hold it to his nose, unlighted, sniff at the wrapper with a critical air, and deliver his verdict in a self satisfied manner. This characteristic manoeuvre is always a source of amusement to any tobacco man who happens to observe it. There is only one way to ascertain the quality of a cigar, and that is to smoke it. No expert will pass judgment on a cigar until he has lighted it and smoked it well down toward the middle. The first and most important point on which he bases his opinion is the "burn." Tobacco may have every other virtue, but if it does not hold the fire and burn evenly it is poor tobacco. Next in order of importance comes the aroma—the smoke must have a pleasing "smell"; next comes the flavour—the smoke must be smooth and not "scratchy" or bitter. Then there is the colour—rich brown, indicating a ripe leaf, well cured; and lastly, workmanship — good if the wrapper is put on smoothly and the "bunch" is made so that the cigar "draws" freely and is neither too hard nor too spongy; bad if the reverse.—Bohemian Magazine.

MANY CANOES BEING SENT TO GOW GANDA

The shipments that leave the C.P.R. Station here daily for Gowganda are by no means few. A large number of canoes are being sent. In fact a Dominion Express Company official informed an Examiner reporter to-day that they shipped twelve in one day for the Silver Lake districts. This is only one of several such consignments.

Mr. POGUE'S BIBLE CLASS ANNUAL MEETING TO-NIGHT.

LATHAM'S HOME RUN.

And How It Figured In Having Him Dubbed "the Dude."

Charley Comiskey told the story of how Arlie Latham came to be called "the dude."

"One spring during Latham's term of service with the good old St. Louis Browns," said Comiskey, "he jumped into the opening game of the season and won us a victory by knocking out a home run in the last inning. Chris von der Ahe from his place in the grand stand saw Arlie make his sensational hit and naturally enthused. After the game 'der boss president' entered the clubhouse and in that peculiar dialect of his said to Latham:

"'Arlie, my poy, you must be glad that I, Chris, vas proud mit you, an' I vill show you vat my feelings is by giving you the present of somedings for you to wear on yourself. Take dis order on mine own tailor an' go an' dress up yourself.'

"Chris' order on the tailor read something like this:

"'Give to Arlie der t'ings vat he buys, an' send to me der bill.'

"Latham didn't do a thing on the strength of that order but replenish his wardrobe. For three days in succession he showed up at the ball park in a fine makeup, and every suit of clothes was brand new. On the fourth day Chris got a bill from the clothing people for $100. Naturally he sent for Latham and demanded an explanation.

"'Why, Chris, old pal,' said 'Lath,' 'there's nothing to explain. Didn't you agree in that order you gave me to pay for what I bought, and haven't I just begun to buy? Why, old pal, I have only got three suits and expect to be measured for another this afternoon. What's wrong?'

"'Arlie,' replied Von der Ahe, 'you vas de one infernal dude in de pizness, I vill dis bill pay, but you vill yourself go to der tailor an' mit him explain vot I dink of der impudence of you yourself. You vill also stop mit de clothes you now have on an' do no more mit such foolishness mit der man vot pays your salary. Arlie, you vas one dude, an' if you play mit any errors dis afternoon I vill myself fine you all der bootiful clothes you have yourself bought.'

"From that day Latham became known to the baseball world as 'the dude.'"

LEE AT APPOMATTOX.

One of the Most Notable Scenes in the History of the War.

Men who saw the defeated general when he came forth from the chamber where he had signed the articles of capitulation say that he paused a moment as his eyes rested once more on the Virginia hills, smote his hands together as though in some excess of inward agony, then mounted his gray horse, Traveler, and rode calmly away.

If that was the very Gethsemane of his trials, yet he must have had then one moment of supreme, if chastened, joy. As he rode quietly down the lane leading from the scene of capitulation he passed into view of his men—of such as remained of them. The news of the surrender had got abroad, and they were waiting, grief stricken and dejected, upon the hillsides when they caught sight of their old commander on the gray horse. Then occurred one of the most notable scenes in the history of the war. In an instant they were about him, bareheaded, with tear wet faces, thronging him, kissing his hand, his boots, his saddle; weeping, cheering him amid their tears, shouting his name to the very skies. He said: "Men, we have fought through the war together. I have done my best for you. My heart is too full to say more."—From "Robert E. Lee, the Southerner."

ERROR MEANT DEATH.

Typesetters and Proofreaders on Chinese Paper Careful.

China, with all its vast population, boasts not quite two dozen daily papers, but among them are the two oldest papers in the world. The Kin Pan used to be considered by Europeans the oldest paper, but it has been issued a mere thousand years. The Tsing Pao, or Pekin News, was first published 500 years before the Norman conquest and has been issued without intermission for nearly 1,400 years. The Tsing Pao has the appearance of a yellow backed magazine of twenty-four octavo pages, each page containing seven columns, consisting of seven "characters."

Two editions are published—an edition de luxe for the court and the upper classes at a cost of 24 cents a month, and an edition inferior in paper and printing, costing 16 cents a month. It has a circulation of about 10,000 and is really the principal paper of China, chronicling the movements of the emperor and of the court and printing the ministerial reports. It is probably the most exact newspaper in the world. The punishment for an error in printing was until recently, at least, instant death.—New York Times.

CHIEFTAINS BEAT BRIDGENORTH BY 10 GOALS TO 7 LAST NIGHT

Doughty Little Red and Black Team Came From Behind and Won Out by a Rally in the Second Half

VERY INTERESTING GAME.

That doughty little aggregation of comers, the Chieftains, once more demonstrated their class last night by taking the husky Bridgenorth seven into camp in a heavy scoring game by 10 goals to 7. To win out the Chieftains had to come up from behind as they were in the rear 4-1 at one period in the first half and at the breathing spell were still one to the bad, the score board at that stage reading Bridgenorth 5, Chieftains 4. However, the red and black players were there with a rally in the second half that allowed them to win out by a comfortable margin.

It was an interesting game all the way, and while it was not always of the highest grade of hockey, there was enough thrown in to make the struggle a good exhibition. Bridgenor were many pounds heavier and years older than their opponents, but the latter did not allow that to stop them, and waded into the big fellows with a dash and vim in the second half that allowed them to make practically a runaway game of it at certain stages. The checking was hard all the way, although the game could not come under the category of rough.

The absence of Ken Crane, from the Chieftain's line-up undoubtedly affected that team's play and only at times did they exhibit that combination play that has made them such a formidable aggregation. Still they worked in enough to allow them to comfortably win the game, and after all, that was all that was needed. In spots the youngsters played splendid hockey and they made pretty good use of the opportunities when in close, while the Bridgenorth seven were slow and uncertain in their marksmanship, and their poor aim cost them several goals.

At that, however, Bridgenorth showed a marked improvement in their play from other times out. They had lots of speed and while they did not check back enough to notice it from the side, they were pretty dangerous when they got away and they gave the Chieftains' defence some bad moments.

Early in the game it looked as if Bridgenorth were going to run away with the game. They were certainly having the better of the play and the Chieftains' were not showing their usual form. The local team scored first, but the boys from the shore of Chemong Lake hammered in four in a row afterwards, and they looked like winners all over for a while. Then the Manager Thirnbeck's aggregation rallied, and at half time were only a goal behind. In the second half the kids had decidedly the better of the going. They tied the score shortly after play recommenced and then went out in front and were never headed thereafter, scoring five goals, while the visitors were sandwiching in two.

Munro and Wallis played a splendid game on the defence for the winners, their rushes always helping, while the forward line all worked hard and played splendid hockey. Gavin Koyl, formerly of Lindsay, and a brother of the famous point player of the Midgets, was at right wing for the Chieftains, and showed good form all the way, playing the boards nicely.

Kelly played an excellent game in the nets for Bridgenorth, while Fred Jopling was the pick of the rest of the team, although he showed a tendency to loaf considerably.

The teams were as follows:

Chieftains.—Goal, Lees; point, Munro; cover, Wallis; rover, Burritt; centre, Hall; right wing, Koyl; left, Fortye.

B. A. C. STOPPED THE BELMONTS TAKING TWO GAMES OUT OF THREE

The B.A.C. stopped the Belmonts with a jolt last night, taking two out of three from the latter in a League game at the P.B.C .alleys. The Belmonts needed the games bad'y, too, as a clean sweep would have put them right up with the leaders. The Belmonts started out like winners all over, putting on 528 in their first game, but they fell down in the next two, being beaten out by five and eight pins respectively in the last two games. The rolling throughout was above the usual average, and none of the players dropped below 450, in fact, the average per man was 158, which is pretty classy bowling. The scores were as follows:—

YANKEE ROGERS WON THE HANDICAP BOUT FROM TURK

Toronto, March 19.—Yussif Mahmout failed to win his handicap match from Yankee Rogers at the Star Theatre last night. The conditions were that the Turk was to throw Rogers twice in one hour or take the small end of the purse. He got one fall only, gaining that in 40 minutes with a half-Nelson and body-scissors.

It was agreed that if there were no falls at the expiration of thirty minutes Rogers should have a five minute rest. This Yankee earned. After wrestling ten minutes of the second thirty minute period, Yussif Mahmout got the only fall of the match. Rogers stayed entirely on the defensive and appeared to have the advantage of condition over the foreigner. The latter is smaller than Rogers, but compactly built. Only twice in the first period did he have Rogers in trouble. He did not appear to have speed and showed very little science. In the last five minutes of the bout he went at Rogers like a lion, but Yankee slipped, wriggled and spun out of all the holds the Turk could get. It was only in the last five minutes that the challenger of Gotch showed his strength, and then he picked up the burly Rogers and dumped him all around the mat like a child.

The consensus of opinion of the big crowd was that Mr. Turk will have to show a great deal more than he turned loose last night to win from the world's champion when they meet in Chicago for the title in three weeks' time.

Mahmout will go against two grapplers in Hamilton to-morrow night—Fred. Ulrick, the Buffalo giant, and Charlie Conkle.

THE LINDSAY COLLEGIATE TEAM WILL PLAY HERE TO-MORROW

The Lindsay Collegiate hockey team will be here to-morrow afternoon to play the local Collegiate, and the game should be a about as interesting a struggle as has been seen here this season, between junior teams. The local students are confident that they can reverse last Saturday's score and turn the tables on Lindsay, although the latter claim that they are like the Midgets and like a big ice surface. The game will start sharp at 2 o'clock, and it is likely that there will be a big crowd on hand for the battle. There will be an admission charge of ten cents, with skating afterwards. The ice is in great condition and will suit both teams who like fast going.

FINALS IN THE BONSPIEL WILL BE PLAYED TO-NIGHT

The curling bonspiel has narrowed down to the finals and to-night the rinks skipped by Messrs Jas. Connal and Ferguson will fight it out for the first honours. The games were played last night, when some decidedly interesting games were seen, the one between Messrs. Ferguson and Fitzgerald being especially close. Following were the scores:

The semi-finals were played last night and drew quite a crowd of interested spectators. The results were as follows:—

Johnston ... Moore
Cameron ... Brownscombe
Denham ... McDermid
Connal—15 ... Thompson—8

Craig ... Eastwood
Austin ... Menzies
Baptie ... Bowes
Ferguson—16 ... Fitzgerald—8

Consolation

Yesterday afternoon five games were played in the club's bonspiel. Messrs. Ray and Davidson played their primary game with the result that the veteran curler went down to defeat. Davidson's arm has been out of commission for a couple of days and W. J. Thompson has been successfully skipping his rink.

Four games were played in the consolation and created much interest. The results were:—

Consolation

Read—9 ... Fraser—8
Matthews—13 ... Hall—11
Hicks—33 ... McCullough—8
Hay—19 ... Dr. Grear—7

Primary

Ray—8 ... Davidson—13

Evening Games

Three games in the Consolation were played last night with the result that three skips were put out of the contest for the second prize. W. E. Talbot gave A. Moore one of the worst trimmings of the season. The score was 21—3. After the first few ends the vanquished skip was unable to find the rings. The scores were as follows:—

Wade ... Dobbin
Hall ... Rush
Dennison ... Merritt
Matthews—6 ... Dr. Eastwood—13

Jobbitt ... Collier
Dodds ... Hill
Maitland ... Bradburn
Moore—3 ... Talbot—21

GRITS CHALLENGE TORIES TO A GAME

The Grit bowlers of the city wish to challenge the Tories to a game five men a side, total pinnage to count, for a supper, the game to take place as soon as possible on the Peterborough Bowling Club's Alleys. The Grits' team will be composed of George Sutherland, George Cairns, Graham Ferguson, Herb Martin and R. M. Glover, and they mean business from the top of the hat. The Tories are requested to get busy over this challenge and answer at once. The Grits' quintette believe they can just everlastingly trim any combinations of Tories that may be brought out against them.

THE RING.

New York, March 18.—James J. Jeffries has decided to re-enter the prize ring to fight Jack Johnson, the negro champion of the world.

This formal announcement will be made by Jeffries in a few days, it is said on excellent authority, and he will also send word to Johnson to come here and sign articles of agreement.

In Jeffries' camp it is said the boiler maker has refrained from stating definitely his plans for the reason that it was believed by his theatrical manager that a decision to fight again might destroy the public interest in Jeff's training exhibitions on the stage, but in view of Johnson's fight talk in Chicago, and his expressed willingness to tackle Jeffries at any time, the winner to take all on on a fair cut of the purse, Jeffries and his friends reached the conclusion that the time is now ripe for him to declare himself. Jeffries is ready to say he can get back to his old ring form, that he will make a match with Johnson for the championship of the world, and that he will knock the big coloured man out, too.

BASKET-BALL.

To-morrow night's game in the Basketball League is expected to be a very interesting exhibition. The Tigers and the Maple Leafs will clash, and as both have strong line-ups there is every reason to look for a hard fought game.

The teams will line-up as follows:—

Tigers. — Sutherland and Staunton, forwards; H. Wallis, centre; Loomis and Downing, defence.

Maple Leafs.—Dobbin and Kirn, forwards; P. Wallace, centre; Martin and Lees, defence.

FOOTBALL.

A meeting of all those interested in football will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlours at 8.30 on Tuesday evening to form a Peterborough team for the Midland League, reconstructed from last year's team.

THE KNOX JUNIORS LOST IN LAKEFIELD

Local Youngsters Were Beaten Last Night by Seven Goals to Four.

The Knox Church junior team journeyed to Lakefield last night and played an interesting game with the Shamrocks of that place, losing by 7 goals to 4. The half time score was 4-2 in favour of Lakefield, who had the better of the play all the way, although the Presbyterians gave them a hard run for their money, Condon and Dwyer in goal, playing particularly good games. The teams lined up as follows:

Shamrocks

Knox Juniors

Joe Quigley refereed to the satisfaction of both teams.

SHOULD MAKE A GOOD MARATHONER

Halfbreed Indian Runs Down Wolves, Killing Them With a Club When Tired.

Superior, Wis., March 19.—At Solon Springs, near here, lives Charlie Taylor, a half-breed Indian, who might be a good man to enter in some of the big Marathon races.

Taylor is in the wolf hunting business for the bounty there is in it and catches the wolves by running them down. He hit the hot trail of one of the timber beasts recently, and overtook the exhausted animal three days later. He killed it with a stout club which he carries when "hunting."

Taylor says that there is nothing remarkable about hunting wolves in this manner. With snow shoes a man can run down a wolf, whose pace is slower in snow, in from one and a half to two days, but Taylor was without snow shoes. All one needs is endurance, patience and the ability to follow the trail of the wolf after dark. The Indians usually hunt in pairs.

A Curious Structure.

On the road from Clifton downs to Avonmouth the traveler will pass, in the Avon gorge, a curious structure to which a singular tradition is attached, relates the London Tatler. The story is that a person named Cook about a century ago was told by a gypsy in the Leigh woods that his only son would be killed by a serpent before he reached the age of twenty-one. To avert this he built a high tower and shut his son in the topmost room with the intention of secluding him there until the fatal age was passed. However, by accident a viper was taken up in a fagot to the room to light the fire, and it crept from the fagot and bit the boy so that he died. Therefore the tower was called Cook's Folly, and that is its name to this day, whatever is the true explanation.

An Ignoble Use.

Washington Irving in "Crayon Papers" says: "I was once at an evening entertainment given by the Duke of Wellington at Apsley House to William IV. The duke had manifested his admiration of his great adversary, Napoleon, by having portraits of him in different parts of the house. At the bottom of the grand staircase stood the colossal statue of the emperor by Canova. It was of marble in the antique style, with one arm partly extended, holding a figure of Victory. Over this arm the ladies in tripping upstairs to the ball had thrown their shawls. It was a singular office for the statue of Napoleon to perform in the mansion of the Duke of Wellington!

Imperial Caesar, dead and turned to clay, etc.

The Elder That Swore.

An elder of the kirk, having found a little boy and his sister playing marbles on Sunday, put his reproof in this form, not a judicious one for a child: "Boy, do you know where children go who play marbles on Sabbath day?"

"Ay," said the boy. "They gang doun to the field by the water belaw the brig."

"No," roared out the elder; "they go to hell and are burned."

The little fellow, really shocked, called to his sister: "Come awa', Jeanie. Here's a man swearing awfully."—"Reminiscences of Dean Ramsay."

Hats as Aids to Matrimony.

"The wise woman is as careful about the choice of a hat as she is about the choice of a husband." The celebrated author who uttered this dictum may have exaggerated a little, but not much. And allow me, a woman, to ask you solemn men whom I see sneering at the "frivolity" of my sex that often the cleverest among you chooses a wife for no better reason than that the woman thus selected has herself chosen a becoming hat!—Mme. C. De Groutelles in Grand Magazine.

G.T.P.'S MANAGER.

Career of Man Who Will Direct New Transcontinental.

Edson J. Chamberlin, the new general manager of the G.T.P., was born at Lancaster, N.H., and educated at Montpelier Seminary. He began his railway career at St. Albans, Vt., as timekeeper of the Central Vermont Car Shops, remaining there until 1872. He then entered the office of the paymaster, and after that of the general superintendent. In 1877 he became private secretary to the general manager. For two years he was superintendent of the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain road and the Central Vermont. In 1896 he became general manager of the Canada Atlantic, and held it until the road was acquired by the Grand Trunk. At that time the Canada Atlantic was owned by Mr. J. R. Booth, the Ottawa lumber king. When Mr. Chamberlin took hold of it the road was only a short line used for hauling lumber. He extended it through to Depot Harbor, and built up an immense grain-carrying trade. At the time the road was taken over it was carrying seven-tenths of the grain shipped by rail to Montreal. He had also built up a fast passenger service between Montreal and Ottawa, and, in brief, had a mighty up-to-date little road. Since 1905 he has been engaged in railroad construction work on the New York Central lines from Malone to Montreal.

By other railroad men he is regarded as a thoroughly competent railroad man, and the public may be confident that the future of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be safe in his hands.

LOST THREE TOES.

Brother of the Earl of Suffolk Frozen in British Columbia.

As the result of a terrible freezing he suffered when hunting in British Columbia recently, James Kynvett Estcourt Howard, brother of the Earl of Suffolk, was forced to permit the amputation of three of his toes recently to save his life. He is now in the Waldorf-Astoria resting comfortably, and his surgeons say he will recover from the effects of the operation in a short time.

Howard was so badly frozen on his hunting trip that gangrene had seized upon both his great toes.

With a party of twenty-three hunters, young Howard started out a month ago to hunt bear near Banff, Canada. His companion in the party was Baron Schaffer, a young German nobleman. The cold became so intense after two days' trip that all turned back except Howard and Schaffer. They pushed ahead for another twenty-four hours, and were overtaken by a blizzard.

Their horses finally sank under them, and the two young men fell exhausted in a snowdrift, where they were found unconscious several days afterward. After they had been revived in Banff, they were told they could not live.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY IN HOLLAND.

Combined Cheese Factory and Creamery in Friesland, Holland, Another example of minute care and cleanliness seen even in the exterior.

The above photograph is a picture of a combined creamery and cheese factory in Holland. The Examiner has received a number of these for the weekly edition, but there are many citizens who are interested in dairying and the advanced ideas employed in the Netherlands will be evident to them. The above photograph appeals to the reader at first glance and one is instantly struck with the idea that the interior is maintained as scrupulously clean as the exterior. The Examiner is indebted to Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Ottawa, who used them in his report for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1908. This report is so complete and interesting that every dairyman should have one. Mr. Ruddick will be pleased to forward a copy of his report to any dairyman who is interested enough to write for it.

OUR SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS.

NUMBER TWO.

I have long felt that the position taken by Protestants is untenable, and that, in any contest with Roman Catholics, the former must be worsted

Belief in the authenticity and genuineness of a book must depend upon evidence, external, or internal, or both. In the case of the Bible there is little, if any, external evidence. The general teachings, even of the Old Testament are not, I believe, questionable by advocates of the Higher Criticism. The difficulty is to find out what is taught. To say that certain parts of the Old Testament are not to be accepted as literal relations of facts, is not the same as saying that these parts do not teach truths, much less that the book, as a whole, does not contain the truth of God. Religious truth, however, appealing, as it does, not so much to the intellect as to the soul, can be appreciated only by those who approach it in a loving spirit. All attempts to solve the problems that concern the soul by mere intellectual efforts will necessarily prove failures, and this should show us the folly of our religious controversies.

But even if we admit the infallibility of the Bible, the numerous sects which have arisen and are still arising, holding such divergent views that it seems absurd to call them by the common name of Christian, show the necessity for an infallible interpreter It will not do to say that enough of it for our purposes is easily understood. Infallibility is claimed for the work as a whole; and, besides, the views held by the various sects differ on what are regarded as such vital questions as the Incarnation, the Atonement, and the nature of the Sacraments. Nor will what I understand to be the Anglican view, that infallibility rests in the Church Universal, be a satisfactory solution of the question; since it would seem to be impracticable to get a pronouncement of opinion from a body, humanly speaking, so very indefinite.

It should not be necessary for me to say to those who have read other articles of mine, that I am not an advocate for an infallible visible head of what is called the Church. It is enough for me that God is infallible, and I neither believe in, nor see any necessity for, an infallible man, an infallible Church, an infallible book, or infallible creeds. I positively refuse to accept dogmatic teaching on any subject whatever, and could not, if I would, accept as truth what does not commend itself to my being. This does not mean that I necessarily deny the truth of what I do not understand, nor does it mean that I do not believe many things which I can neither prove nor explain.

I think it would be impossible to prove that Jesus established what we understand by a Church, and I am confirmed in this view by His own words regarding His Kingdom. More than this, I am persuaded that the setting up of ecclesiastical institutions has not advanced, but hindered, the spread of the real teachings of the Master.

If, however, Jesus did establish a Church, if He was all that is claimed for Him; and, if He declared that He would always be with that Church; ecclesiastical Protestantism exists without a reason. A revolt against an authority which to them may have become intolerable, and which they may have believed to be a barrier against human progress, we can not only justify but commend; but when they set up institutions similar to that against which they had entered their protests, and embodied in their creeds the same spirit of intolerance against which they had previously complained, we may award them our pity, but not our respect, much less our admiration. This was schism, and not a reformation.

It is hard to believe that victories over rival sects, or over what they regarded as the common enemy; desire for increase of membership; disputes among those of the same communion; and struggles for special privileges and positions, in Church and State; have not engrossed more of the attention of the different Protestant bodies than has the extension of the reign of Love. Those who are familiar with the proceedings of Synods and Conferences know that the wranglings in Parliament, though sufficiently disreputable, are tame and respectable compared with what is sometimes seen and heard in these bodies.

The religion of the Master is simplicity itself, being all summed up in three words, "Love one another." No infallible authority, no complicated system of Theology, can be of any service to a religion such as this, nor can ecclesiasticism permanently obscure its lustre. We are in the World to enjoy it rationally, and, especially, to help, not only our fellowmen, but all creatures, to enjoy it. It is not our chief business, nor, indeed, any part of our business, to secure heaven, nor to avoid hell.

A prominent Methodist divine with whose acquaintance I was honoured, in a letter written not long before his death, to a lady friend of mine, used these words: "The whole system of Theology is simply an attempt to cover up ignorance, and, in no place, does it touch bottom." I am disposed to take a somewhat more charitable view of the subject, and to look upon Theology as a futile attempt to prove preconceived opinions.

I have been led to write the last two paragraphs by seeing in one of the Toronto papers what was claimed to be a letter, not, as was said, intended to be made public, read by the Rev. Mr. Jackson, before a Ministerial Association. The letter, which I can procure, is too long to quote; but, in substance, Mr. Jackson says that, in his opinion, the time has come when the laity may be entrusted with a part, not all, of the truth. If this is the attitude of the Higher Critics, there is very little cause to fear their going too far.

I must confess that I have never been altogether satisfied with the Pauline doctrine of expediency, and this makes me the more ready to believe the charge that has been made, that St. Paul has perverted the teaching of Jesus.

I have often been asked to say what I think of the Christ. Even if it were shown that Jesus had no historical existence, the value to the World of the character drawn in the Gospels would scarcely be lessened. The very conception of such a character gives us the truest and clearest view we have of man's potentialities. Though He was in the first to advocate the reign of Love, and the doctrine of universal brotherhood, Jesus has made duty more simple and clear than any former teacher, and enforced it with a sweet and beautiful life. He not only did not establish an ecclesiastical system, but, by His simple exhortation, "Love one another," He has made all commandments, and all religious rites obsolete. He did not, by His death, redeem mankind from the consequences, which have no existence, of a fall, which did not happen; but he has helped them to crucify Self and to rise to higher, because more helpful, lives.

I take the liberty, before closing this article, to state, in few words, some things which I believe.

Our civilization, including, of course, what we call religion, is a product of evolution.

Religious thought is progressive, and necessarily progressive.

Perfection exists only in the Infinite.

There would be no progress, if there were no doubt.

I am far from denying Inspiration, but see no good reason for regarding Jewish literature as divinely inspired, and denying a like inspiration to the literatures of other peoples.

Jesus did not establish an ecclesiastical system

Theology has no place in the religion of Jesus.

Ecclesiasticism has retarded the extension of the rule of Love.

There are Jewish Myths as well as Greek, Roman, and many others; but all Myths contain truth, more or less masked.

The Higher Criticism is not only legitimate, but will be productive of much good.

The three simple words, "Love one another" define the whole duty of man.

I am now through with this part of my subject, and, in subsequent articles, I shall confine myself, almost exclusively, to secular teaching and teachers.

Dangerous and Painful Operation Avoided by Taking "Fruit-a-tives."

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 6, 1908.

I suffered for many months with dreadful Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could retain practically nothing.

My doctor stated that I must go to the hospital and undergo an operation of scraping the stomach and be fed by the bowels for weeks. All the medicine the doctor gave me I vomited at once. I was dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded an operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and the great success they were having in all Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the "Fruit-a-tives" not only remained on the stomach, but they also checked the vomiting. I immediately began to improve, and in three days the pain was easier and I was decidedly better. I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they completely cured me.

ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins

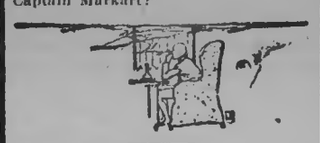
Markart shut the door and then threw himself on the solitary chair in a heavy despondency of spirit and a confused conflict of feelings. He was glad to be out of the work, yet he resented the manner in which he was put inside. There were things going on in which it was well to have no hand. Yet was there not a thing going on in which every man ought to have a hand on one side or the other? Not to do it, but to be ready to accept it when done! He was enough of a soldier to feel that there lay the worst, the meanest thing of all. Not to dare to do it, but to profit by the doing! Stenovics had used the words to Lepage, his prisoner. By making him in effect a prisoner, too, the general showed that he applied them to the captain also. Anything seemed better than that—aye, it would be better to ride to Prasiok behind Captain Hercules! In that adventure a man might, at least, risk his life!

"An odd world!" said the valet, puffing out his cigarette smoke. "Honest men for prisoners and murderers for jailers! Are you a prisoner or a jailer, Captain Markart?"



Chapter Twenty-five

TO say the truth, the word "murderers" seemed to Captain Markart more than a little harsh. To use it was to apply to Kravonian affairs the sterner standards of more steady going, squeamish countries. A coup d'etat may well involve fighting. Fighting naturally includes killing. But are the promoters of the coup therefore murderers? Murderers with a difference, anyhow, according to Kravonian ideas, which Captain Markart was inclined to share. Moreover, a coup d'etat is war. The suppression of information is legitimate in war. If the Prince of Slavna could not find out for himself what had happened in the palace, were his opponents bound to tell him? In fact, given that an attempt to change the succession in your own interest was not a crime, but a legitimate political enterprise, the rest followed.

Except Mistitch was difficult to swallow Mistitch. There was a mixture of ingenuity and brutality about that move which not even Kravonian notions could easily accept. If Stafnitz had gone—nay, if he himself had been sent—probably Markart's conscience would not have rebelled. But to send Captain Hercules—that was cogging the dice! Yet he was very angry that Stenovics should have divined his feelings and shut him up. The general distrusted his courage as well as his conscience. There lay the deepest hurt to Markart's vanity. It was all the deeper because in his heart he had to own that Stenovics read him right. Not only the brazen conscience was lacking, but also the iron nerve.

Getting no answer to his unpleasantly pointed question, Lepage relapsed into silence. He stood by the window, looking out on the lawn which sloped down to the Krath. Beyond the river the lights of Slavna glowed in the darkening sky. Things would be happening in Slavna soon. Lepage might well look at the city thoughtfully. As a fact, however, his mind was occupied with one problem only—where was Zerkovitch and how could he get at him? For Lepage did not waver. He had taken his line.

Presently, however, his professional instincts seemed to reassert themselves. He opened a cupboard in the room and brought out a clean pair of sheets, which he proceeded to arrange on the bed. Busy at his task, he paused to smile at Markart and say: "We must do the best we can, captain. After all, we have both camped, I expect! Here's the bed for you—you'll do finely." He went back to the cupboard and lugged out a mattress. "And this is for me—the shakedown on the floor which I use when I sleep in the king's room—or did use, I should say. In my judgment, captain, it's comfortable to go to bed on the floor. At least one can't fall."

It was 8 o'clock. They heard the outer door of the suit of rooms open and shut. A man was moving about in the next room. If they could judge by the sound of his steps he also paid Dr. Natcheff a brief visit. They heard the clink of dishes and of glass.

"Dinner!" said Lepage. "Ah, that's not unwelcome! Have I permission?" Markart nodded, and he opened the door. On the table in the sitting room was a savory dish, bread and two bottles of wine. Captain Sterkoff was just surveying the board he had spread, with his head on one side. There was nothing peculiar in that. His head was permanently stuck on one side—a list to starboard—since the Virgin with the lamp had injured the vertebrae of his neck. But the attitude, together with his beaked nose, made him look like a particularly vicious parrot. Markart saw him through the open door and could not get the resemblance out of his mind.

"Supper, gentlemen!" said Sterkoff, with malevolent mirth. "The doctor can't join you. He's a little upset and keeps his bed. A good appetite! I trust not to be obliged to disturb you again tonight."

Markart had come in by now, but he was too surly and sore to speak. Without a word he plumped down into a chair by the table and rested his chin on his hands, staring at the cloth. It was left to Lepage to bow to Sterkoff and to express their joint thanks. This task was performed with sufficient urbanity. Then he broke into a laugh.

It was left to Lepage to bow to Sterkoff and express thanks.

"They must think it odd to see you carrying dishes and bottles about the palace, captain?"

"Possibly," agreed Sterkoff. "But, you see, my friend, what they think in the palace doesn't matter very much, so long as none of them can get outside."

"Oh, they none of them spend the evening out?"

"Would they wish to when the king has an attack of influenza and Dr. Natcheff is in attendance? It would be unfeeling, Lepage!"

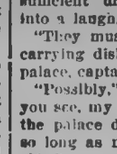
"Horribly, captain! Probably even the sentries would object?"

"It's possible they would," Sterkoff agreed again. He drew himself up and saluted Markart, who did not move or pay any attention. "Good night, Lepage." He turned to the door. His head seemed more cocked on one side than ever. Lepage bade him "Good night" very respectfully, but as the key turned in the door he murmured longingly, "Ah, if I could knock that ugly mug the rest of the way off his shoulders!"

He treated Markart with no less respect than he had accorded to Sterkoff. He would not hear of sitting down at table with an officer, but insisted on handing the dish and uncorking the wine. Markart accepted his attentions and began to eat languidly, with utter want of appetite.

"Some wine, captain. Some wine to cheer you up in this tiresome duty of guarding me!" cried Lepage, picking up a bottle in one hand and a glass in the other. "Oh, but that wry necked fellow has brought you a dirty glass! A moment, captain! I'll wash it." And off he bounded—not even waiting to set down the bottle—into the little room beyond.

His brain was working hard now, marshaling his resources against his difficulties. The difficulties were thirty feet to fall, Sterkoff's sentries, the broad, swift current of the Krath—for even in normal times there was always a sentry on the bridge—then the search for Zerkovitch in Slavna. His resources were a mattress, a spare pair of sheets and a vial half full of the draft which Dr. Natcheff had prescribed for the king.



"I've not the least notion how much would kill him."

"It's very unfortunate, but I've not the least notion how much would kill him," thought Lepage, as he poured the medicine—presumably a strong sedative—into the wineglass and filled up with wine from the bottle Sterkoff had provided. He came back, holding the glass aloft with a satisfied air. "Now it's for a gentleman to drink out of," said he, as he set it down by Markart's hand. The captain took it up and swallowed it at a draft.

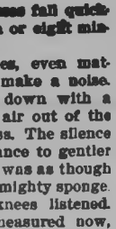
"Ugh! Corked, I think! Beastly, anyhow!" said he.

Captain Markart thought he would smoke his cigar in the little room, lying on the bed. He was tired and sleepy—very sleepy, there was no denying it. Lepage sat down and ate and drank. He found no fault with the wine in the bottle. Then he went out and looked at Markart. The captain lay in his shirt, breeches and boots. He was sound asleep and breathing heavily. His cigar had fallen on the sheet, but apparently had been out before it fell. Lepage regarded him with pursed lips, shrugged his shoulders and slipped the captain's revolver into his pocket. The captain's recovery must be left to fate.

For the next hour he worked at his pair of sheets, slicing, twisting and splicing. In the end he found himself possessed of a fairly stout rope twelve or thirteen feet long, but he could find nothing solid to tie it to near the window except the bed, and that was a yard away. He would still have a fall of twenty feet, and the ground was hard with a spring frost. There would be need of the mattress. He put ont all the lights in the room and cautiously raised the window.

The night was dark. He could not see the ground. He stood there ten minutes. Then he heard a measured tramp. A dark figure, just distinguishable, came around the corner of the palace, walked past the window to the end of the building, turned, walked back and disappeared. Hurriedly Lepage struck a match and took the time. Again he waited; again the figure came. Again he struck a light and took the time. He went through this process five times before he felt reasonably sure that he could rely on having ten minutes to himself if he started the moment Sterkoff's sentry had gone around the corner of the building.

He pulled the mattress up on to the sill of the window and waited. There was no sound now but of Markart's stertorous breathing, but presently the measured tramp below came, passed, turned and passed away. Lepage gave a last tug at the fastenings of his rope, threw the end out of the window, took the mattress and dropped it very carefully as straight down as he could.



"I wish I knew the safest way to fall!" thought Lepage.

The next moment, in spite of Sterkoff, somebody had left the palace. Why not? The runaway was aware that the king was not really suffering from influenza. He could spend an evening at Slavna without reproach!

"I wish I knew the safest way to fall!" thought Lepage, dangling at the end of his rope. It swayed about terribly. He waited awhile for it to steady itself—he feared to miss the mattress—but he could not wait long or that measured tramp and that dark figure would come. There would be a sudden spurt of light and a report—and what of Lepage then? He gathered his legs up behind his knees, took a long breath—and fell. As luck would have it, though he landed on the very edge of the mattress, yet he did land on it and tumbled forward on his face, shaken, but with bones intact. There was a numb feeling above his knees—nothing worse than that.

He drew another long breath. Heavy bodies and even mattresses fall quickly. He must have seven or eight minutes yet!

But no! Heavy bodies, even mattresses, falling quickly, make a noise. Lepage, too, had come down with a thud, squashing hidden air out of the interstices of the mattress. The silence of night will give resonance to gentler sounds than that, which was as though a giant had squeezed his mighty sponge. Lepage on his numb knees listened. The steps came, not measured now, but running. The dark figure came running around the corner. What next? Next the challenge—then the spurt of light and the report! What of Lepage then? Nothing, so far as Lepage and the rest of humanity for certainty knew.

Of that nothing, actual or possible, Lepage did not approve. He hitched the mattress on to his back, bent himself nearly double and, thus both burdened and protected, made for the river. He must have looked like a turtle scurrying to the sea lest he should be turned over and so left for soup in due season.

"Who goes there? Halt! Halt!"

The turtle scurried on. It was no moment to stop and discuss matters.

The spurt of light—the report! There was a hole in the mattress, but well above Lepage's head. Indeed, if hit at all, he was not most likely to be hit in the head. That vital portion of him was tucked away too carefully. He presented a broader aim, but the mattress masked him nobly. There was another shot—the northwest corner of the mattress this time—but the mattress on the river's edge. The next instant it was floating on the current of the Krath, and Sterkoff's sentry was indulging in some very pretty practice at it. He hit it every time until the swift current carried it around the bend and out of sight.

The whole thing seemed strange and rather uncanny to the sentry. He grounded his rifle and wiped his brow. It had looked like a carpet taking a walk on its own account and then a swim! Superior officers might be accustomed to such strange phenomena. The sentry was not. He set off at a round pace to the guardroom. He did not even stay to notice the white rope which dangled in the air from a first floor window. Had he stopped he would have heard Markart's invincible, drug laden snoring.

Lepage had separated himself from his good friend and ally, the mattress, and dived under water while the sentry blazed away. He welcomed the current which bore him rapidly from the dangerous neighborhood of the palace. He came to the surface fifty feet down stream and made for the other side.

"The king died at five o'clock, M. Zerkovitch," he said.

He made land a quarter of a mile below the palace. Ah, it was colder on the road there than struggling with the cold water! But his spirit was not quenched. He laughed again, a trifle hysterically perhaps. In spite of Sterkoff he was spending the evening out! He set his feet for Slavna—briskly, too! Nay, he ran, for warmth's sake and because of what the sentry might even now be reporting to Sterkoff and, through him, to General Stenovics. The thought brought him to a standstill again. There might be a cordon of sentries across the road! After a moment's hesitation he broke away from the main road, struck due south and so ran when he could, walked when he must, two miles.

He was getting terribly tired now, but not cold—rather he was feverishly hot inside his clammy garments. He turned along a country cross road which ran west and passed through a village, leaving the Hotel de Paris on the main road far to his right. At last he reached the main road south and turned up it, heading again for Slavna and for the bridge which crossed the South river. He passed the bridge without being challenged as the cathedral clock struck midnight from St. Michael's square. The worst of his task was accomplished. If now he could find Zerkovitch!

But he was sore spent. Running was out of the question now. He slunk slowly and painfully along the south boulevard, clinging close to the fences of the gardens, seeking the shelter of the trees which overhung them.

Draggled, hatless, dirty, infinitely weary, at last he reached Zerkovitch's house at the corner where the boulevard and the Street of the Fountain meet. He opened the garden gate and walked in. Spent as he was, he breathed a "Bravo!" when he saw a light burning in the hall. He staggered on, rang the bell and fairly fell in a lump outside the door.

He had done well. He, a man of peace, busy with clothes—he had done well that night! But he was finished When Zerkovitch opened the door he found little more than a heap of dank and dirty raiment. He hauled it in and shut the door. He supported Lepage into the study, sat him by the fire and got brandy for him to drink, pouring out full half a tumbler. Lepage took it and drank the better part of it at a gulp.

"The king died at 5 o'clock, M. Zerkovitch!" he said. He drank the rest, let the tumbler fall, with a crash, in the fender, buried his head on his breast and fell into blank unconsciousness.

He was out of the battle as much as Markart, who slept the clock around in spite of Stenovics' shakings and Dr. Natcheff's rubbings and stimulants. But he had done his part. It was for Zerkovitch to do his now.

The king had died at 5 o'clock? It was certainly odd, that story, because Zerkovitch had just returned from the offices of the Patriot, and immediately before he left he had sent down to the foreman printer an official communique to be inserted in his paper. It was to the effect that Captain Mistitch and a guard of honor of fifty men would leave Slavna next morning at 7 o'clock for Dobrava to be in readiness to receive the king, who had made magnificent progress and was about to proceed to his country seat to complete his convalescence.

Captain Mistitch and a guard of honor for Dobrava! Zerkovitch decided that he would if possible ride ahead of them to Dobrava—that is, part of the way. But first he called his old housekeeper and told her to put Lepage to bed.

"Don't worry about anything he says He's raving," he added thoughtfully.

But poor Lepage raved no more that night. He did not speak again till all was over. He had done his part.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Mother Gave Her Child Away.

Had Given up all Hope of Living. Heart Trouble was Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905 I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

WHAT A SAMPLE DID

SAVED LITTLE BOY'S LIFE.

As a forlorn hope, Mr. H. Stephens, of Arthur, Ont., sent for a sample of PSYCHINE recommended by his doctor. His little boy was lying at death's door and the doctor had given up hope. Mrs. Stephens says: "My little son was stricken down with Pneumonia after contracting a severe cold. He lay for nearly three months almost like a dead child. His lungs became so swollen that his heart was pressed over to his right side and we were informed that Consumption had our boy in its fatal grip. It was pitiable to see how terribly weak and emaciated he was. The little lad would often cough almost continuously for twenty-four hours. He perspired dreadfully and his garments and the bed clothes were frequently as wet as if they had been dipped in water. At one time he was almost completely covered with sores which were caused by so many mustard plasters, and rubbing continually with Iodine to relieve the incessant pain."

"How can I describe my feelings when the doctor told me that I must prepare to lose my treasure. He had exhausted every means in his power and did not think that little Charley could ever get well. At the same time the doctor called my attention to PSYCHINE which he said, had been SUPPOSED to work many striking cures."

"My husband sent for a sample bottle of PSYCHINE and gave him some at once, ceasing the doctor's medicines altogether. Almost immediately an improvement was noticeable. The effect in two days was miraculous. His breathing became quite easy and the soreness and pain in the lungs went away. His eyes looked brighter, and he soon began to cheer up and regain his boyish spirits. Indeed it seemed as if the dead had come to life."

"This improvement went steadily on. The boy's appetite came again, and he put on flesh rapidly, daily gaining in weight. To-day my son is well and strong and able to enjoy life to the full. He is now eight years of age and has not needed to take any medicine since that time. Less than ten bottles of PSYCHINE completely cured him. How many children's lives might be saved if mothers only knew of this wonderful remedy! I will always recommend it."

If you are suffering in any way, and have almost despaired of ever recovering the health you once enjoyed, why not send for a sample bottle of PSYCHINE and test it for yourself? There is no reason why you should not be restored. PSYCHINE has proved the sovereign remedy in hundreds of other cases.

DIVORCE IN CANADA.

Senate Faces Longer List This Session Than Ever Before.

One of the most noticeable features of the legislative bill of fare this session is the long list of divorce applications which await hearing before the Senate — almost as many as were granted in the first twenty sessions after Confederation. Perhaps it is because of the rapid increase in population, or perhaps the explanation is to be found in the increased wealth of the people, which has brought divorce within the means of many persons who in years gone by were debarred therefrom by reason of the considerable expense that is involved.

According to the last census returns, there were 337 divorced males and 324 divorced females in Canada eight years ago. But from the records of the Dominion Parliament, and of the divorce courts which exist in the Maritime Provinces and in British Columbia it is perfectly clear that a comparatively small proportion of these obtained their divorce in this country. Ontario was credited in the census return with 229 divorced persons, of whom twenty-one made their home in Toronto.

But how many of these so-called dissolutions of the marriage tie really confer any right on the parties concerned to contract a second marriage? It was stated in a Parliamentary debate which took place in the year that the census was taken that "there are from forty to fifty persons in Toronto who, if the law was rigidly enforced, would be prosecuted for bigamy." This number was possibly an exaggeration.

Nevertheless, the question is one of considerable moment. What is the objection to a divorce by the Dominion Parliament, and how can such objection best be overcome? One objection undoubtedly lies in the question of cost. The average divorce application before the Senate costs from $500 to $1,000, and this is a good deal more than the aggrieved husband or wife can ordinarily afford. Notice of the application has to be published six months prior to the presentation of the evidence before Parliament. What need can there possibly be for such delay? All witnesses have to be brought to Ottawa. Might not the evidence of witnesses at distant points be taken under oath by competent judicial officers, and transmitted to Ottawa?

It has been repeatedly proposed in the House of Commons that Parliament should divest itself of this work altogether, and provide for the establishment of divorce courts in Ontario, Quebec, and the three prairie provinces, in which no divorce courts at present exist. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia had these courts when they entered the Confederation, and have never given them up.

In the early years of the Confederation the applications did not average more than one each session, and the total number granted from 1867 down till 1888 was twenty-six. But the records show that of more recent years the number has been considerably increased. Between 1888 and 1900, a period of twelve years, the number of divorces granted was thirty-five, and this session, if all the applications are successful, the number will be twenty-four.—Toronto World.

Won Baby by a Bet.

It is some time since the Burns-Johnson fight, but a good story connected with the betting on it has drifted in from Woodstock, Ont. Woodstock, it may be mentioned, is one of the many Western Ontario points which claimed to be the home of Burns when he was unknown to world fame and known as Noah Brusso. Since the colored man "put it over" Burns there has not been such a rush to claim the white boy as a citizen, but that's another story.

A any rate in a store in Woodstock before the big fight a German clerk put his baby and baby carriage up as a bet with an unmarried man. The German bet on Burns, and of course lost. Then the unmarried winner told of his luck, and the last heard from him was that he was going down some night to get the baby.

"I had an offer of $15 for it," he said, "and if it wasn't a Dutch baby I could get $25."—Saturday Night.

Quarrel Between Churches.

The church union idea got a little jolt at Fairlight, Sask., recently when the Anglicans and Methodists, using one building, got into a tangle because one was alleged to be prolonging its service so as to interfere with the other. Mr. T. Turnbull, Anglican, called Mr. E. Sisby, Methodist, a liar, and was fined the costs of the court and ordered to apologize. He paid the fine but refuses to apologize.

THE YAK FOR CANADA.

Ernest Thompson Seton Describes Its Good Points.

Ernest Thompson Seton has assured Canadians that the yak really is exactly the thing for Western Canada. Mr. Seton's recommendation will probably cause some amusement in the West. However, it makes interesting reading. There exists in America, he points out, a vast belt of unsettled country extending from Atlantic to Pacific, from Maine through Canada to Alaska, about 4,000 by 500 miles, which would be suited to cattle-raising were its winters not so severe. Here, he tells us, is the yak's chance; for this animal is able to withstand the cold of just such regions as this. Says Mr. Seton:

"With four months of hard frost and deep snow the ordinary range cattle can not thrive, so that practically the north limit of cattle-ranching, without winter-housing and feeding, is the south limit of the so-called Canadian fauna — not the south boundary of Canada, but a line crossing from the south end of Lake Winnipeg to the north Saskatchewan, then southward along the Rockies into the United States.

"Attempts to utilize this cold range have not been wanting. The American buffalo and its various crosses with the long-haired cattle of the Highlands have been tried but so far without satisfactory results, chiefly because of the unmanageable nature of the buffalo.

"Its native food is a coarse wiry grass (whence one of its names, 'poephagus'), or grass-eater, but the experiments at Woburn Abbey and at the London Zoo show that it will eat, and that it thrives equally well on stuff that in the barnyard would be thought very poor fodder indeed.

"In size the yak resembles common cattle. Prejevalsky says the bulls are five to six feet high at the shoulder and weigh 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, but the accounts of various other authors would suggest a much greater weight. In build it is like a common ox, with the hump of a bison, but the distinguishing feature of this cold-ranger is its coat. On the upper parts generally it is three or four inches long and but little thicker than that of a well-furred Highland bull, but it lengthens on the sides, till the throat and body are covered with a dense hairy fringe that reaches nearly to the ground. The tail is so enormously bushy, and with the hairy fringes is such a generous covering for the hocks, that it is difficult to see how any wolf could hamstring a yak. Thus its remarkable coat affords it an ample protection from flies in summer, frost in winter, and wolves all the time.

"The near affinity of this animal with the common cattle is shown by the fact that it can be readily crossed with any of the domestic breeds. It is particularly fond of rugged hillside pastures where it scrambles among the rocks like a goat, or grows fat on miserable wiry grass among which European stock would starve. The country along the north shore of Lake Superior would make a veritable Happyland for the yak."

The matter, Mr. Seton goes on to tell us, is not to be allowed to rest on a theoretical basis. He himself has called the attention of the Canadian Government to the opportunity, and he has been given authority to test the matter practically. He says:

"I found no difficulty in getting a sympathetic hearing on the yak question from the very-much-alive authorities at Ottawa. I was asked to solve the question of getting a small herd to begin with, as well as full information on methods of management.

"My opportunity for the last I recognized when on a visit to Woburn Abbey where for so many years this animal has been successfully bred. The whole scheme was still further advanced when, on hearing the details of the proposed introduction, the Duke of Bedford, with characteristic generosity, presented to the Canadian Government a herd of six fine yaks to be the breeding start for the enterprise.

"These are to be handled first by the experimental farm at Ottawa. Their number will be increased by fresh importations as soon as experience shows that it is justified. Ultimately breeding-stock will be sent to each of the western and northern state experimental stations, and thus in time we hope to effect a conquest of that great stock range which lies between the especial domains of the common cattle and the reindeer, and which at present is lying idle."

Canadian Beggar Abroad.

"Frederick Archdale de Smith," the man who, posing as a paralytic in London, Eng., earned enough money to maintain a villa at Norwood, has an imitator in Justin Alexander, a Canadian, aged 24, who was sentenced to 21 days' hard labor for begging a few days ago. Taking his stand in the gutter in New Bridge street, Alexander begged from the passers-by under the pretence of selling matches. His right coat sleeve was hanging empty. He had lost his right hand but had a wooden one, which was covered with a glove. He preferred, he said, to have the sleeve of the coat empty to excite pity.

FEAST OF MOHURRUM.

British Columbia Mohammedans Celebrate Holy Day.

"Ya Hasan! Ya Hussain!" Although British Columbia is, and will be, a "White Man's Country," there were a few people here who raised this slogan — whether inwardly or otherwise — when the Mohammedan feast of Mohurrum came in last Wednesday. The observers of the Mohurrum in Victoria were very few, as our "visitors from India"—we often wish devoutly they were other people's visitors—are Hindus, for the most part, to whom the great mourning feast of the Mohammedans is anathema. But a few Mohammedans there are, all the same. In those cities of India where both sects are numerous, the feast of Mohurrum affords a busy time for the British police and military, who must quell the riots incident to the differences of creed. In his story, "On the City Wall," Kipling thus describes the feast of Mohurrum:

"The Mohurrum, the great mourning festival of the Mohammedans, was close at hand. . . . There were rose-bushes round us, the stars above us, and from every quarter of the city came the boom of the big Mohurrum drums. You must know that the city is divided into fairly equal proportions between the Hindus and the Musalmans, and where both creeds belong to the fighting races, a big religious festival gives ample chance for trouble. When they can—that is to say when the authorities are weak enough to allow it — the Hindus do their best to arrange some minor feast day of their own in time to clash with the period of general mourning for the martyrs Hasan and Hussain, the heroes of the Mohurrum. Gilt and painted paper presentations of their tombs are borne with shouting and wailing, music, torches, and yells, through the principal thoroughfares of the city, which fakements are called "tazias." Their passage is rigorously laid down beforehand by the police, and detachments of police accompany each "tazia" lest the Hindus should throw bricks at it, and the peace of the King and the heads of his loyal subjects should thereby be broken. Mohurrum time in a "fighting" town means anxiety to all officials, because, if a riot breaks out, the officials and not the rioters are held responsible. The former must foresee everything, and while not making their precautions ridiculously elaborate, must see that they are at least adequate."

The Mohurrum is observed in honor of the Mohammedan martyrs. Hussain, the principal of these, was a grandson of the great Prophet. He was murdered by Yazid, Caliph of Damascus, on the 9th day of the Mohammedan month Mohurrum at Cufa, near Damascus. Ever since that year, the day of Hussain's death has been observed by Mohammedans. In Persia, stages are erected in public places on that day, and plays are enacted, showing the misfortunes of Hussain and his father Ali.—Victoria Colonist.

Boats For Skeena.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. is calling for tenders for the construction of two steamboats for the Skeena river service in connection with construction work on the western division.

Capt. S. B. Johnson, superintendent of the company's steamboat service on the Skeena, will establish headquarters at Vancouver, which is considered an indication that the boats will be built in one of the local shipyards. They will cost about $35,000 each.

Tenders require their completion before the first of June. They will have a length of 136 feet and 29 foot beam, with a carrying capacity of 140 tons.

Mice Had Lofty Nest.

A queer story comes from a city in the west. While some workmen, a few days ago, were removing the condemned spire of a church, 255 feet from the ground, they found a large colony of mice, comfortably nested, in the hollow part of the woodwork, at the base of the gilded cross that topped the steeple.

What a long journey the little creatures had to make for food and water! Could it be possible that they selected that lofty dwelling place to secure safety from their natural enemies? The case is remarkable, and would be incredible, were it not vouched for by those whose word we cannot doubt.

Phonographs In Court.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., of Toronto, suggests that phonographs be used to take the judge's charges to the jury in capital cases. He says that when a reserved case is carried before a Supreme Court it is important that the voice inflections should be given. He says that on paper words may mean one thing and as spoken exactly the reverse.

Pat's Deficiencies.

"True," said Mrs. McCarthy; "he did."

"How was that?" asked her friend. "Pat could not read or write, could he?"

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

The Curious Case of Percy Bunce

From a Reporter's Recollections

BY CHARLES SOMERVILLE

(Copyright, 1908, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

REGARDED from all sides the case of Percy Bunce was not only curious in the extreme, but was, at first, wholly mysterious, wholly inexplicable.

There came a night finally when the mystery disappeared; when everything that had been so strange was explained. Yet in all my memory of newspaper adventure the case will always retain its characteristic of being curious in the extreme.

Percy Bunce was only a boy. To be exact, he was just eighteen years old. According to general standards he was a good boy, and was so esteemed at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., where he lived with his parents. His father was the town baker, and Percy gave him zealous assistance, both in the shop and by driving the delivery wagon. He did not frequent the town pool parlor; did not smoke or drink. He was a regular attendant at church and Sunday school, and in this manner held the very good opinion of his elders, the while his prowess as a swimmer, boxer, baseball player, wrestler and runner held him above condemnation as a prig by the youngsters.

Percy was also a very good looking boy, in a ruddy cheeked, sturdy fashion, and had a gallant though wholly respectful eye for pretty girls. With them he had been clearly the town favorite, and it is readily to be supposed that dismay filled the long lashed eyes of many a Cold Spring Harbor damsel with tears when the news went out that a slender, little young person of Huntington, ten miles away, had possessed herself of the affection and absolute devotion of Percy Bunce.

It was at a picnic given jointly by churches of Cold Spring Harbor and Huntington that Percy and the pretty girl had met. Immediately that happened they had fallen in love. Whatever else is curious about the case of Percy Bunce, it was no wonder at all that Percy should have fallen in love with her. On the authority of having afterward seen her, I can say that she was very pretty indeed; trim of figure, graceful, had soft, golden hair and big, candid, clear blue eyes and a most sweetly turned, rose tinted mouth. And there was Percy with his sturdy shoulders, ruddy cheeks, chestnut curls and large, honest looking brown eyes. A pretty pair they were surely in their complete symbolization of freshness and youth.

Shadow of Tragedy.

But suddenly the black and baleful shadow of tragedy fell across the sunny path of this tender Long Island romance. Percy Bunce became the victim of queer and shocking outrages. His life was repeatedly threatened. He seemed not only to be the chosen victim of a desperate band of conspirators, but to be altogether at their mercy.

News of the amazing and perilous adventures of Percy Bunce not only startled and shocked Cold Spring Harbor and Huntington, but attracted the attention of the metropolitan press. I have not at hand the clippings of the despatches sent out by the local correspondents at the time, but my recollection of them is quite clear. The first read about as follows:—

COLD SPRING HARBOR, May —, 1902.—Percy Bunce, the son of one of the best known citizens of this place, was attacked by White Caps last night. They waylaid him while he was driving from Huntington, where he had been to call on his sweetheart.

The drive between Huntington and Cold Spring Harbor is all of ten miles, and the road is very lonely after dark. There are not many farms along the road, and at a point about three miles from Cold Spring Harbor it passes through dense woods.

Young Bunce has been in the habit of driving over to see his sweetheart about twice a week, using his father's horse and wagon for the purpose. At the point of the road where it traverses the woods the White Caps to the number of six at least, according to the account that young Bunce could give in his dazed condition last night, attacked him. It was midnight, and the young man as soon as he fell into the hands of his assailants says he realized very well the uselessness of crying out for help. He fought, however, as long as he was able. He says he who punched and choked and beaten and finally dragged to a tree and tied there. One of the assailants gave the patient horse a slap on the flank that started the frightened animal galloping toward Cold Spring Harbor.

Mrs. Bunce, the mother of the young man, was unable to sleep through worry when her son had not returned home at one o'clock in the morning. Her husband laughed at her fears, but she decided to wait till the boy got home. At half-past one o'clock the horse and wagon appeared back of the house. Mrs. Bunce called to her son that he would find the lantern in the kitchen shed, but when she got no reply became alarmed anew and awakened her husband. He found the wagon empty. He called two neighbors and they all got into the wagon and drove back along the Huntington road. When they arrived at the woods they heard moans and weak calls for help. They got out and found young Bunce tied to a tree not far from the road. He was half hysterical, but managed to tell something of the attack that had been made on him. When he was brought home it was found that he had a bruised eye and several contusions on his body. A skull and crossbones in red had been painted on his forehead, and a note was found pinned to his coat. The young man had struggled valiantly against his bonds and had managed to free one hand, but was too exhausted to continue the work of self-liberation. The note pinned to his coat read:—

> This is only a warning, Percy Bunce.
> If you don't look out death will be your portion.
> You know Why! THE WHITE CAPS

When the authorities took up the investigation to-day Percy Bunce said he was entirely at a loss to explain the meaning of the dangerously worded note. He said he knew of no rival in the matter of his love affair in Huntington, and could think of no other reason why he should have been attacked. Young Bunce is well known and popular in Cold Spring Harbor, and the whole town is stirred up over the strange affair.

Scarcely a week had passed when a second despatch was printed in New York newspapers which read in this manner:—

COLD SPRING HARBOR, May —, 1902.—An attempt was made last night to murder Percy Bunce. Only a few days ago the young man was held up, assaulted and tied to a tree by White Caps, who left a note pinned to the breast of his coat threatening him with death.

The attack last night was made in the same lonely part of the road between Huntington and Cold Spring Harbor where the first attack occurred.

Young Bunce had driven to Huntington to visit a girl friend using his father's horse and wagon. The wagon has openings on the sides, such wagons as are familiarly used by bakers and milkmen. It was the first trip he had made to Huntington since the night of his former mysterious and unfortunate experience.

As he drove through the same clump of woodland he says he suddenly heard a smothered oath, which was instantly followed by a singing sound. This proved to come from a long bladed knife, a meat cleaver, that was hurled at him out of the darkness. The thing narrowly missed beheading itself in his neck. It just barely flashed past his chin and stuck in the side of the wagon. Thoroughly alarmed, the young man whipped up his horse to top speed and drove frantically into town. He alarmed Deputy Sheriff Robinson, who, in corroboration of the young man's strange story, found the big knife sticking into the side of the wagon. A note was tied to the handle. Its contents read as follows:—

> Percy Bunce—If this don't set you something else will before long. You are a marked man. You will travel these roads on peice of your life.
> THE WHITE CAPS.

Deputy Sheriff Robinson did not lose a minute in starting the organization of a posse to beat the woods in the hope of capturing the would-be assassin or assassins. He also telephoned to Huntington and a similar posse started from that place. The two searching forces came together in the woods later, but the hunt was wholly without results.

Searching for the Miscreants.

Percy Bunce, when seen regarding his remarkable adventure, made the same statement that he had on the occasion of the first attack. He said he could in no way account for the plots against his life, and declared that if any rival for the hand of the Huntington maiden existed he had still to hear about it. He expressed himself as being as mystified as anybody regarding the sources of the deadly assaults attempted against him.

Ten days later a Cold Spring Harbor despatch told of still another effort directed against the lad's life. It read to this effect:—

COLD SPRING HARBOR, May —, 1902.—The secret enemies of Percy Bunce known as "The White Caps" tried to lynch him last night, this making the third outrage committed against the young man within the month. A searching party arrived just in time to save young Bunce. With his arms and legs bound with ropes the young man stood under a tree with the noose around his neck and the other end of the rope slung over the limb above his head. The would-be assassins were frightened away in the nick of time by the sound of the approach of the gallopin, team which bore the boy's father, a well known merchant of Cold Spring Harbor, and Deputy Sheriff Robinson to the scene. Young Bunce's cries were heard for some time before by the two men, who urged the horses to their utmost speed and so defeated the fiendish purpose of the boy's assailants.

Young Bunce declared them to have been six in number. They all wore white masks and he says they never uttered a word during the whole time when they attacked and bound him and stood him under the tree to hang him. He is wholly unable to make any identifications or even suggest who his assailants may be.

As before they had pinned a note to his coat. It read:—

> Percy Bunce will travel this road no more. He would not heed our warnings and this is his fate.
> THE WHITE CAPS

When young Bunce announced his intention of driving over to Huntington to visit his sweetheart last night both his parents tried to dissuade him from making the trip. They recalled the dangers of the last two journeys, when he was beaten and tied to a tree on the first occasion, and on the second narrowly escaped death from a knife hurled at him out of the darkness. But love called the boy too strongly and in spite of the danger he made the trip to Huntington. As before nothing happened to him till he was driving back late at night. He was armed, and declares that when the attack was made as he was driving through the pitch black portion of the road that traverses the woodlands he emptied his revolver, none of the bullets took effect. He was then overpowered and dragged out of the wagon. He says he shouted to the men to know the reason for their attack upon him, but they would make no reply to his questions. They silently and methodically bound him to the tree and then turned him off the road under the tree where one of the men made signals to him that if he struggled to get down upon the damp turf the sound of galloping horses coming toward him might pass away. Young Bunce, [illegible] and while the boy promised to keep [illegible] the clock's hands went [illegible] the assailants passed around Hempstead Plains [illegible] toward Huntington, [illegible] coming just [illegible] time to avert a tragedy.

As before, a search [illegible] and calls for miles around resulted in [illegible] White Caps and young Bunce declares that [illegible] to know who or [illegible] these outrages [illegible] attacks or [illegible] further. The [illegible] detectives [illegible] and the letters [illegible] the White Caps are printed [illegible] hand and

THEY FOUND YOUNG BUNCE TIED TO A TREE.

Up came from the Long Island town to the effect that the post office had been robbed, its safe being blown open with dynamite. It was especially in regard to this affair that I was sent there. But as I left the office the city editor handed me the Bunce clippings.

A Possible Clew.

"Perhaps the same gang of White Caps did this trick," he said. "At any rate, it may put you on the right track."

This seemed the more likely after I had arrived at Cold Spring Harbor and had viewed the scene of the robbery. No experienced yeggmen had done the "job." Very clumsy amateurs had committed the crime. They must have started the fuse and then run out of the post office, else they would have been killed, for they used so much dynamite that they not only blew the safe apart but blew down half the post office besides.

"How much did they get?" I asked the postmaster.

"Wal," he said, rubbing his stubby chin, "they didn't get nothin'. All there was in the safe was a can of condensed milk and ten few cent stamps, and they have been found in the ruins."

Aside from its humor, it wasn't much of a "story." But such as it was, I wrote it at the little telegraph office and then went to the local hotel. It was after nine o'clock, but Deputy Sheriff Robinson, who owned the hotel, had promised to have dinner prepared for me. He sat with me in the dining room while I ate. I brought up in conversation the matter of Percy Bunce. The good man shook his head.

"Darndest case that ever happened around here," he said. "Can't make head nor tail of it. Looks like, spite of everything we can do, they'll git that boy an' kill him yet."

Suddenly there sounded cries outside the room.

"Pap! Pap! Where are yer, pap?"

"In here, son," the old man called.

Master Robinson dashed into the room, his pale blue eyes wide with excitement. He was breathless.

"Pap—pap," he finally spluttered, "they got Percy Bunce again. He's been shot."

"Shot?" the deputy sheriff demanded, instinctively adjusting the badge of office that shone on his waistcoat.

Awful News.

"Yes; and they took his body away, too," panted the boy. "His hat's been found with a bullet hole clean through it. Pete Smith found the hat in the road. He's bringin' it to you, soon as he takes Mr. Bunce's horse and wagon home. Found the horse standin' in the road."

While Deputy Sheriff Robinson put on his hat and [illegible] the discovery the boy told us that Percy Bunce's hat had been found in about the same spot where the other attacks had occurred—the lonely section of the road through the woods. Robinson ordered a team hitched to a light road wagon and said he would be glad of my company.

Pete Smith arrived at this juncture with the hat dangling in his fingers. A bullet had raked it from back to front. I said nothing of the deductions that I made just then regarding the hat, but got into the carriage with the official and we drove toward Huntington.

In the lonely wood-shrouded section of the road where the hat had been found and where the other three attacks were declared to have been made on young Bunce we halted the horses, took the lanterns off the carriage and began a hunt of the woods for the body of the unfortunate boy. I flashed the lantern up and down the road for some distance, but could find no signs of a struggle, and, queerly enough, no stains in the road that would indicate that a man had been shot to death there.

And while we searched Percy Bunce in the life appeared. Pete Smith had telephoned to the Huntington police, and they had immediately started, as we had, for the place. On the way they met Percy Bunce. He was wandering in the road, chattering, highly excited, and seemingly somewhat dazed. But he had calmed considerably and said that he could now tell his story.

Percy's Thrilling Story.

"I was driving along on my way to Huntington—this is the first time they ever got after me on my way over; and just when I got to the woods I got out my revolver, like I always do nowadays. Then somebody yelled, 'Halt!' But you bet I didn't. I whipped up the horse instead. I couldn't see nobody then, it was so dark; but then there came a bang, and a flash, and I seen a big man with red whiskers holding a pistol pointing right at me, and I felt something whizz awful close over my head. Then I guess I fainted and fell out of the wagon, because when I came to—you know, got my senses back—I was just walkin' around like a fool. Guess when I fell out of the wagon he thought he'd killed me and ran away. It's gettin' to be awful, ain't it, Mr. Robinson, the way I'm bein' hounded? And I don't know why, neither." The young fellow sadly shook his head.

After all it was the hat with the bullet hole in it that was to clear the mystery of the curious case of Percy Bunce. When Percy had finished talking I went over to the carriage and got his hat off the seat.

"Percy," I said, "the holes in this hat show that the bullet entered from the back almost in the centre of the hat and came out in front almost in the centre."

"Yes," he said.

"Well, that wagon you drive has a closed back and open sides. How is it the bullet didn't go through the sides of the hat?"

"Don't know," said Percy, frowning. "Must have had my head turned away from him when he shot—must have been looking out of the other side thinkin' he was over there."

"But if you were looking that way, how could you see his face when the pistol flashed?"

"Don't know," snapped Percy. "Say, I can't remember everything exactly. I seen him—that's all I know."

"Well, here's your hat," I said.

Percy clapped the cap on his head. It was what is ordinarily described as a bicycle hat. It fitted snugly over his scalp.

"Percy Bunce," I said as solemnly as I could, "how is it that if you had that hat on when the bullet went through it the top of your skull is not now shot off?"

"What?" he demanded.

I put my fingers in the two bullet-holes. Owing to the snugly fitting character of the hat the bullet's course with the hat on Percy's head must have travelled through his brain.

Percy glowered, but, of course, had no explanation and attempted none.

"Percy," I said, gently, "it is very plain to me that you are a liar."

"Don't you call me no such name as that!" said he, preening his muscles.

But Deputy Sheriff Robinson, who had listened, said coldly:—

"Et certainly looks like you air lyin', Percy."

"It's a misdemeanor punishable by one year's imprisonment to deliberately give false information to the newspapers," I said rather loftily, looking Percy squarely in the eye.

"Is that right?" he asked, with sudden mildness.

"That's absolutely right," I said. "And I mean to investigate this business from beginning to end. All these hold-ups—everything."

Unexpected Revelation.

Percy tried to smile, but his lips looked pale.

"You needn't," he said. "There warn't no hold-ups."

"What?" demanded Deputy Sheriff Robinson. "No White Caps?"

"No."

"No throwin' a knife at yew—no tryin' to lynch yew—no tyin' yew to a tree?"

"No," said Percy steadily.

"Well," shouted the official, "what"——

"I did it all myself," said the boy.

"You must be crazy," declared Robinson in denunciation.

"No, I ain't crazy," maintained young Bunce stoutly. "I just thought it was the best way."

"The best way—for what?" I asked him.

"Well," said Percy, "you see, I'm in love with that little girl in Huntington, but she's only sixteen and I'm only eighteen, and my father wouldn't listen to me marryin' her till I was twenty-one, and her folks wouldn't hear of it neither. But we knew we were old enough and that our love ain't never goin' to change. So," said Percy, smiling blandly into the angry eyes of the outraged deputy, "we thought it out that if I was always gettin' held up and threatened and shot at, an' things like that, maybe my mother and father and her folks'd let us get married right away, rather than have me riskin' my life drivin' over to see her. See? That's the way we schemed it out. She wrote the notes and I did the other things—tied myself to the tree and stuck the knife in the wagon and put the rope around my neck—and—shot this hole through my hat."

Deputy Sheriff Robinson mounted his carriage with a determined step, and I got in with him.

"Gimme a lift into town?" asked Percy.

"No, by gosh!" said Deputy Sheriff Robinson. "Yew walk in. The cool air'll do yew good. And yew're a pretty big boy, but if your dad don't take yew into the barn and hand out a good dose of strap oil, by gosh, I'll do it myself—yew—yew impercent faced young scalawag—yew, Percy Bunce!"

Trial Marriages a Fact

ONE marriage in twelve in the United States ends in the divorce courts. The number of divorces has increased so astonishingly of late years that at the present rate of increase within ten years one marriage in every six will ultimately be annulled. The much discussed trial marriage, it would seem, is about to be realized. Incidentally the proportion of divorces is far higher in America than in any foreign country sufficiently civilized to record such statistics. The divorce rate per 100,000 of population in the United States, which was 29 in 1870, had risen to 82 in 1895, or, in other words, it has practically been trebled in thirty-six years.

The divorce rate varies widely in various sections of the United States. The laws governing divorce not only differ widely in the several States, but frequently contradict one another. In the West and South the rate is considerably higher than in the East and North. Since a great proportion of the divorces granted in the Western States are sought by people from the East, who temporarily take up residence for the purpose, it is unfair to say that any one section offends more than any other.

In New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania there were, for example, 73,303 divorces between 1867 and 1886, while between 1887 and 1906 the number had jumped to 142,920. In the Middle West, in the district bounded by Ohio on the east and the Dakotas on the west, the number increased from 162,893 in the earlier period to 434,476 in the later. Almost one-half of the total number of divorces for the entire Union were issued in this section. The most rapid rate of increase in the number of divorces is to be found in the South. In Texas, for instance, the increase in the two periods was from 11,472 to 62,655.

The number of divorces for the entire country is astounding. In twenty years there have been practically 1,000,000 divorces granted in America. The total number of marriages for the same period in America was a trifle more than 12,000,000. It is interesting to note in this connection that but three per cent of the population marry in the average year. Of all the divorces granted some thirty-eight per cent were granted on the plea of desertion. One of the most remarkable phases of these statistics is that eighty-five per cent of all the divorces were not contested. In other words, in the great majority of cases both parties to the divorce consent in advance to the separation, and the only difficulty encountered is in satisfying the law. In the cases in which notice was served personally upon the defendant twenty per cent were contested, while in the cases where the notice was published in the newspapers only three per cent were contested.

More than one-fourth of all the divorces are granted to the wife. For every divorce for cruelty granted to the wife there are three granted to the husband. Only in eighteen per cent of all the divorces granted was alimony demanded. Three wives in every sixteen asked for alimony and two out of sixteen obtained it. The proportion of husbands asking for alimony was but 2.8 per cent, and but two per cent received it. It will be a surprise to most people to know that forty per cent of the couples seeking divorce had children. The average duration of marriage terminated by divorce is just ten years. Fully two-thirds of all these marriages last less than ten years. At the present rate of increase it will be possible in a few years to calculate the probable length of marriages from these tables with reasonable certainty.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS

By the Way He Does It He Gives an Index to His Character.

THE POTENCY OF LAUGHTER.

Shown by the Effective Way in Which Cervantes Smiled Spain's Vain and Foolish Chivalry Away—Men Who Never Laughed and Rarely Smiled.

What an index to character is man's laugh! What surer clew can we have to both his intellect and his temper unless it be that he seldom or never laughs? "Nothing," says Goethe, "is more significant of men's character than what they find laughable." "You know no man," says Tieck, "till you have heard him laugh—till you know when and how he will laugh." "The perception of the ludicrous," says Emerson, "is a pledge of sanity. A rogue alive to the ludicrous is still convertible. If that sense is lost his fellow men can do little for him."

Lavater, the great physiognomist, lays his great stress on the very unequivocal and derisive nature of a laugh as an index of character. "If it be free and hearty and occasion a general and light movement in all the features and dimple the cheek and chin, it is an almost infallible evidence of the absence of any great material wickedness of disposition. Caesar mistrusted Cassius because that lean and hungry conspirator rarely, if ever, indulged in laughter. When Horace Walpole was in Paris in 1765 he found that laughing was out of fashion in that gay capital. "Good folks," he writes, "they have no time to laugh. There are God and the king to be pulled down first, and men and women, one and all, are devoutly employed in the demolition."

How often a man fails to betray the tiger that lurks within him until he laughs! Is there nothing significant in the fact recorded by Plutarch of Cato the younger that nothing could make him laugh, that his countenance was scarcely softened even by a smile? Is it not a characteristic trait of the gloomy tyrant, Philip II. of Spain, that he rarely smiled and that he laughed but once in his entire life, and that when he heard of the massacre on St. Bartholomew's day? Is it not a suggestive fact regarding the gloomy, taciturn Wallenstein, the terror of the people, at the sight of whom as he paced through his camp with his lofty figure enveloped in a scarlet mantle and with a red feather in his cap a strange horror took possession of the soldiers, that he was never seen to smile? Can we wonder that the poor little dwarf, Alexander Pope, the cynical satirist, afflicted with asthma and dropsy, tortured with rheumatism, racked with headaches and threatened with cataract, should never have laughed, but only smiled?

It has been said of the greatest of English dramatists, who united with his intense humor an equally intense, piercing insight into the darkest and most fearful depths of human nature, that no heart would have been strong enough to hold the woe of Lear and Othello except that which had the unquenchable elasticity of Falstaff and the "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Might not a similar remark be made of that "pendulum betwixt a smile and a fear," Abraham Lincoln, in whom sadness and a keen sense of the comic were so strikingly combined? How exuberant was his mirth, sparkling in jest, comic story and anecdote, and yet how often the very next moment those sad, pathetic, melancholy eyes showed a man familiar with "sorrows and acquainted with grief!"

Who can doubt that but for the merriment in which he indulged—the contagious laughter which welled up from his soul as naturally as do bubbles in the springs of Saratoga—he would have sunk under his weary weight of care long before he fell by the pistol of Booth?

It is indeed statesmen, students and thinkers generally who most need the relaxation afforded by occasional merriment. Some centuries ago it was the fashion in Europe for men of rank to keep a buffoon, and a banquet was considered incomplete where a privileged jester was not an attendant. This was perhaps for those days a wise custom. It is surprising how much a few minutes' sleep will refresh the body and a few minutes' laughter the mind, and many a useful life might be prolonged by the substitution of these remedies for "carking care" and weariness in place of the usual treacherous tonics and stimulants.

What a dismal deduction would be made from the happiness of our homes if they were robbed of their merriment! What pictures of innocent mirth has Goldsmith given in the "Vicar of Wakefield," and how artless the remark of the good Dr. Primrose, "If he had little wit we had plenty of laughter!"

What a power for good and evil is the world's "dread laugh, which scarce the firm philosopher can scorn!" How many men have been cowed by it who could have faced without flinching a battery's deadly fire! How many bad customs and wicked practices, how many quixotic schemes of philanthropy or reform, how many absurd doctrines in politics, theology and sociology, which have defied the artillery of argument have been "laughed off the public stage," never to return! Did not Cervantes "smile Spain's vain and foolish chivalry away?"—William Mathews in London Great Thoughts.

"CREASING" A WILD HORSE.

For One Captured by That Method Fifty Were Killed.

Will C. Barnes, writing in McClure's of the various methods of capturing wild horses in the old days on the plains, says:

"'Creasing' was one of their devices. This consisted in shooting a bullet so that it struck the animal on the top of the neck just in front of the withers and about an inch or so deep close to the spinal column. The shock temporarily stunned the horse, and the hunter ran up and tied the animal's feet together before he recovered. A rope halter was slipped on his head. A gentle horse or sometimes a work ox was led up alongside the prostrate beast, and he was securely necked up to the gentle animal and thus could be handled easily. Old mustangers say, however, that for one horse caught this way fifty were killed and that as a matter of fact the method was not used very much except in an emergency, when a hunter, after days of attempts to capture, finally took the risk of successfully creasing an unusually fine animal rather than see him escape altogether.

"One of the best cow ponies I ever owned I bought from a mustanger who had creased him on the plains east of the Pecos river in New Mexico. There was a hole in his neck fully two inches deep and wide, where the ball from the heavy buffalo gun had plowed its way through the flesh just high enough above the spine not to kill and low enough to stun effectually."

India Ink.

In both India and China there are thousands of people who manufacture india ink as a side line to their regular business, working at it in the winter at night and on days when they are not otherwise employed. It is made by burning some kind of oil in a lamp with a very long chimney, usually made in joints which can be taken apart for greater convenience in cleaning out the soot which makes the ink. Almost any kind of vegetable oil will answer, and in districts where petroleum is found even coal oil is used in making the cheaper grades. The best kind is made from sesame oil.—Argonaut.

His Hand.

Tom Reed was playing whist on one occasion in his club in Portland. One of the party whom the "czar" did not like extravagantly had a habit of carrying a good deal of black realty under his finger nails, and the rest of his hands never looked clean. But the fellow had good luck, which nettled Tom. Finally, almost unable to conceal his impatience, the giant speaker of the house of representatives remarked in his metallic nasal tone of voice, "Blank, if dirt was trumps, what a hand you'd have!"

A Terrible Threat.

"You say your titled son-in-law holds threats over you?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He has us where we can't give him any argument at all. Mother and the girls say we must yield for the sake of the family honor."

"Is there—er—a skeleton in the closet?"

"Not at all. He simply announces that unless he has his own way he'll get naturalized and be a plain American citizen."

A WHISTLER WHIM.

The Artist Wouldn't Argue About His Birthplace or Age.

James McNeill Whistler had no patience with those people who would insist upon inquiring into two details of his biography in which he professed, and professed with some sincerity, that he was not interested. These details were his age and his place of birth.

It was once mentioned in a Parisian paper that Whistler was born in Baltimore. Although this was contrary to fact, Whistler could not be induced to correct it. The mistake was copied over and over again, and angry patriots from Massachusetts, accidentally the birthplace of this citizen of the world, would write impassioned letters to him asking him to deny the libel. All he could be prevailed upon to say was, "If it pleases any one to have me born in Baltimore, let me be born in Baltimore." An individual hailing from Lowell, Mass., once apostrophized him in the generally insulting manner which certain people regard as etiquette in addressing a man of genius upon a first introduction.

"Mr. Whistler," said the stranger, "like me, you were born in Lowell, Mass., and you are sixty-eight years of age and I am sixty-seven. I remember"—

The painter interrupted wearily and plaintively: "My dear sir, if you like to be born in Lowell, Mass., and you enjoy being sixty-seven years of age, well and good, but I don't want to be sixty-eight years of age and don't remember being born in Lowell, Mass." —New York Telegraph.

ON AN OCEAN LINER.

It Doesn't Pay to Get Haughty With the Stewards.

"Never, oh, never, speak harsh words of rebuke to a steward on an ocean liner," declared a congressman of New York.

"One summer I journeyed over to the other side. The first day out, at mealtime, I found that I had to embrace the table leg to get near enough to operate with my knife and fork. For my unpleasant seat I called the steward to account. Most harsh was my criticism. Then I told him I would have my meals served thereafter in the upper cabin.

"The next morning the cabin steward told me of a better room and that I should get it immediately. It was more costly and elaborately furnished than the one I occupied with my traveling companion. Then, too, it was on the main deck. I looked over the new room and decided to change. I had my luggage, with that of my friend, moved below. When my friend found the new quarters he gasped with horror. 'Man alive!' he said, 'this is the worst hole on the ship. You and I are in for a great big seasick.' We got every jar of the ship and good and seasick too.

"The day I landed the dining room steward met me on the deck. 'Much obliged for changing,' he said. 'It was at my request that the cabin steward got you to move. The gentleman ahead of you in that cabin and who wanted to move gave me $75 to fix the deal. I thank you for what is a most glorious tip."—Washington Post.

Keepsakes.

Washington Irving, who wrote the following lines on the value of trifles, evidently believed in them as emblems of friendship:

"There is something, after all, in those trifles that friends bestow upon each other which is an unfailing indication of the place the giver holds in the affections. I would believe that one who preserved a lock of hair, a simple flower or any trifle of my bestowing loved me, though no show was made of it, while all the protestations in the world would not win my confidence in one who set no value on such little things. Trifles they may be, but it is by such that character and disposition are oftenest revealed."

Just For a Change.

"What I want," said the theatrical manager, "is a genuine novelty."

"Something realistic?" asked the playwright.

"Yes, but I don't want any real pugilists or real naval disasters or real live stock or real battles in it."

The playwright looked wearily thoughtful and, after a pause, inquired:

"How would it do to spring something on the public with real actors in it?"—London Tit-Bits.

In Training.

"Are you going to mingle in the life of the capital?" asked the old time friend.

"I don't know yet," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It depends on whether mother and the girls can teach me to eat ice cream with a fork without dropping any on my Sunday shirt bosom."—Washington Star.

TIRED, WEAK, AND NERVOUS

Morning Tiredness makes you wish it were night. When night comes refreshing sleep is hard to obtain.

You're run down. Your blood is thin and watery. The very thought of effort wearies you.

FERROZONE CURES

It's Ferrozone you need. It makes blood—the strong red kind.

An appetite? You'll eat everything, and digest it, too.

Strength? Plenty of digested food and restful sleep brings that. Try Ferrozone and watch results. It never fails to cure.

FERROZONE is a marvelous tonic—it contains in a concentrated form certain rare properties that especially fit it in cases of anaemia (poor color, thin blood), tiredness and loss of weight.

FIVE SENSES NOT ENOUGH.

Our Limited Scale of Consciousness Shuts Out Many Vibrations.

Between the vibrations that we call electricity and the vibrations that we call heat we imagine there must be other vibrations filling up the gap, but we do not know, simply because we have no senses that can comprehend them. The spectrum is just such a little scale. Below the darkest red at the lower end we cannot see; at the other end as the vibrations get faster and faster through the orange, the blue and the violet is another unknown gap—that is, we cannot see it. But surely the vibrations are there. Some of them, for instance, that we have never seen and never can see, mark their presence on a photographic plate. And this same spectrum may be used as an analogy to describe spiritualistic phenomena. Just as there are limits at either end of the scale of vibrations beyond which our own senses can tell us nothing so may there be psychic forces at work beyond the limits of our consciousness. These are seemingly supernatural to us when we witness their effect, but they really are no more supernatural than the X ray that pierces the solid body or the invisible ultra violet ray that marks the photographic plate.—From "Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremont Rider in Delineator.

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."

Quick Wit.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clergymen, bearing the name of Tears, came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment.

The parson said: "Goodby, my lord! I hope we may meet again, but if not here in some better place."

The bishop replied, "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the plains of paradise, but never of any Hills there."

Overfeeding.

"Men drunk from liquor and men drunk from overeating are most susceptible to pneumonia and die of it," said a Chicago health commissioner in an address. "The majority of cases of pneumonia are of patients who contracted the disease after a drunken debauch or who were drunk from overfeeding," the commissioner continued. "People drunk from overfeeding, I think, are almost as immoral as those who stupefy themselves with liquors. The effects of pneumonia in such patients are much the same."

Champagne Corks.

The manufacture of the best kind of corks, those made for champagne bottles, are never intrusted to machines. The ordinary common cork is made by machinery, but the best work invariably is done by human hands, and the champagne cork cannot be trusted to a machine. All the blemishes in the cork have to be taken into consideration, so this work is done by hand labor.

Not Out of Danger.

Wiggles—I hear Bjenks has been very ill. Is he out of danger yet? Waggles—Well, he's convalescent, but he won't be out of danger until that pretty nurse who has been taking care of him has gone away.—Life.

Left Handed Compliment.

"Your glasses," she said, "have made a great difference in your appearance."

"Do you think so?" he asked.

"Yes. You look so intelligent with them on."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Getting the Best of It.

By FREDERICK SHADER.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Until the coming of Chiswick the camp had taken it for granted that some day Letty Chester would marry Henry Bruce. The two had grown up together in the east, and Bruce had come west with Letty's father in search of health and fortune.

Gord Chester had found some small wealth, while Bruce had found the health he sought. Then Chester had died, leaving his little fortune in the hands of Bruce as executor.

The camp looked to see a marriage follow quickly after Letty's year of mourning, but no such announcement was made. Then the arrival of Chiswick on the scene put a new complexion on affairs.

Down at the Spread Eagle dance hall the women called him "cute." Men applied other and less complimentary adjectives, but Letty looked on him with favor.

He was the sort of man who attracts impressionable women—only about five feet six in height, but he was natty and trim of person and carried himself with a little swagger that always impresses the unthinking.

He was neatly groomed and in every way the antithesis of six foot Henry Bruce, whose clothes flapped about his lank form and who walked with a slight stoop, as most tall men do.

Chiswick had come to camp as the agent for a supply firm. The camp had grown in the last few years, and, though no bonanza strike had advertised the place to the rest of the world, there was gold in plenty in the mountains and every prospect that the place would continue to grow.

Chiswick had a shack built for his samples, and once the place was open he left a clerk in charge and devoted himself to Letty. Chiswick had the odd faculty of making others work, though he himself lacked habits of industry, and he preferred riding into the hills with Letty to attending to business at the store.

"YOU STAKE THAT CLAIM."

For six months the courtship continued; then one day Chiswick found Bruce waiting for him at the store. His lean length was sprawled over Chiswick's own chair at the rear of the shack, and Chiswick eyed his caller angrily as the latter slowly rose.

"It was a long wait, and that was the only comfortable chair," explained Bruce, guessing the cause of the other's anger.

"It must be important, since you wait in spite of discomforts," retorted Chiswick. "I left word that I would be back at 5."

"I had the time," said Bruce, and I wanted to see you about Miss Chester."

"That was to be expected," sneered Chiswick. "I've been expecting it for some time. Because you haven't the nerve to win her for yourself I suppose that you want to use your club as guardian and tell me that I am to keep off your preserves. Rather handy, isn't it, Hank?"

"It would be if I wanted to do such a thing," was the quiet retort, "but what I came to see you about was to ask if you are going to propose.

"You've made a lot of talk in the camp, but you have said nothing definite to Letty, or at least she has told me nothing about it if you have, and I think I have a right to know."

"You are a man of the world, or you were before you buried yourself in this place. You must know that just because a man is nice to a pretty girl it does not argue that he wants to marry her."

"We look at things differently here in the mountains," retorted Bruce. "You know very well that the entire camp expects you to marry Letty, and they are wondering why you don't say something about it. As her guardian I have come to ask you to come out in the open. That's our way."

There was a glitter in Bruce's eyes that warned Chiswick to be careful, and the snarl faded from his face and his oily voice returned as he sought to argue that his income was too small and too uncertain to permit him to marry. Bruce listened patiently until the end; then he looked up slowly.

"Then it's only because you can't afford to marry that you don't ask Letty?" demanded Bruce.

Chiswick nodded. It seemed the one insurmountable objection that he could advance. He had no intention of marrying Letty.

She was a pretty child, and she had helped to pass the time, but also there was always the hope that his work in this wilderness would result in a call to the city, and there Letty would be a sad hindrance.

"You needn't worry about that," cried Bruce. "You look here! I suppose you know the branch they call Cat creek?"

Chiswick nodded, and Bruce continued: "There is a gulch leading off that creek with a tall pine at the mouth. At the top of the gulch is a spruce. Walk along a line with those two trees until you come to a place where there is a cleft in the rocks underfoot. You stake that claim, and I guess that you can afford to be married."

Chiswick thanked him profusely, and by the next night the camp knew that Chiswick had fallen upon a bonanza.

"The darned little fool wasn't even looking for it," explained one of the miners. "He just naturally fell up against it, but unless I'm mistaken it's going to be the making of this camp. It's a pity that a man didn't locate it."

The sentiment was generally echoed, but there is no questioning the favors of fate. In six weeks development work had shown clearly that the mine was a winner, and on the heels of the assurance came the announcement that Chiswick had sold a third interest for $800,000.

Then the town looked for the announcement of his engagement to Letty, but the announcement was not forthcoming. Not until Bruce reminded him of their understanding and threatened to publish him as a liar did Chiswick speak.

It was a grudging, ungracious proposal that he made, but Letty was too happy to question the degree of his enthusiasm. Yet before she uttered a trembling "Yes" she hesitated.

"I wonder what my guardian will say?" she said with a little shiver. "He doesn't like you, Jack. Perhaps we can't get married until after I come of age."

"Bruce?" asked Chiswick with a laugh. "Why, he put me wise to this mine, because I explained that I did not have enough money to marry on. I don't suppose that he knew how good it was, but he knew it was something good, and that shows that he is not only willing, but anxious."

"He gave you the mine—to marry me?" she gasped.

"Sure," assented Chiswick. "Don't you worry about Bruce."

"I am not worrying about Mr. Bruce," said Letty, with a sudden revulsion of feeling. "I don't care whether he is willing or not. I shall not marry you." With a woman's intuition she read the truth.

"But I say"—began Chiswick. Letty checked his speech. "I thought you wanted to marry me," she said. "I did not know that dear old Harry had to bribe you to propose. Please go away." And Chiswick went, only too glad to escape the scene his blunder promised to cause.

Bruce coming in that evening to make certain that all was right found the girl he loved still sobbing on the couch.

"And you were so anxious to get rid of me that you bribed Jack Chiswick with a mine," she cried when the cause of her tears had been explained.

"I thought you loved him," explained Bruce simply, "and without money you could not have been happy—with him."

"I can be happy without money—with you," she reminded, and Bruce took her in his arms, well content to lose the mine and find a heart of gold.

Know His Name.

The man was jealous, insanely jealous, though heaven knows the girl gave him no cause.

Girls never do.

He knew the name of the man he feared.

He did not tell her so, however, but beat about the bush, as they do on the stage.

At the same time, when this story opens, they were having an emotional tussle.

"Oh, George," she said, "what is the matter?"

"You know well enough," he replied bitterly.

"I assure you I do not," she insisted.

"But you do, and you do nothing to make our life sweeter."

"Tell me what I should do," she pleaded, for, though she might be frisky with George, she did not wish to lose her grip on him entirely.

"Oh, George, George, why are you not frank with me?" she pleaded again.

George's face became ashen gray at her fateful words.

"That is it!" he hissed, the awful fire of jealousy blazing in his eyes. "That is it, Miss Smithkins. If I were Frank with you instead of George, you'd be all right."

The girl would have replied, but she could not. Her tongue clave to the roof of her mouth.

The other fellow's name was Frank!—London Answers.

A Drop in Value.

"Have you heard of Mrs. Fadleigh's latest craze?"

"No."

"She thinks it's the proper thing to lead a dog about the streets. She's got a twenty dollar silver chain and a ten dollar gold mounted whip."

"Hasn't she any dog?"

"Yes; she has a thirty cent dog."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Old London Cookshops.

Mediaeval London, besides being a "city of taverns," was famous for its cookshops, such as the place on the river bank described by Fitzstephen in the thirteenth century: "There every day ye may call for any dish of meat, roast, fried or sodden, fish both small and great, venison and fowl. If friends come upon a sudden wearied with travel to a citizen's house and they be loath to wait for curious preparations and dressings of fresh meat let the servant run to the water side, where all things that can be desired are at hand." This particular place of public cookery apparently did an indoor as well as an outdoor trade, for Fitzstephen further described it as being used both day and night by "multitudes of soldiers or other strangers who refresh themselves to their content on roast goose, the fowl of Africa and the rare gadwit of Ionia." But what were the two last mentioned viands?—London Chronicle.

Sickroom Mirrors.

"Only a hand mirror should find place in a sickroom," said a doctor, "and it should be one flattering to the patient—the kind, for instance, which if the face is too broad will lengthen it a little. And the patient should only be allowed to look in the mirror at propitious times. Many a patient has been frightened literally to death by his haggard reflection—has looked, sighed and renounced hope. But many another patient in a really bad way—really desperate, too—being given a look at himself just after he has taken a stimulant has bucked up wonderfully. In fact, a sickroom mirror wisely handled is a curative agent, while recklessly handled it may kill."

His Usual Way.

The new waitress sidled up to a dapper young man at the breakfast table, who, after glancing at the bill, opened his mouth, and a noise issued forth that sounded like the ripping off of all of the cogs on one of the wheels in the power house. The new waitress made her escape to the kitchen. "Fellow out there insulted me," she said. The head waiter looked at him. "I'll get it," he said. "That's just the train caller ordering his breakfast."—Argonaut.

Improved.

"How do you like your alarm clock?" asked the jeweler.

"First rate."

"You didn't seem pleased with it at first."

"No, but it's broken now."—Tit-Bits.

Warm.

"The spirit of your husband wishes to speak with you, madam."

"What does he say?"

"He says that he doesn't have to dress in a cold room."—Bohemian.

Building by Machinery.

A recent Canadian invention, worked by two men and a boy, will lay 400 to 600 bricks an hour. The machine is suited for all plain work, such as walls, sheds, mills, factories, rows of cottages, and piers or bridges. Considerable pressure is put upon the bricks and it is claimed that the work is more firmly done than by hand. The invention will do the work of six or seven skilled bricklayers, and it is believed that a machine adapted to build a factory covering about 60 feet by 40 feet, could be put on the market for $500.

Woman's World

IDOL OF THE NATION.

The Queen of Italy's Devoted Service Appreciated by Her Subjects.

The frightful woe wrought in Italy by the earthquake that destroyed Messina and Reggio has had one slight ray of consolation for the queen of the devastated realm. Her heroic conduct in the midst of the horrors of the first few days, the bravery with which she nursed the suffering, keeping so close to the danger zone that she was actually injured in a belated shock that came a week after the main upheaval, have made the beautiful queen the idol of Italy.

This is a place in the affections of the people that had never before been granted in full measure.

Queen Helene had to suffer to some slight extent for the enormous popularity of her mother-in-law, Queen Margherita.

Margherita is Italian, and Helene is not an Italian. She is a daughter of the Prince of Montenegro. She had no Italian sympathies at the time the crown prince went a-wooing. In fact, all her inclinations were in favor of Russia, the czarina of which nation she just missed becoming.

At first the substitution of the throne of Italy for that which she had lost did not afford full consolation. For one thing, the king of Italy is frail in health, and it was feared that the union might never be blessed by an heir who could succeed to the throne.

The coming of the heir was the first point that inclined the people toward regard for their new sovereign.

Her beauty had some influence on the impressionable Tuscans, for no one could discount that. It is said by many that she is the handsomest woman of royal birth in Europe. Her face is beautiful and her figure superb.

Italians liked to know that at every gathering of royalty there stood none to dispute in point of beauty with their own haughty and handsome queen.

But it began to be discovered that there was more to the queen than her physical charms. Gradually she began to evince a mentality that ought not to have been a matter for surprise, considering that she springs from the heroic stock of Montenegro, that little principality that has not hesitated to boldly defy with force of arms on more than one occasion the power of the Turk.

The queen gradually developed an understanding of the Italian nature. She became proud of the art traditions of the country and of the heroic deeds of Garibaldi, Cavour and the other giants who had brought about the independence of Italy.

She appealed to the ladies of her court to be patriotic even to the extent of declining to take their fashions from Paris, but of adapting Italian ideas to their costumes in order not only to obtain more beautiful effects, but to promote nationalism.

Moreover, in her home life she has demonstrated a simplicity that appealed very strongly to the people. She who at court has a bearing unapproached by any sovereign of Europe declined to live in the stately palace at the Quirinal, but persuaded her royal spouse to take his residence in the small palace at the bottom of the garden, built by Pope Corsini and set apart during the live of Victor Emmanuel II. and Humbert for princes visiting Rome.

It is of modest dimensions, but it is pleasant and comfortable, and is fitted out with refined simplicity quite in the English style.

The queen enjoys the admiring devotion of her husband, and by preference they nearly always dine alone, their merry laughter heard by those in the next room showing the happiness they get out of their quiet life.

Ways of Womankind.

At a club meeting a few days ago there was much discussion of the efficacy of "classical education." And when the subject had been argued pro and con for some time, its value considered from all possible viewpoints, a professor from the University of Pennsylvania contributed to the debate a somewhat startling statement. He said that a classical education was worth while, not because it was useful, but because it was not; not because it would help a man or woman to make a better living, but because it was of no practical aid whatsoever. It was of use, he pointed out, because it was useless.

And in the university professor's contention there is a truth that reaches much further than a discussion of "classical education" in our schools and colleges. It is a truth that strikes straight home into the lives of each of us, that may well be listened to by American women today. We are in danger of forgetting nowadays the transcendent use of the useless thing.

As the professor says, we are falling into habits of "trivial utility." "Usefulness" is the criterion by which education, employment, even pastime, is judged. "Practical," "efficacious," "valuable," these are the test words by which we prove the worth of pretty nearly everything, it seems, in life. It is a principle that goes along with our commercialism, though it reaches beyond the consideration of dollars and cents; our materialism, though it passes the domain of material things; our boasted "progress," to prove its emptiness.

And we need today, all of us, a recognition of the use of the "useless" thing—the thing that is "only" beautiful. We need to look away now and then from the manifold "conveniences" for our bodily welfare, our material prosperity, toward the light that only shines upon our souls. We would be better mothers, we American women, better wives, better housekeepers and stenographers and schoolteachers and librarians, if we forgot once in awhile those "trivial utilities" of our existence and saw the use of the useless, the wonderful, the transcendently worthy thing.

If thou of fortune be bereft
And of thy store thou hast but left
Two loaves, sell one and with the dole
Buy hyacinths to feed thy soul.

Absurd it sounds nowadays. And it is because it sounds absurd that we need it. The girl who spends her wages on books instead of shoes isn't so foolish, after all, no matter how much her wise mother may rail at her "silly extravagance." She "never will learn the value of money," as her mother says, a girl like that. But she may learn greater values none the less.

And it may be that if we stop fighting solely for crowns and kingdoms we may be found worthy of better desires and may set out with our faces toward the sunrise upon the quest of the Holy Grail.

Absentminded Agent.

An absentminded agent is responsible for the fact that a tenant in an apartment is having all her rooms repapered this season. By the terms of the lease certain repairs were to be made, but papering, it seemed, was not included. Not knowing this, the woman telephoned the agent and asked where she should go to select papers. He, having much else on his mind and taking it for granted that she would not ask for anything not allowed, told her the dealer's name and sent her on an order. The paper was selected and sent for, and the woman supposed it had been hung until, going into the apartment last week to see, she found it still on the floor. Investigation proved that no orders for putting it up had been given, and the agent's telephone wire became hot. "Why isn't the apartment in order?" the tenant demanded, and the agent went scurrying to his books to find out. Then it was discovered that no agreement had been made as to paper, and that was why no orders to hang it had been given.

But, as the woman said, as long as they had bought it, was it worth while to let it stay on the floor? Wouldn't it be more economical to put it on the walls and not repaper next autumn? The argument was so logical that the agent was obliged to succumb, and seven rooms are being done now that except through error would have remained unfreshened.

Suffragettes in Ancient Rome.

The suffragette is no new thing. There have been suffragettes for a long time. They had them in ancient Rome, for Professor Ferrero, who lectured in Columbia university the other day, said so.

What's more, the old Romans, just like the men today, thought that things would go to rack and ruin just as soon as the women got the ballot. The Italian professor said: "The suffragette agitation is not new, for the victory of the feminine over the masculine spirit was a part of the history of the second empire, when greater wealth and security broke the bond of women during the earlier struggles toward imperialism. The Romans at a slightly later date complained that the dressmakers and the jewelers would send Rome and the empire to ruin and passed a great many laws in an attempt to restrain a great many extravagances in living and dress."

Dear, dear Rome fell. Somebody better be restraining these American women.

If Silicon Were a Gas.

Whistler at West Point seems to have had a sort of subconscious knowledge of his destiny, and this gave him an utter indifference to everything not consonant with it. Here he was a failure. A direct statement in a class recitation that "silicon is a gas" discouraged his chemical instructor and was one of the final blows to his military career. As Whistler says himself, if silicon had only been a gas he might have become a major general. But the fates were against it.

DEATH OF THE WORLD.

When Water Disappears and Air Gets Too Thin to Breathe.

The age of the earth is placed by some at 500,000,000 years, by others 100,000,000 years, and still others of later time place it at 10,000,000 years. None place it lower than 10,000,000, knowing what processes have been gone through.

Other planets go through the same process. The reason that other planets differ so much from the earth is that they are in so much earlier or later stages of existence. The earth must become old.

Newton surmised, although he could give no reason for it, that the earth would lose all its water and become perfectly dry. Since then it has been found that Newton was correct.

As the earth keeps cooling it will become porous, and great cavities will be formed in the interior, which will take in the water. It is estimated that this process is now in progress, so far that the water diminishes at the rate of the thickness of a sheet of paper each year.

At this rate in 6,000,000 years the water will have sunk a mile, and in 15,000,000 the water will have disappeared from the face of the globe.

The nitrogen and oxygen in the atmosphere are also diminishing all the time. It is in an inappreciable degree, but the time will come when the air will be so thin that no creature we know could breathe it and live. The time will come when the world cannot support life. That will be the period of old age, and then will come death.—Richard A. Proctor.

Hindus Sue Officials.

Bahari Singh and ten other Hindus of Vancouver are seeking to recover $20,000 damages from Dr. Munro, immigration inspector, for alleged wrongful detention at the C.P.R. wharf last March. Coming from Fiji Islands, the Hindus were detained for deportation under the order in council, as not coming direct from land of origin. Subsequently the order-in-council was disallowed by the courts, it being declared that the Governor-General-in-council had no power to delegate this authority to a minister, and the Hindus were liberated.

The headquarters of Archimandrite Michael, who has been appointed bishop of the old believers of the Greek Church in Canada, is to be in Winnipeg. Advertising Alberta.

The Calgary Herald is adopting a novel method of collecting and publishing crop statistics in Alberta. Farmers in various districts are invited to send sworn declarations of their crop records of last year, and these The Herald intends to publish, hoping in this way to furnish convincing evidence of agricultural possibilities and progress in the province that runs out to the foot-hills of the Rockies. Here is the report made by D. S. Frey, a farmer in the Carstairs district:

Wheat, fall, 33 acres, averaging 47 bushels per acre; oats, 28 acres, averaging 96 bushels per acre; barley, 17 acres, averaging 43 bushels per acre. His profits, without counting cost for labor, were, per acre, $24 on wheat, $29 on oats, and $18 on barley.

Highly Esteemed.

"Do you think that most people nowadays worship money?"

"No; I won't go as far as that," answered the home grown philosopher, "but I will say that the love of money is seldom platonic."

Limited Love.

"And why didn't you?"

"It was so high!"—Lustige Blatter.

Why $15,000 Power By-law Should Be Supported By The Ratepayers Of The City

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—We wish, on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the by-law to authorise the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter for providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the water works property, asked the Council to submit a by-law to the electors for that purpose, which the Council has done. At the same time the Commisioners informed the Council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1,200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the water works department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the Council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of bulding the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when the work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to install the electrical machinery. The would, no doubt, leave time, enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the by-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the by-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1,275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the water works department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once, and the whole cost of the two years' interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work the City will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the Committee and the Council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed)
H. RUSH,
Mayor.
A. A. McINTYRE,
Chairman Power Committee.

USING PURGATIVES INJURES THE HEALTH

In the Spring a Tonic is Needed—But Not Harsh, Drastic Medicines.

A Spring medicine is an actual necessity to most people. Nature demands it as an aid in carrying off the impurities that have accumulated in the blood during the indoor life of winter months. But unfortunately thousands of people who recognize the necessity for a spring medicine do not know what is best to take and dose themselves with harsh griping purgatives. This is a serious mistake. Ask any doctor and he will tell you that the use of purgative medicine weakens the system, but does not cure disease. In the Spring the system needs building up—purgatives cannot do this; they weaken you still more. The blood should be made rich, red and pure—no purgative can do this. What is needed in the Spring is a tonic, and the best tonic medical science has yet discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine actually makes new, rich blood. This new blood strengthens every organ, every nerve, and every part of the body. THE WEATHER.

Washington, D.C., March 2.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent 16 to 20, warm wave 15 to 19, cool wave 18 to 22. This disturbance was expected to bring severe storms, to be preceded by a cold wave and to be followed by a cool wave and then much higher temperatures and not much rain.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 21, cross Pacific slope by close of 22, great central valleys 23 to 25, Eastern States 26. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 21, great Central Valleys 23, Eastern States 25. Cool wave will cross Pacific Slope about 24, great Central Valleys 26, Eastern States, 28.

Severe storms will come to a few places as this disturbance crosses the continent, reaching their greatest force west of the Mississippi. But the preceding disturbance will be in the Rocky Mountains or plain States. I have advised a close watch of weather events during the five days of which March 21st will be the central day. Probabilities are favourable to dangerous storms about that time.

Last disturbance of March will reach the Pacific coast about the 26th and cross Pacific Slope by close of March 27th, great Central Valleys, 28th to 30th, Eastern States 31st. A warm wave will cross Pacific Slope about the 26th, Great Central Valleys, 29th, Eastern States, 30th. Cool wave will cross Pacific Slope about the 29th, Great Central Valleys, 31st, Eastern States April 2nd.

While the temperature will be going up and down as usual the average temperatures of March 23rd to 30th, will constitute a great high temperature wave, causing the crop season to advance more rapidly than usual and early outdoor plants should be protected.

Next bulletin will give crop weather forecasts for April and will be of more than recent interest. The crop season will begin earnestly with the morning of April.

My bulletin of February 20th correctly timed and located the great snow storm that made so much trouble in Washington March 4. I specially warned all that the cold wave with severe storms and snow storms would reach the Eastern States on Inauguration Day.

Prof. Irl Hicks, of St. Louis, gave March 4th as the date for what he calls "reactionary storms," but he failed, as he generally does, to say where these storms would occur.

AN AFRICAN TITBIT.

Hippopotamus Meat Has a Strong Odor and Flavor of Musk.

To the African traveler the hippopotamus is a species of game particularly desirable, for its ivory and its hide are both valuable, while the not inconsiderable danger involved in its pursuit provides the delicious emotion without which every kind of hunting is tame and insipid. Moreover, the obligation under which the leader of the expedition lies to feed his servants and carriers adequately makes one of these enormous beasts, twelve feet long or so and disproportionately wide, a perfect godsend. Not only does the hippopotamus furnish a formidable amount of meat, but that meat has the inestimable merit of keeping fresh much longer than any other, principally owing to the fact that flies seem to have an insurmountable horror of it. I must admit that for a long time I thoroughly sympathized with the flies. Alive, the hippopotamus has a peculiar odor, somewhat resembling musk, which discloses the presence of the animal from afar when he happens to be to windward of one. In the flesh of the dead animal this odor—or the taste of it, rather—persists and is much appreciated by the natives, though foreigners take a long time to get accustomed to it; some are never able to support it.—Wide World Magazine.

Quick Response.

Mrs. Jones (a suffragette)—Don't ask special privileges, Mr. Jones. What I do ask is that you, for example, a man, should treat me exactly as you would another man. Instead of talking small talk and treating me like a thing to be protected, and all that, assume toward me the attitude you do to Mr. Warrington. Treat me like a good fellow. Mr. Jones (quickly)—Why, certainly, old chap. Lend me a fiver, will you?—London Graphic.

Use For Uniforms.

"Do you think we ought to have a bigger army and a larger navy?"

"Oh, yes," replied the beautiful girl. "It would be so nice if all the boys at the dances could appear in uniform, with epaulets and braided collars"—

RETURNS OF BIG RACE

The Examiner Has Arranged For a Complete Service Covering The Simpson-Shrubb Race.

SHOP EARLY TO-NIGHT!

To-night Fred Simpson meets Alf. Shrubb in the most important race of his career, and the contest is furnishing about the principal topic of conversation in Peterborough to-day. Everywhere Simpson's chances of beating the famous little Britisher are being discussed and nearly every one in Peterborough will be anxious to know the results. The Examiner has made arrangements with the C. P. R. telegraph company for a complete bulletin service covering the race so that those interested may hear the returns at this office to-night. The race will commence about 8:45 o'clock, and the first bulletin will be on hand before nine o'clock.

In order to give the merchants and their employees a chance to hear the returns the citizens are asked to do their shopping early to-night. Such action on their part would no doubt be greatly appreciated by the business men and clerks.

YOUNG MEN DISMISSED

Police Evidently Got Wrong Parties Who Did Damage On Aylmer Street Wednesday Night.

TO PAY FOR WINDOW.

Four young men appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning charged with creating a disturbance on Aylmer St. on the night of the 17th of March. These were the fellows, who it was alleged danced on a verandah of a residence opposite the fire hall and who smashed a window in the house at the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer Sts., but evidently the police got the wrong men and His Worship was unable to convict the accused on the evidence adduced.

However, one of the defendants stated that he was the man who broke the window. He said that as he came along the street he passed a remark to three fellows standing on the corner, whom he did not know. They shoved him against the window, breaking the sash and panes of glass.

His Worship stated that there was two dollars' damages to be paid. The young man consented to pay it and the four were discharged.

HUGE WATER TANK BURST

Three People Were Killed And Many Injured In Accident ---$250,000 Worth Of Damage Done.

A CHURCH DESTROYED.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 20.—Three persons were killed, three others probably fatally injured, and many more slightly hurt, and ten or more houses completely wrecked and forty more badly damaged when the two large water tanks supplying the city with water burst early this morning. The immense stream of released water rushed down Prospect Hill sweeping everything before it. One whole family were carried down a street 75 yards, their house being split almost in two, but escaped without injury except one girl, who suffered a broken collar bone.

The two tanks contained the entire city supply of water and a famine is now imminent.

The damage will amount to nearly two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. St John's Lutheran Church was almost completely demolished but through its sacrifice many lives were spared and much more damage prevented, as it was directly in the path of the water.

The breaking of the tanks is believed to have been caused by some miscreant who dynamited them, as two explosions were heard.

ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

Early Morning Blaze At Comstock's Was Noticed Before Much Headway Had Been Made.

THE SHED WAS BURNED

The origin of the fire which broke out in the shed at the rear of Mr. Aaron Comstock's house, Water St., this morning, is still a mystery. There was no customary ash-barrel that might have started the blaze and the family to-day could not explain the cause. About three o'clock this morning Mrs. Comstock was awakened by a crackling sound, which she heard distinctly, but which she was at a loss to explain. It was not until a few minutes later when the flames from the burning shed lit up the room that Mrs. Comstock realized the danger. An alarm was sent in, the brigade answering in rapid manner. The shed and adjoining kitchen were burned somewhat, the loss being about $250 to $300.

SAYS HE'LL BEAT 103:30

Shrubb Is Confident Of a Victory Over Simpson In To-night's Big Race--- Track Is Very Fast.

OPINIONS ON THE RACE

Examiner Special, 2:45 p.m.

The clay and sand track laid at the Armouries for to-night's twelve mile race between Fred Simpson and Alfred Shrubb, while not nearly so thick as the Madison Square Garden track, is fast. "I'll beat 1.03.30 over that track," said Shrubb. "If you do you will win the race," quoth Tom Eck, Simpson's manager. "Mark my words 1.04.30 will win this race, and Simpson will be right there on the end. Experts say the chances are that Shrubb will draw out a lap ahead in the first five miles and after that the Indian may wear the Englishman down.

WOMAN WAS FINED $5.00

Went Out Among People After Living In House With Scarlet Fever Patient---Had Been Cautioned.

EXAMPLE TO OTHERS.

Mrs. W. H. Taylor was fined five dollars, at the police court this morning. S. was charged with having mingled with the public on Thursday, the 18th, having had access to a person suffering from scarlet fever. Mr. Taylor appeared for his wife and stated that she had got permission from the doctor in attendance to go out.

However, the physician denied giving any such liberty, but said that she might go out on the street for fresh air but going into private houses or any place where there would likely be a crowd would not be allowed. P. C. Newhall swore that he saw Mrs. Taylor and her little boy on the street after he had cautioned them that they were violating the law.

His Worship said that for the benefit of the community he would have to impose a fine. While there was danger of infection, those having access to the sick must remain away from the public.

Since then it has been in Mr. Kerr's office and was sh to an Examiner reporter yester While it differs in no way from old single barrel gun, there seem be a certain amount of interest a it that makes one take it up and amine it. It will likely continu Mr. Kerr's possession.

NEW LINE OF EVIDENCE WAS DISCLOSED AT THE SESSION OF INQUEST LAST NIGHT

Several Witnesses Were Heard Who Gave New Evidence---Two People Say They Saw Ethel Kinrade on the Street But They Differ in Regard to the Clothes Worn by Her---A Long Adjournment.

Examiner Special.

Hamilton, March 19.—Far from the interest abating in the mysterious tragedy which resulted in Ethel Kinrade losing her life, it would seem that the excitement is deeper than ever. To-night when the Coroner opened his court every available nook was occupied, even the platform on which the presiding officer's chair was placed, and which had on other occasions been scrupulously kept clear, being crammed. The body of the hall was a mass of humanity, crowded as closely together as possible.

The evidence which was submitted can be roughly divded into three sections. The first dealt entirely with the movements of the Kinrade girls and others; the second told of the presence in the neighbourhood on the fatal day of a man whose movements were regarded as being suspicious by some witnesses, and not unnatural by others; while the third and last section was the evidence of the doctors with regard to the result of their post-mortem examination.

A series of witnesses gave evidence as to seeing a strange man in the neighbourhood of the Kinrade house at a time which has so far been accepted as that at which the shooting took place. The most important of these was Mrs. King, who told that she saw a man running from an alley from which the Kinrade house could be approached. She was struck by what she termed his frightened looks, and watched him go to a neighbour's house, Mrs. Taylor's, knock, try the door, and remain there some minutes without getting a reply, and in the meantime throw anxious glances around. She saw him put his hand in his pocket several times, apparently take something out, and stoop over a box of rags. She spoke to Mrs. Taylor, who told that she had also seen the man, but had been too frightened to open the door.

Mrs. Taylor was called, but was not in attendance, and will give her evidence later.

THE MAN DESCRIBED

A Mrs. Sarah Willis also saw a man run along the alley past her fence, but attached no suspicion to the circumstance, while a third neighbour, Mrs. Cassels, thought it was just a man delivering goods, running from his delivery waggon. On one point they were agreed. The man wore a peak cap and a short, medium dark jacket. One also said he was very fair.

THE MEDICAL EVIDENCE

Passing on to the medical evidence, it may be accepted as proved by Dr. Edgar, who with the assistance of Dr. Balfe, made the autopsy, that Ethel Kinrade lived for ten or fifteen minutes after the wounds in the head were inflicted. She was actually killed by a bullet of 32 calibre through the heart. There were seven shots fired, which took effect, one only making both wounds in the scalp.

The inquiry was abruptly adjourned, for lack of further witnesses, until April 22nd, Mr. Blackstock saying that a lengthy postponement was necessary, indicating apparently that witnesses are to be brought from a distance.

J. C. TURNBULL'S FINE MILLINERY DISPLAY

In writing up the Spring millinery displays in the leading city stores, and in commenting on the attractiveness of the show windows, the Examiner last evening inadvertently omitted the name of the J. C. Turnbull Co. Their windows present a very pretty appearance. A large basket of white lilacs arranged with green foliage occupies a prominent place. The whole thing is beautifully artistic. They are showing the latest creations in Spring millinery.

70,000 PEOPLE FROM UNITED STATES ARE TO MOVE INTO CANADA DURING PRESENT YEA

Influx This Year Will Be Even Greater Than Ever---Fifty Per Cent. More Says Inspec of Canadian Immigration Agencies in the United States---Conditions Have Gre Changed in the Past Few Years.

Ottawa, March 20.—The time was when Canadians flocked across the border to avail themselves of the "better chances" in Uncle Sam's domains. Now the tables are turned. This year 70,000 American citizens, all of whom constitute a most desirable class of immigrants, will cross the border into Canada, become British subjects, and reap their share of the golden harvest of the great Canadian West. This will be an increase of from 50 to 60 per cent. over the number of American settlers who settled in Western Canada last year.

Such was the substance of a very interesting interview granted a reporter yesterday by Mr. W. J. White, Inspector of Canadian Immigration Agencies in United States, who has just returned from an extended trip through the central and western States in his official capacity.

"Since I left Ottawa," said Mr. White, "I've visited Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, and, on inquiry from our agents in these states, I have found that we will have from 50 to 60 per cent. more people coming to Western Canada from the States this year than last. I should say that we will have 70,000 people come to this country from the States this year. Isn't that about right, Mr. Scott?"

This query was addressed to Mr. W. D. Scott, superintendent of immigration, who chanced to be in the same office at the time. Mr. Scott had carefully examined the reports of the agents from all parts of the neighbouring republic and was in a position to corroborate Mr. White's estimate.

"Oh, yes," said Superintendent Scott. "There will be 70,000 at least."

"They are a splendid class of people," continued Mr. White. "Practically all of them speak English well and many of them are taking with them into our Dominion as much as $25,000 to $30,000. Many of them have sold their farms in the States for from $60 to $150 an acre, and when they come across to Canada they are going to bring with them their sons, to establish them cheaper and better farms in country.

"A great many of them have ready started to move. They all about conditions in our through the agents and they are ting to take the chance of a little weather in order to commence sp work as soon as Spring opens.

"What has assisted the move this year has been the opening of preemption areas, making it pos for a settler to acquire 320 acres, stead of 160 as formerly."

Mr. White stated that Sout Alberta appeared to be the favo location in the eyes of the new ers. However, many were loca all along the new line of railway.

"I have often been asked whe these American immigrants tend Americanize Western Canada," tinued Mr. White. "Of course don't. Many of them have often our agents and officials that if plications ever arose between the countries their allegiance would their adopted country, Canada."

UNUSUAL COINCIDENCE IN FRATERNAL CONJUNCTION

Last evening Peterborough was the scene of an unprecedented conjunction of two prominent and well-esteemed gentlemen, under conditions that made the occasion rather a coincidence. From east and west came two brothers, Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., from Ottawa, and Mr. J. L. Hughes, Inspector of Public Schools, Toronto from Toronto, both to deliver addresses. Neither one knew of the intended presence of the other till their arrival in the city. Col. Sam. gave an address "For the good of the Order" to the Orange brotherhood of the city, and Mr. J. L. Hughes gave an address at the Normal School on the subject of "Old and New Teaching Methods." Both gentlemen knew what they were talking about, and how to talk—a sort of family failing. We will always be pleased to welcome both brothers to the city, and their meeting here last night under the circumstances is worthy of special note.

Italian Was Caught Stealing Tobacco From G.T.R. Car To-day

An Italian whose name could not be learned, was caught in the act of stealing this afternoon and was arrested. P. C. Newhall, while in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk station, about half-past two, saw the young Italian taking something from a freight car. He went over and took the prisoner into custody as he was making away with a good-sized box of plugs of smoking tobacco.

He was brought to the police station. The tobacco was still in the possession of the G. T. R. but was consigned to John Savigny, Water street.

Warning To Local Merchants Not To Leave Their Safes Open

Chief Roszel received a communication this morning from the police authorities of Easton, Pa., informing him of the robberies committed on merchants in that place by three sneak thieves. Descriptions were given and the Chief was asked to apprehend them, if they came this way.

The methods they employ might serve as a warning for Peterborough merchants to be on their guard. One hardware merchant had his safe robbed of one hundred dollars in this way. Two of the thieves entered the store at noon. One asked to see something and was taken down cellar by the merchant while the other remained upstairs and the third one was outside. The one in the shop took from the open safe one hundred dollars.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE DECIDES TO STICK TO A RATE OF 19 1-2 MILLS FOR YEAR THE APPROPRIATIONS WILL HAVE TO BE CUT

If the Council coincides with the recommendation that will be submitted to them by the Finance Committee the tax rate for 1909 will still remain at 19 1-2 mills in spite of the fact that the city will not have the increased revenue that a reduction in the demand of the City Trust Commissioners would have provided. If the action of the committee is endorsed by the council it means that the appropriations of the different committees will have to go back to what was originally decided upon before there was any prospect of securing $8,500 by a reduced demand from the Commissioners. The Finance Committee had a meeting yesterday to consider the matter and it seemed to be the opinion that as the people were prepared for a 19½ mill rate that it would be unwise to make another increase, although it was pointed out a 20 mill rate would clear off last years' deficit. Mayor Rush stated that he was in favour of a 20 mill rate.

Ald. Morrow, chairman of the committee, and Ald. Bradburn favoured a 19½ mill rate.

Ald. Bradburn and Phelan moved that this Committee recommend that the by-law fixing the rate at 19½ mills, as passed at the last meeting, be amended as far as the appropriations are concerned, and that the rate remain the same.

Ald. Gillespie was inclined to favour a twenty-mill rate but the motion was carried.

Whether it will go through the council or not is another thing. At the last meeting there was some difficulty in deciding on a 19½ rate. Some of the aldermen wanted a twenty mill rate then and in view of the fact that the revenue is decreased by $8,500, they will likely stand out for the increase now.

THE SUN CROSSED THE EQUATOR TO-DAY

Spring is here! This morning shortly after 1 o'clock the sun crossed the equator and the Spring season is now on. This will not be news to the father or husband who has been asked to bring down his estimates for a new Spring hat or to the baseball manager who is seeking to round up a team, but it is pleasing at least to know that the official statement of the arrival of the time "when the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" has been given out. Nothing more springlike could be imagined than the weather today.

CLEVER PLAYING

Mr. H. M. Birchall, pianist at the Royal Theatre, gave a clever exhibition of improvising music to-day in connection with a picture that was displayed showing many different kinds of dances. There was no musical score accompanying the picture, but Mr. Birchall succeeded in improvising an accompaniment in perfect time.

ARE THE AUTHORITIES BLOCKED IN CASE?

Hamilton, Ont., March 20.—George Lynch Staunton, K.C., one of the Kinrade family solicitors, in an interview to-day, roasted the authorities for the way in which the inquest has been conducted. "What," he asked, "does it aid the administration of justice, in holding such an inquest? Why didn't the detectives go to the girl quickly and get the whole history of her life privately, instead of hanging her to a lamp post and shouting questions at her for the whole world to hear, casting all kinds of insinuations, so that every half-baked intellect in the country can form half-baked suspicions? A coroner's jury cannot try any person," added Mr. Lynch Staunton, "and I say that the American sweat box system is one hundred times more just, humane and decent than this system of inquest, why, Dreyfus, over whose trial England and France almost came to war, was treated like a king, compared with Florence Kinrade." Mr. Lynch Staunton intimated he would make those who had cast this blot on the family name "sit up." The consensus of opinion about the month's adjournment of the inquest is that the authorities are completely in the air.

COL. SAM HUGHES ADDRESSES LARGE AUDIENCE AT ORANGE LODGE HA

Col. Sam Hughes, of Lindsay, was the speaker last night at the Orange Lodge Hall at an entertainment which was considered as an anniversary of several of the younger lodges. Colonel Hughes who is always greeted with a large audience in in Peterborough, was cordially received on this occasion. He came up from Ottawa on the Iternon C. P. R. train and had to leave at nine o'clock for his home in Lindsay. His address while necessarily rather brief, was laden with good advice for the good of the order and also for the individual members. He urged the following of a fair manly course in all matters and true neighbourly relations at all times. The conduct of the individual Orang should always be a credit to the His life should be consistent what is expected from him b lodge and every member shoul ways strive to bear in mind his in this regard. Colonel Hughe marks in this connection were i ing and helpful.

He also spoke on the Racine b measure which he stated was ver fair. Colonel Hughes pointed details substantiating his asser He hoped that the House woul pass this bill for reasons whic clearly emphasized.

District Master Juby was chai for the evening. Among the speakers were Rev. C. H. Coo Rev Mr Riddiford.

Normal School Students to Issue A Handsome Souve

At a meeting of the Literary Society of the Normal School yesterday afternoon, it was decided to issue a school paper as a souvenir number of the opening year of the Peterborough Normal. It is intended to have it ready by the first of June and nothing will be spared to make it a complete and interesting journal.

It will contain the valedictory address, essays by several prominent educationalists throughout Ontario and also by students of the school. It will have pictures of the staff, members of the executive of the Literary Society and of the Athletic Club, the staff of the paper and the building.

The officers elected at yeste meeting to take charge of the were:

QUITE DISTINCT

"Ratepayer" wrote a letter for to-day's issue, dealing with the power question. Without subscribing to or rejecing his contentions it is to be emphatically urged that this question has nothing to do with the by-law to raise $120,000 for the construction and equipment of a new waterworks dam. This stands quite alone as a distinct matter. The incidental development of power in connection with the construction of the dam is the only power proposal to be considered.

The waterworks dam by-law and the incidental power by-law are the only things at present, officially and legitimately submitted to the consideration of the ratepayers.

BEAUTIFY THE HOME.

In this issue appears the third of the series of articles on the principles of Landscape Gardening, as applied to home grounds. This article treats of the arrangement of trees, enjoining the attainment of natural effects, having at the same time regard for the idea of combining beauty and comfort. The reader is urged to give a careful study to these articles, which may be attended with a possible double benefit—an increased appreciation of the desirability of adding beauty to our home surroundings, and the acquirement of practical help to give effect to the impulse to improvemtnt aroused by a study of the subject. It would be fortunate if a general and friendly rivalry to excel in the beauty of grounds and lawns could be excited on every street of the city. General co-operation would work marvels.

No expenditure adds to the value of a property so much as money judiciously used to provide trees, shrubs and vines.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

The admirers of Sir James Whitney are loading him with a good deal of laudation on the score of his refusal to grant a money subsidy to a Mackenzie and Mann railway to be built from Sudbury to Port Arthur, instead of the land grant of 7,400 acres per mile and $3,000 per mile cash subsidy, which was asked. In this matter Sir James Whitney's virtue seems to be rather a matter of degree than principle. If he has adopted the policy of not bonusing railways, the granting of 4,000 acres per mile is as much a breach of principle as if he had granted 40,000 acres per mile.

On the eve of a general election, the Whitney Government in that last awful week, apparently exhausted its liberality towards the Canadian Northern railway when it snapped through the House a guarantee of a million and a half of securities in its favour. It is not said that the proximity of a general election had any influence upon so virtuous a government. This action is not condemned if it shall prove to be in the interests of transportation and development of our undeveloped mineral and other resources. But it seems to be, to a simple mind, in somewhat sharp contrast to the virtuous curve suddenly developed with an election four years away.

Yet before the election of last June, Sir James nailed his colours to the mast—"no more bonuses to railways; no more land grants." If his colours are now at half mast—only 4,000 acres per mile instead of 7,400—he can doubtless reconcile the little moral discrepancy between promise and performance.

The Conservative Government of Ontario may show a nice solicitude for the interests of the province and refuse to give the money of the province to assist in transportation development. That will leave all the more public money to be devoted to increasing the annual expenditure of the province by a million dollars per year, which has practically been the rate of increase since the Conservative Government came into control of the provincial money bags.

There seems to be some mistake in regarding consistency as a jewel.

CHRISTIAN CO-OPERATION.

In another part of to-day's issue is printed the programme of "The Canadian National Laymen's Missionary Movement," to be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, beginning March 31st. The subject to engage the attention of the congress—the development of an intensified missionary spirit and extension of practical effort—is immeasurably commendable per se. The spirit of the gathering gains importance from its coming into play at a time when religious controversy is raging, and when even one church itself is arrayed in hostile camps against itself. The spirit of the congress is union—of the highest form—union of aim and effort. Doctrine and dogma are relegated to the background and the apostolic spirit, "go work in my vineyard," is the dominating animation and motive. Among the greatest foes to Christian progress, evangelical and other, are doctrinal divisions and the divers administrative methods and conflicting artificial interests that rise out of them. All these prevent the church militant forming a solid front against the common enemy.

Subordination, if not entire elimination, of these adverse conditions mark the congress. One can note on the programme of speakers, clergymen and ministers of all denominations, with the distinctions of ecclesiastical rank and creed fused, in the cruicible of burning zeal, into a glowing homogeneous mass. When the churches, forgetting the things that are behind, the petty denominational differences, the non-essential essentials, and press forward as one man in the battle of Christian evangelization, the triumphant day of the work of the century—the world for Christ—dawns above the valleys of heathen darkness and civilized indifference.

O shame to men! devil with devil damn'd

THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, has decidedly made good in his estimate of the responsibilities of his office—meeting them in a practical and effective manner as witness his handling of the problem of level railway crossings, and other matters. He has, however, a hard nut to crack in the Intercolonial Railway, which has been the bete noir of governments and ministers since its construction in one sense satisfied a condition of Confederation. This railway has never paid and as things stand shows no promise of paying, though Hon. Mr. Emmerson came close to bringing earnings and expenses on a level and Hon. Mr. Graham has showed splendid promise, though he could not be expected in two or three years to overcome a handicap that has hampered the line for forty years.

In his speech in the House on Tuesday Mr. Graham suggested a measure of solution in the proposal to turn over the management of the railway to a Board of railway experts, still retaining the responsibility of the department and the government. Mr. Graham pointed out that one reason of the gap between earnings and expenses was the fact of the rates of the railway, being lower than that of any commercial railway. If, as he intimated, a slight increase of rates would convert a deficit into a surplus, there should be no objection to making the increase. The people of the Maritime Provinces and Western Canada should not object to a slight addition to the traffic load if this will bring the railway into the class of paying investments and remove a burden of expense, which has so long weighed upon them and the rest of the Dominion.

The political conditions which called for the construction of the line, should not be relieved from modification in order to make the Intercolonial something more than an expensive fulfilment of the Confederation pact. Mr. Graham's idea to bring the railway under the conditions as to management, etc., which are effective on the ordinary railway is, doubtless, a step in the right direction. The effectiveness of placing it under a board of practical railway men would not be imperilled, by such a board cooperating with the Railway Commission in the matter of a readjustment of rates in the direction of the revenue overtaking the expenditure.

Since Confederation the construction expenditure on the Intercolonial Railway has amounted to 67 millions of dollars. In the same time the working expenses have totalled 130 millions, and the revenue 122 millions.

FARMERS' EXCURSION TO OTTAWA THIS YEAR

The Executive Committee of the Farmers' Institutes of East and West Peterborough and East Durham, met this morning to decide the point to which the annual excursion would be run. It was decided to go to the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, in the third week in June via C. P. R. special train, provided that satisfactory arrangements can be made.

RATEPAYER OBJECTS TO THE POWER BY-LAW AND CITY'S POLICY

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In reading the few comments on the present bylaw now before the ratepayers for a new water works dam for water and power, Mr. Meldrum's remarks to Ald. Bradburn at the Board of Trade meeting, evidently expressed the opinion of a large number of citizens; That the aldermen were not sincere or in earnest in the taking hold of a power scheme in the interests of the city. Last year nothing tangible was done. This year a lot of fuss and feathers ending in a fizzle. Mr. McWilliams' estimate of the last year's mayor and council's capabilities as being along the line of increasing taxes and overdrafts and doing nothing is not a mile from the bull's eye, Mr. Kendry has evidently come to the same conclusion, That, the present year's council are built along the same lines. Their mind running along statistical information for future reference, passing compliments to each other, but business takes too much power and energy, especially along Auburn dam, lines of thought, too watery a proposition to tackle. (The only power proposition the town has any chance of getting).

Playing into the hands of the present power companies. Take a little history. Some years ago the city could have got the Dickson Company's power for $150,000, but through the lack of support it fell through, then after the fire had cleared the raceway of all the factories on it, the Quaker Oats Co. bought it for $100,000, and built a new dam and power house costing, report says, $190,000. Many people even today think the city should have owned that power. I think otherwise. It was a god-send when the Quaker Oats Co., bought it and made their investment which is a credit to them and a good thing for the city.

But the Auburn dam should belong to the city. The city could develop almost if not altogether as much power at the Auburn dam as there is now at the Dickson dam, and at less than half the expenses. The city should own the two dams. The water works they now own, but if there was a controlling mind in the council they would have taken hold of this matter in a business way and get the very best engineer that was to be had to report on both propositions and lay the whole matter before the people—a comprehensive scheme including water works and electric power. I will not go into details now of how this can be done, but in some future letter will deal with them, but now take up the water works dam proposition. This dam was built about the same time as the government dams above on the river. These dams are as solid, so the engineers say, as they day they were built. They are of as much importance as the water works, built by contract and did not cost half the money that the water works dam did, but the water commissioners seem to have got cold feet, or water on the brain, nightmare of bursting dams, destruction, and rushing waters. This is a malady that develops in municipal officers under certain hot house mutual admiration, "didn't we do it" conditions, but to the good people of Peterborough I want to say it is not a serious malady, it is a swelling of the head that is easily reduced (withhold the money until you have the information necessary to note intelligently). The commissioners are good fellows, good citizens and, quite capable of financing the water works, so long, gentlemen, as the citizens of this little burg pay up the little water bills that come in every three months from Treasurer Adams' office. But reverting to the water works dam. We were always given to understand that ten feet was the best available head at the water works dam. In looking up the original reports when building, and the suit with Irwin following, eight to ten feet was all that could be depended on without any change. So far as the citizens are aware, Chairman Matthews says this has grown to a 12 foot head. This is such a new kind of development that water power owners are crazy to get the patent right on it. Culverwell would give a good deal to get it for Buckhorn. The Otonabee Power Company would be tickled to death to grow two feet more head on dam 5, even the Quaker Oats Company would have been glad to pay for two feet extra on their dam this past winter.

The same engineer who reports this, built the dam and now condemns it as unsafe, and says it has grown two feet in height, and a new dam es essential. The government engineers have not condemned the other dams on the river. If Engineer Kennedy built a properly constructed dam at the water works in the first place then the commissioners have as much need of a new dam as a wagon has for a fifth wheel. If he did not then good common horse sense would have suggested an independent engineer's report on the same, not to employ the same man to inspect his own work. Methinks I hear the commissioners in their innocence singing that old saw changed to suit the occasion. "Little drops of water, little grains of sand make a mighty river, but a very poor dam." The bait held out, that it will not increase our taxes is the poorest argument in face of the fact that the commissioners are putting what is equal to a second mortgage on the water works property as security for the payment of $120,000 asked for in the bylaw. We have not paid for the original cost yet as the interest and sinking fund is being paid out of our taxes ever year, and this is the easy way the commissioners have of putting it,—we will pay it out of surplus earnings of the water—gold-rates during our life time. The by to any further reduction in water commissioners are legislating for the future generations. They are built on concrete lines and, if you will pay your water rates like good little men we will give you good Otonabee water, hemmed in by a new concrete dam, and incidentally rip up Messrs. Bradburn and McIntyre's power scheme of electric power at Auburn. The old bug bear, of the Underwriters' Association, demanding it, has done service so long that it ought to dam the weaver who made it. The Underwriters' Association is composed of intelligent men and will not scold or expect any municipality to rush into an expenditure of $120,000 without due consideration, and the very best experts' advice as the best informed men on the river with years of experience which has cost them thousands of dollars to gain, say that Kennedy's report is misleading, and Mr. Holgate or some other independent engineer should be called in to report before a vote is taken on such a large expenditure of money. Ratepayers, or rather, water users, The chairman says it is up to you. If you can stand it, the rest of us will have to.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Is it on St. Joseph's Day (March 19) clear,
So follows a fertile year.

When March has April weather, April will have March weather.

Snow in March is bad for fruit and grapevine.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform Leagues of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

EVIDENCE AGAINST ALCOHOL.

Workers in the interests of prohibition in Peterborough are constantly hearing the argument that it is unfair to the moderate drinker to deprive him of his privilege for the sake of those who indulge too freely. It is also frequently said that alcoholic liquor in some form is a great help, if not a necessity, to labouring men and others engaged in various industries demanding the exercise of certain mental faculties. These contentions are fully answered by the article of which a brief synopsis is here given.

EXPERIMENTAL EVIDENCE.

In McClure's Magazine for March appears an article under the above heading. For over twenty years, leading physiologists and psychologists in Europe have been at work accumulating accurate experimental knowledge regarding the effects of alcohol on the human system. The article in question is prepared by Professor M. A. Rosanoff, Director of the Chemical Laboratory of Clark University, and Dr. A. J. Rosanoff, one of the physicians of Kings Park State Hospital, Long Island, N. Y. It covers the whole ground of the experiments and deals with the effects of alcohol on all the human faculties, beginning with purely muscular efforts, and extending to the most complex mental processes. The article is one of the most notable contributions to the temperance literature of the present day.

The bulk of the experiments to which reference is made, and from which conclusions are drawn, were performed in the laboratories of Dr. Emil Kraepelin, Professor of the Science of Mental Diseases at the University of Munich, in Germany. Professor Kraepelin, who has for years been recognized as the leading authority of the world on mental diseases, began a series of investigations about twenty-five years ago for the purpose of determining the effects of certain drugs on the mental faculties. He experimented with a number of different substances, but finding that the effects produced by alcohol were more striking and that it was more largely used than any of the others, he has for years devoted particular attention to this substance, and has reached the conclusion that alcohol is leading civilized humanity to degeneracy.

MODERATE DRINKING AND MUSCULAR WORK.

Experiments to determine the influence of small quantities of alcohol on the ability to do muscular work and to sustain prolonged muscular effort have been many times repeated and under almost every possible variety of conditions. Results have been obtained showing the effects of alcohol when taken without food, and also when taken with food. In the former case it has been found that when taken in small quantities on an empty stomach, it has a strengthening effect for a short time, at the end of which there is a more pronounced weakening effect.

When taken with food, the effect in every case is to very materially lessen the capacity for doing muscular work, thus completely upsetting the widely advocated theory that moderate drinking with or shortly after meals helps a labourer to do his work.

MODERATE DRINKING AND WRITING.

A series of experiments for the purpose of determining the effects of alcohol on the ability to perform activities requiring the exercise of simpler mental faculties have been performed. Such exercises as writing over and over the ten digits in order, or backward, or the writing of certain simple combinations of letters as "inm" were made use of. The results show that moderate drinking retards to a very considerable extent activities of this kind that are intermediate between purely muscular and psychical work. The notion that a drink "braces one up," and makes him do such work faster is without foundation.

MODERATE DRINKING AND HANDCRAFTS.

In this department of the investigation, the most extensive experiments have been carried on with typesetters. The work of the typesetter is a handicraft which though physical to a certain extent, involves the mental faculties very largely, and has the advantage of being a work in which the results are easily measured. The experiments here are extensive and elaborate. Space will not permit going into details. The conclusion is given as follows. "Moderate drinking reduces considerably an artisan's efficiency. Its effect is cumulative, and the losses caused by it increase as time goes on. The widespread notion that drinking helps an artisan in his daily work is false."

MODERATE DRINKING AND MENTAL ABILITY.

Here the matter of making definite experimental determinations becomes more difficult. However, experiments in testing the length of time necessary to add columns of figures under different conditions, and such experiments as taking the letters of a certain word and writing down as rapidly as possible all the words that could be formed by them, have proved that mental processes, such as these, involving association of ideas, are greatly retarded by the use of alcohol, and that the effects are cumulative. Effects of alcohol on memorization have also been tested, and it has been found that power to commit to memory is very greatly impaired by the moderate use of alcohol.

RECAPITULATION.

The conclusions drawn from the whole series of investigations are as follows:

1. Alcohol impairs every human faculty.

2. The higher and more complex the faculty, the more pronounced is the effect of alcohol upon it.

3. The effects of alcohol are cumulative, that is, its continuous use impairs the faculties at a rapidly increasing rate.

4. Throughout the western world, at least one man in every four admitted to insane asylums, was brought there by alcohol.

This is necessarily a very brief summary. The article as a whole is commended to those who desire more details.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

In Peterborough, it has often been said that it is possible to secure liquor during prohibited hours in almost all bars. The same is said in almost every locality where liquor is sold. In other words, the liquor interests do not hesitate to defy the law for the sake of making a few dollars. This open defiance of the law for many years was taken as a matter of course, and as something that could not be prevented.

With the growth of temperance sentiment has come a realization that the liquor men have no more right to break the laws of the country than any other citizens. It is for this reason that the liquor laws are now being enforced in Ontario as they never were before. This week in Ottawa, prosecutions were entered against several of the leading hotels for selling liquor during prohibited hours. Convictions are expected in most if not all of the cases.

So many convictions have now been secured where liquor has been sold in local option districts that the difficulty of enforcing the law that was evident a few years ago has now practically disappeared. When local option carries in Peterborough, as it is expected that it will at the election next January, there should be but little difficulty in seeing that the law is enforced.

THE ST. CATHARINES FIGHT

The liquor men of St. Catharines, who managed, on a technicality, to unseat the council and prevent the passing of a by-law to reduce the number of licenses in the city from 19 to 12 may not succeed after all. The newly-elected St. Catharines council at its first meeting promptly adopted a unanimous resolution moved by Ald. E. Wismer, and seconded by Jas. T. Peterson, declaring that in view of the fact that the liquor license reduction by-law was held up by the unseating of the council on a legal technicality, appeal be made to the Provincial Secretary to instruct the city license commissioners to reduce the liquor licenses from 19 to 12 in accordance with the view of the electors, expressed at the polls.

WHERE WE STAND

There are at present in Ontario 475 municipalities under license and 332 in which there are no licenses.

Of the latter, 198, made up of 159 townships and 39 villages and towns, have passed local option by-laws. The remaining 134, of which 6 are towns or villages, have no licensed houses though they have passed no by-laws prohibiting them. Of these last, nine are in Peterborough County, Belmont, Methuen, Chandos, Douro, Ennismore, Galway, Cavendish, Harvey and North Monaghan. There are local option by-laws in Otonabee, Smith, Asphodel, Dummer, Lakefield, Norwood and Havelock. Only the City of Peterborough and Township of Burleigh are under license. They are the only black spots. How long are they going to remain a blot?

NOTE

The addresses that will be given at the meeting in the Crystal, to-morrow afternoon, at 4:15, will bear on the local option campaign. There will be music and the usual large attendance is expected.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

The following extract from Hydriotaphia or Urn Burial, which, as was mentioned last week, was the work of Sir Thomas Browne, may not perhaps appeal to a man anxious only for startling and strange narrative. But, as a specimen of style, it is in its own way, unsurpassed, and it is given here, in the sure knowledge that it will be appreciated by those who love good prose, and, if not greatly versed in Latin, do not mind the trouble of dipping occasionally into their Latin dictionaries in order to solve the meaning of certain expressions.

Immortality.
(From the "Hydriotaphia, or Urn-Burial.")

Oblivion is not to be hired. The greater part must be content to be as though they had not been; to be found in the register of God, not in the record of man. Twenty-seven names make up the first story of the flood, and the recorded names ever since contain not one living century. The number of the dead long exceedeth all that shall live. The night of time far surpasseth the day, and who knows when was the equinox? Every hour adds unto that current arithmetic, which scarce stands one moment. And since death must be the Lucinia* of life, and even Pagans could doubt, whether thus to live were to die; since our longest sun sets at right descensions, and makes but winter arches, and therefore it cannot be long before we lie down in darkness, and have our light in ashes; since the brother of death (sleep) daily haunts us with dying mementoes, and time that grows old in itself, bids us hope no long duration;—diuturnity is a dream and folly of expectation.

Darkness and light divide the course of time, and oblivion shares with memory a great part even of our living beings; we slightly remember our felicities, and the smartest strokes of affliction leave but short smart upon us. Sense endureth no extremities, and sorrows destroy us or themselves. To weep into stones are fables. Afflictions induce callosities; miseries are slippery, or fall like snow upon us, which notwithstanding is no unhappy stupidity. To be ignorant of evils to come, and forgetful of evils past, is a merciful provision in nature, whereby we digest the mixture of our few and evil days, and our delivered senses not relapsing into cutting remembrances, our sorrows are not kept raw by the edge of repetitions. A great part of antiquity contented their hopes of subsistency with a transmigration of their souls,—a good way to continue their memories, while having the advantage of plural successions, they could not but act something remarkable in such variety of beings, and enjoying the fame of their passed selves, make accumulation of glory unto their last durations. Others, rather than be lost in the uncomfortable night of nothing, were content to recede into the common being, and make one particle of the public soul of all things, which was no more than to return into their unknown and divine original again. Egyptian ingenuity was more unsatisfied, contriving their bodies in sweet consistencies, to attend the return of their souls. But all was vanity, feeding the mind and folly. The Egyptian mummies, which Cambyses or time hath spared, avarice now consumeth. Mummy is become merchandise, Mizraim cures wounds, and Pharaoh is sold for balsams.

In vain do individuals hope for immortality, or any patent from oblivion, in preservations below the moon; men have been deceived even in their flatteries, above the sun, and studied conceits to perpetuate their names in heaven. The various cosmography of that part hath already varied the names of contrived constellations; Nimrod is lost in Orion, and Osiris in the Dog-star. While we look for incorruption in the heavens, we find they are but like the earth;—durable in their main bodies, alterable in their parts, whereof, beside comets and new stars, perspectives (telescopes) begin to tell tales, and the spots that wander about the sun, with Phaeton's favour, would make clear conviction.

There is nothing strictly immortal, but immortality. Whatever hath no beginning, may be confident of no end;—which is the peculiar of that necessary essence that cannot destroy itself;—and the highest strain of omnipotency, to be so powerfully constituted as not to suffer even from the power of itself; all others have a dependent being and within the reach of destruction. But the sufficiency of Christian immortality frustrates all earthly glory, and the quality of either state after death makes a folly of posthumous memory. God, who can only destroy our souls, and hath assured our resurrection, either of our bodies or names hath directly promised no duration. Wherein there is so much of chance that the boldest expectants have found unhappy frustrations; and to hold long subsistence, seems but a scape in oblivion. But man is a noble animal, splendid in ashes, and pompous in the grave, solemnizing nativities and deaths with equal lustre, nor omitting ceremonies of bravery in the infamy of his nature.

COMELY MATRONS PRAISE PERUNA

KENTUCKY.
OREGON
OHIO.

The only valuable testimony which any household remedy can have is the testimony of those who have used it. It is worse than useless to discuss Peruna from a theoretical standpoint. It is what Peruna will do, not what people say about it, that constitutes evidence. The housewives of the United States know what Peruna will do. They have tried it. They have realized its benefit in the family. They are the ones that are competent to speak of it. Self-appointed critics know nothing of it whatever.

The Testimony of These Three Housewives Demonstrates Beyond All Cavil That Peruna is a Safe and Useful Remedy.

Gained Flesh on Peruna.

Mrs. Hattie Hamilton, R. F. D. No. 2, Sparta, Ky., writes:

"I have taken two bottles of Peruna and commenced on the third one. I did not really need the third one, but thought it best to take another bottle.

"I have always weighed 102 pounds, but since I began taking Peruna I weigh 120, for the first time in all my life, and I am now thirty-three years old. Your medicine has surely done me a great deal of good, and I have recommended it to several others who have begun taking it.

"My mother, who is seventy-six years old, had grown so weak she could scarcely walk. She took two bottles of Peruna and is fleshier and looking well."

Internal Catarrh.

Mrs. M. F. Jones, of Burning Springs, Ky., writes:

"No family should ever be without Peruna, for it is an unfailing cure for colds, and it is an excellent remedy to prevent and relieve croup.

"And to speak from a standpoint of experience, I can candidly say that it is the remedy for internal catarrh. I shall not hesitate to recommend it, especially to all suffering women.

"Peruna has gained full confidence and a permanent stay in our home."

Constipation, Torpid Liver.

Mrs. Anthony Rauch, 206 N. Walnut street, Bucyrus, O., writes:

"I was suffering from obstinate constipation and torpid liver, when I took your advice and purchased six bottles of Peruna and Manalin. When I had taken only one bottle I felt much better, and since I have taken two more bottles I feel entirely well, but I will continue taking the medicine for a short time to make sure of my cure.

"I think Manalin is one of the finest remedies for constipation that I ever tried. I will never be without it. It has made me so strong. I can do a day's work and never tire. I am so glad I do not get those dizzy spells any more. I haven't had one since I took your medicine.

"I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. All sick people should give it a fair trial."

Kidneys and Bladder.

Mrs. Gus. H. Carlson, Box 201, Ortonville, Minn., writes:

"I had catarrh of the kidneys and bladder. I have taken Peruna until now, and I do not think I need to take it any longer.

"I feel well, and my tongue is clear, and I have no bitter taste in my mouth. I am very thankful for Peruna."

Peruna Their Family Medicine.

Mrs. Anna C. Hyde, 712 E. Yamhill street, Portland, Oregon, Vice President Literary and Educational Organization of New Hampshire, writes:

"I am pleased to endorse Peruna as an all-round good family medicine, and one that is safe to give children. I give it to mine at the least suggestion of a cold, and take it myself to build up my strength and nerves.

"My sister, who is living with me, uses Peruna, too, and she is loud in its praises.

"Your medicine is certainly worthy of praise."

Backache, Headache.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson, 609 N. Fifth Ave., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"As Peruna has done me a world of good, I feel in duty bound to tell of it, in hopes that it may meet the eye of some woman who has suffered as I did.

"For five years I really did not know what a perfectly well day was, and if I did not have headache, I had backache or a pain somewhere and really life was not worth the effort I made to keep going.

"A good friend advised me to use Peruna and I was glad to try anything, and I am very pleased to say that six bottles made a new woman of me and I have no more pains and life looks bright again."

Catarrh of Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1332 North street, Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me. I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"I can recommend Peruna to anyone, and if anyone wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

SLEEPLESS LITTLE BABIES ARE SICKLY BABIES

When babies are restless, sleepless and cross it is the surest possible sign that they are not well. Well babies sleep soundly and wake up brightly. Sleeplessness is generally due to some ailment of the stomach or bowels, or cutting teeth. A few doses of Baby's Own Tablets will put the little one right, and give it sound, natural sleep. Mrs. Jos. Goneil, St. Evariste, Que., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets a splendid medicine for constipation and stomach troubles. I give them to my little girl and they keep her lively and well." GREAT SKATING AT RICE LAKE

Only The Lake Dwellers Know Of Lake's Appearance In Winter.

Many of the citizens are frequently at Rice Lake during the summer, but in winter they are snowbound and probably never see the river until the ice is gone. A gentleman to-day from Rice Lake stated that until a few days ago the skating was excellent and in fact the whole winter has been open and the skating has been better than ever before. The lake seems strangely different from the summer, with its broad expanse of ice, glare and keen from shore to shore, booming at intervals and sounding in the distance like artillery firing.

You can do it without physical risk, mental effort or danger of a wrinkle. "Sounds well, but these are words only," you say. True, but there is a nation full of indorsers of these words, so your protest, while natural, is feeble. Prove it. The Methods And Principles Of Landscape Gardening

How to Arrange Trees and Shrubs Most Effectively---The Natural Scheme of Arrangement Should Prevail on the Home Grounds---Consider Both Beauty and Comfort.

(Written for the Examiner by Mr. A. B. Cutting, editor of The Canadian Horticulturist."

Number III.

The arrangement of trees and shrubs should correspond with the nature of the buildings on the lot and these should be architecturally in harmony with the locality. If the buildings are large and architecturally ornate, such as public buildings on public squares, the artificial or formal style of planting may prevail in good taste. On the home grounds, however, a more natural order of arrangement should be adopted. The grounds should be modelled after nature. Freedom from formality should be the main idea; yet, not a copy of nature's wildest moods. A lawn dotted with trees, shrubs and other plants in a haphazard, inartistic manner is not desirable, neither is a set design drawn according to Euclid the proper thing, nor should forest conditions be adopted—we should plan a landscape picture resembling natural conditions, sensibly arranged.

No hard and fast rules can be given for the planting of trees and shrubs. The treatment of the place depends upon its condition and location. As mentioned in the second article of this series, the lawn should be open. Frame the boundaries with trees and shrubs. When planting avoid straight lines as much as possible. Zig-zag borders are the most natural and most effective.

Plant in Groups.

Plant trees and shrubs mostly in groups, seldom alone. The grounds should not be treated merely as a place for treasuring beautiful trees, for in the attempt to preserve individual specimens, the grounds are deformed and the effect destroyed. If the grounds are large enough, employ a number of one kind of shrubs in a clump and use a few smaller shrubs, allied in general appearance, placed regularly on the outside, to give a dash of desirable variety to the mass. For the sake of naturalness and informality one or more of these smaller shrubs may be planted a few feet away, on the turf.

When grouping into clumps, the tallest-growing specimens should be placed in the centre or at the back of the border. The proper relation of the different plantations on a lawn should be, first, grass; second, herbaceous plants and shrubs of small size; next, large shrubs, with trees in the background at intervals. Trees of darkest foliage should be farthest from the viewpoint.

Effective color combinations and contrasts may be produced by skilful planting. Trees and shrubs of highly coloured foliage should be used, sparingly, however, except when planted for winter effect. It is difficult to say just why we think that certain shrubs look well together. It is more a matter of practice than of rule. Although shrubs usually appear to better advantage when planted in groups, occasionally single specimens with individual characteristics may stand out alone.

The junction of roads and walks should be planted with shrubbery. When the roads curve, make the curve appear necessary by judicious planting. A curve without an apparent cause for it is meaningless, and affected. On large places, shade trees set out along the walks and drives are sometimes necessary. Park planting demands them.

Beautify Waste Places.

In all the work of landscape gardening, start with a determination to do a good job. Half-heartedness in home-making creates waste places, and waste places are eyesores. Beautify them. Cover undesirable objects with vines or plants of some kind. Hide objectionable scenes, ugly buildings, and so forth, with vines and shrubbery. Swampy grounds may be planted with flags, Japan iris, coreopsis and other swamp-loving plants.

In the selection of the exact kind of material to be used in planting, it is advisable to choose a comparatively small number of kinds of trees and shrubs. Too much variety on a small place is undesirable to say the least. Furthermore, when we come to seek shrubs and trees for building the groups on the lawn, it will be found that comparatively few of them fulfil the effective requirements of the place.

When planning the grounds we must not forget to consider the sky line or top line of bordering plantations of trees and shrubs. Straight top lines are monotonous. They offend the sense of beauty. They can be relieved by planting in their midst or near them at intervals trees of large and distinct character. Have no regularity in these intervals except an intelligently fixed relation between them.

Consider Comfort and Protection.

Trees and shrubs should be arranged also to give comfort and protection. The house needs shade in summer and protection from winter winds. Place some of the largest trees, such as elms and maples, for shade near the house on the south and west, but do not shut out the view, nor, the light from the windows. Take into consideration what the results will be when the trees are full grown. Plant far enough away so that the branches will not overhang. For winter protection, plant in the quarters to which the house is most exposed, some of the large evergreens, such as pines and spruce. Relieve their sombreness by planting with them a few of the light-coloured deciduous trees.

The next article of this series will deal with the actual work of planting trees and shrubs and a list of the most common ones will be given.

Annual Meeting Of The Mitto Bible Class Was A Success

Presentation Was Made to Rev. R. Pogue at the Meeting Last Night---Enjoyable Evening Was Spent By Those Present.

The annual business meeting of the members of Mitto Adult Bible class of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held last night in the school room of the church.

There was a large attendance, which included members of the Young Men's Bible class, taught by Mr. Mowat, as well as the superintendent, Mr. W. Madill, and others from the Sunday school.

Mr. J. C. Shook, president of the class, filled the position of chairman. In addressing the class he reviewed the record of their first year which had proven to be a most successful one. Two hundred and twelve members had been enrolled during the year, some of whom were now missed owing to various causes. Mr. Shook hoped for an increase in the attendance of the men from the congregation. He told of the decision of the class to assume the responsibility of the maintenance of a missionary at Grassy Lake, Alberta, and hoped good results from the same. As they were at the end of their year, he called upon the members to elect new officers for 1909.

On motion of Mr. W. Madill, the officers of last year were unanimously re-elected.

Social and Presentation

After the business of the evening was disposed of the ladies of the social committee, who had prepared an interesting programme of music and refreshments, called upon their teacher, Rev. Mr. Pogue, to take the chair. He expressed himself delighted to see so many present, and in his address spoke in an encouraging manner of the growth of his Bible class during his first year as teacher. The following programme was then given:

Instrumental—Mr. Kenneth Shook.
Solo—Mr. Mackie.
Recitation—Mr. Johns.
Instrumental—Miss Sissons.
Solo—Mr. Kenneth Shook.
Reading—Mr. Brown.
Recitation—Mr. Johns.

Then followed one of the most pleasing events of the evening, when an address and presentation was made to Mr. Pogue, as follows:

To Rev. Robt. Pogue:

Dear Teacher,—The members of Mitto Adult Bible Class of St. Paul's Church desire, at the conclusion of your first year's faithful services as our teacher, to give expression of our appreciation of your helpfulness in the exposition of the Truths of the Bible.

With deep gratitude, therefore, we desire to have you impressed with the influence which your teaching is having in stimulating us to right living and right thinking; to the developing of the true ideals of Christian womanhood and manhood; and to attaining the perfect model "unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

It is thus, Sir, that you have been assisting in demonstrating the power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ to "Love one another," and to helping us to become rooted and grounded in the fundamental Truths of God's Word, so that the teachings of the Old and New Testament shall become more and more intensified as the Magna Charta of our lives and conduct.

These, dear sir, are a few of the many good thoughts we have for you. Please, therefore, accept this gift from the members of your class as a memento of our appreciation of your loving work; and be assured of our prayers that—

The Lord may bless thee and keep thee; the Lord life up His countenance upon thee and give thee Peace.

After the reading of the address Miss Bella Taylor presented Mr. Pogue with Robert Browning's complete works in twelve volumes, the Camberwell edition, with gilt tops, printed on fine rice paper, and daintily boxed.

Rev. Mr. Pogue was agreeably taken by surprise and confessed to being unable to do more than thank his class for this token and their friendship.

The ladies afterwards served refreshments and a pleasant social hour was passed in which all enjoyed themselves.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

Mi-o-na Tablets Cure Dyspepsia by Promptly Removing the Cause, or Money Back.

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles, trivial or serious and that is to tone up or put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

Harry Dodd, of Bridge street, Hastings, Ont., says: "For seven years I had suffered and spent much money doctoring, but all to no avail. I could eat but very little, as the food would ferment and sour, making gas, which caused serious heart depression. I was in constant misery, sour gas would belch from my stomach, I was languid and weak and had no ambition. I did not feel like going anywhere or seeing anyone. There was a constant dull pain in the pit of the stomach. I was unable to sleep, was nervous, restless and would awake more tired than on going to bed. I tried Mi-o-na and soon found relief, and in less than six weeks Mi-o-na had completely cured me.

Boys Of Murray St. Baptist Church Were Banquetted

Mrs. C. B. Routley and Daughter Miss Frances Were Hosts at Delightful Affair Held Last Night—An Enjoyable Evening Spent By The Boys.

MR. HARDING HAS RETIRED.

The Boys' Club of the Murray St. Baptist church was entertained at a banquet given last night by Mrs. C. B. Routley, assisted by her daughter, Miss Frances Routley. It was a most fitting closing of the winter's meetings and amusements and the boys greatly appreciated the kindness of their hostesses and were also pleased with the interest they showed in the affairs of the Club.

The Sunday School room proved delightful in meeting the requirements of the evening and the boys enjoyed themselves thoroughly . The following programme was given as a prelude:

Vocal solo—Mr. Walter Batley.
Vocal solo—Mr. J. Reid.
Reading—Mr. Robert Harding.
Reading—Mr. Wilfred Shiner.

A debate between two quartettes of the boys proved interesting. The subject was "Resolved that there is more fun to be gained from winter games than from those of the summer." The affirmative side was composed of Masters K. Routley, S. Kerneghan, W. Batley, and W. Browett. The boys of the negative side were N. Wilson, H. Webb, V. Eastwood, Jr., and "Bud" Miller. After due consideration the judges declared the result of the debate a draw.

While the boys were doing full justice, as boys can only do, to the dainty repast which Mrs. Routley had so thoroughly provided, a gramaphone entertainment was given by Mr. Cunningham, who had a splendid machine with all the newest selections and speeches. At the conclusion a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Routley and Miss Routley, on motion of W. Browett and Stanley Kerneghan.

MR. R. E. HARDING
Who As President of the Boys' Club of Murray St. Baptist Church Was Largely Responsible for Its Success.

Will Continue Club.

There was some talk about discontinuing the Club during the summer months, but it has been so successful during the winter that it was unanimously decided to retain the club and endeavour to keep it up to the standard that has been set, and to again make it a success.

The President, Mr. Robert Harding, asked to be relieved from office, as he had not the time to continue in that capacity and he further thought that a younger man should take the position. The boys regretted this circumstance, as Mr. Harding was one of those who was instrumental in forming the club and since its inception has given it his best attention, holding the boys together and at all times assisting in their work. In this way the success that has been achieved is considered to be largely due to his efforts. Mr. Wilfred Shiner was appointed as his successor, and Mr. Harding promised that he would help the boys ex-officio.

During the summer a field day will likely be held and other events which should be of interest.

WILL MEET IN THIS CITY

Delegates From The Presbytery Will Assemble Here To Discuss Laymen's Missionary Movement.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS.

A very important conference on the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held in this city on Tuesday next. Delegates will be present from every Presbyterian Church in the Presbytery of Peterborough to decide how this Presbytery can adequately share in the great movement.

Peterborough is among the first of the Presbyteries to hold such a conference and it therefore intends to be up at the front. Speakers at this conference will be Mr. A. E. Armstrong, Toronto, already known to many in Peterborough. Mr. Matthew Parkinson, Toronto, a noted speaker on this movement, and probably Mr. Fred. Anderson, of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

The conference opens in St. Andrew's Church in this city at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning. The ladies of Knox, St. Paul's and St. Andrew's Churches will entertain the delegates at lunch at one o'clock.

The conference is open to men of other churches who will be heartily welcomed at the sessions morning and afternoon. It will be a good opportunity for the men of Peterborough, and particularly of Peterborough Presbytery to get into line with this great movement.

It has been decided to hold an evening meting for the men of all churches of Peterborough, in the parlours of St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Matthew Parkinson, of Toronto, will be the speaker. The meeting is open to men of all churches and it is expected a large number will avail themselves of the privilege of hearing Mr. Parkinson on this great movement among the laymen of the church.

In view of the approaching Laymen's Missionary Congress in Toronto, commencing March 31st, this meeting in St. Paul's parlours will give the men of our churches an opportunity to realize its vast significance.

City Solicitor Reports To The Committee Re The Use Of Funds

The City Solicitor having reported that there is some doubt as to the legality of the authority of the City Trust Commissioners to use its surplus funds for the purpose intended, the Finance Committee of the City Council decided at a meeting last night to let the matter of endeavouring to secure a reduction of the commissioners' demand drop. It will be remembered that the committee after having been informed by the commissioners that they did not think the request of the council could be carried out legally, decided to get the advice of the Solicitor on the point and he has agreed with the commissioners.

His report to the committee last night was quite lengthy. The following extract, however, clearly shows Mr. Hall's reasons for his report.

Section 20 of the Special Act passed at last session directs the commissioners to apply the rents and profits derived from all real estate and the interest on the railway mortgage (after paying the expenses of the commission)towards payment of the interest and sinking funds of general city debentures, so that it is clear that receipt from this source received since the 24th of April, 1908, can be used for this purpose.

Section 22 of this Act directs the commissioners to pay all moneys received on account of the principal money due on this mortgage among other things in the reduction of the debenture debt of the city or in payment of the sinking funds in respect of such debt, at the request of the council exercised by by-law passed by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the council. This, it appears to me requires the commissioners, if duly authorized by the council, to apply any principal received by them on account of the railway mortgage since the 24th of April, 1908, in each one of the ways mentioned in this section, but whether the council has power to require payment of principal received by the commissioners prior to the 24th April, 1908, is not at all clear, and I think it is so doubtful, in view of the previous dealing of the commissioners and the council and the resolutions passed by them, and the provisions of By-law No. 361, and the Act confirming it and the fact that it was vested in the commissioners by the special Act was the principal and interest due or to mature on the railway mortgage, which I take to mean unpaid on the 24th of April, 1908, and not the money previously received by them that I cannot report that the commissioners can safely reduce their demand by applying the money received from the railway prior to the 24th April, 1908, on account of principal. This construction depends on what is meant by "paid" in Sec. 22 in this clause, "all moneys paid on the principal due on the mortgage in Section 17 mentioned." This might mean heretofore paid or hereafter paid, but as it says all moneys paid on account of the principal money due, I think it means paid after the passing of the Act, as moneys paid before that were not due when the Act was passed and the mortgage became vested under the Act in the commissioners.

TEACHERS SHOULD NOT MAKE PUPILS FEEL THEIR WEAKNESS

Instructive Address by Mr. J. L. Hughes. Inspector of Toronto Public Schools, Before the Normal Students Last Evening---The Old Training and the New---A Large Attendance.

The last of a series of interesting and instructive lectures that have been given at the Normal School this winter was delivered last night by Mr. J. L. Hughes, Inspector of Public Schools in Toronto before the students and a large number of city teachers, the Assembly Hall being well filled. His subject was "The Old Training and the New," and the manner in which he dealt with it was thoroughly pleasing to his hearers. By relating many humorous incidents in his own school life he kept the audience in roars of laughter, and in contrasting old methods of training children with present day ones he imparted lessons of a helpful and lasting kind to students entering the teaching profession. The speaker was introduced by the Principal, Mr. Duncan Walker.

The Address.

In beginning the speaker said that he regarded the training side of life as more important than the teaching. He believed that fifty years from now people would be as much advanced as the people of the present are ahead of those of half a century ago. "We are just coming out of the mist, as it were," he remarked, "we are only beginning education. All the centuries with the exception of the one in which we are living, could be wiped out, and we would still have modern ideas of education. We are starting in a new work of education, and each one might be a revelation of some good to some person."

Mr. Hughes said that the fundamental principle in training a child was in giving him liberty. Each person held an individuality, and to try and make two people alike it would be robbing one of them of his own central power. No two were alike. Each had to work out his own salvation. Two revelations Christ gave to the world was the value and originality of an individual soul. The greatest thing a teacher can do with a child is to work in co-operation with his parents. In olden times they tried to make children like adults. There to rob a boy or a girl of their childhood, youth and manhood. One was dependent on another. If his early training was neglected, then he would not be the man that he should. It was a crime to rob a boy or a girl of theirchildhood, to make them old men and women. The greatest of all mistakes was that in the old training; parents and teachers dealt with the negative side instead of the positive.

Training was clearing away difficulties, but then and even now it meant adult interference. Children under old conditions, when they started to school were stopped thinking. Boys and girls loved to make plans and work them out. They liked to work in co-operation with their friends. If they are allowed to work along these lines, the teacher was developing the pupils' powers. If parents would bear with their children in their achieving tendencies, they would find that they were developing the central powers.

The speaker pointed out that the proper way to deal with children was not to be continually drawing their attention to their mistakes. A teacher should never make a boy or girl feel his unworthiness nor make them conscious of their weakness. Children hated parents' or teachers' tyranny, and the speaker thought that it was contemptible. The old idea of obedience was subordination; it should be co-operation on the part of the teacher with the pupil.

In conclusion Mr. Hughes hoped that the students would in their future profession follow along the new methods of learning, and success would attend their efforts.

The thanks of the staff and students was extended to the speaker by Mr. Walker, after which the evening was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. John A. Paterson To Address The Local Astronomical Society

Mr. John A. Paterson, K. C., a member of the well-known Toronto law firm of Kerr, Davidson, Paterson & Macdonald, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Peterborough Astronomical Society, which will be held on Tuesday evening next in the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Paterson is a member of the Toronto Council of the Astronomical Society, and has always taken a great interest in astronomy. Last summer he visited some of the principal observatories in Europe. His subject "The Astronomy of Tennyson," should be found most interesting.

Mr. Paterson is well known in Peterborough from his connection with the Laymen's Missionary movement, and he also addressed the gathering at the Laymen's banquet held in George Street Methodist church some months ago. There will, no doubt, be a large attendance of members and friends of the society to welcome Mr. Paterson on Tuesday night.

The Conditions In Lumbering Compared With Last Year's

Lumbering operations, in so far as the cut of logs is concerned, the past winter, has been one of the best for many years and this, despite the fact that few of the lumber companies sent up to the woods their regulation quota of men. The decrease in the number of men who were employed will not materially affect the supply of logs this summer or the cut of lumber as an exceptionally large cut last year will make up the average this season and the lumbermen expect to cut equally as much lumber as last season. The snowfall the past winter was very good and provided every facility for the ready removal of the logs from the various camps to the rivers and streams to be floated down this Spring. The men are coming down from the bush right along, and the drives will begin as soon as the ice in the rivers and streams begin to break up. The lumbermen express great satisfaction at the reports they have received of the season's work in the woods.

Farmers And Unemployed Meet In The Examiner Office To-day

The efforts of the Examiner to bring together the farmers and those men who are looking for work are already proving a success. Of the number who called to-day there were more farmers than there were men looking for work. There are names of men on file in this office who want good respectable helpers and those desiring work should call at the Exton future requirements and in order to bring the two parties together in order that they may be mutually satisfied as to the persons they are dealing with

A farmer stated to-day that upon the character and value of the men depended the amount of money he was worth on the farm. Some men could easily receive $2000 now, but there were others that are not worth five. The farmers are offering good prices now and reliable industrious men have a chance to settle down for as long a time as they wish. Farmers and helpers are invited to meet at the Examiner office on Wednesdays at 2 o'clock and on Saturdays at 1.15 o'clock

A MONTH'S DELAY IN THE KINRADE MURDER CASE

Hamilton, March 20.—An adjournment of the Kinrade inquest to Thursday, April 22, was the real surprise of the enquiry last evening.

The hearing of evidence concluded at 10 o'clock, and shortly afterwards the crown examiner announced that evidence to be brought forward would necessitate a considerable delay. It is understood that the crown has very important evidence under investigation. Should it be found competent to complete the enquiries in hand, the inquest may be resumed at an earlier date.

The medical evidence was the important feature of the proceedings last night. Dr. Edgar submitted this in a very clear and direct way, and Dr. Balfe, who was present at the autopsy, swore in a sentence to his colleague's accuracy.

This evidence went to show that the murdered girl lived for at least ten minutes, probably fifteen minutes, and perhaps more, from the time she was first shot in the head. It would take fifteen minutes for the minimum quantity of blood estimated to have flowed on the carpet and soaked in the hair from the scalp wound. This was carefully estimated by medical men on the results of standard experiments by physiologists.

Had the victim been dead, there would have been no bleeding afterwards, said Dr. Edgar. The wounds in the breast were made at least 15 minutes after the wounds in the head. One of these entered the heart, and this bullet was not found, being carried probably into one of the large arteries. Death must have occurred in a minute afterwards. The heart was found contracted and hard as a stone, as the doctor testified.

The burning of the clothing indicated the approach of the revolver within a foot of the victim. The bullets were exhibited to the jury and others, and were of 32 calibre, about half an inch long.

Eight wounds, the result of seven different shots, were found in the body, and five bullets were found in it.

The other witnesses of the evening appeared to have been called in connection with the family story though thy were contradictory in detail of nearly all the previous testimony given.

Mrs. Clara Rudd and Charles Hossack fairly contradicted each other on the color of the costume they believed to have been worn by the person they saw during the afternoon of the murder, and swore to be Ethel Kinrade. Mr. Hossack was certain it was brown, and Mrs. Rudd that it was blue. As a matter of fact, it was a blue dress that Ethel Kinrade wore the day she was murdered.

Other evidence was in regard to the seeing of a strange man—in support of the tramp theory — and of street railwaymen in regard to seeing Florence Kinrade running across the street. One conductor also stated that Mrs. Kinrade had been a passenger on his car, and he had said there had been a shooting, on which information she had alighted and run to the house.

Mrs. King repeated her story, published yesterday, of seeing a frightened stranger in the alley next her home about the time the shooting seems to have occurred.

The court-room was more crowded than ever last night, but the disturbance was less, and a noticeable improvement was effected by using gas mantles for illumination. Standing prominently in the front rank of the crowd was Earl Kinrade, the younger brother of the family. His bright red hair and pallid face were strikingly conspicuous, and he chewed away unceasingly all through the proceedings.

Mr. Lynch-Staunton was present for the family and freely explained to the reporters how the evidence tallied etwith the family evidence.

A new line of enquiry was instituted by the crown last night which will have the most important bearing on the evidence already given.

The crown is in possession of information that renders it practically certain that the investigation will be successful.

It is of an unexpected nature, and will give an entirely new turn to certain phases of the story before the public.

It would be unjust to the crown to embarrass the efforts of detectives by any premature disclosures, but the activity of crown officers may be relied upon by the public.

Every long lane if open to travel will show a turning, and it will not take a month to secure the important link now being sought.

TRIED HARD TO DIE.

Toronto Man Tired of Being Dunned Attempts Suicide.

Toronto, March 20.—Being dunned for money all the time drove Herbert Gordon Jones, aged 19, of 22 Oxford street, to attempt suicide yesterday afternoon.

He is the driver of a wholesale city dairy milk wagon and he stopped his horse on West Richmond street, in front of a lane running south from Richmond, dropped the weight, walked down the lane for about 30 yards, produced a 32-calibre bulldog revolver, sat down in the mud, placed the gun against his breast and pulled the trigger several times. It did not go off, and then he pointed it at his forehead and kept on pulling the trigger until the weapon exploded. Jones was found and taken to St. Michael's Hospital.

The bullet was found flattened against the skull exactly where it had entered.

In his pouch was found a note to his wife, saying: "My darling wife, Good-bye! God bless you. It's Geo. Weston that has drove me to this. He was going to have me arrested, and I could not stand it. So God bless you and good-bye. Bert."

The money troubles amounted to about $35. He owed Geo. Weston, proprietor of the Model Bakery on Soho street, $10.

Canada's View of Navy.

London, March 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lord Strathcona states in The Mail there cannot be a doubt that throughout the Empire the universal wish is that our naval supremacy shall be assured. Sir Hugh Graham, asked by The Mail what Canadians would say about the naval estimates, replied that Canadians' whole reliance on British prowess on the idea that the British navy will be kept to the strength and efficiency to meet any possible combination of enemies. It was not too much to say that the strength or supposed strength of the British navy had more to do with sentiment in perpetuation of the British connection than any other factor.

Brantford's Bylaw In Danger.

Brantford, March 20.—Announcement was made yesterday that unless the bill to be introduced by Hon. Adam Beck in the Legislature affecting contracts with public utilities is amended, the provisions of the bill will nullify Brantford's contract with the Cataract Co. for the supply of power and light to this city.

The bill requires a vote of ratepayers on all agreements made by municipal councils for public utilities for a period of one year or over, and applies to any bylaw or agreement entered into after March 11. The Brantford contract was entered into on March 15, and the issue may have to be submitted to the ratepayers.

Shipwrecked Men Turn Up.

Montreal, March 20.—After shipwreck off a bleak and barren island in James Bay and innumerable hardships suffered in their long and tedious tramp to a railway station, Frank Johnson and George Martin, two of the crew of the ill-fated Stork, the Hudson Bay Co. steamer, arrived in Montreal yesterday morning.

Just one hundred and forty-eight days haved elapsed since Johnson and Martin were compelled, together with the rest of a weary crew, to abandon the fur-laden Stork in the icy waters of James Bay on Oct. 10, 1908. The Stork left London on June 18, 1908.

C.P.R. Behind It.

St. John, N.B., March 20.—There is considerable speculation as to what is behind the proposed incorporation of the Port. Canada, Docks, Storage & Warehouse Co., capitalized at ninety-nine thousand dollars, for the purpose of building docks, warehouses, elevators and all terminal facilities. Geo. W. Marsh, W. L. E. Marsh and Jos. Dust, Toronto; Robert N. Agnew and Charles Henry Clark, New York, are the company.

There has been reports that the Canadian Pacific were behind them, and it may be they have something to do with the present enterprise.

Election Will Be Close.

Edmonton, March 20.—As the campaign draws to a close, it appears that the big fight will be in the south of the province, where practically the only doubtful seats are. The eight seats by acclamation are all north of Red Deer. The ridings that are spoken of as close are Medicine Hat, Cardston, Lethbridge City, Macleod, High River, Calgary, Othotoks, Ponoka, Vermillion and Camrose. In other ridings Liberal candidates are confident of winning. The Conservatives seem more certain of Macleod than they do of any other riding in the province.

Newfoundland Calls Halt.

London, March 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Negotiations between Britain and the United States for the conclusion of pecuniary claims and concessions have been suspended, due to the fact that the Newfoundland Government is unwilling to include the fishery pecuniary claims in the schedule of the proposed treaty, contending they should be dealt with by the colonial courts after the result of the arbitration fisheries question is known.

Youth Electrocuted.

Richmond, Va., March 20.—Benjamin Gilbert, a white youth of 19, was electrocuted in the penitentiary yesterday morning for the murder in Norfolk last July of his sweetheart.

Reward For Murderer.

Rome, March 20.—A local newspaper yesterday says that the Government has offered a reward of $2,000 for the apprehension of the murderers of Joseph Petrosino, the detective.

The Charm of the Piano

HEATED CLASH IN ONTARIO LEGISLATURE YESTERDAY

Toronto, March 20.—A heated discussion arose in the Legislature yesterday when D. J. McDougal, member for Ottawa, asked for particulars concerning the agreement and settlement in connection with the O'Brien and Alpha Mine case.

The Minister of Lands and Mines, Hon. Frank Cochrane, replied that no agreement of any kind was in existence, and the main issue had been fought out in the last election.

The member for Ottawa came back with the statement that as the money had been paid to a near relation of the Minister, he should prefer to have the matter made clear.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane retorted: "I am not accustomed to insinuntions. State plainly what you mean."

"It is said that the Minister of Mines paid out this settlement money to a near relation," was Mr. McDougal's reply.

This brought Sir James Whitney to his feet, and he characterized the remarks by Mr. McDougal as a purrile attempt to corner the Minister of Lands and Mines.

"I do not believe," he said, "that there is a man in the province who knows more about the subject than the hon. member from Ottawa.

"And," continued the Premier, amid applause, "the fact that the Minister of Lands and Mines turned down, and was not influenced by, the interests of a near relative, shows that he was made of material far above the ordinary clay."

"I am astonished that the hon. member for Ottawa should put himself in the position of wilfully misunderstanding what was said three or four times."

W. Reed asked the Minister regarding the Gillies limit.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane stated that the last shaft sank had not turned out as well as had been expected, but he had hopes that the operation would eventually show a profit of $100,000. So far only preliminary work had been undertaken.

Beyond this discussion the estimates were passed without controversy.

In response to a query, Hon. Dr. Reaume said the Government were giving attention to the drainage problem throughout the province, and drainage works were being established in connection with colonization roads.

Hon. Dr. Reaume also stated that the plans of the new wing for the Parliament buildings will be on exhibition in the legislative library on Monday.

Mr. McGarry's bill to incorporate the Ontario Veterinary Association was sent to the agricultural committee.

The Premier took a firm stand against the bill prohibiting any but certified embalmers to practice in the province. He did not approve of the principle of requiring a man to have a certificate with a seal "as big as your head" on it before he could do business. The bill was withdrawn.

Several new bills were introduced.

MISERY IN STOMACH WILL VANISH

Your Stomach Trouble Will Be Cured Before You Realize It

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and crustate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure the worst case of dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and eat one Triangule after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a hearty, healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery, and eat just one Triangule of Diapepsin.

Prisoner Is Released.

Peterboro, March 20.—Alexander Sharpe of Dummer Township, who was sentenced to 15 years in the Kingston penitentiary in 1901 for killing William Hull, also of Dummer Township, has been released from prison.

Word to this effect was received by F. D. Kerr, barrister, yesterday. Sharpe was convicted at the Spring Assizes at Toronto in 1901 by Justice Lount.

Sharpe had accused Hull of having stolen his wife and fired on him at close range with a rifle, killing him instantly.

Farmer's Presence of Mind.

Brockville, March 20.—His heavily-laden sleigh becoming stuck on the G.T.R. railway crossing a mile from Prescott, a farmer narrowly escaped being hurled into eternity yesterday by drawing the king bolt and parting his horses from the vehicle. The sleigh was shattered to fragments, and the pilot of the engine wrecked.

Clothes Catch Fire.

Belleville, March 20.—Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, wife of a prominent lawyer in this city, was badly burned through her clothing catching fire in the kitchen.

The hired girl noticed the flames and helped put them out, not before both the lady and herself had been painfully burned.

Windsor Man Killed In West.

Windsor, March 20.—Charles Riley, aged 22, son of John Riley, this city, was killed on the Canadian Northern at Humboldt, Sask. His parents here have received no particulars as to how their son met his death. He was employed for a time at Walkerville, and was with the Canadian Pacific before going west.

The Waterworks By-Law

The following is a copy of the By-law except the sections relating to the Polling Divisons; for taking the votes on the 30th day of March, 1909, of the Electors qualified to vote on By-laws for creating debts, the summing up of votes, etc. Published by the Water Commissioners.

By-Law No.——

A BY-LAW to provide for borrowing the sum of $120,000 to pay the cost of construction of a concrete dam and other works for the improvement of the Waterworks system of the City of Peterborough.

Passed the ..... day of ....., 1909.

WHEREAS, the Peterborough Water Commissioners have represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that it is necessary, in order to ensure a permanent, increased and satisfactory supply of water to the City for public and private use and for fire protection, that the present waterworks dam should be replaced by a new concrete dam and that a new pump plant, together with the other works and appliances required to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the waterworks system of the said City should be constructed and installed, and it is estimated that the cost of same will be the sum of $120,000 and the said Water Commissioners have applied to the Council for the said sum for such purposes.

AND WHEREAS, it is desirable in the public interest to construct and install such works and appliances and to pass this By-law, to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors, to authorize the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $120,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law.

AND WHEREAS, in order to raise the said sum of $120,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount, such debentures to be a special charge on the waterworks, and the lands used therewith and the revenue arising therefrom and also charged on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

AND WHEREAS, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being the roll prepared in the year 1908, for the year 1909, is the sum of $8,426,778 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates, but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks, is the sum of $870,331.98 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS, it will require the sum of $5,100 to be raised annually for a period of thirty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $2,324.56 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at maturity thereof —such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $7,424.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This By-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $120,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust, and to be made payable within thirty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough.

3. The said waterworks and lands shall be specially charged with the repayment of the said sum hereby authorized to be borrowed and the debentures to be issued therefor and the holders of such debentures shall have a preferential charge on the said waterworks and lands and the revenues arising therefrom, after providing for the payment of the expenses attendant upon the operation and maintenance of the said waterworks and the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures already issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, for securing the payment of the said debentures and the interest thereon and the said debentures and interest shall also be a charge upon the whole rateable property of the municipality.

4. Subject to the provisions of subsection 2 of this section there shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $5,100 for payment of the interest on the said debt, and the sum of $2,324.56 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof making together the sum of $7,424.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

(2) Provided, however, that the revenues arising from the said waterworks shall, after payment of the expenses of operating and maintaining the said waterworks and the payment of the interest and sinking fund in respect to debentures heretofore issued for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks system, be applied towards payment of the annual interest and sinking fund on the debentures to be issued hereunder and the Council of the said City shall only be required to raise in each year during the currency of the debentures to be issued hereunder a sum sufficient with the moneys arising and available from such revenue to make up the said annual sum of $7,424.56 required for payment of the interest and sinking fund of the debentures to be issued hereunder.

5. As the proposed expenditure upon the objects for which the debt to be created by this By-law is estimated to extend over more than one year and it is undesirable to have large portions of the money on hand unused and uninvested it would in the opinion of the Council be to the advantage of the Municipality to issue the debentures hereby authorized in instalments and it is, therefore, hereby provided that said debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made by this By-law) and at such times, as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years and the first instalment within two years after the passing of this By-law and the proceeds of the said debentures when sold or a sufficient part thereof for that purpose shall be paid over as required to the Peterborough Water Commissioners, to be applied in payment of the amount expended in the construction of such new dam, pump house and pumping plant and the other works and appliances constructed and installed to control and develop the water power at the said dam and to supply water to the water works system of the city.

PETERBORO TO HAVE FRANCHISE IN THE NEW SEMI-PRO. LEAGUE

Toronto, March 19.—Tom Flanagan to-day announced that he had about completed arrangements for a semi-professional baseball league in Ontario.

The prospective towns and cities are: Hamilton, Toronto, London, Brantford, Peterborough, Woodstock.

The only restriction is that all players must be Canadian born," said Tom Flanagan. "The Toronto team will play at the new east end athletic field."

"The Shaun Rhue" Produced By The Dramatic Club Of St. Martin's T. A. S., Ennismore

St. Patrick's Day Was Celebrated in an Especial Manner—Officers of the Society are Elected—Play Was Grand Success.

TALENTED YOUNG PEOPLE.

The feast of Ireland's Patron Saint was celebrated in the usual becoming manner in Ennismore. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock, at which upwards of two hundred and fifty received Holy Communion, a large percentage of which were members of St. Martin's T. A. S. After mass, the total abstinence pledge was again given to those who were willing to abstain from all kinds of intoxicating liquors for another year. The numbers were larger than ever, many taking the pledge for the first time. Never did the young men of Ennismore shown such a good spirit in this respect, or a greater determination to abolish from their midst all intoxicating liquors. The society now numbers over 250 members, and continues year after year to grow in strength and energy. It is a healthy sign, to see young men realizing the dangers of liquors, and the necessity of sobriety. The prosperity, which is evident in so many comfortable families and homes, throughout the township is owing in no small measure to the saving in time and money caused by total abstinence. People and especially our young people, are beginning to see that prosperity and intemperance never did and never will go hand in hand. They are also beginning to see, that drunkeness is not only a sin, but a positive disgrace, and no longer the amiable weakness it was once considered.

After the members had recorded their names, and cards of admission distributed amongst them, the election of officers for 1909 took place. The contest was a keen one and the greatest interest was manifest in the election of the best and most energetic men. The result is as follows.

President, Jas Killen, (sr.); Vice-President, R. J. Scollard. Treasurer Thos Flood. Secretary, John Brick. (sr.); Committee of Management, Jas. Sweeney, Peter Galvin, Peter Flood, Timothy T. Crough, J. K. Galvin, Dan Hickson, John Geary. No better choice could possibly have been made, and Fr. Fitzpatrick has every reason to feel proud of his committee for the coming year.

In the afternoon, the dramatic society, a very valuable branch of the T.A.S., put on a matinee for the school children and the old people of the parish who did not care to be out after night. In the evening the same society gave a most interesting and faithful representation of Joe Murphy's famous Irish comedy, "Shaun Rhue."

Caste of Characters.

Larry Donovan (Shaun Rhue) Jos. J. Carroll.
Maurice Donovan (Larry's father), Frank Scollard.
Patrick Cavanagh (a great scholar) John A. O'Donohue.
Gerald Cavanagh (Patrick's son), Jos. O'Reilly.
Peter Callahan .....Jas. Guiry
Bryan Callahan .....Jas. Dionne
Lawyer Waddy .....Mich. Perdue
Tim (Waddy's poor boy) Mich. Fitzpatrick.
Kate Donovan .....Agnes Scollard
Dora Cavanagh .....Lottie Scollard

Between the acts, Irish songs were sung by Misses Loretta Kennedy, Evelyn Carew, Mary Ann Crough, Mr. T. T. Crough and J. K. Galvin, all of which proved most enjoyable and were heartily applauded. The orchestra, under Mr. J. P. Flood, was never better, and contributed a liberal supply of the best and most appropriate Irish music. Mr. Flood was assisted by Mrs. Flood at the organ, and Messrs. Jas. Clark, Jas. Killen jr., Rich Hickson and Wm. Hickson, Mrs. John E. O'Donoghue and Miss Beatrice Flynn acted as accompanist for the evening.

The chairman for the performance was Rev. P. J. McGuire, the popular and energetic pastor of Downeyville and needless to say he did his duty to the entire satisfaction of all, his witty remarks and quaint anecdotes calling forth peals of laughter. Father P. J. Kelly, of Peterboro, was also present, and delighted the large audience with a short speech and two short, but extremely funny recitations. Father Kelly is a great critic of stage acting, and his kind words of appreciation of the manner in which Shaun Rhue was produced, were highly appreciated by the actors and all interested in the success of the play. But Father Kelly was not alone in his admiration of the skilful acting of the young people. All present were pleased, and the large hall was packed to the door. Joe Carroll as Larry Donovan and later on as Shaun Rhue, portrayed these two characters in such a manner as to defy criticism. Joe won rounds of applause, and when the audience were not in tears at his bidding farewell to his mother and Ireland, they were in roars of laughter at his ready Irish wit and humour. In his presentation of this true Irish character, he was greatly aided by Miss Agnes Scollard, as his sister Kate Donovan, and his sweetheart Lottie Scollard, as Dora Cavanagh. Both the young ladies deserve the greatest praise for their clever work. They are above all true to nature, clear and distinct in their accentuation, and fully realise the nature of the characters they are to represent. Years of experience and natural ability have made both these girls very clever in their work on the stage. Mr. O'Donohue as Patrick Cavanagh, looked and acted to perfection the part of the patriotic Irish schoolmaster. His long Latin expressions, given with all the extensions contortions and dilations of which the human form is capable, were most amusing to the audience. His son Gerald, an honest, warm-hearted, truthful, loving son of Erin, was well received, and full justice was done to this beautiful character by Jos. O'Reilly. The grasping, scraping, clutching, covetous old miser, lawyer Waddy was ably represented by Mich. Perdue, while the part of his half-starved, poorly clad, cadaverous-looking servant boy fell to the lot of Master M. Fitzpatrick and was well taken.

In this play, as in all others of a similar nature, there is a character or two, which most young men wish to avoid. Peter Callahan and his son Bryan belong to this class—they are upstarts, deceivers, traitors, despicable in every respect, and if we judge of the acting of these parts by the dislike they created in the hearts of the hearers, then Jas. Guiry and Jas. Dionne succeeded beyond expression. They far surpassed the expectation of their best friends and are deserving of unstinted praise for their clever representation of two most difficult characters. The concert was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem by the actors. The audience was the largest ever assembled in the hall. They were present from all over. Peterboro was well represented, Young's Point sent her usual contingent, as did also Bridgenorth and Emily, and even Harvey turned out in good numbers to see "Shaun Rhue."

At the close Fr. Fitzpatrick, pastor of St. Martin's, made a brief speech, in which he thanked the audience for turning out in such large numbers, and for the very warm reception accorded to the different actors. He considers Shaun Rhue the best Irish play on the stage to-day, as no other play gives so true and faithful a portrayal of the Irish character. There is not an offensive word from beginning to end, no roughness, no drunkenness, no rowdyism, which have made the Irish stage a laughing stock to our enemies, for centuries, and a disgrace to ourselves. Everything clean, pure, ennobling from start to finish.

248 THE HIGH SCORE FOR WEEK SO FAR

The Examiner predicted on Monday that it would take a 250 score to win the cigars for the highest score at the P. B. C. alleys this week and it looks as if the dope was about right. Thursday night Harvey Staunton put on a score of 248, which looks good enough to carry off the smokes, although there is no telling what some of the cracks might do tonight. Last night there was a merry session and half a dozen two-hundred scores were put on, Cairns and Gutterson being the chief offenders, the former coming along with a 226, while Gutterson had 212 and 207.

TORIES ACCEPT THE DEFI OF GRITS

Big Game Will Be Played on the P.B.C. Alleys Next Tuesday Night.

The Tory bowlers have jumped at the challenge offered by the Grits in yesterday's Examiner, to play a game—five men a side—for a supper, and the game will come off at the P. B. C. alleys next Tuesday night. The Tories have refused to disclose their line-up but it is said that they have a bunch of stars in line. However, the Grits are not worrying any. They can bring Sir James Whitney and all his cabinet down here if they want to," remarked one of the Liberal bowlers last night. It will certainly be the game of the season, and as the total pinnage counts it will be fought out to the finish.

HOCKEY

A momentous game of hockey was played at Brock street rink last night when the Midgets took the measure of the Snowflakes to the tune of 5 to 1. It seems that the Snowflakes threw down the gauntlet and the Midgets jumped at the chance. The half-time score was 2-1. Phelan played point during the first half and Kaufman, in the second. The teams lined up as follows:

Snowflakes—Goal, Hill; point, Phelan, Knapman; cover point, H. Lees; rover, Morrow; centre, D. Lees; right wing, Matthews; left wing, R. Laing.

Referee, Hugh Burritt.

"WATSON" BUTCHER HAS GONE WEST

Mr. Watson Butcher, left yesterday for Moosejaw and will take up farming in the west, where it is learned he has a wide farm. Wat will be missed in sporting circles, having been prominently identified with the West End athletic organizations. He was manager of the hockey club, and was the star twirler of the baseball nine, which won the City League championship two years ago. His many friends wish him every success in his new sphere.

THE WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

Prompt the Use of Worthless Remedies.

Even an experienced physician will sometimes make a mistake in diagnosis, in which event his entire treatment is wasted and may even be injurious to the patient.

The advocates of all other hair restoratives save Herpicide have wrongly diagnosed the cause of Dandruff and Falling Hair.

They figure on a functional disease whereas it is now known and generally accepted that hair loss is due to a parasitic germ which Newbro's Herpicide destroys.

There is no substitute for Herpicide, accept none.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

The Water Works By-Law And Why It Should Be Carried

The Position of the Water Commissioners in the Matter Carefully Set Forth in an Interesting Article That Every Ratepayer Should Read—The Need of the New Dam and Pumping Station and How the Cost Will be Looked After.

THE PLANS HAVE BEEN CLOSELY STUDIED.

During the past four years the Water Commissioners have had under consideration the propriety of advising the erection of a new dam, and new power station, with enlarged pumping capacity. They are now of opinion the work should be proceeded with, with as much expedition as the subject is capable of. The present dam they are convinced is not satisfactory, in view of the vital interests that are at stake, which interests are wholly dependent on it. At the time it was erected by the Water Company the use of cement for the purpose of building a dam was untried, and in fact had not reached the experimental stage in such use. The Company did its best with the material then generally employed. For several years after and up to quite a recent date the Government of Canada built the same character of dam, but it is very certain it will not do so in the future. The one feature in which this old kind of dam has always failed is its leakage, which nothing that has been devised can overcome, even the best losing from one-quarter to one-third or more of the power they would otherwise develop. The City's dam is no exception. Another reason that has led the Commissioners to make representations to the City Council for the submission of the By-law, is that the present dam does not assure that degree of security and permanency of structure, so essential when ratepayers reflect that the City is wholly relying on it for water supply and fire protection. Again, the pond above the dam is small as is the case with all dams on the river, and therefore, it is requisite the City should have a dam that not only would develop to the full all the power the flow of the river will give, but be of that modern type by which the height of the water in the pond can at all seasons be kept at the same level, a most important feature.

Since the City's purchase from the Company, the cost of repairs to the dam has been $6,150.00 or an average of a little over $860.00 yearly, which if applied to the building of a new dam would answer nearly $20,000.00 of its cost. Last year the cost of repairs was $1,235.72. The Underwriters' Association, which fixes the rates for fire insurance, has required the City to provide a very largely increased pumping capacity, or in the alternative has threatened a general advance in rates for fire insurance upon City property. To provide this demand at the present dam would entail a cost of over $70,000 in enlarging the power station, wheel pits, forebays, etc., and yet leave the composition of the dam such as it is. In the judgment of the Commissioners it would be false economy of the rankest kind to invest so large or any large sum in that way. During one period of the past year the present pumping power had been reached by the demand made by water consumers, and had a large fire occurred at this time, effective service could not have been given; but it is just to state that to a considerable extent this was caused by the wanton waste on lawns, and by reason of bad plumbing. During the year 1908 the daily pumping was $1,710,000 gallons, equal to about 140 gallons per day, per head, of the population. In London, England, where the plumbing must be of the best, and yet the water supply plentiful, the quantity is under 25 gallons per head daily. While building a new dam, there must be amendment in this particular.

Condition of Present Dam

The report of Mr. Keefer, C. E., to the Commissioners contains this statement in regard to the condition of the dam. "The present dam was built about eleven years ago, and is what is known as a crib timber dam, a form of construction which is commonly used by lumbermen on our rivers, and is dependent for its ability to hold the water entirely on the plank sheeting driven more or less, into the bed of the river, on its upstream side. The remainder of the dam, that is, for the overflow section, is rough open cribwork which has no value to hold water, but is simply to supply the necessary weight to ensure its stability. The foundation of the dam rests on the gravel bed of the river and there is nothing to prevent leakage under it except the sheeting I have mentioned, and to do this it would require to be driven either to the rock or into a good clay stratum—if it existed—overlying the rock. At the time I made examination of the dam, at low water stage, there was a very considerable leakage under the dam, and though it is difficult to estimate its exact amount, I should estimate it as amounting to at least thirty per centfl of he flow, and that it might amount to as much as fifty per cent.

"No doubt at the time the dam was constructed the form of construction adopted was fully warranted, and it has served a good purpose, as a sufficient quantity of water could be held to furnish the necessary power for the present equipment of the Pumping Station. As, however, with the growth of the City the present consumption seems to have about reached the limit of the pumping capacity, and there is no reserve capacity—a most important feature in a direct pressure system—it is a question whether you will not very soon have to provide for an extension of your works, which of course will involve a greater consumption of water for power purposes, in which case it will be necessary to reduce the leakage in the dam as much as possible.

"The difficulty experienced from the excessive leakage under and through the dam is that it reduces the effective weight of the structure, and therefore, its stability. Your Superintendent, Mr. Wm. Henderson has taken a wise precaution in filling in a large quantity of gravel, as shown on the plans, above the dam, which has no doubt been the means of averting serious trouble, though it cannot stop leakage."

Recommendation for New Dam

For the above reasons the Commissioners believe they are justified in a recommendation to pass the By-law; but there are other considerations. The works originally cost the City $240,000.000, and $312,000.00 are now invested in them by issued debentures. This has already been reduced by $35,000, paid from sinking funds to the City Trust towards redemption of the debentures. During the seven years' ownership by the City, vast benefit has been gained. The water rates have been reduced between forty-five and fifty per cent., without a dollar of direct assessment on ratepayers for the cost of purchase or the improvements, save water rates, and in the one item of fire hydrants the yearly saving is $1,000.00 in the taxes. The sinking funds and interest and cost of management have been paid out of the income from the rates, and also a reserve fund laid by of $33,000.-00, which with the City's approval may be applied towards providing a filtration plant when the dam, etc., are completed. For the past year the net surplus amounted to $9,259.13. The annual sinking fund and interest fixed by the By-law for the new dam is $7,424.56, leaving $1,834.57 to be further added to reserve fund, or go in reduction of water rates. The excess during the past seven years has constantly increased year by year, and there is no doubt this will continue as the works are extended. Therefore the new dam, power station and plant will add nothing to the taxation of the people beyond at most the present charge for water.

LANTERN EXPLODED AND SMITH FARM HOUSE WAS DESTROYED BY THE FLAMES

Destructive Blazes on the R. E. McKee Farm in Smith on Saturday—Mr. Sutton a Heavy Loser.

THE CONTENTS BURNED.

The fire which broke out in the driving shed on the farm of Mr. Thomas Sutton, Lot 15, Concession 4, Smith, on Saturday night destroyed that building and the wood shed and dwelling house of the establishment. The blaze was caused by the explosion of a lantern in the driving shed, which set fire to some straw. The first flames were extinguished and the family retired to the house thinking that the fire was out and that the danger was all over. Soon after, however, the driving she was discovered to be on fire and all efforts made to save the building and check the spread of the flames was in vain. The woodshed and house were quickly in the grasp of the fire and with their contents were burned to the ground, the family being turned out into the cold. Very little was saved of the contents of the house and Mr. Sutton will be a heavy loser.

The damage to the house and buildings which are totally destroyed will be partially at least, covered by insurance.

The farm was formerly owned by Mr. R. E. McKee, and is known familiarly as the R. E. McKee farm.

Fire Did Much Damage To Stock In North End Store Early Sunday

Damage to stock to the extent of about $900 was incurred by a fire that broke out in Mr. S. J. Guthrie's store at Water and Smith streets, about three o'clock on Sunday morning. The building suffered but slightly and, owing to the good work of the brigade, the household effects of the family on the second floor were saved.

Defective wiring is said to have been the cause of the conflagration, which started near the front of the store, on the ceiling. The curtains on the shop windows were soon ablaze and in a few minutes the flames were working their way among the goods on the shelves and under the counter. The fire was first noticed by two young men driving north. They aroused the inmates and the alarm was sent in by Mr. David Flemming, a boarder at the home of Mr. Guthrie.

Mrs. Guthrie and three children were taken out, but the firemen were able to confine the fire to the store and the family's home was not damaged. The intense heat caused two plate glass windows to break.

Mr. Guthrie was absent in the country at the time.

Missionary Conference Will Be Held To-morrow At St. Andrew's

All the men of the city who are interested in the Laymen's Missionary Movement are reminded of the importance that is being held to-morrow in two of the Presbyterian churches. Delegates will be present from every Presbyterian Church in the Presbytery of Peterborough to decide how this Presbytery can adequately share in the great movement.

Speakers at this conference will be Mr A. E. Armstrong, Toronto, already known to many in Peterborough, Mr. Matthew Parkinson, Toronto, a noted speaker on this movement, and probably Mr. Fred. Anderson, of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

The conference opens in St Andrew's Church in this city at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning. The ladies of Knox, St. Paul's and St. Andrew's Churches will entertain the delegates at lunch at one o'clock.

It has been decided to hold an evening meeting for the men of all churches of Peterborough, in the parlours of St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Matthew Parkinson, of Toronto, will be the speaker. The meeting is open to men of all churches and it is expected a large number will avail themselves of the privilege of hearing Mr. Parkinson on this great movement among the laymen of the church.

PROMISE OF BRISK BUILDING WORK

Hardware Men State That They Expect Good Conditions Soon

According to the reports from the hardware men there is going to be a large number of small buildings erected during the coming summer. They are in touch with contractors and intending builders who are now securing prices and from the number who have already stated that they would be building during the summer there is going to be considerable activity. It is scarcely likely that there will be a great deal of work before the end of April. It is stated that the building operations will extend late into the early winter, the year closing with a rush of business.

FALSE ALARMS.

John Bull is a stout old gentleman in both body and spirit, but given to panics that have no reason. Since the days of the Armada he has been subject to periodical attacks of nerves. There has been a man under the bed—a hostile invasion was imminent. In Napoleon's time the scare was tremendous. Now a German invasion is booked. One can hardly account for these psychological vagaries, for they are little more. John Bull grumbles, but pays; he develops that creepy feeling, but he fights and wins. The German invasion may come or not come, but Britain is bound to be ready to meet it if the attempt should materialize. The latest naval budget calls for the construction of four new battleships and four armoured cruisers, at a cost of fifteen million dollars. Who is responsible for the scare. It is claimed by those who profess to know that it has its origin not in external machinations, but in domestic influences. The Jingo party, the party of vested interests, not altogether compatible with national interest is charged with exploiting the natural scare to distract public attention from pressing domestic problems. The old order dies hard, and so long as its influence remains government in the interests of the people will be handicapped. At this distance there does not seem to be the slightest danger of a German or other invasion; an attempt of this kind would be crushed in the beginning. A hostile fleet of the greatest existing power would not be able to get within fifty miles of Great Britain, whose naval strength is at least double that of any two great powers combined, at the present time.

Come the three-quarters of the world in arms, we'll shock them; nought shall make in rue if Britain to herself do prove but true.

THE "SWEATING" SYSTEM.

Since the Examiner called attention to the "sweat-box" methods employed in the examination of Florence Kinrade, in Hamilton, almost universal condemnation on the part of the press and public has been expressed as to the manner in which the investigation was conducted. Mr George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., Hamilton, who after having gone over the features of the Kinrade case, in which he said terrible injustice had been done to the girl, Florence Kinrade and the family, adds this comment upon the inquest jury system:

"Great Britain and France almost went to war as a result of the trial of Dreyfus," said Mr. Staunton. "The former thought it was barbaric. But Dreyfus was treated like a king compared to this girl. A person can be put up," he said, "paraded before a vulgar public, before a man who knows nothing of the rules of evidence, and all kinds of questions can be fired at him without consideration for the effect the information thus published will have on his reputation, and yet a coroner's jury cannot convict anyone, they cannot do anything. It is an awful thing, an awful thing."

"There has been no attempt on the part of the girl or on the part of the family to conceal anything. Mr. Kinrade has handed over the keys of his house to the authorities. The whole family have been willing to talk and answer questions at any time. They have given Mr. Black-tock and the detectives every opportunity they asked for to see the girl. Now, if the whole story is told to the detectives, why is it necessary to parade this unfortunate girl before the public so that every half-baked intellect in the country can form its unpure and unjust suspicions upon it, and blast this girl's character?"

The foundation principle of British justice is to assume even the accused innocent till proof to the contrary is forthcoming.

Lever Brothers, Toronto, will send you free a cake of their famous Plantol toilet soap, if you mention this paper.

5,000 FACTS ABOUT CANADA.

The 1909 Edition is out of that most useful and valuable booklet, "5,000 Facts About Canada," compiled by Frank Yeigh of Toronto, who is widely known throughout the Dominion as an authority on things Canadian. Nearly 25,000 copies were sold on the 1907-8 editions, the demand coming from every part of this continent and the British Empire. The idea worked out, that of a concrete fact in a sentence, is an excellent one, the data being arranged under such self-indexing titles as area, agriculture, banking, commerce, finances, mining, railways, wheat fields, etc. The wealth of material contained in small space is a revelation to even a well-informde Canadian of the standing and resources of the country. The book is published at 25 cents a copy by The Canadian Facts Publishing Co., 667 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Canada, or may be had from Newsdealers.

OUR NOBLE NORTH.

The New York Sun finds a subject of comment in a despatch from North Saskatchewan. In an article under the heading "Northward Ho!" it deals with the vista opened by this dispatch, which stated that forty loads of effects of settlers from the United States arrived in one day. The Sun remarks that the class of people who are deserting "the land of the free" for "the land of promise," Canada, are quite opposed in character to the class that enters the country at New York from Europe, with a little pocket money, and a bundle of clothing—they are people with money in banks and with carloads of effects. The Sun, with not unnatural reluctance, says these departing settlers "are a loss to us and a gain to Canada. They constitute a large percentage of the industrial host that is converting Canada's vast prairies into fertile farms and ranches."

The Sun then gives a compact summary of what Canada has done.:

"Manitoba became a province in 1870. Its population was 62,260 in 1881, 152,506 in 1891, and 255,211 in 1901. The value of Manitoba's harvest last year was a little short of $70,000,000. The census of 1906 gave Winnipeg, its capital city, a population of 90,000. There is nothing wild in a guess that its present population is not far from 120,000. Four years ago the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were carved out of a vast area formerly known as the Northwest Territories. Their population at the time of their organization as provinces was probably about 70,000 for Alberta and 90,000 for Saskatchewan. The number to-day is somewhat problematic, but a guess of more than half a million for the two provinces is quite reasonable. Saskatchewan is now producing crops worth nearly $40,000,000, and Alberta, which is a cattle country rather than a crop country, values its harvest at $15,000,000.

"Canada's official census in 1911 will be a collection of vastly interesting documents. It may and probably will be a record of material development more rapid than that shown during any ten-year period in the history of the United States. It will probably show an increase from 1901 to 1911 of 40 per cent. in population and it is not at all improbable that it will show even more than that. Curiously enough, the following comparisons may be made: Population of the United States in 1800, 5,308,483; of Canada in 1901, 5,371,315. In 1810 the population of the United States was 7,239,881. What will be the population of Canada in 1911? From lack of records no similar comparison can be made between the Canada of to-day and the United States of a hundred years ago in the matters of total wealth and social revenue. Upon these points the Canada of to-day would undoubtedly show up with much the larger bundle."

The provinces of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan contain 380 millions of acres, of which only an inconsiderable section is settled.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

On Thursday Mr. Hanna found himself obliged to defend the policy of the Ontario Government in promoting immigration, and he denied that immigrants formed an inordinate proportion of the inmates of the jails. Yet, says the London Advertiser, he went through the country last autumn denouncing the Federal Government for encouraging immigration and charging that the asylums were being filled by the newcomers. The boot is on the other leg now.

INDIAN LIST MAN FINED TEN DOLLARS

John Donahue Appeared in Police Court This Morning—Was Drinking On Saturday.

John Donaghue was fined ten dollars at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty to having drunk intoxicating liquor on Saturday after having been placed on the "black list." He was posted in all the local hotels and liquor stores last July.

When asked in the witness box where he had got the whisky he said that he met an old friend whose name he did not know, but he had worked with him in the lumber camps. This friend had a flask and he gave the prisoner some of the contents.

The fine was payable forthwith or twenty days in gaol. He was obliged to go up on the hill.

Interesting Episode In Life Of H. S. Rowe, Circus Manager

Had Gone Broke When Young Man He Had Befriended Stood by Him With $150,000, Which Enabled Him to Pay All His Debts.

A MODERN ROMANCE.

The following highly interesting story relates to Mr. H. S. Rowe, who visited Peterborough several times with the Norris and Rowe circus:

Santa Cruz, Cal., March 20.—To have his property sold under the hammer; his creditors paid off on a basis of fifteen cents on the dollar; to be discharged in court a bankrupt, then to raise $150,000, and send checks in full to all creditors who had settled their claims on a 15 per cent. basis, all within a period of three months, is the extraordinary achievement of H. S. Rowe, proprietor of the great Norris & Rowe circus.

Who will say now that there are no honest men?

The story of the recent financial troubles of the Norris & Rowe circus, read more like a pretty piece of fiction than a transaction in business in this prosaic old world of ours.

The starting of Norris & Rowe's financial troubles dates back to the spring of 1906 when the great fire and earthquake that visited California caught the showmen in its meshes. Their daily expenses exceed $3,000 per day and they were playing to an average business of $150. Their losses in and around California were tremendous. When the big circus got north as far as Portland the effects of the earthquake were not noticeable, and the business of the show jumped to its always large proportions.

Along in the fall the circus made a tour of Mexico, and the bad luck they encountered early in the season returned, and as a result of the Mexican tour the finances of the firm were reduced to a pitiable extent. They managed to get out of the country, and were on their way home through Arizona when the floods took bridges away, and again the circus met the luck that reoccurred so often during the year. They were compelled to lay in Globe, Arizona, for thirteen days, and after they were able to get away they were compelled to cancel all of the dates that had been advertised and make a jump to Santa Cruz, California, the winter home of the show. When they got home they figured up their losses on the season and found them to be $97,000.

The show took the road again the following year and was only fairly successful. The following year the panic came on, and it seemed impossible for the showmen to strike their former successful pace.

Unable to meet their obligations they were forced into bankruptcy, their property sold under the hammer and the labour of years passed away and Norris & Rowe were practically penniless.

Now, here is where the pretty part of the story comes in. In the successful days, H. S. Rowe grub staked a friend of boyhood days to $2,000 and sent him to Alaska to seek his fortune. That was the last heard of Le Roy, or the two thousand dollars.

When the news of the bankruptcy proceedings were published through the land, Le Roy in his Alaska home read of his friend's trouble, and it occurred to him that a little balance was coming to Rowe out of the grub stake. He got pretty busy with the telegraph wire and as a result Rowe, who was considered down and out was made aware that $150,000 was his. Mr. Rowe immediately purchased his show back, and then he did an act that the angels in heaven have no doubt recorded. He made out checks in full payment of 100 cents on the dollar for all the creditors who had settled their claims against him on a 15 per cent. basis. Of course, according to law these bills were already paid and Rowe was free from obligations in any way, but he could not see it that way.

The Greater Norris & Rowe circus, with H. S. Rowe, sole owner and general manager, without owing any man a dollar will take the road in the spring.

This man Rowe deserves success, and he will no doubt meet with it.

Steamer "Otonabee" May Be Run On Lake Simcoe This Summer

It is understood that the Otonabee Navigation Company is considering the advisability of running the steamer "Otonabee" on Lake Simcoe this coming summer. However, the matter has not yet been definitely decided.

If such was the case the "Otonabee" would most likely be used as an excursion boat, going out from Orillia, Barrie, and Beaverton to points of interest on the lake. This steamboat service would no doubt be greatly appreciated by people in that vicinity. The Company's new steamers would then be used on the Otonabee and Rice Lake waters.

ALD. H. MORGAN MAKES REPLY

Answers "Fair Play's" Letter in Regard to Fire Brigade Matters.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice a letter in The Examiner signed "Fair Play," in which the writer takes exception to my motion at the last meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and states that I advocated the taking away of the $25.00 granted to Chief Howard by the C. P. R. If the writer had taken the trouble to find out the facts he would never have written that letter. The facts are that my motion was to the effect that the money received from the C. P. R. by Chief Howard should be paid into the City Treasurer to be held by him in a benefit fund for the Fire Brigade, and that the money should not be pocketed by the chief.

Your correspondent says that the payment was for services rendered by the Fire Chief at Owen Sound and also at Peterborough. That may be what was told the papers but it is not the fact. The money was sent to the chief for the benefit fund of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, in recognition of the Brigade's services at a fire on the C. P. R line and was not a gift to the chief personally for anything done by him, either here or at Owen Sound. I objected to the chief putting this money in his pocket and keeping it there till somebody made a holler. I could not have been very far wrong as the motion was seconded by Alderman Turner and supported by Alderman Buller, both of whom are members of the Chief's cabinet. I asked Alderman Turner if he had given any authority for the statement that he seconded the motion only to keep peace and he said he had not. If Fair Play would take the trouble to enquire into the facts he would find out that the only reason Chief Howard is retained at the head of the Brigade is that the majority of the Council are ashamed to admit the serious mistake which they made last year in appointing him.

Yours truly,
HARRY MORGAN.

AN "ENCORE" DEMANDED FOR "TRUE IRISH HEARTS"

Dear Sir, We spend large sums to educate our children and develop culture. We should recognize the success of our efforts in this direction, especially when it is so splendidly emphasized as was done by the excellent production of "True Irish Hearts," by local talent at the Opera House on March 17th. It reflected great credit on all who took part, and though there was a large attendance, many who could not be present would like to see this beautiful play and many, among whom I count myself, would like to see it again. I hope the promoters will see their way clear to repeat "True Irish Hearts" at an early date.

Yours truly,
KELT.

MISUNDERSTOOD CALL AND SENT IN AN ALARM

The fire brigade answered a false alarm to the corner of King and George Sts., on Saturday night. A number of young men were creating a disturbance in the Chinese restaurant and the proprietor of the cafe called up the police station and the police officer who answered, misunderstood the Chinaman, and thinking he was saying "fire! fire!" immediately sent in the alarm. The brigade quickly responded but on learning the cause of trouble returned to the fire hall.

MAY BE A CASE OF FOUL PLAY

Amherstburg Fireman's Body Found on Beach.

BLOODY IMPRINT ON DOOR

Strange Death of John Conway Is Attended by Signs That Point to More Than Accident — Body Is Marked by Severe Abrasions— Some Children Make Ghastly Discovery While Playing.

Windsor, March 23.—Some mystery attaches to the finding of the body of John Conway, 29 years old, of the Amherstburg fire department, on the river beach, just off the rear of Capt. John Menzie's property in Amherstburg, at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

There are some indications that Conway may have met his death through foul play.

The body had been in the water about twenty-four hours.

It was discovered by some children who were playing in the vicinity.

The body showed several severe abrasions. On the planking of a boathouse, not far from where Conway's remains lay, the police discovered bloodstains, and a bloody imprint on the handle of the door leading into the boathouse. Coroner Park has taken charge of the case but no inquest has been decided upon.

WOMAN HACKED TO PIECES.

Brutal Murder Takes Place at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 22.—A brutal murder took place at 8 o'clock last night, when Mrs. Anthony Perak, 50 years old, was literally hacked to pieces in her home at Buffalo avenue and Portage road.

The murderer, who is as yet unknown to the police, used a carving knife, a bread knife and an axe to accomplish his end.

The woman was stabbed several times in the back and abdomen, and her head was crushed in by a succession of terrible blows.

The work, the police believe, was that of a man insane from jealousy or mentally unbalanced from other causes. The husband, who was doubtless a witness of the assault upon his wife, is in a pitiable condition. He talks incoherently of the murder and seems on the verge of mental collapse.

Dr. Frank Jones, who had been summoned to the house by a passerby, attracted by the hysterical conduct of the husband in the ward, was first to reach the scene. The body was still warm when he arrived. He notified the police.

Eight men have been taken into custody, three of them boarders in the Perak home. The most tangible clue the police have to work upon is the imprint of a bloody hand on a panel of the kitchen door. This panel has been removed and Prof. Whipple of Buffalo, a finger print expert, has been summoned to make an examination of it.

Making Money While You Wait.

Toronto, March 22.—An alleged "green goods" game was broken up last night when Messrs. Shteren and his wife Malle, Austrians, were arrested by Detectives Wallace and Armstrong.

As there was no real counterfeiting apparatus discovered the couple were not slated on the docket as counterfeiters, but as plain vagrants.

A large egg-shaped, mysterious looking brass affair with a battery and some machinery in it was found among the effects, which, it is said, was represented to prospective victims as being capable of turning out brand new crisp bank notes of any amounts. The patrons of the syndicate were supposed to pay so much real money to receive probably twice as much phoney stuff that would baffle detection.

As far as can be learned, nobody has yet been stung in Toronto, but then the game was only introduced a couple of days ago.

Miss Thaw to Wed Marquis.

Rome, March 22.—Another international marriage is about to enliven Roman society. This time it is an American, Miss Thaw, daughter of Alexander B. Thaw of Pittsburg, who, together with his wife and daughter, has been spending the winter in Rome.

The happy man is the young Marquis Teodoli, member of one of the best known and oldest Roman aristocratic families.

Carrie Was Annoying.

New York, March 22.—Carrie Nation, who came across in the Baltic's second cabin, made things very disagreeable for a time, it was said yesterday, for her fellow passengers. They reported the facts to Captain Ransam, and for the rest of the voyage there was less trouble as the result of a talk the captain had with her.

Costive Dyspeptic, Bilious

Strong purgatives have killed many a good man. Costiveness is bad—violent cathartics are worse. If bothered with stomach trouble or biliousness, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire system is cleansed of wastes.

JUST TRY
Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Dr. Hamilton's Pills move the bowels gently, they tone the kidneys, assist digestion, clear the skin. For those subject to colds, biliousness, languor, there is no better medicine. Try a 25c box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

MOTHERS ATTENTION

Your Delicate Child May Be Restored To Health by Vinol—Read The Following Letter From a Canton, Ohio, Mother

"I wish I could induce every mother who has a weak, sickly child to try that delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol. Our little daughter was pale, thin and sickly. She had no appetite and no ambition.

"We tried various medicines, but without any benefit whatever, and she could not take cod liver oil or emulsions, as they nauseated her and upset her stomach.

"Learning that Vinol contains all the medicinal and strength-creating properties of cod-liver oil, but without the disagreeable oil, and tonic iron added, we decided to try it, and the results were marvellous. It gave her a hearty appetite; the color returned to her cheeks and she is stronger and in better health than she has been for years.

"I cannot say enough in favour of Vinol for weak, delicate children."—Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton, O.

There is nothing equal to Vinol for delicate, ailing children and feeble old people, to build up strength and restore a normal healthy condition. Those who try it and receive no benefit may have their money returned on demand—that's your guarantee. McDermid and Jury, Druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

GREAT STRIKE OVER.

French Civil Servants Are Anxious to Make Terms.

Paris, March 22.—The great strike of the employes of the Postoffice Department, which has practically isolated Paris and cut off France from communication with the outside world for the past week, collapsed yesterday. The strike committee decided to call off the employes and made the first move to effect a settlement, virtually suing for peace. The Government met the committee half way.

Yesterday afternoon representatives of the linemen called on M. Barthou, Minister of Public Works, ostensibly for the purpose of protesting against the charges that they had cut the wires, but they communicated the terms on which the allied associations collectively would resume work. These were, first, the resignation of M. Simyan, Under Secretary of Posts and Telegraphs; second, that no employe should be dismissed on account of the strike. They also desired the assurance that the delegates of the association hereafter should be permitted to lay their grievances directly before the Minister of Public Works.

M. Barthou said that the Government would not discuss the resignation of an official except with Parliament, but he practically gave the delegation the satisfaction they demanded on other points, explaining to them, however, that the Government had not yet exercised its right of dismissal.

Boy Still Missing.

Sharon, Pa., March 22.—Weary and worn showing in his face the terrible strain under which he has been for the last three days, J. P. Whitla, father of Willie Whitla, the kidnapped boy, returned yesterday morning from a fruitless trip to Cleveland.

The father refuses to sleep at all, and keeps up through sheer will power. Yesterday physicians gave orders that Mrs. Whitla be not allowed to see any visitors.

Hundreds of letters from all over the country continue to pour in from friends and strangers alike, tendering sympathy.

Whitla did leave $10,000 in Blatison Park, Ashtabula, Ohio, Saturday, night, as requested by an unknown writer, but the police heard of it and lay in wait. No one came.

Favor Giving Warships.

Melbourne, Australia, March 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The proposal to present a "Dreadnought" to the royal navy meets with warmest public approval. Several of the party leaders express themselves in favor of making an immediate offer.

The Sydney Herald urges definite action, declaring that should each oversea dominion offer one the moral effect would far exceed the intrinsic worth of the vessels.

The New Zealand Government has offered to defray the cost of a first-class battleship of the latest type. The money for this purpose will be forthcoming immediately, and, if necessary, funds will be raised for the construction of a second battleship.

Coulson Surrenders.

Winnipeg, March 22.—W. A. Coulson, former secretary of Western Canada Retail Merchants' Association, for whom a warrant was issued for embezzlement, walked into the office of the chief of provincial police on Saturday and gave himself up. He was released on $8,000 bail.

He denies the charge against him and threatens to sue the insurance committee of the Retailers for defamation of character.

Paderewski Is Disabled.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 22.—A sudden attack of acute rheumatism in his right arm and hand has so disabled Ignace Paderewski that he has been forced to cancel all his western engagements. To-day he is speeding towards New York in his private car to get expert medical attention.

Lumbermen's Confab Off.

Vancouver, B.C., March 22.—The proposed conference of lumber and saw-mill men with dealers of the prairie provinces, called for Calgary, April 15, has been indefinitely postponed on account of coast members being unable to attend.

Spineless Cactus for Sahara.

Paris, March 22.—Cretien Riedel of San Francisco is here interviewing Government officials in regard to an experiment with Luther Burbank's spineless cactus, which it is proposed to try in the Sahara desert.

Sermons by Mail.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 22.—Mail order gospel—Christianity carried broadcast by a two-cent stamp. Sounds odd, compared with the methods of the late Sam Jones, Dwight L. Moody and other great evangelists who relied largely upon personal magnetism as a means of securing converts. Yet this idea has been adopted seriously by Rev. Ward R. Clarke, pastor of the Unitarian Church of Oklahoma City.

Drinks Carbolic.

Toronto, March 22.—But twenty years of age and already tired of life, Charles H. Diefenthal, a young electrician, committed suicide in a quick lunch restaurant Saturday night by drinking carbolic acid. The young man had apparently deliberately planned to end his life, for in his pocket was found a note giving a reason for his action and asking that his father in Quebec should be notified of his death.

Accident In Mine.

London, Ont., March 22.—Thomas Dunkin, 144 Tecumseh avenue, received a telegram yesterday afternoon saying that a serious accident had occurred in a Cobalt mine, in which he is a partner, and asking him to proceed to Cobalt at once.

Mr Dunkin immediately left for Cobalt. The name of the mining property couldn't be ascertained.

Negro Woman's Plaint.

Frankfort, Ky., March 21.—Professing to have been humiliated by being forced to ride in the same compartment on a street car with white women, Carrie Conley, a negress, has sued the Central Kentucky Traction Co. for $3,000.

PREMIER NOT WELL.

Sir Wilfrid's Absence From House Causes Alarm.

Ottawa, March 22.—Some alarm is expressed in Government circles over the condition of Sir Wilfrid's health. He has not been in the House during the past week. The word was given out early in the week that the Prime Minister had a cold, but would be out the next day. Then when his continued absence from the precincts of Parliament began to excite comment it was whispered that he had tonsilitis; while during the past few days lumbago has been alleged as the cause of his confinement to the house.

Whatever may be the matter with Sir Wilfrid, some of his warmest friends and admirers are beginning to fear a recurrence of his old malady. He kept an appointment with Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Colin Campbell on Friday, but he was able only to open the conferences relating to the Boundaries Bill and ask the western delegates to return on Tuesday. He went home and did not appear in the House that afternoon.

When Sir Wilfrid's health two years ago temporarily failed there was apparently no organic trouble, but merely a weakness which necessitated a long rest. Since he recovered he has been giving more attention to his bodily needs, but he has been an indefatigable worker and it is feared that the strain of the past two years may have been too great. In all probability he will be forced to get away from Parliament and Ottawa for a prolonged visit to the seashore.

Osteopaths Win.

Harrisburg, March 22.—After a long battle the osteopaths have won state recognition. Governor Edwin S. Stuart has approved the bill providing for the establishment of a state board of osteopathic examiners. His approval of the measure came just a few minutes after a rumor had been circulated through the capitol that the legislation had been vetoed.

Immigration Figures.

Ottawa, March 22.—The total immigration into Canada for the eleven months of the present fiscal year was 130,444, as compared with 247,056 for the same period of last fiscal year, a decrease of 47 per cent.

The immigration for the month of February was 4,791, as compared with 6,164 for February of last year, a decrease of 22 per cent.

Sulphuric Acid Kills Five.

Evansville, Ind., March 22.—Five men were killed and a score injured in an explosion at the Sunnyside Coal Mines near this city.

The explosion was caused by a windy shot due to an overcharge of powder. The dead were all killed by sulphuric fumes, which followed the shot.

Banwell on Parole?

Kingston, March 22.—A report that Banwell, the former Crown Bank teller, is to be released from the balance of his four-year-term, was not confirmed or denied at the penitentiary.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles I can safely recommend it to all."

More Shots Were Fired In The Local Option Campaign Sunday Rally Held Yesterday

(Reported by the Editorial Committee of the Temperance and Moral Reform League.)

Two addresses in favour of Local Option were delivered Sunday afternoon at the temperance meeting held in the Crystal. "Some men," said Mr. J. O. Tisdall, of George street, "say that they may not vote for local option because it may increase their taxes. These men do not realize that if we had local option, the thousands of dollars that are now spent every year over the bars of Peterborough, would go to the wives of the men who now waste it in drink. It would then be spent in buying food and clothes, boots, etc., and thereby benefit almost all lines of industry, and in that way lighten our taxes by reducing the number of people we now have to keep in our goals."

"I have nothing to say against the hotel keepers," said Mr. Tisdall, "they are, for the most part, fine fellows. They are too fine, for they thus draw people into their nets where they are ruined. We sometimes hear hotel keepers say that they keep a respectable house and that they do not sell to drunkards. The trouble is, as the old Quaker pointed out, that they make the drunkards in the first place. The people of Peterborough who vote to have the Pliquor traffic licensed in the city are partakers in it and are part and parcel of it. They are as bad as those who sell liquor.

"The bulk of the people of Peterboro are professing Christians and if they will but put forth an effort they will be able to carry local option next January by an immense majority. It is difficult to understand how any professing Christians can fail to realize the responsibility that rests upon them to vote for local option. I came through a local option campaign some 15 years and I was a marked man. Christian men told me that they were sorry that they could not deal with me. The reason was because my store was across the way from two saloons, and they were afraid that they would be seen entering my store.

"Christians should not hesitate to vote for local option, even if it should increase their taxes. The stand we take on local option is one of right and wrong, and we should not allow a matter of dollars and cents to prevent us from doing our duty. Every Christian in Peterborough should come out and fight for local option. They should remember that they are fighting for the boys and girls of the city. During he weeks and months that are to intervene between now and the day the vote will be taken they should be talking it up, and when the vote is held they should record such an immense majority for local option that the liquor interests will never again think of raising the question again in the city."

Behind Other Palces

"Some people seem to think," said H. B. Cowan, "that it is too soon to take a vote on local option in Peterborough, that we should wait a few years longer. The fact is that we are behind other sections. In the nUited States there are whole states under prohibition. Where ten years ago only 6,000,000 people were living in sections free from liquor, there are now 28,000,000 people in the United States living in places from whjsch the bar has been banished. In Ontario we are behind some of the other provinces of Canada. In Prince Edward Island they have prohibition. In Nova Scotia liquor is sold in only about only two cities in the whole province. In Quebec over half the municipalities have banished the bar. The fight against the traffic being waged vigorously in every province in Canada.

"Next January the people of Peterborough will have a chance to do what people are doing all over the continent—banish the bar. The reason the temperance workers everywhere are so enthusiastic is because they know that they are fighting for the right. The liquor men are becoming thoroughly demoralized because there is not union in their own ranks. In Peterbotough some men who are engaged in the business have said that they intend to vote for local option because their experience with the trade has shown them that it works ruin. Every person in the city can help to carry local option in some way een if it is only by talking in favour of it on every possible occasion."

The chairman was Mr. George W. Powegll. It is expected that a speaker from outside the city will speak next Sunday afternoon.

Which Is The Better Method Of Securing A Market Clerk?

The City Council has decided to revert to the plan of selling the privilege of farming the market fees in substitution for the system that has prevailed the past year. Under this system the market brings in about $1,500. Deducting the salary of the market clerk—$700—there remains a clear net profit of $800. Under sale the market will probably bring $1,000. Now the question arises whether our merchants and business men will derive $200 of advantage from the change. The city collection of market tolls does not exact the last pound of flesh, and the result is a friendly feeling between farmers and the city. Under the lease plan the lessor as a matter of business is justified in collecting to the last penny and exactly the letter of his rights; and will not the farmers meet him in the same spirit and at the expense of purchasers of farm produce in the market?

ALD. G. A. GILLESPIE ENDORSES THE CITY'S $15,000 POWER BY-LAW

Peterborough, March 22. 1909.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Permit me to say a word in support of the $15,000 By-law to be submitted to the ratepayers on March 30th.

First I wish to say that the Council and the Water Commissioners are endeavouring to work together for the best interests of the City. The Commissioners are not at the present time taking any responsibility of the Power By-law, for the reason that they are only acting and responsible to the ratepayers as Water Commissioners. However, as soon as the City takes up the business of generating electricity for light or power purposes, the Water Commissioners become Power Commissioners as well.

At the combined meeting between the Commissioners and Power Committee, held for the purpose of discussing the submtting of a By-law for the proposed dam, the Power Committee after hearing the report of the Commissioners' Engineers, discussed the advisability of submitting the above By-law at the same time as the By-law for the dam, with the view of being able to save expense by letting the contract for dam and power house at the same time.

Should the By-law pass I would be in favour of placing the responsibility in the hand of the Commissioners at once, and let them get an estimate of the cost of the total development and delivery believing that they will be better able to do so than the Council, especially as they are to assume the management later. Should they find the cost of development too great, the money need not and cannot be used for any other purpose.

I would urge the ratepayers to vote for both By-laws, as I do not think it good business to have from 500 to 700 Horse Power go to waste flowing over the dam owned by the ratepayers, when it could be utilized for street lighting and other purposes.

In closing I would add that the Power Committee are also working on a larger Power Policy which they hope to complete to the satisfaction of the ratepayers, and to the best interests of the City.

G. A. GILLESPIE.

PALM ARRIVES AT CATHEDRAL

Will Be Used On Palm Sunday at The High Mass

Sunday, April 4th, is Palm Sunday and marks the beginning of Holy Week. In accordance with a Catholic custom a supply of palm has been received at St. Peter's Cathedral for distribution among the congregation. It was obtained from W. E. Blake, Toronto, and was probably grown in Florida or California, although formerly it was imported from the Eastern countries. It will be used at the high mass on Palm Sunday morning. It commemorates Christ's entry into Jerusalem, when the streets were strewn with palm, over which he rode.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

LARGE SALES OF MUSIC

Music dealers of the city report a very good business since the beginning of the year. To those acquainted with the trade it has been evident that there has been an awakening in this line of business, increased competition having had the desired effect of bringing down prices somewhat and consequently building up a brisker trade in music of all kinds. Advertisements are now frequently found announcing some new popular instrumental or vocal piece, a very rare occurrence in the past. The production of Cohan's "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," revived the interest ing the most popular selections from that musical comedy and it is reported that the sale of these in the city has been since very large.

GUMBLE'S NEW SONG

When you buy a copy of "I Wish I Had a Girl" for a bit of small change, take it home and sing it as if you were a millionaire. For why? Well, because it is a song that cost just $10,000—the price of a house and lot or of two high-class automobiles.

"There's a sentiment in 'I Wish I Had a Girl,'" said Mose Gumble, "that is worth considering. I know of nothing more pathetic than a young man who hasn't a sofa which is his very own for one evening a week in some nice girl's little parlour. And in that connection let me say that I myself was never in love till I began to get a little bald. Is that interesting?"

"Yes," said a bystander, "but not important."

"It is, or was, to me," sighed Gumble.

ENOUGH KISSES

Miss Amelia Rose, who has been appearing in the role of one of the kissers in F. Ziegfeld, Jr.'s, musical production, "The Soul Kiss," which is to be seen at the Opera House next week in Cleveland, has resigned, giving as her reason that she was extremely tired of being kissed.

According to the story of the play, an eccentric French sculptor has a desire to locate a kiss which is different from all others, and one that comes from the soul. In his search for the maiden who possesses such a rare gift, he approaches five girls, kissing each of them.

In some instances, in his anxiety to reach the soul, he devotes as much as two minutes to a continuous kiss. It befell Miss Rose to be kissed two minutes at each performance. She did it all last season, but this year she tired of it, declaring that there is nothing in kissing, particularly where it is necessary to smack the lips of the same individual so frequently.

"It soon becomes monotonous to kiss the same man every performance," she said, "especially when it is done for business reasons. I am now sick and tired of the job. I liked it at first, but now the kisses are tasteless."

Manager Ziegfeld has installed Miss May Emery in the principal kissing part and, judging from the way she portrays it, she apparently relishes her new work. Miss Rose, who is still with the organization, has been assigned the part of the model.

Young Italian Said To Be Unsound in Mind Remanded For A Week

Appeared in Court This Morning Charged With Theft of Tobacco and Other Things From G. T. R. Freight Shed—Has Been Acting Strangely of Late.

WILL BE EXAMINED.

Rocco Piucci, a young Italian, appeared before the magistrate at the police court this morning, charged with the theft of a caddy of tobacco, fourteen bars of soap, seven cans of peas and one box of grass seed from the G. T. R. freight shed on Saturday afternoon. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for him and pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution. Mr. Thos. Minicolo acted as court interpreter.

It was pointed out that the prisoner was apparently not in his right mind, judging from the peculiar manner in which he has been acting of late. His Worship said that when he saw the prisoner on Saturday night he had come to the conclusion, from the way he laughed and talked, that he was insane. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Gordon he was remanded for a week and the gaol surgeon will examine him as to his mental soundness.

Adam Frick, foreman of the G. T. R. freight shed, said that on Saturday he saw the prisoner holding a farmer's horse just outside the shed. He then sawh nim tying tags on some bags. Later the prisoner was apparently hiding behind some boxes. Witness went away and on coming back the Italian was working at a tobacco caddy. When the prisoner saw the foreman he jumped up and said, "are you the boss? I'll give you two dollars if you give me a job."

The caddy was opened and some tobacco taken. P. C.'s Newhall and McGinty soon came. It was found that fourteen bars of soap were missing from another case, which was afterwards at Renzetti's house on Charlotte St., where prisoner roomed. Two packages of grass seed were missed, one of which was found at Renzetti's.

Rasqule Piucci said that he seen his brother act peculiarly since last Monday. He would dance about the house and one day rang up minicolo's store and ordered a lot of goods. He had never seen him act like that before.

Other witnesses testified to his peculiar actions.

Alex. Sharpe Arrives In Peterborough One More Free

Alex Sharpe, who has been released from Kingston Penitentiary after serving eight years of a sentence of fifteen, arrived on Saturday in Peterborough, the city in which he was tried and from which he was taken to serve the term of years the law decreed. The first meal in eight years to be eaten outside of the "Pen." was that on Saturday evening which, was served to him at the New Oxford. Free again in those years of his life which are marking his decline. On Sunday evening he went to St. John's Church. More than eight long years have passed since he last was free to exercise that privilege. To-day he was noticed on the streets in company with acquaintances.

SIMPSON GOOD THOUGH BEATEN

Mail and Empire Says the Redskin Made a Good Showing After All.

The Mail and Empire says of Simpson:

It must not be thought that Fred Simpson proved a foeman unworthy of the Englishman. The Indian suffered from a cold during the week before the race, and it undoubtedly injured his chances. Simpson's ability to outlast his opponent has always stood him in good stead, but on Saturday the man who finished in all the 25-mile contests last summer much fresher than any of the other Marathon runners, showed signs of distress near the finish. Even at that, the Indian proved himself a man with whom good runners must reckon. He had plenty of ginger but lacked the speed of Shrubb and could not stay with him for long at a stretch. Each time the Englishman gained a lap and came abreast of his opponent Simpson made an effort to keep him from going in front again. Sometimes they stayed together for nearly a mile before Shrubb succeeded in breaking away, but he always did so in the end. It was after the sixth mile that the Canuck made his gamest struggle and at times even appeared to gain a little during a lap, but his opponent always responded immediately with a spurt and made up the lost ground, though it took him nearly four miles to gain the fourth lap.

After the tenth mile Simpson slowed up, partly because he had no chance of hauling down the lead of the winner, though during the last mile his way was continually blocked by spectators rushing on the track. Simpson's time indicates that he is too formidable an opponent for most runners. He went the ten miles in 56 minutes 57 seconds, which has not been beaten except by Shrubb and once by Dorando. He took over 14 minutes to go the last two miles, making his time at the finish 70 minutes 11 seconds, which is fast enough to win an ordinary race, and he might have done better if fighting for a victory. Judging from his showing compared to that of Dorando when he met Meadows, the Indian and the Italian would be evenly matched, and a race between them should prove a very exciting one. It must be remembered, however, that Fred Simpson is best at the Marathon distance.

BRITAIN VERY MUCH EXCITED

Anti-Militarist Writes Warning Letter to Times.

NATIONAL LIFE IN DANGER

Frederick Harrison Declares That Very Existence of Great Britain Is Threatened by Present State of Affairs—Many Lay Responsibility For Naval Economy Upon Admiral Sir John Fisher.

London, March 22.—"England's national existence may be in peril within less than a generation from the tremendous navy now being hurried on in Germany from the domineering ambition of the German chiefs' aspirations to increase the German race," writes Frederick Harrison, leader of the English positivists. "It is no question of loss of prestige, no question of the shrinkage of empire—it is our existence as the foremost European power, even as a thriving nation. How idle are fine words about retrenchment, peace and brotherhood while we lie open to the risk of unutterable ruin, to a deadly fight for national existence, to a war in its most destructive, most cruel form."

These are words not of a habitual scaremonger, but of a man who for forty years has been head of a school whose doctrines include the abolition of militarism. They are extracts from a two-column letter published in Thursday's Times by Mr. Harrison.

Mr. Harrison sees as between Germany and Britain "all elements of a contest quite natural in the ultimate solution of national destinies. With the normal growth of these mighty nations it may well come within an actual generation. It is an antagonism like that between Athens and Sparta, Rome and Carthage, Spain and Britain, Germany and France — one which seems to be independent of persons, even of the will of the peoples, to be borne on by the elemental springs of national destinies. It seems inevitable. Our supremacy at sea will be met by a determined challenge within a reasonable time.

"The German navy is not built for distant voyages," he says. "It is built to act as the spearhead of a magnificent army. This army, as we know, has been trained for a sudden transmarine descent on the coast, and every road as well as bridge and smithy in East England and Scotland has been declared in the German War Office. If ever our naval defence were broken hrough and the military occupation of our arsenals, docks, and capital effected, the ruin would be such as modern history cannot parallel. It would not be the Empire but Britain that would be destroyed.

"Is there an intelligence department at the Admiralty?" asked Bonar Law in Parliament on Thursday with much the same scorn as was used in reference to the British military intelligence department after its incapacity had been shown up during the early stages of the Boer war. Others go farther and lay the responsibility of the situation now developed before Admiral John Fisher.

"Thou art the man," was a black head-line in one paper which, not content with the indictment of the first sea lord in prose, called in the services of a poet, who concluded several hotly denunciatory stanzas with the following:

What shall be said of those who said:
"Sleep soundly Britain in your bed."
With danger looming?
What shall be told of those whose hand
Thus lightly would their native land
To death be dooming?

Sir John Fisher's retirement from the Admiralty is called for clamorously by that section of the press which espoused Beresford in the quarrel.

"It repeatedly has been suggested by the admirals," says one caustic commentator, "that Fisher should be rewarded with a peerage for his services to the country. Agree to give him two peerages, but retire him from the Admiralty."

There is little likelihood of this idea being carried out at present. Fisher will stand or fall with the Government, which, as one of its most friendly critics says, has "been cutting down naval expenditure in order to find money for semi-socialistic experiments."

It is as easy to draw back a stone thrown with force from the hand as to recall a word once spoken.—Menander.

Woman Leaps From Window.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 22.—Mrs. William Ferguson, 33 years old, of Owen Sound, Ont., leaped from a window on the third floor of a rooming-house in Washington street here yesterday.

The police say she had been enticed to a room by a man who had promised her liquor. Mrs. Ferguson had some words with the man and then rushed to the window and threw herself to the pavement, 30 feets below. Both of her legs were broken and her spine was hurt. She may not recover.

Mrs. Ferguson's husband and two children live in Owen Sound. Her father, John C. Wright, living near Owen Sound, is reported to be a well-to-do farmer.

Arthur Barker, 52 years old, from whose room she escaped by jumping, is under arrest. He is held on an open charge.

Coal Company Makes Offer.

Montreal, March 22.—It now transpires that the Dominion Coal Co. has offered to pay the Steel Co. $2,500,000 on account of damages and allow the balance to stand until the accounts are adjusted between the two companies.

It remains to be seen whether the Steel Co. will insist on appropriating this amount to the payment to special items of its claims.

The Coal Co. is ready to pay over the cash, but it insists upon reserving the right to dispute any items of the Steel Co.'s claim which it may on examination discover to be invalid.

Last Trailer Burned.

Chicago, March 22.—The quick-step and the dead march mingled in a weird and curious medley at the obsequies of "the last of the trailers" on Friday night. After almost a third of a century of continuous service (so-called) No. 75 made the last trip that a trailer is destined to make on the lines of the Chicago Railway Co. and was forced, bucking and hurdling rails to the blast, to a fiery end in a "bonfire."

Blown From Cannon.

Peshawor, British India, March 22.—It is reported that twelve hundred arrests have been made at Jelialabad, Afghanistan, in connection with the plot recently discovered to murder the Ameer, the heir apparent, and the others members of the royal family.

According to advices batches of prisoners are being blown from guns daily.

A Big Consolidation.

AFTER FORESTS ON THE COAST

Cut in the U. S. Tariff Part of Scheme Says Paper.

MAGNATES BUSY LOBBYING

Satisfied That They Have Secured Sufficient Concession In Cutting the Duty In Half Big Operators Are Now Reinforcing Grip on Big Canadian Forests, Declares The American Lumberman.

Washington, March 22.—The American Lumberman declares that having succeeded in getting a reduction of fifty per cent. in the lumber schedule in the Payne Bill American owners of Canadian timber have temporarily transferred their activities from Washington to Victoria, B.C.

The same paper asserts that members of the ways and means committee have been informed that some of those who advocated free lumber before that committee are now at work on members of the Provincial Parliament at Victoria to have present leases, which now run twenty-one years, made perpetual.

It is said that there is an organization composed almost entirely of citizens of the United States and that an investment of a quarter of a million dollars will be made for the purpose of getting more complete control of the Canadian forests.

This organization, it is further said, will enter Canadian politics on a large scale, and it is declared that both parties are seeking its favor.

Although it did not succeed in getting lumber on the free list, the cutting of the rates in half is considered advantage enough the double the value of their holdings and to warrant the exploitation of a Canadian lumber holding company.

Marriage Costs Money.

Windsor, March 22.—Because he contracted a second marriage, Harry A. Bradley, well-known Windsor jeweler, must pay to his sister, Susan Bradley, $1,530, by order of Judge McHugh, in the decision he gave on Saturday in the case of Bradley v. Bradley.

Miss Bradley succeeded in convincing the court that when she left a dressmaking business in Toronto immediately after the death of the first Mrs. Bradley, 13 years ago, and came to Windsor to look after her brother's home and children, she did so on the understanding that she was to have a home for life. When he married again, a little over a year ago, she claimed the agreement was broken.

The award was for wages for six years at $5 a week, no allowance being made for some $700 that she voluntarily expended during her care of the house.

War Pictured In Clouds.

Heidelberg, Germany, March 22.—A terrifying phenomenon in the heavens recently alarmed the superstitious villagers of Dorsebach and Oberunzbach.

In the clouds, just before 10 o'clock in the forenoon, there appeared a bright red streak on which could be plainly seen a landscape, with fields, streams and woods, among which two bodies of troops in battle formation were advancing towards each other, firing volleys. The puffs of smoke were clearly visible.

Half an hour later the picture suddenly disappeared, but the excitement and fear aroused among the villagers lasted until next morning, when the explanation appeared in the newspapers of the district that a sham fight had been held by the garrison of Morgenthaim, some twenty miles distant, and had been mirraged on the clouds.

Foster Sues Shaw.

Toronto, March 22.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster's statement of claim against W. H. Shaw has been filed for $10,000.

Mr. Foster charges that Mr. Shaw, at a public meeting in Cumberland Hall, did "falsely and maliciously speak and publish the following words concerning the plaintiff: "What commission did you get for promoting a deal in stocks and bonds of the Windsor, Essex & Lake Shore Railway, using I.O.F. funds?'"

Mr. Foster says that Mr. Shaw "maliciously published and circulated, shortly before the Dominion elections, an undated pamphlet." Mr. Foster quotes certain words, interprets them as reflecting on Mr. Foster as an official of the Union Trust Co

NO WOMAN

CAN BE STRONG AND HEALTHY UNLESS THE KIDNEYS ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. Those who have never been troubled with kiuney trouble know not the misery and suffering which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by young and old.

Let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others, that is, cure you.

Mrs. M. Bryanton, Spring Valley, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. They were so bad at times I could not cross the floor for the pain. I tried a doctor but he did me no good at all. I sent to my nearest druggist and got four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I have had no more trouble for nearly three years now."

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

INDIAN RAN AS IF HE WAS GOING 25 MILES INSTEAD OF ONLY 12 SAYS EXPERT OF THE RACE

(Written especially for The Examiner by a member of the Canadian Olympic team.)

About four thousand people were present when Shrubb came out at 8.40 for a fast spin of five laps, followed by Simpson, both getting fine receptions. Between times Tom Longboat was introduced to the crowd. He challenged the winner at fifteen miles. Needless to say Tom received a great reception.

General Cotter started the race at 9 o'clock. Shrubb drew the pole. He started out at about a five-minute clip and gained about twenty yards in the first lap. At a mile he was three-quarters of a lap ahead; at one-quarter mile Shrubb lapped Simpson. Shrubb was contented for a time and took Simpson's pace for a few laps. He then went to the front again and gained another lap at 2 miles and 7 laps.

Simpson still kept up the same steady pace as though he was running 25 miles instead of only 12, making no effort to hold Shrubb at any stage.

After going 6 miles and 2 laps, Shrubb lapped Simpson for the third time. It was wonderful to see the ease and judgment with which Shrubb was gaining the laps without any apparent effort. It was a treat to watch him.

At 9 miles and 7 laps Shrubb lapped Simpson again for the fourth time. At this stage Simpson woke up to the fact he was in a race and tried to reduce the lead, the only time during the whole period, but it only lasted for about 2 laps. It was clearly demonstrated that Simpson was outclassed. The latter part of the race needs no further comment. Shrubb won easily, finishing with a terrible burst of speed amidst great enthusiasm 6¼ laps ahead.

Shrubb's time, 1 hour, 6 minutes, 33 seconds.

Simpson's time, 1 hour, 10 minutes, 17 seconds.

Race by Miles.

Shrubb—1 mile, 4.49 4-5; 2 miles, 10.12 2-5; 3 miles, 15.31; 4 miles, 21 3-5; 5 miles, 26.33 1-5; 6 miles, 32.5 1-5; 7 miles, 37.46 4-5; 8 miles 43.34 1-5; 9 miles, 49.18; 10 miles, 55.26; 11 miles, 61.5 1-5; 12 miles, 66.33.

Simpson—1 mile, 5.11; 2 miles, 10.45; 3 miles, 16.25; 4 miles, 22.8; 5 miles, 27-54; 6 miles, 33.49; 7 miles, 39.34 1-5; 8 miles, 45.32; 9 miles, 51 43 1-5; 1 miles, 56.57; 11 miles, 64.16; 12 miles, 70.17.

ALFRED SHRUBB, The English Champion.

Notes.

Tom Longboat is in a cheerful mood over the result. He declares he could beat Simpson a mile in ten.

Shrubb finished strong and good. Simpson was all in.

All experts are saying, "I told you so. Cut out that Riverdale trial and Tom Eck boosted Simpson for this gate.

By the times shown it is very easily understood that Simpson is no better to-day than he was a year ago and it is a question if he is as good.

There are at least two men in Peterborough who could give Simpson all he wants at 12 miles on Saturday night's showing.

SIMPSON A DISAPPOINTMENT HOW THE NEWS OF HIS DEFEAT WAS HEARD IN PETERBOROUGH

Frankly the showing made by Fred Simpson in his race with Alf Shrubb on Saturday night was very disappointing to his many Peterborough friends. Not that he was expected to beat Shrubb, for very few thought that he would be able to trim the little Britisher at his own distance, but that it was thought that he would have chased the agile Alfie much harder than he would seem to have done. A ding dong race was looked for with Simpson pushing Shrubb so hard that records would go by the boards.

Peterborough people were quite prepared to hear that he had been beaten but not by such a margin, and in what is undoubtedly slow time. In view of the record run made by Simpson a few weeks ago, his performance Saturday night is very hard to understand. In his trial run he did ten miles in 52.30, breaking all the Canadian records for the distance both indoors and outdoors, and yet on Saturday night we find Shrubb nearly half a mile ahead at ten miles in 55 mins., 40 secs., just three minutes slower than Simpson galloped his record breaking jaunt. Shrubb finished up his twelve miles in 106.33, a good performance, and yet nearly four minutes and one half behind the world's pro. record which is 1.02.02: 1-2, made by the famous Deerfoot.

Taking due allowance for the fact that Shrubb was at his best distance, and that Simpson is really a Marathon runner, yet it must be confessed that he Mississauga was expected to do better than finish over half a mile behind the Britisher in such comparatively slow time as 1.06. Shrubb himself expected to beat 1.03 Saturday night but he was able to win hands down in three minutes slower time. Simpson went out of his class to meet Shrubb at his own distance, something that Tom Longboat is afraid to do, and he will do much better at a longer distance. It is understood that Shrubb has promised him another race at 20 miles, and if he gets it Fred will undoubtedly give the crack from over seas a much harder battle than he did on Saturday night.

No race for some time has stirred Peterborough people to such a degree of excitement as did Saturday night's contest. Hundreds of people gathered at the Examiner office to hear the returns by a means of the special bulletin service arranged, and at the other places where the figures were being received there were the same crowds. When the first bulletins showed that Shrubb was beginning to leave the Indian, there was some disappointment but it was thought that Simpson would improve his position as the race went on, and this opinion was strengthened when word came that he had gained half a lap on the Englishman. Later bulletins, however, showed that the Indian had not only lost that distance but another lap as well, and his defeat was conceded by the crowd. Every report that followed showed an increase in Shrubb's lead, and the disappointment of the crowd was shown by the comparative silence in which the returns were received. There was quite a coterie of Shrubb's fellow countrymen on hand, and they were the only happy people in the crowd.

The interest shown in the race was evidenced by the number of telephone calls to the Examiner office. From 9 o'clock on the three phones in the office were rarely silent.

"How about the race?" was the meaning if not the exact words of every inquiry, and generally the answer that Shrubb was leading was received with nothing more than a disappointed "Oh!"

On one occasion, however, the reply that floated back over the phone left no doubt as to the nationality of the man at the other end of the line.

"How abaht the race?" was the query.

"Shrubb is ahead by four and a half laps at the end of the tenth mile," replied the Examiner man.

"Gorday," came back over the line, "Halfie must be lettin' 'im have a little bit of is game to-night—"

The newspaperman rang off in a hurry.

ALLEY RECORD FOR THREE GAMES BROKEN AND TWENTY NINE MORE 200 SCORES HUNG UP DURING THE WEEK

Last week was another notable one at the P.B.C. alleys, and some remarkable feats were pulled off, the most noteworthy being the breaking of the alley record for three consecutive games by W. McIlroy, of the Pacifics. The former mark, was 661, held by a commercial traveller who wandered into the alleys some time ago and hung up the score which remained as the high water mark ever since until Saturday, when McIlroy came along with his great performance, putting up a score of 663, two pins above the previous record. His scores were 225 190 and 248. He was in great fettle and mowed the pins down for fair when he got started, giving one of the best performances that has been seen on the alleys since they opened.

Incidentally in getting 248 in his last game, he equalled Harvey Staunton's score made on Thursday night, and the two will have to roll off this week for the box of cigars. Staunton's score looked good enough to carry off the smokes until McIlroy came along with his big effort.

The Iroquois were loth to let the Bostons get away from them, and on Saturday night Herb Martin came pretty near annexing the cigars. He started off with six strikes, but blew an easy spare and ended up with 242 after having had an excellent chance, not only to win the cigars, but also break the alley record of 264.

Surprises were the features of the League games played during the week. In every case the team which lost the series was defeated by a trio below them in the standing. The first surprise happened along when the Lock Works slipped two games over on the Examiner A. The newspapermen figured on winning all three and thereby helping themselves to a good lead, but the Lock Works combination succeeded in getting away with two thirds of the games, and as a result the Pacifics once more shot to the front and they seemed destined to be not far away from there when the final games are played.

The Belmonts and B.A.C. furnished another surprise. The Belmonts had been coming along at a great clip and were counting on three from the alphabet team to put them up with the leaders. The trio of Scotsmen on the B.A.C. however managed to land the big end of the series, taking the last two games after the best team rolling of the week.

The toboggan slide seems to be pretty well greased for the Examiner Bs, and the Grays put a little slippery elm on the trail last Tuesday night when they got away with three games in a row from the junior newspapermen. The game was far from being a classy exhibition. Several games had to be postponed during the week on account of other attractions, so that this week's bill will be a lengthy one. One of the most interesting features will be the postponed game between the Iroquois and Bankers. With Martin, Sutherland and Gutterson all endeavouring to see who can get the most two hundred scores, it looks as if the men of money were going to have some trouble in heading off the Redskins. However, as the poet says, "You can't sometimes generally always tell," and the Financiers might take the scalps of the Indians in easy fashion. The proof of the game is in the rolling.

By the way, the game of the season will be played to-morrow night, when the Grits and Tories meet in a death struggle with five men aside to battle for honour and an oyster supper, the total pinnage to count. Three games will be played, and it is a safe bet that there will be more excitement than at a suffragettes' convention. Herb Martin, Geo. Sutherland, George Cairns, Graham Ferguson and R. M. Glover will be the Liberal standard bearers, while the Tories are keeping their line-up as dark as some of the deeds of the Whitney government. However, it is stated that the Conservatives will have a hand picked five that will take some beating. Both whips report that the prospects are bright and claim a sweeping majority for their party. Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir James Whitney have been approached as to the possibility of their opening the game by rolling a bowl down the alleys, but it is feared that the claims of state will prohibit their being present. The public is invited to be present for this match and there are plenty of seats in the gallery and along the alleys for the benefit of the crowd. It will be a game well worth seeing, as ten of the best bowlers in the city will be in the contest.

During the week there was another big bunch of 200 scores hung up and they are getting so that now when a man doesn't get 200 he is sore at himself. Time was when a bowler who got 200 in Peterborough was considered a hero, now he calls himself a "dub" if he doesn't make that much every other game. Martin, Sutherland, and Cairns had a carnival of high scoring last week, getting nineteen 200 scores between them. Martin was high with seven, while the other pair got six each. In all there were 29 scores over the two century mark, making sixty in the past two weeks, an average of five per day, which is going some as Willie said when his grandmother fell down three flights of stairs.

Following is the honour roll for the week:—

Martin — 221, 231, 203, 209, 242, 246, 211.
Cairns — 216, 207, 215, 226, 225, 209.
Sutherland — 221, 231, 203, 203, 242, 226.
McIlroy — 225, 248.
Staunton — 212, 248.
Clancy — 237, 202.
Gutterson — 209, 212.
McRae — 203.
N. Perry — 209.

Schedule for Week

Monday — Belmonts vs. Exam B.
Tuesday — Exam A vs. Grays.
Wednesday—Iroquois vs. Lock Works.
Thursday — Pacifics vs. B.A.C.

LINDSAY COLLEGIATE TRIMMED LOCAL STUDENTS BY SCORE 6 TO 4

For the second time this season the team representing the Peterborough Collegiate Institute had on Saturday afternoon to strike their colours to the Lindsay Collegiate Institute seven in a lively game of hockey at Brock street rink. The score was 6-4 at full time and 2-1 at the half, in favour of the team from the 1909 summer home of the Intermediate O. H. A. champions. There was little to choose between the two teams but Lindsay had all of that little, owing to the fact that they played combination, and that they paid more attention to the puck than they did to the man. The local students were weakened by the absence of Crane from the forward line, their combination being full of holes as a result, and the same time they suffered because they seemed inclined to wood up all the way.

About thirty students accompanied the Lindsay team and as the local pupils turned out en masse to root for the two teams, things were lively throughout. The ice was in good shape and it was a pretty fast exhibition of hockey that the two good little teams dished out. It was rush after rush, defences as well as forward lines carrying the rubber and there were few dull moments.

The Lindsay team is an aggregation of classy performers and they are the makings of a splendid team, although there would not be much left of them if Mr. Spratt concluded to take his family away from Lindsay. Those three Spratts on the forward line come pretty close to being the whole Lindsay team. Pete, at centre, is the star, but they are all three good, with great bursts of speed and clever stickhandling, while they work in well together. The defence, outside of Greer in goal, was only fair, but the back checking of the Spratts covered up the weakness of the back division.

For the losers the defence was especially good; Meldrum, in goal, stopped many hot shots and cleared nicely, while Wallis and Denison checked splendidly and rushed repeatedly with considerable effect. In fact had it not been for the aggressive work of their defence the Collegiate would have been beaten by a large score. The forward line failed to show the combination that is usually a feature of their work and bunched too much to be effective, although individually all four did good work.

It was an interesting struggle, fast all the way, and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed the battle.

The Lindsay team had considerable the better of the first half, although they only scored two goals to the Collegiate's one. The first two goals went to Lindsay and then Dennison scored on a pretty rush and neat shot from the side.

Twice the Peterborough team tied the score in the second half, but the visitors seemed to be in better condition and finished up two goals to the good.

The teams were as follows:
Peterborough—Goal, Meldrum; point, Denison; cover point, Wallis; rover, Fortye; centre, Geale; right wing, Conroy; left wing, Matthews.
Lindsay—Goal, Greer; point, Wilson; cover, Beecroft; rover, J. Spratt; centre, P. Spratt; right wing, D. Spratt; left wing, Spence.
Referee, F. D. Craig.

A BASEBALL FAN ARGUES IN FAVOUR OF A HOME BREW TEAM

Sporting Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I noticed in Saturday's edition that some Toronto man, by name of Flanagan, had completed arrangements for a semi-professional baseball league in Ontario, and that Peterborough is one of the prospective towns. It seems to me that this announcement is one of the many athletic "wild cats" that so frequently find space in a newspaper, or that the promoter is making a step without looking over the ground. It a semi-professional club is formed in this city, it will mean that the members of the same will be imported players. As the other prospective towns are somewhat removed from here, the matter of financing a club would be next to impossible. And if the club did even pay expenses, it would mean that Peterborough fans, instead of bestowing their patronage on the local clubs and encouraging true sport, would be supporting an alien organization who have no claim to either the money or sympathy of local sport lovers. While I may be mistaken in regard to the exact plans of the so-called promoter, this much I do know: "If a semi-professional club is supported in this city the local youngsters (and Peterborough has a few of them) will have very poor encouragement to learn and play the game, with a decent object in view. We have only to look at the past records of our good home-brews, and the disappointing results obtained when players were imported to represent this city, to arrive at a conclusion. Peterborough has never benefitted, in an athletic sense, except when the city was represented by strict locals. The confidence of our patrons of sport has been shattered when the preference was given to rank outsiders.

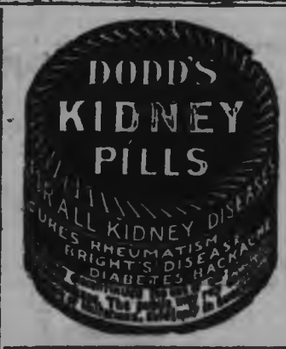
This season's hockey team, the Intermediates, were well supported because we were represented by a local septette. The Lindsay press gave us a hard dig last week when they referred to the Toronto City League idea, by which Peterborough was to have a team in that league. They stated that it would be quite convenient, as the Peterborough players could live in Toronto. We know what this means, and the dig was coming to us.

"The only restriction is that all players must be Canadian born," quoth Mr. Flanagan. Will it not be amusing to see his umps reading out the names of players from certificates and then indulging in additional formality of demanding baptismal or other certificates testifying to places of birth. If that occurred here how many players would reply to Peterborough as their place of birth.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am

Yours truly,

"FAN."



TIGERS BEAT THE MAPLE LEAFS

Won An Interesting Game Of Basket Ball By 35 Points to 25, Saturday Night

An interesting game was played in the Saturday night basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night when the Tigers defeated the Maple Leafs by a score of 35-25. The half-time score was 17-12, in favour of the winners. At the commencement it looked like a runaway game for the Tigers, but the Leafs tallied after the first few minutes and made things interesting. Some good ball was played and the game was well worth seeing. Following were the teams:

Maple Leafs — Forwards, Martin, Kern; centre, Wallace; backs, Dobbin, Lees.

Tigers—Forwards, Staunton, Downing; centre, Sutherland; backs, Laing and Loomis.

Twelve of the contingent of Canadian curlers arrived at St. John's, N. B., on the steamship "Empress of Britain" on Saturday. Among them was Mr. R. M. To aan Examiner eporter he said that the voyage over was a very rough one and they were delayed several days.

Mr. Waddell visited in Scotland only, spending most of his time in Glasgow. He was very enthusiastic over the reception the Canadian curlers received. The games were played in th artificial ice rink at Crossingtool in Glasgow, and the Canadians won most of them.

Mr. Waddell, as all the Canadian Curles did, had a very enjoyable time.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

INDIAN RAN AS IF HE WAS GOING 25 MILES INSTEAD OF ONLY 12 SAYS EXPERT OF THE RACE

(Written especially for The Examiner by a member of the Canadian Olympic team.)

About four thousand people were present when Shrubb came out at 8.40 for a fast spin of five laps, followed by Simpson, both getting fine receptions. Between times Tom Longboat was introduced to the crowd. He challenged the winner at fifteen miles. Needless to say Tom received a great reception.

General Cotter started the race at 9 o'clock. Shrubb drew the pole. He started out at about a five-minute clip and gained about twenty yards in the first lap. At a mile he was three-quarters of a lap ahead; at one-quarter mile Shrubb lapped Simpson. Shrubb was contented for a time and took Simpson's pace for a few laps. He then went to the front again and gained another lap at 2 miles and 7 laps.

Simpson still kept up the same steady pace as though he was running 25 miles instead of only 12, making no effort to hold Shrubb at any stage.

After going 6 miles and 2 laps, Shrubb lapped Simpson for the third time. It was wonderful to see the ease and judgment with which Shrubb was gaining the laps without any apparent effort. It was a treat to watch him.

At 9 miles and 7 laps Shrubb lapped Simpson again for the fourth time. At this stage Simpson woke up to the fact he was in a race and tried to reduce the lead, the only time during the whole period, but it only lasted for about 2 laps. It was clearly demonstrated that Simpson was outclassed. The latter part of the race needs no further comment. Shrubb won easily, finishing with a terrible burst of speed amidst great enthusiasm 6½ laps ahead.

Shrubb's time, 1 hour, 6 minutes, 33 seconds.

Simpson's time, 1 hour, 10 minutes, 17 seconds.

Race by Miles.

Shrubb—1 mile, 4.49 4-5; 2 miles, 10.12 2-5; 3 miles, 15.31; 4 miles, 21 3-5; 5 miles, 26.33 1-5; 6 miles, 32.5 1-5; 7 miles, 37.46 4-5; 8 miles 43.34 1-5; 9 miles, 49.18; 10 miles, 55.26; 11 miles, 61.5 1-5; 12 miles, 66.33.

Simpson—1 mile, 5.11; 2 miles, 10.45; 3 miles, 16.25; 4 miles, 22.8; 5 miles, 27.54; 6 miles, 33.49; 7 miles, 39.34 1-5; 8 miles, 45.32; 9 miles, 51 43 1-5; 1 miles, 56.57; 11 miles, 64.16; 12 miles, 70.17.

ALFRED SHRUBB, The English Champion.

Notes.

Tom Longboat is in a cheerful mood over the result. He declares he could beat Simpson a mile in ten.

Shrubb finished strong and good. Simpson was all in.

All experts are saying, "I told you so. Cut out that Riverdale trial and Tom Eck boosted Simpson for this gate.

By the times shown it is very easily understood that Simpson is no better to-day than he was a year ago and it is a question if he is as good.

There are at least two men in Peterborough who could give Simpson all he wants at 12 miles on Saturday night's showing.

SIMPSON A DISAPPOINTMENT HOW THE NEWS OF HIS DEFEAT WAS HEARD IN PETERBOROUGH

Frankly the showing made by Fred Simpson in his race with Alf Shrubb on Saturday night was very disappointing to his many Peterborough friends. Not that he was expected to beat Shrubb, for very few thought that he would be able to trim the little Britisher at his own distance, but that it was thought that he would have chased the agile Alfie much harder than he would seem to have done. A ding dong race was looked for with Simpson pushing Shrubb so hard that records would go by the boards.

Peterborough people were quite prepared to hear that he had been beaten but not by such a margin, and in what is undoubtedly slow time. In view of the record run made by Simpson a few weeks ago, his performance Saturday night is very hard to understand. In his trial run he did ten miles in 52.30, breaking all the Canadian records fo the distance both indoors and outdoors, and yet on Saturday night we find Shrubb nearly half a mile ahead at ten miles in 55 mins., 30 secs., just three minutes slower than Simpson galloped his record breaking jaunt. Shrubb finished up his twelve miles in 106.33, a good performance, and yet nearly four minutes and one half behind the world's pro. record which is 1.02.02 1-2, made b the famous Deerfoot.,

Making due allowance for the fact that Shrubb was at his best distance, and that Simpson is really a Marathon runner, yet it must be confessed that he Mississauga was expected to do better than finish over half a mile behind the Britisher in such comparatively slow time as 1.06. Shrubb himself expected to beat 1.03 Saturday night but he was able to win hands down in three minutes slower time. Simpson went out of his class to meet Shrubb at his own distance, something that Tom Longboat is afraid to do, and he will do much better at a longer distance. It is understood that Shrubb has promised him another race at 20 miles, and if he gets it Fred will undoubtedly give the crack from over seas a much harder battle than he did on Saturday night.

No race for some time has stirred Peterborough people to such a degree of excitement as did Saturday night's contest. Hundreds of people gathered at the Examiner office to hear the returns by a means of the special bulletin service arranged, and at the other places where the figures were being received there were the same crowds. When the first bulletins showed that Shrubb was beginning to leave the Indian, there was some disappointment but it was thought that Simpson would improve his position as the race went on, and this opinion was strengthened when word came that he had gained half a lap on the Englishman. Later bulletins, however, showed that the Indian had not only lost that distance but another lap as well, and his defeat was conceded by the crowd. Every report that followed showed an increase in Shrubb's lead, and the disappointment of the crowd was shown by the comparative silence in which the returns were received. There was quite a coterie of Shrubb's fellow countrymen on hand, and they were the only happy people in the crowd.

The interest shown in the race was evidenced by the number of telephone calls to the Examiner office. From 9 o'clock on the three phones in the office were rarely silent.

"How about the race?" was the meaning if not the exact words of every inquiry, and generally the answer that Shrubb was leading was received with nothing more than a disappointed "Oh!"

On one occasion, however, the reply that floated back over the phone left no doubt as to the nationality of the man at the other end of the line.

"How abaht the race?" was the query.

"Shrubb is ahead by four and a half laps at the end of the tenth mile," replied the Examiner man.

"Orlay," came back over the line, "Halfie must be lettin' 'im have a little bit of is game to-night—"

The newspaperman rang off in a hurry.

ALLEY RECORD FOR THREE GAMES BROKEN AND TWENTY NINE MORE 200 SCORES HUNG UP DURING THE WEEK

Last week was another notable one at the P.B.C. alleys, and some remarkable feats were pulled off, the most noteworthy being the breaking of the alley record for three consecutive games by W. McIlroy, of the Pacifics. The former mark was 661, held by a commercial traveller who wandered into the alleys some time ago and hung up the score which remained as the high water mark ever since until Saturday, when McIlroy came along with his great performance, putting in a score of 663, two pins above the previous record. His scores were 225, 190 and 248. He was in great fettle and mowed the pins down for fair when he got started, giving one of the best performances that has been seen on the alleys since they opened.

Incidentally in getting 248 in his last game, he equalled Harvey Staunton's score made on Thursday night, and the two will have to roll off this week for the box of cigars. Staunton's score looked good enough to carry off the smokes until McIlroy came along with his big effort.

The Iroquois were loth to let the Bostons get away from them, and on Saturday night Herb Martin came pretty near annexing the cigars. He started off with six strikes, but blew an easy spare and ended up with 242 after having had an excellent chance, not only to win the cigars, but also break the alley record of 264.

Surprises were the features of the League games played during the week. In every case the team which lost the series was defeated by a trio below them in the standing. The first surprise happened along when the Lock Works slipped two games over on the Examiner A. The newspapermen figured on winning all three and thereby helping themselves to a good lead, but the Lock Works combination succeeded in getting away with two-thirds of the games, and as a result the Pacifics once more shot to the front and they seemed destined to be not far away from there when the final games are played.

The Belmonts and B.A.C. furnished another surprise. The Belmonts had been coming along at a great clip and were counting on three from the alphabet team to put them up with the leaders. The trio of Scotsmen on the B.A.C. however managed to land the big end of the series, taking the last two games after the best team rolling of the week.

The toboggan slide seems to be pretty well greased for the Examiner Bs, and the Grays put a little slippery elm on the trail last Tuesday night when they got away with three games in a row from the junior newspapermen. The game was far from being a classy exhibition. Several games had to be postponed during the week on account of other attractions, so that this week's bill will be a lengthy one. One of the most interesting features will be the postponed game between the Iroquois and Bankers. With Martin, Sutherland and Gutterson all endeavouring to see who can get the most two hundred scores, it looks as if the men of money were going to have some trouble in heading off the Redskins. However, as the poet says, "You can't sometimes generally always tell," and the Financiers might take the scalps of the Indians in easy fashion. The proof of the game is in the rolling.

By the way, the game of the season will be played to-morrow night, when the Grits and Tories meet in a death struggle with five men aside to battle for honour and an oyster supper, the total pinnage to count. Three games will be played, and it is a safe bet that there will be more excitement than at a suffragettes' convention. Herb Martin, Geo. Sutherland, George Cairns, Graham Ferguson and R. M. Glover will be the Liberal standard bearers, while the Tories are keeping their line-up as dark as some of the deeds of the Whitney government. However, it is stated that the Conservatives will have a hand picked five that will take some beating. Both whips report that the prospects are bright and claim a sweeping majority for their party. Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir James Whitney have been approached as to the possibility of their opening the game by rolling a bowl down the alleys, but it is feared that the claims of state will prohibit their being present. The public is invited to be present for this match and there are plenty of seats in the gallery and along the alleys for the benefit of the crowd. It will be a game well worth seeing, as ten of the best bowlers in the city will be in the contest.

During the week there was another big bunch of 200 scores hung up and they are getting so that now when a man doesn't get 200 he is sore at himself. Time was when a bowler who got 200 in Peterborough was considered a hero, now he calls himself a "dub" if he does not do that much every other game. Martin, Sutherland, and Cairns had a carnival of high scoring last week, getting nineteen 200 scores between them. Martin was high with seven, while the other pair got six each. In all there were 29 scores over the two century mark, making sixty in the past two weeks, an average of five per day, which is going some as Willie said when his grandmother fell down three flights of stairs.

Following is the honour roll for the week:—

Martin — 221, 231, 203, 208, 242, 246, 211.

Cairns — 216, 207, 214, 226, 225, 209.

Sutherland — 221, 231, 203, 203, 242, 246.

McIlroy — 225, 248.

Staunton — 212, 248.

Clarcy — 232, 202.

Gutterson — 209, 212.

McRae — 203.

N. Perry — 206.

Schedule for Week

Monday — Belmonts vs. Exam B.
Tuesday — Exam A vs. Grays.
Wednesday—Iroquois vs. Lock Works.
Thursday — Pacifics vs. B.A.C.

LINDSAY COLLEGIATE TRIMMED LOCAL STUDENTS BY SCORE 6 TO 4

For the second time this season the team representing the Peterborough Collegiate Institute had on Saturday afternoon to strike their colours to the Lindsay Collegiate Institute seven in a lively game of hockey at Brock street rink. The score was 6-4 at full time and 2-1 at the half, in favour of the team from the 1909 summer home of the Intermediate O. H. A. champions. There was little to choose between the two teams but Lindsay had all of that little, owing to the fact that they played combination, and that they paid more attention to the puck than they did to the man. The local students were weakened by the absence of Crane from the forward line, their combination being full of holes as a result, and the same time they suffered because they seemed inclined to wood up all the way.

About thirty students accompanied the Lindsay team and as the local pupils turned out en masse to root for the two teams, things were lively throughout. The ice was in good shape and it was a pretty fast exhibition of hockey that the two good little teams dished out. It was rush after rush, defences as well as forward lines carrying the rubber and there were few dull moments.

The Lindsay team is an aggregation of classy performers and they are the makings of a splendid team, although there would not be much left of them if Mr. Spratt concluded to take his family away from Lindsay. Those three Spratts on the forward line come pretty close to being the whole Lindsay team. Pete, at centre, is the star, but they are all three good, with great bursts of speed and clever stickhandling, while they work in well together. The defence, outside of Greer in goal, was only fair, but the back checking of the Spratts covered up the weakness of the back division.

For the losers the defence was especially good; Meldrum, in goal, stopped many hot shots and cleared nicely, while Wallis and Denison checked splendidly and rushed repeatedly with considerable effect. In fact had it not been for the aggressive work of their defence the Collegiate would have been beaten by a large score. The forward line failed to show the combination that is usually a feature of their work and bunched too much to be effective, although individually all four did good work.

It was an interesting struggle, fast all the way, and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed the battle.

The Lindsay team had considerable the better of the first half, although they only scored two goals to the Collegiate's one. The first two goals went to Lindsay and then Dennison scored on a pretty rush and neat shot from the side.

Twice the Peterborough team tied the score in the second half, but the visitors seemed to be in better condition and finished up two goals to the good.

The teams were as follows:

Lindsay—Goal, Greer; point, Wilson; cover, Beecroft; rover, J. Spratt; centre, P. Spratt; right wing, D. Spratt; left wing, Spence.

Referee, F. D. Craig.

A BASEBALL FAN ARGUES IN FAVOUR OF A HOME BREW TEAM

Sporting Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I noticed in Saturday's edition that some Toronto man, by name of Flanagan, had completed arrangements for a semi-professional baseball league in Ontario, and that Peterborough is one of the prospective towns. It seems to me that this announcement is one of the many athletic "wild cats" that so frequently find space in a newspaper, or that the promoter is making a step without looking over the ground. If a semi-professional club is formed in this city, it will mean that the members of the same will be imported players. As the other prospective towns are somewhat removed from here, the matter of financing a club would be next to impossible. And if the club did even pay expenses, it would mean that Peterborough fans instead of bestowing their patronage on the local clubs and encouraging true sport, would be supporting an alien organization who have no claim to either the money or sympathy of local sport lovers. While I may be mistaken in regard to the exact plans of the so-called promoter, this much I do know: "If a semi-professional club is supported in this city the local young men of Peterborough has a few of the ... ill have very poor encouragement to learn and play the game, with a decent object in view. We have only to look at the past records of our good home-brews, and the disappointing results obtained when players were imported to represent this city, to arrive at a conclusion. Peterborough has never benefitted, in an athletic sense, except when the city was represented by strict locals. The confidence of our patrons of sport has been shattered when the preference was given to rank outsiders.

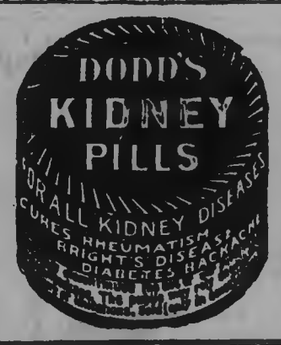
This season's hockey team, the Intermediates, were well supported because we were represented by a local septette. The Lindsay press gave us a hard dig last week when they referred to the Toronto City League idea, by which Peterborough was to have a team in that league. They stated that it would be quite convenient, as the Peterborough players could live in Toronto. We know what this means, and the dig was coming to us.

"The only restriction is that all players must be Canadian born," quoth Mr. Flanagan. Will it not be amusing to see his umps reading out the names of players from certificates and then indulging in additional formality of demanding baptismal or other certificates testifying to places of birth. If that occurred here how many players would reply to Peterborough as their place of birth.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am

Yours truly,

"FAN."



TIGERS BEAT THE MAPLE LEAFS

Won An Interesting Game Of Basket Ball By 35 Points to 25, Saturday Night

An interesting game was played in the Saturday night basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night when the Tigers defeated the Maple Leafs by a score of 35-25. The half-time score was 17-12, in favour of the winners. At the commencement it looked like a runaway game for the Tigers, but the Leafs tallied after the first few minutes and made things interesting. Some good ball was played and the game was well worth seeing. Following were the teams:

Maple Leafs — Forwards, Martin, Kern; centre, Wallace; backs, Dobbin, Lees.

Tigers—Forwards, Staunton, Downing; centre, Sutherland; backs, Laing and Loomis.

To aan Examiner eporter he said that the voyage over was a very rough one and they were delayed several days.

Mr. Waddell visited in Scotland only, spending most of his time in Glasgow. He was very enthusiastic over the reception the Canadian curlers received. The games were played in th artificial ice rink at Crossingtool in Glasgow, and the Canadians won most of them.

Mr. Waddell, as all the Canadian Curles did, had a very enjoyable time.

THEY HAD COURAGE.

Courage is a great factor in modern merchandising. Takes courage to go in, with the future not always rosy, and plank down money with the hope that you can find a market for the purchase. We have no monopoly of that kind of courage, but we're not afraid. After all, though, our courage is based on our faith in you. Our confidence that if we provide good things you will buy them. We allow no time, nor occasion, nor circumstance, nor any state of affairs, to prevent the assembling of a complete variety of the latest, choicest and best in our line. This season, assuming that some merchants might hesitate—might allow the natural timidity of money to assert itself—we thought we saw a chance to win distinction and a more enthusiastic preference, so we went in heavier than ever. Now, we invite you to assortments without parallel. We invite your inspection of our stock of Massey-Harris and Racycle bicycles; also be sure and see our extra large stock of Re-built wheels, at prices from $10.00 to $25.00. New bicycles, equipped with coaster brakes, Dunlop tires, roller chains, for $35.00. Largest stock of sundries in the city. Banks Bicycle Co. Under the Market Clock, 334 George street.

BASEBALL.

In another column of this issue appears an article on baseball signed "Fan," which will no doubt be read with interest. Some of the arguments advanced by the writer are doubtless correct, but others are open to contradiction. It is a mistake to suppose that young players will not be fostered in the case of a semi-professional team being created in Peterborough. In fact it has been found repeatedly to be the case that the presence in any city of a team of well-trained, clever experts at the game of baseball does much to educate the younger players. There is a stimulation to endeavour to make a player of one's self, and then again a youngster can learn more by watching experts at work, than he could possibly pick up by constant practice. Baseball is different from other sports. It has to be well played to be good, and nothing hurts the patronage more than a couple of badly played games, and it is pretty near the case that as long as the game is well played the people don't care whether the players come from Peterborough or the Fiji Islands.

DO NOT LIKE MEASURE.

Suffragettes Are Angry Over Bill Before Parliament.

London, March 22.—The adult suffrage bill, which was read and shelved in the House of Commons Saturday, is regarded by the suffragettes as cancelling the possibility of woman franchise being granted at this session.

The measure was introduced despite their protests. They know there is no chance of adult suffrage in England to-day. They have always demanded suffrage only on the same terms as men have it. Therefore this bill was designed really to kill the project for the present.

Premier Asquith, in discussing the bill, said it was well known that on the woman suffrage question the Government was not of one opinion, and it had never been made a Government question. He himself believed, as did most of his colleagues, in the necessity for reform in the present franchise, apart from any question of sex, as to which he wished to reaffirm what he had previously said, that the Government intended introducing a measure for general electoral reform. These veiled promises did not assuage the suffragette wrath.

While Mr. Asquith was speaking, four attendants carried in four huge bundles of papers. It was a petition from the anti-suffragettes, signed by 243,853 women, praying the House of Commons to reject any measure granting the Parliamentary franchise to women. It was received with much laughter and was then gravely carried out again.

Elliott Not Known.

Kingston, March 22.—Claude Elliott is not registered at Queen's College. It is stated that there was a young man named Elliott who sang baritone in St. George's Church choir. He was an Englishman, and is at present in New York, employed, it is reported, as a street car conductor.

Charities Conference.

Miners Leaving For Europe.

Mahanoy City, Pa., March 22.—Believing that a strike or suspension is inevitable after April 1 in the anthracite coal fields, scores of foreign mine workers are leaving this region daily for Europe to spend the summer.

When the Teacher Got Mad.

Wilkes-Barre, March 22.—When Prof. Clayton Kellar, principal of the Laveyville High School, sat down in a pond of water which had been poured into his chair, was he justified in using a ruler on Miss Ruth Russell, a 19-year-old pupil, when he found that she had constructed the lake?

Prof. Kellar was arrested yesterday, charged with assault and battery by Judson Russell, the girl's father.

Bought Ayton Plant.

Detroit, Mich., March 22.—It is stated that the $17,000 plant formerly used by the binder twine factory at Ayton, Ont., and which was purchased by M. J. Daly of Chicago for $8,500, was installed in the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., as new machinery. The grand jury investigating the prison management have just discovered it.

A Story of Father Mathew.

"Father Mathew was the most loving and lovable of human beings," and in the light of this statement found in a biography of the famous Irish priest by Mrs. Katherine Tynan Hinkson two incidents of his crusade for temperance in the north of Ireland should be read.

At Clones, in Ulster, there were two Orange flags raised when he visited it. Instead of considering it as an insult, he thought it a very great compliment, never having seen one or been honored with one before. When he saw them he called for three cheers for the Orange flag. Commenting on this, an Irish writer says:

"A Catholic priest calling for a cordial salutation of the Orange banner and a Catholic assembly heartily responding was something almost inconceivable. It had never occurred before in Ireland. I'm afraid it has never occurred since."

For the time being there were good will and friendly feeling from one end of Ulster to the other. One recruit who knelt for Father Mathew's blessing said:

"You wouldn't be blessing me if you knew what I am."

"And what are you, my dear?" Father Mathew called men, women and children "my dear."

"I am an Orangeman, your reverence."

"Why, God bless you, my dear, I wouldn't care if you were a lemon man!"

A Lost Fee.

The Right Hon. Augustine Birrell once believed that he had been smitten with a mortal disease and went to consult a distinguished doctor who lived in the neighborhood of Harley street and who was a great expert on the disease of which he thought he was a victim. It was a hot day in July, and as he walked from his London home, which was in the neighborhood of Addison road, to Harley street he perspired freely.

He found the great physician's rooms all crowded, with patients—probably, he thought, suffering from a similar complaint to himself.

While waiting he found on the table a book written by the great physician on the subject of the particular disease. He opened the book, and the first words which caught his eye were these: "The patient who is suffering from this disease never perspires."

He had Scotch blood in his veins, so he picked up his hat and gloves and walked out, and he never saw that eminent physician.—London Standard.

The Water Works By-Law And Why It Should Be Carried

The Position of the Water Commissioners in the Matter Carefully Set Forth in an Interesting Article That Every Ratepayer Should Read---The Need of the New Dam and Pumping Station and How the Cost Will be Looked After.

THE PLANS HAVE BEEN CLOSELY STUDIED.

Proposal to Spend $120,000

The proposal of the Commissioners is to employ the $120,000.00 in construction of a new dam, etc., five hundred feet below the present dam, where good level rock bottom can be reached, and where the river is nearly one hundred feet narrower than at the present dam. Both ends of the dam will rest on City property. The dam is intended to be constructed of concrete piers, built on a solid concrete base or low dam—the latter founded on rock bottom—with sluices between the piers of sufficient capacity to discharge the entire river flow at high water periods without causing flooding or unduly high back water in the pond; the sluices to be closed or partially closed, but stop logs, as may be required, to control the river discharge; thus making available the entire low water river flow for pumping and power purposes. The stop logs will be handled by power winches, probably electrically operated. There will be a log slide in the dam; and the dam throughout its entire length will be covered by a steel reinforced concrete floor or bridge. The pump house, situated at the Westerly end of the dam, will have concrete foundations, penstocks and forebays—all founded on rock bottom, with rock bottom wheel pits and tail races. The superstructure will be of brick, with iron window sashes; steel concrete floors in the pipe vault and machinery room; thus being of the most durable construction and absolutely fireproof. The pumping plant will consist of one new unit of three Millions imperial gallons capacity per 24 hours when pumping against 130 lbs. pressure in the air vessel, for fire purposes; also, the two 2½ million gallons each pumping units in the present pump house. The new unit will be first installed and set to work, after which the old units will be repaired, if necessary, and removed to the new pumping station; thus providing an uninterrupted water supply to the City. The pumping capacity will then be 7½ million gallons per day, with provision in the pump house for an additional unit of 3 millions—thus ultimately providing for 10½ million imperial gallons per day. The pump house will be well lighted, and provided with a travelling crane capable of handling any part of the machinery in the building. There will be a concrete decked crib—situated in the pond—for the intake or suction pipe, with centre well and revolving screens for convenient cleansing. The suction and discharge pipes will be well supplied with stop valves for cutting off any pump or set of pumps, as may be necessary. It is intended that the dam, pump house and pumping plant—in fact the entire development—shall be so designed, constructed and equipped as to be thoroughly modern and efficient throughout, as well as absolutely fireproof. The materials of construction will be almost entirely of concrete, iron and steel; thus securing the greatest degree of permanence, and reducing the cost of maintenance and operation to a minimum. It is the intention to provide a continuous roadway across the river, on the dam, thus requiring slight changes from the preliminary plans, but included in the estimate of cost. When the dam and power station are finished, two years hence if proceeded with this year and next, it is intended that the present power station and intake pipe will be used with a steam auxiliary plant, to provide against a case of anchor ice or other contingency which would deprive the City of water supply for general purposes, or in case of fire. This $120,000.00 will be disposed of as follows, as shown in the Engineer, Mr. Kennedy's, report. The figures for many of the items are omitted, as giving them would be indiscreet, before tenders are asked for.

Concrete dam, bridge, creek diversion removing old dam
Wheel pits; foundations; pump house; forebays, etc
Intake crib, with connecting bridge, valves; screens, etc.
Turbines; 3 million gallons pumps; moving present pumps; travelling crane; suction and discharge pipes; stop valves; castings, etc., in place
Contingencies
	$111,375 00
Engineering and inspection, 5 per cent.....	5,569 00
Total, ...	$116,944 00

The total it will be observed is $3,156.00 less than the sum called for in the By-law, but as the money cannot be applied to any other purpose than the dam, etc., debentures will not be issued for more than is necessary.

Head of Dam—Horse Power

In November, 1904, the Commissioners employed Mr. C. H. Keefer, Hydraulic Engineer, of Ottawa, to examine carefully and thoroughly into the whole subject of the old, and a new dam, the power that would be obtained and various other matters. His report states that "at low water a head of ten feet could be maintained by holding the water to level of the crest of the present day," and that "with the ordinary low water flow of the river this head should give 1,250 effective horse-power." He adds, "If, however, a proper system of storage of the surplus water of the river drainage area was arranged and all the drains and regulation of supply placed under the control of a proper officer, whose duty would be to see that the water was not wasted, and a normal flow maintained, there is no doubt that the minimum flow and power could be increased at least fifty per cent."

Report of Mr. Kennedy

In November last the services of Mr. William Kennedy, Jr., Hydraulic Engineer, of Montreal, were secured. After an exhaustive examination of the capabilities of the river flow at the intended site of the new dam, he reported as follows:

"Replying to the questions as per your letter of the 15th inst.

(1) What head the proposed dam will give?

The head will fluctuate slightly according to the river flow, but I propose the low water pond level to be maintained at elevation 78.50 to 78.75, or, at least, one foot higher than the present dam crest level, which with a further gain of, say, nine inches in tail water (by placing the dam further down stream) will be a total gain of at least fifteen per cent. on the present head from the dam crest to tail water—as given by Mr. Henderson for October,—or from, say, present head 10 feet, to 11½ feet proposed head. This fifteen per cent., or over, extra head will give a net gain in results, or output of power to pumping or electrical machinery, of twenty per cent., or over, at the new dam.

I expect we will do better than this; but the exact gain can only be determined by actual tests under carying water conditions.

(2) What number of horse power will it give?

The horse power will vary in proportion as the variations in river flow from low to high water, but at ordinary low river flow of 65,000 cubic feet per minute (figures obtained by Mr. Henderson, Superintendent) and 10½ feet head the power will be 1,132 H. P. allowing 80 per cent. efficiency on water wheels—increasing as above stated with river flow—or, probably 1,300 H. P. during a great part of the year; increasing to 2,000 H. P. easily at a good flow."

Application of the Power

With these assurances, and the improved conservation of the waters in the back lakes by the Government, already largely undertaken and certain of being perfected within a few years, it may be safely predicted that the new dam will develop 1,200 horse power. Of this it is proposed to reserve 500 H. P. for pumping purposes. From the application of part of the remaining 700 H. P. to the lighting of the City or other economic use, a very large saving to the ratepayers will be obtained. The present cost of public lighting is $8,500.00 per annum, private lighting is threatening to rival our taxes, and a great economy in these items can be made by the City, by its own use of the water power, which otherwise would flow idly down the river. However, this is a matter in which the Commissioners have no authority to act. The City Council will no doubt use the surplus in the best interests of the public at large.

The Commissioners have thus unreservedly endeavoured to explain and justify their conduct to the electors, and they hope they have in some measure succeeded in the effort. Engineers are unable to determine the life of the present dam, or at least refuse to give assurance of its longevity, and the Commissioners are taking what they believe to be prudent precaution against possible mishap, are providing for the requirement of increased pumping capacity, and directing the attention of the ratepayers to the condition of the present, and the benefits to be derived from a new dam. They are convinced their recommendation is justified, and in fact urgent, as well as being a sound business proposition.

Interesting Paper By Miss Warde Was Feature At The Meeting Of Literary Society

A delightful literary evening was provided for the members of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peters' T. A. S on Friday night, when Miss Warde read a paper on the Life and incidentally the Works of Brother Azarias, a character very well known to all broad-minded students of literature. The essay was a gem in itself, and gave evidence of considerable research and careful writing on the part of the essayist. Brother Azarias, who was known in the world as Patrick Francis Mullaney, was born in the year 1847, in the County Tipperary, and came to America when he was ten years old. His father, who preceded him in coming to this country, settled in Deerfield, a small village in Central New York, made notable by the residence of Horatio Seymour, who figured prominently in the history of his time, as the War Governor of his State, and the leader of the Democratic Party. Oppression at the time was bitter and rampant in Ireland, and steadily the immigrants poured into the United States. Mournful as this outpouring seemed at first to the Irish, at the last, it was most mournful to the English. Very quietly the exiles made their way into the country, where they were needed to dig canals, construct railways, to fill factories, and become the servants of the dominant race. They settled where wages were good and work plentiful, thus filling New England, the middle States and the West. They soon became voters and found themselves of importance at election time and to quote from John Abbott: "Little by little they crept into every walk of life, until their representatives held positions very near the throne; and some day a capable, enthusiastic historian will trace their course from the shovel and pick to the cabinet, and show the far-reaching effect upon English influence and American thought of the Irish current, so mercilessly forced into Western seas by the nation that has suffered most and must suffer on, for many a decade for its own crime."

Mr. Mullaney was a positive character descended from an intensely nationalist family, which had given many of its members to exile and the scaffold, and when opportunity offered, he made his neighbours well acquainted with his religious and political opinions. His family was soon appreciated in Deerfield, and he himself secured a good business footing that he held with ever increasing respect till his death, at an advanced age. His boys received their early training in the Union School at Deerfield and afterwards at the Brothers' School in Utica, three miles distant. In this latter school Patrick Mullaney distinguished himself as its most clever pupil. He was a boy who loved books, who read widely and well, and as he read he kept his pencil and note book ever at hand. He won high praise for thoroughness in all his work, and was regarded as an all-round student. He frequently appeared in public as the representative of his school and in all education contests came out victor. He was, therefore, well known to the intelligent people of Utica from a very early age. When he was scarcely fifteen years old he decided to devote himself to the religious teaching of the young, as a follower of La Salle. The lowly life of the teaching monk was his choice—a life of utter self-abnegation. He would belong entirely to his community together with all his efforts and every moment of his time on earth. After spending three years at the College in Utica he left for the novitiate of the Christian Brothers in Ney York and when not quite eighteen years of age Brother Azarias was allowed to make his vows. His first work was the teaching of little boys in the primary schools. He was a born teacher, ever eager to impart to others that which he had just learned, if he thought it worth the telling. However, he was soon sent to teach in the City of Albany and from there he was sent, in 1886, to Rock Hill College, a few miles out of Baltimore, where he stayed 20 years.

From 1886 to 1879 he lived the simple life of a teaching monk, varied by attacks of illness, by productions of his books and a visit to Europe. When he was 32 years of age his superiors appointed him head of the Rock Hill College at Ellicott City, Md. His writings had won for him eminence among the young thinkers, and the future promised to be brilliant. He was yet the same sweet, gentle, unassuming Brother and it surprised many that one so mild should have been chosen for this trying position. In a very short time, however, he proved himself to be possessed of great executive power, and strong disciplinary ability. In the social conditions of Baltimore district he became a person of eminence, counting among his admirers, President Gillman, Archbishop Bayley, Monsignor Corcoran, Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Keane.

In 1874 Brother Azarias published his first book, entitled "An Essay Contributing to a Philosophy of Literature." This book was a direct overthrow of the Emersonian theory, and is one of the finest pieces of criticism offered to the world by the literary circle of the United States and the only thing of its kind in the English language. His other books are "Books on Philosophy and Letters," "Phases of Thought and Criticism," "Essays on Education" and "Culture of the Spiritual Sense." His work was carried on amid many discouragements of which ill-health was the most serious. During the last few years of his life he won many laurels as an orator. In 1902 he attended the opening session of the Champlain School in the City of New London, Conn., and delivered a few lectures of that quality which drew to him the affectionate regard of all classes of people. He lectured before a Catholic Congress held in Chicago in 1893; addressed the Parliament of Religions which was part of the celebration in honour of Columbus' discovery of America and delivered a course of lectures before a summer school of Philosophy in the Adirondacks. In the summer of 1893, Brother Azarias again became ill, and never recovered. Thus, after a novitiate of 32 years on earth, he passed on Aug. 20th, 1893, to his Lord, in whose footsteps he had so faithfully walked. His funeral sermon was preached by his intimate friend, Rev. Fr. McMahon, who took for his text: "I am Azarias, the help of God, son of the great Ananias." His body was taken by his relatives, with the kind permission of his superiors, and laid beside the bodies of his father and mother in the little cemetery of Deerfield.

During the evening a very nice little musical programme was run off. Miss Nora Shelvin opened it with a nicely rendered piano solo, followed by a vocal duet by Miss Gertie Clancy and Miss Alice Malloy. Miss Morrow, who is visiting friends in the city, delighted the audience with a vocal solo. The next meeting will be held on April 2nd, when Rev. Father McColl will address the Society.

The Saving Of Bobbie.

By KATHLEEN O'BRIEN.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

The Roberts' house party had been voted a success. It began on Friday night, and now that Sunday dinner was over the fortunate guests were bewailing the fact that the morning sun would see them all back in town again.

Robert Livingston, however, was not so sure that his visit had been altogether a successful one. He was desperately in love with Hulda Roberts.

This was no secret, for Robert had been guilty of relating his infatuation to every one who would listen to the harrowing tale for the past four years. The story was interesting to Robert, so why not to others?

The one cloud on his horizon, and this a cloud which the brightest sunshine could not blot out, was Carlton Carruthers. There he was even now, when the precious moments were so few, dangling over the side of the piano at which Hulda was playing softly.

Carlton Carruthers was likewise in love with Hulda, but he had never mentioned the fact to any one as yet, not even to Hulda herself.

Livingston leaned against the mantelpiece and surveyed the scene. Evidently a plan had occurred to him, for he suddenly walked over to the piano.

"Hulda, don't you think it would be a fine stunt to go for a short walk after that heavy dinner?" he suggested, absolutely ignoring Carruthers.

"Hardly in this toggery," Hulda laughed in reply.

"What have you against Miss Roberts, old man?' interrupted Carruthers, "that you should invite her for a stroll in the snow clad in a decollete gown and paper soled slippers?"

"Well, to be frank," admitted Livingston, "I was thinking only of you."

"Of me?' echoed Carruthers.

"Yes. You see, I wanted to speak to Hulda for a moment, and I knew you detested the cold, so I suggested going out of doors to get rid of you."

He was irresistible, and all three of them laughed.

"Livingston," said Carruthers, "I'll make a bargain with you. I'll go up in the library and smoke for just one hour, then I'll come back and claim Miss Roberts, and you to go to the library for an hour. What say you?"

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" cried Hulda. "How do you know that I could stand either of you for one whole hour?"

But Carruthers was gone, and there was nothing for her to do but stay with Livingston. Together they went into the great hall and curled up on an old settle before the open fire. The other members of the party had settled down into peaceful groups.

Most of the men had congregated in Mr. Roberts' study and were in a heated debate over politics, while the women were seated coolly about the drawing room talking over the same things that women always do discuss when the men are not about—clothes and servants.

Hulda felt something brush by her skirts and, leaning over, saw her favorite Angora cat purring at her side. Tenerly she picked the animal up in her arms.

"Bobby, dear," she cooed to it.

"Did I understand you aright?" exclaimed Livingston.

"I was speaking to the cat," reproved Hulda. "His name is Robinson Crusoe, but we call him Bobbie for short."

"You will forgive me, Hulda, won't you?" apologized Livingston as he nervously pulled at his perfectly fitted collar. "But you must remember that my name is Bobbie. And, Hulda," he continued as he leaned a little closer to her, "do you think you could ever come to think of me as Bobbie dear?"

"Why, Mr. Livingston"— began Hulda.

"Could you ever care as much for me as for"—

"You have no right to drag Mr. Carruthers into this," interrupted Hulda. "He is nothing to me."

"I was not thinking of Carruthers. I meant could you ever care as much for me as for Robinson Crusoe? Do you think"—

"I think we are sitting too near the fire and that it is high time that Bobbie was in bed like all other decent cats," answered Hulda as she gathered the Angora into her arms and rose from the settle.

"But I thought that cats never slept at night?' inquired Livingston, trying to hide his chagrin.

"Those are only street cats," informed Hulda. "Please take Bobbie and give him to the maid, won't you? And you need not hurry back," she added. Before Livingston could remonstrate the huge gray ball of fur was thrust into his arms.

Hulda then curled up again in the corner of the settle. To her the house party was a dire failure. That persistent Robert Livingston had again proposed, and here was she eating her heart out for Carlton Carruthers, who would rather smoke a cigar than talk to her. Just then Carruthers appeared on the stairs.

"Ah, there you are!" he cried as he discovered her alone. "So Livingston deserted you before the hour was up. Pretty hard. My, my, but you must have made it disagreeable for him! May I sit upon the vacant throne?" he asked as he seated himself at the other end of the bench.

For an hour or more Carruthers and Hulda talked in a low tone and were utterly oblivious that other inhabitants lived on the globe. The whole world seemed theirs, and the thought of others even existing would have marred the picture.

Suddenly the door leading to the back of the house was thrust open, and the maidservants came dashing through in wild disorder, one after the other, yelling: "Fire! Save me! Murder!" etc. The butler appeared on the scene immediately after them and made straight for Mr. Roberts.

In a moment all was confusion. Mrs. Roberts tried to calm the women guests, while most of the men made a dash for the kitchen. Carruthers hesitated as he felt Hulda grasp his arm tightly.

He looked down into the blue eyes and the rosy lips which had just made him so happy when suddenly from out of the heavens he seemed to fall to earth with a sickening thud.

"Oh, my Bobbie! My dear, dear Bobbie! Save him, some one!" cried Hulda.

Carruthers looked at the girl once more to make quite sure the cry came from her. There was no mistake. She wanted Livingston.

"Where is he?' demanded Carruthers huskily.

"Oh, he's in the kitchen. Save him, please do, for my sake!"

Carruthers waited for no more. His heart was too full, his brain whirling. Past the frightened women, down the long corridor that led to the kitchen, brushing maids aside, he strode to save his rival, Bobbie Livingston.

As he reached the kitchen he found the men had put out the slight conflagration and that it amounted to nothing. But Livingston was not in sight. Turning to Mr. Roberts, he asked for him.

"Oh, Livingston was here just a moment ago," said Mr. Roberts, "but I think he said he was going for a walk."

The men all returned to the main part of the house, assuring the ladies that it was nothing. Carruthers went over to Hulda.

"Where's Bobbie?" she asked, with great concern.

"He's gone"— began Carruthers.

"Oh, my dear, dear Bobbie!" wailed Hulda, not allowing him to finish his sentence. Then something brushed her skirt again, and, with a scream of delight, she picked up the cat.

"You told me he was gone," she said reproachfully to Carruthers as she hugged the fluffy ball to her breast.

"Is that the Bobbie you sent me for?" gasped Carruthers.

"Of course it is," Hulda answered rather sharply. "Who did you think I sent you for?"

"Why, Bobbie Livingston," weakly replied Carruthers as he mopped the perspiration from his brow.

Hulda hugged the cat for just a minute as she smiled. Then suddenly she turned serious and put him on the floor. She quietly sat down by Carruthers, and quite low in his ear she whispered:

"And you went in there to save Bobbie Livingston because I asked you to, and you believed all the time that—that"—

"What else could I believe when you were screaming to have some one save yur dear, dear Bobbie?" asked Carlton.

"Well, dear, dear Carl, I love you better than I did before the fire, if that could possibly be," whispered Hulda. And once more the earth was inhabited by two people only.

The Sword of Cornwallis.

Art is not always true to history. Schoolboys of several generations are familiar with the picture of Cornwallis surrendering his sword to Washington after the fall of Yorktown. Lord Cornwallis is revealed in the act of passing over his beautiful sword to the hand of his conqueror. The inference is that Washington took the sword and kept it as a trophy of victory. The facts are quite otherwise.

Cornwallis, proud even in defeat, declined to put in a personal appearance on the occasion of his surrender. The allied forces, American and French, who had besieged him for thirteen days, were drawn up in two columns along the road leading to Hampton. Rochambeau, on a fine bay horse, was at the head of the French column. On his white charger sat Washington at the head of the American troops. The surrendered British and Hessians marched out of their intrenchments and passed down between the two columns.

Many thousands of Virginian citizens were gathered to watch the scene, all eager to get a glimpse of Lord Cornwallis. But they were disappointed in that. Cornwallis pleaded indisposition and stayed in his quarters. He sent his sword by one of his officers, General O'Hara, to be delivered up to Washington. General O'Hara offered the sword to Washington, who directed him to General Lincoln, the officer whom Washington had appointed to conduct the surrender. Lincoln took the sword from O'Hara's hand and then politely handed it back, to be returned to Cornwallis.

Hereditary.

"And when you grow up," said the visitor to six-year-old Elsie, "I suppose you will get married?'

"Oh, there's hardly any doubt about it," answered the small miss. "Everybody says I am much like mamma, and she has been married three times, you know."—Harper's Weekly.

Arts of Oratory.

"I always keep a few funny stories on hand," said Mr. Spredeegle.

"They do help out."

"Yes. When I find my audience inclined to titter at my arguments I switch right into an anecdote so as to get legitimate credit for the laughter."—Houston Post.

The Interview.

As used nowadays by the newspapers the word interview is said to have been the invention of Joseph McCullagh of St. Louis, and, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, it became popular in England in the early nineties. But it was known before that. A writer on the subject in the Nation of 1869 was possibly the first to use the word in its present sense of a talk with a representative of the press.—Chicago News.

Vicarious Osculation.

He was having some words with her chaperon.

"I'll—I'll kiss her right under your nose," he said defiantly.

"Oh, well," said that lady, "vicarious kissing like that I can see no objection to."—Boston Transcript.

Plausible.

Irascible Magistrate—Officer, why did you bring this prisoner up before me? Can't you see he's as deaf as a doornail? Policeman—Oi was told ye'd give him a hearing, sor.—Judge.

All She Paid For.

On her way home from morning service Mrs. Scott complained to the friend who had joined her of the exceeding dullness of the sermon.

"Yes, mamma, but it was very cheap," little Jimmy hastened to say. "You only paid a dime for it."

MANY DON'T KNOW HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

DUMB MEETINGS.

Curious Method by Which Poles in Germany Evade the Law.

The curious method adopted by the oppressed Poles in Germany to evade the provisions of the new law relating to public meetings was revealed in the trial of three Polish residents of Ruhrort, in Westphalia, who had convened a political meeting.

Paragraph 19 of the new law relating to public meetings compels every speaker to use the German language. The Poles circumvent this enactment by holding "dumb" meetings, at which no word whatever is spoken.

At the beginning of this particular meeting the chairman wrote on a large blackboard on the platform an announcement that no speeches could be delivered owing to the prohibition of the use of the Polish language. The contents of the lecture which would otherwise have been delivered would be distributed among the audience in the form of a pamphlet.

This pamphlet was read by the whole audience in perfect silence. The resolutions to be submitted to the meeting were then written on the blackboard and adopted unanimously by a show of hands, still without a single word being spoken.

The public prosecutor took action against the conveners of the meeting for violating paragraph 19 of the new law, but the district court acquitted them. The public prosecutor lodged an appeal, but the higher court at Cologne upheld the judgment of the district court and confirmed the acquittal.

In consequence of this precedent Polish "dumb" meetings, which are already extremely popular in all those parts of Germany where the Poles feel the need of congregating to demonstrate their grievances, can now be held without hindrance.—London Express.

Machine Made Window Glass.

It was long believed to be impossible to make window glass by a mechanical process, but American ingenuity has overcome the obstacles, and this glass is now made in all sizes and thicknesses by the Colburn process. Such glass cannot be made by pressure, because the surfaces thus produced are imperfectly transparent. The method of allowing the molten glass to fall through a narrow slit was also tried without success, for the surfaces became striated. The process of drawing, by lifting the molten glass in sheets, was finally adopted. But this required many ingenious devices to prevent the glass from contracting into columnar or cylindrical forms. All these difficulties have been overcome, so that it is no longer necessary to produce transparent sheets of glass solely by the old blowing methods.—Youth's Companion.

Europe's War Chests.

At the present time and for the future as well there is lying at the Bank of France, in Paris, a reserve gold store of £160,000,000, which is, in fact, writes one correspondent, "looked upon as a war fund, beside which the £20,000,000 of Germany looks very small." But the German kriegschatz, or emergency war chest fund, amounts only to £6,000,000, and it is lying not in the Reichsbank at Berlin, but in the vaults of the Julius tower, in the fortress of Spandau, near the capital, against the coming of Germany's next evil day. It has been lying there as a dead fund ever since Germany received from France her war indemnity of £250,000,000, from which it was taken.

Bullfighting in Spain.

It was thought that bullfights were gradually losing their popularity in Spain. The reports for the year 1907 seemed indeed to indicate a distinct tendency in that direction. Those for 1908, however, do not confirm this view. In the course of last year 745 bullfights took place in Spain, and 3,838 bulls were killed in the arena. Before dying some of these bulls managed to leave behind something more than the mere record of death, for it is announced that in the contests four of their human opponents were killed and 181 injured.—London Post.

The Hurry Fad.

"Mr. Cleveland," said a Princeton lecturer, "had little sympathy with the rush and hurry that the American business man so complacently affects—no sympathy with train and boat dictation, with the lunch table telephone, the letter phonograph and other bluffs.

"'Don't rush so,' Mr. Cleveland once said to me. 'Lightning might do a great deal more if it wasn't always in such an awful hurry.'"—Washington Star.

ETIQUETTE.

An Old-Fashioned Man Frees His Mind About Its Absurdities.

"Whether to eat fish with a fish knife and fork or a fork and a bit of bread, whether to serve champagne in a tumbler or a goblet—it is quite absurd to regard one of these courses as right and the other as wrong and to admire or despise a person accordingly. The average rule of etiquette has nothing to do with courtesy, with good breeding, and it is no criterion of courtesy or of good breeding."

The speaker, an old fashioned gentleman from the country, knotted the ends of his napkin more firmly about his neck.

"Smile at me, nephews and nieces," he resumed, "because I tuck my napkin under my chin. Yet why should I spoil my black broadcloth coat with turkey stains or smears of cranberry sauce? It is a rule of etiquette, you say, that the napkin may only be placed across the knee—an absurd, ephemeral rule!

"It was a rule of etiquette in France during the reign of 'Le Roi Soleil,' the great Louis XIV., that when the king visited a sick subject the king, too, must lie down in a bed, on the ground that it would never do for a subject to maintain a more informal attitude than his master during the audience. Louis XIV., visiting the Marshal de Villars after Malplaquet, lay in a bed beside the suffering soldier in that way.

"Behold the absurdities of etiquette and let me do with my napkin what I please."

"The Sting Is in the Tail."

Mr. David Boyle, curator of the Provincial Museum, has great respect for the good qualities of all human beings, but has also great contempt for small, mean ways.

He received recently from a man in Omaha a letter commencing: "I am a Canadian, and if I can do a good turn for Ontario I want to do it."

The writer then went on to state that he had part of a specimen of a plesiosaurus, which is a large, extinct marine reptile. It had been found in the bad lands of South Dakota and had been pronounced by an authority to be a good specimen.

"As far as I know the specimen is in very good condition," said the writer of the letter.

"But the sting is in the tail—of the letter," said Mr. Boyle, in telling of receiving the epistle. "The writer ends with: 'What is it worth?'"

Cars Look Inside Out.

Some of the steel box-cars to be brought into active use on this part of the Canadian Pacific are in the company's Toronto yard near the Union station. The cars are the most modern in the freight traffic, and are of solid metal with the structural work all on the outside. This presents a perfectly smooth wall and floor, and the car is so closely built that the leakage of grain is almost an impossibility. While freight men think that it will be some time before this style of car comes into general use there seems to be little doubt that with the increasing price of lumber the car will be found more economical than the old wooden car. The new cars are the output of the Angus shops, Montreal.

Married on Train.

A marriage took place on the train shortly after the Sydney express left Sydney, N.S., recently both participants having the name of McDonald, which was also the name of the clergyman. The railway officials have no record of any marriage having taken place on a train, this being the first innovation. Births and deaths are not uncommon events, but marriages are very rare. The ceremony was performed quietly while the passengers listened in silence. The bride and groom were unattended.

Kaiser Sends Diplomat.

The status of the German consul is raised at Montreal. The new man to succeed Herr Franksen is Herr Lange, of Wartemburg, who has been for some time in important positions at Berlin.

He has the rank of a legationist, which is higher than consul, and the colony in Montreal thinks this is in view of the fact that the situation over the German-Canadian relations is recognized as requiring a diplomatic as well as a commercially qualified man.

Heirs Disappointed.

The Hamilton descendants of the late Charles L. Springer of Delaware, who thought they would fall in for large fortunes, have been notified that they have no claim to the Wilmington property, which he once owned.

China's Early Paper Money.

As in many lines of industry, China led the way among the nations in the use of paper currency in business. Since the fifteenth century, however, no paper money has been issued in the Celestial empire, and it is due only to China's industrial and commercial growth that the government has recently appointed a commission to investigate the matter.—Ryerson

An Obliging Caller.

When M. Clemenceau was in the French chamber of deputies he became for some reason the idol of the workingman, but his popularity, according to the course of nature, brought its penalties. He was besieged by all sorts of people, who came merely to ask questions, and sometimes they were questions of the most trivial sort.

He was originally a doctor and used to give advice for nothing at certain hours of the day. One morning a workingman entered his room, and Clemenceau said without looking up from his writing:

"Take off your coat and shirt. I'll attend to you directly."

Three minutes later he found the man had stripped to the waist.

"There is nothing the matter with you," said the doctor when he had made an examination.

"I know there isn't," returned the man.

"Then what did you come for?"

"To consult you on a political question."

"But what did you strip for?"

"I thought you wanted an illustration of the emaciated body of the man who lives by the sweat of his brow."

The political question remained unanswered. M. Clemenceau was too exasperated to do more than tell the man to dress and go home.

Why Our Railroads Are Narrow Gauge.

Why are all railroads built on the standard gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches? The makers of the first locomotives thought only of putting their machines upon the tramways already in existence, and from that followed a very interesting and curious result. These tram lines naturally had exactly the width prescribed by the strength of one horse. By mere inertia the horse cart gauge established itself in the world, and everywhere the train is dwarfed to a scale that limits alike its comfort, power and speed. Because there is so much capital engaged and because of the dead power of custom it is doubtful if there will ever be any change in this gauge. Still, it might be worse. If the biggest horses had been Shetland ponies our railway carriages now would only be wide enough to hold two persons side by side and would have a maximum speed of twenty miles an hour. There is hardly a reason aside from this antiquated horse why the railway coach should not be nine or ten feet wide—that is, the width of the smallest room in which people can live in comfort and furnished with all the equipment of comfortable chambers.—Atlantic.

Thiers as a Prompter.

Among the anecdotes related by the Marquis Massa in his "Souvenirs et Impressions" is one about the first president of the French republic. It runs: "A short time after young Thiers had been elected as a legislator a number of our set arranged to give a performance of 'Roman chez la portiere' at the house of a mutual friend. On the evening of the performance our prompter deserted us, and without a moment's hesitation the new fledged deputy volunteered to take the place, and despite the protests of some of the party, who feared that his dignity might be everlastingly injured, he jumped into the box, where he remained ready to help us in time of need until the curtain descended on what proved to be a highly satisfactory performance."

Hunting With Lighted Crabs.

A group of clubmen seated about an odorous cedar fire talked of hunting.

"Once I hunted with lighted crabs," said an ex-consul. "It was in the desolate region of France called La Vendee. There is no hunting there but sea gulls (which the French adore to shoot) and rabbits. It was to get the rabbits that we used the crabs. We caught some dozens of small, lively fellows, fastened on their backs lighted candles and shoved them down into rabbit holes. The rabbits, scared to death by those strange moving lights, rushed forth frantically—forth into the very muzzles of our guns. This sounds rather frisky perhaps, but it is a Vendean custom as widespread as coon hunting in the south."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Grant and Sumner.

Concerning the reliability of things in print, it is recalled that Charles Sumner criticised General Grant savagely, and some time after some one was talking to Grant about atheism in New England and remarked, "Even Sumner does not believe in the Bible." "Why should he?" quietly replied Grant. "He didn't write it."

Opie Read and the Upper Berth.

Opie Read in his "Arkansaw Traveler Tales" tells this: A fat man had crawled into the berth above him and was heard talking to himself. "I don't mind getting up here," he said, "but I am always afraid for the fellow beneath me. Night before last the upper berth fell with me and broke the hip and shoulder of the man below. But it's not my fault; I do the best I can to get a lower. Poor chap, I guess he's asleep and will never know what hit him."

"Hold on," I cried. "I'll be hanged if I want to lie under a dead fall."

"I beg your pardon. Did you say something?"

"You are right. I said something. I'm not going to run the risk of staying here. You take this berth and let me get up there."

"Oh, don't let me dispossess you. Stay right where you are; it may not fall—sometimes doesn't."

"Sometimes doesn't! Here, let me get up there."

"Well, if you insist I"—

"Insist! I should think I do!"

I climbed the ladder and tossed pretty much all night. It was the porter who broke the news to me the next day of how I had been the victim of that fat man's guile.

A Very Indian Appeal.

The following appeal from India received by the lord mayor is printed in the City Press:

"May it please your lordship that I am very Indian, and I belong to the Brahman caste. Owing to my poverty and unhealthiness I cannot earn money by any profession. Including me, there are eight members in my large, poor and pitiable family—my paternal grandmother, my maternal grandmother, my mother, my aunt, myself, my wife, my first daughter, my second daughter. Moreover, I must perform marriage for my two daughters.

"So if I have at least £2,000 as a capital for my large, poor and pitiable family I can invest this amount in the safest bank and I can maintain my large, poor and pitiable family by the interest on this capital. So I must humbly request your lordship to regard me as your lordship's own son and send me at least £2,000 at your lordship's earliest convenience. I am in earnest. I am in earnest. I am in earnest."—London Standard.

In a Strange Land.

Two belated disciples of Bacchus staggered arm in arm up Walnut street about 3 o'clock the other morning. The street was dark except for a single ground glass globe that blazed in front of an apartment house. One of the inebriates, spying this lone light, observed:

"Oh, look at zhe moonsh!"

The other seriously contradicted him, saying:

"That ain't no moonsh; zash sun."

This started an argument, which lasted for several minutes, as to whether the globe was the moon or the sun. Finally they decided to leave it to the first passerby, who happened to be another "happy" gentleman. They stopped him and, pointing to the globe, asked:

"Settle an argument, old pal. Is that the moon or the sun?"

The third party stared knowingly at the globe for several minutes before he shook his head and replied:

"Gentlemen, I really couldn't tell you. I'm a stranger in this town."—Philadelphia Record.

Doing Their Duty.

The Teacher—Children, we make heroes of ourselves by doing our duty. Perry's duty was to whip the British, and he did it. The light brigade's duty was to attack the Russians without question, and they did it. All great heroes won their victories by doing their duty. Children, we have our duties. What should we do for the weak, the suffering, the oppressed?

High Priced Fish.

A member of the Aquarium society of Philadelphia, an organization for the breeding of fancy fish, recently received a diploma for a particularly fine goldfish. The glistening, scaly little thing weighed less than two ounces, but an offer of $100 was promptly made for it. Fish at nearly $1,000 a pound—think of it!

"Bronchitis"

Is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes.

The Symptoms are tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, and a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color.

Neglected Bronchitis is one of the most general causes of Consumption.

Cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. D. D. Miller, Allandale, Ont., writes: "My husband got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my little girl who had Bronchitis. She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.

"She had a bad cold this winter, but instead of getting another bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I tried a home made receipt which I got from a neighbor but found that her cold lasted about twice as long. My husband highly praises 'Dr. Wood's,' and says he will see that a bottle of it is always kept in the house."

It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, the price 25 cts.

Your money back if Purity Flour does not prove entirely satisfactory in the baking.

DON'T simply buy flour from the dollar and cent side of it. Buy high-quality flour. That means PURITY FLOUR. The first little extra cost is more than made up by the extra number of loaves of bread it makes—by the superiority of the bread and pastry in sweetness of flavor and nourishing qualities. Buying Purity Flour is a safe investment. You get large returns, not only on account of Purity's ability to produce more, but because Purity contains the greater nutriment and the vim of a strong hard wheat flour. Food made from Purity Flour gives the consumer health, snap and force, which cannot be gained from the use of the weaker soft wheat flour.

"MORE BREAD AND BETTER BREAD"

PURITY FLOUR

You can buy as little as a 7 pound cotton bag or in 14, 24, 49, and 98 pound sacks. Also in barrels and half-barrels

Purity may cost a little more than some flours but you'll find its more than worth the difference. To be genuine, must bear the Purity trade mark.

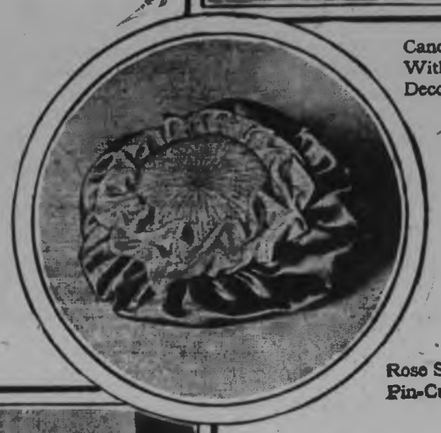
DAINTY GIFTS for EASTER

Candle Shade With Carved Decorations

The Little Crochet Girl



Rose Satin Pin-Cushiod

FRESHNESS and daintiness are the chief characteristics of attractive Easter gifts, and there is never an occasion when the expenditure of a large amount of money is so unnecessary in order to procure a suitable gift. A very little money, the exercise of some taste and the bearing in mind of what the spring festival really means in the sense of the fresh blossoming of nature are the elements needed in the selection of Easter gifts.

Young girls almost always prefer to make their Easter gifts, and there is nothing more attractive as an Easter memento than a dainty piece of hand work, whether its use be the adornment of the person or of the boudoir of the recipient. Small accessories of the toilette made of fine linen, with trimming of drawnwork, embroidery and lace, are particularly attractive, and among the gifts which girls make for one another at this season there is none more popular than hand-made lingerie, handkerchiefs, hand embroidered collars, &c.

Next to these articles in popularity come the charming furnishings of the dressing table and of the boudoir generally. Made of linen, lawn or batiste, they, too, are trimmed with hand embroidery and drawnwork, or, if there is not time for such elaborate decoration, are at least examples of the finest needlework and are trimmed with narrow lace, all, of course, set in by hand.

FOR Easter gifts flower decorations are the most popular. In embroidery the floral designs are used, and when figured materials are employed those with floral designs are invariably chosen. The Easter colors—yellow, green and white—are much admired for these gifts and make the offering seem particularly appropriate when otherwise its relation to the season might not seem obvious.

Schoolgirls very often are so rushed with their studies that there is not much time to make very elaborate gifts. For these girls there are few things more attractive as Easter gifts than the tiny pin cushions, trimmed with wreaths of small flowers, that are among the newest inventions in the line of feminine handiwork. The first requisite for these cushions is a small round pin cushion covered with a pale colored silk—perhaps pale yellow. A covering of white net or allover lace is put over the top of the cushion. A bunch of tiny roses, buds, or blossoms of any sort, uniform in size, is bought at the milliner's. The flowers while still tied are spread apart so as to form a circle, in the middle of which the tiny cushion is set. The flowers form a circular frame for the cushion. The stems of the flowers are not cut off, but extend at one side, so that at first glance when lying on the dressing table the pin cushion looks like a bouquet of artificial flowers.

Equally attractive but somewhat more difficult to make and more expensive are the pin cushions mounted on circular or pentagonal brass stands which have little brass feet. The cushion is very solid and covered with flowered silk or brocade. It is fairly high and shaped like the stand upon which it is mounted.

A third attractive cushion is made of rose and green satin in a conventionalized resemblance to a double rose or peony. The centre of the cushion, made of shirred pink satin, has a puff of the pink satin all around the shirred centre. Around this pink centre is a band of green satin shirred, and beyond this a big puff of the green satin.

CHARMING as gifts and very easy to make are the little heart pads for the front of the corset. The pads are small, shaped like a heart and covered with pale colored silk. Over this there is a linen cover with a lace ruffle all around it. The top of this linen cover is slightly fulled, and it is drawn up in the centre with a piece of daisy ribbon. By this means it is possible to remove the linen outer covering and launder it. Part of the attractiveness of this gift depends on its being presented in a small heart shaped flower box, the exact size of the linen heart. The flower on the box matches in fragrance the scented pad of colored silk which is inside the linen heart. In color also the silk heart should match the flower on the box. That is, if the design on the box is violet the little pad should be covered with violet silk and scented with violet sachet. The tiny ribbon or cord which gathers the top of the linen heart should also be violet.

Very simple in construction is the linen collar bag shown in one of the illustrations, and it is a most attractive and useful gift. These bags are attractively made of white linen embroidered in colored flowers or of colored linen with self embroidery.

An equally useful and attractive gift is the case for ties which is shown in another illustration. As a foundation for this case a long narrow box is needed. The box is covered with brocade and has a band of heavy gold galloon sewed all around the edge as a border. Four flaps of brocade are attached to the box—two at the ends and two at the sides. The box is lined with plain silk. The flaps are brocade on the outside and plain silk on the inside, with a border of gold braid. The box is not very deep, but is of precisely the right shape for ties. The flaps, which are sewed to the long sides of the box, are nearly as wide and as long as the box. The end flaps are as wide as the box and a little more than half as long. When the flaps are closed the two side flaps fold over first—then the two end flaps. Ribbons from the centre of the sides hold the flaps down.

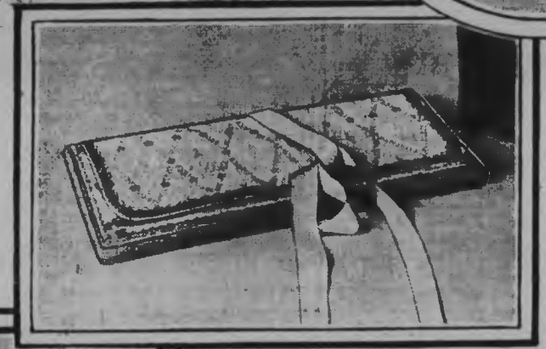
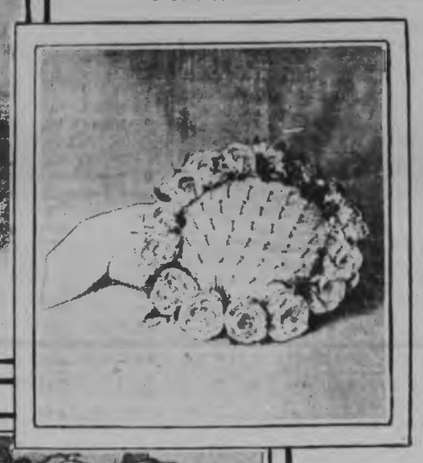
Collar Case of Embroidered Linen



Veil Case of Flowered Brocade



Small Rose Wreathed Cushion

Flowered Paper Photograph Frame

PHOTOGRAPH frames are always desirable gifts, and especially the flowered frames which become soiled in time and must be renewed. In making flowered frames now paper is in quite as much favor as are the fabrics, and indeed for the summer house paper frames are considered more desirable than any other. Girls who are water color artists of some ability have an opportunity of exercising their skill to advantage in making these frames, but unless they are really adepts at this art it is best not to foist it upon one's friends in the shape of gifts, but instead to make the frames of flowered paper. There are the most lovely French and English papers which are imported for wall coverings, and if care be taken in choosing the designs the effect is quite as satisfactory as the hand painted designs. Of course the design must be chosen with reference to the shape of the frame and where it is to be cut out for the photograph. One of the points to be most carefully considered in the making of such frames is their suitability to the room in which they are to be employed. When it is quite impossible to find a paper which has the designs in the desired colors so placed that they will fall properly upon the frame then the figures may be cut out and applied to a plain paper frame. It is more often necessary to cut out the figures in making a square or rectangular frame than in a round one, where an allover design seems more appropriate.

Girls who have mechanical as well as artistic ability may find a new outlet for their talent in the paper sculpture work which is used for the decoration of candle shades, photograph frames, &c. The candle shade in the illustration is made in this fashion, and to girls who are clever in the use of tools this order of handiwork offers a new opportunity for the decoration of gifts. Many Easter gifts are being made in this fashion. The shade is made of ivory colored paper that is heavy enough to permit the cutting of the design in relief. The candle shade is then cut out and the design cut on it so that petals of flowers, leaves, &c., are raised from the background. The design is not cut through, it is merely cut in relief. When the candle is lighted the design stands out boldly. Some of the shades have color added to the cut design, the entire flower or its centre or petals being delicately colored.

One of the illustrations shows an odd figure resembling a little Dutch maiden. This is the crochet girl, and she is quite a favorite among young girls. Her yoke isn't really a yoke at all, but merely an ivory crochet needle; her pails of milk are spools of crocheting cotton or silk. A thimble decorates the top of her hat, and there are pins around the hem of her skirt, not to mention a needle case in her apron. For an Easter gift the crochet maiden should be attired in white and yellow, with a petticoat of green, perhaps.

GIRLS are also making for Easter gifts to their friends charming taffeta silk hoods for wear in the evening. These are meant largely for wear by their older sisters, cousins and friends, for of course very young girls have little use for evening finery. The hoods are like those which have been worn in the winter, except that they are much simpler and very easy to make. The shape is of the simplest—a full cap with sufficient gathers around the face to make the hood stand up from the hair. The hood is gathered on a bat or bonnet wire so that it stands out from the face, and the circle or oval of wire is large enough not to border the face closely. A shallow ruffle of the silk finishes the hood around the face and at the bottom. At the nape of the neck the hood is gathered up by a narrow ribbon or silk cord. Inside the face ruffle there is a narrow ruffle of fine lace which stands out from the face. Tiny bunches of flounces, rosebuds, violets, &c., are placed here and there on the lace ruffle, catching it back from the face in the middle of the top and at the sides. There are also bouquets of three blossoms at the corners of the hood.

Easter gifts are so suggestive of the spring, with its fresh odors and blossoms, that sachets of all sorts are particularly suitable for the occasion. The corsage sachet is now a necessity with most women, and these small affairs are so dainty and also so useful that they are particularly popular with girls who have a talent for the needle. The heart sachet, which has already been described, is only one of many which are being made for gifts. The small flower sachets which have been popular for some time, although not novel, are so pretty that they still continue very desirable. These are made in two ways, either with small bags containing the scented cotton, the top of the bag being made into the semblance of a flower, or the sachet itself is in the form of a flower whose petals are padded with scented cotton.

Most attractive is the pansy sachet for the corsage, made in this fashion. Satin ribbon is used to make this sachet. The three lower petals have scented padding between the two satin coverings. The two upper petals, although they are doubled, are not padded. The top side of the petals are painted in water colors to resemble a pansy. Yellow and violet satin is mostly used for these pansy sachets. The painting is not at all difficult. Any one who has been at all used to employing water color paints on fabrics can readily do it.

SETS of envelope sachets are also most attractive for an Easter gift. These may be made quite elaborate or as simple as desired. Girls who can use water colors or draw can, of course, decorate the envelopes in this fashion, but this is not necessary. A set of plain envelope sachets, tied with ribbon and delicately scented, will be an acceptable gift to almost any one, for these sachets are so useful when properly scented that one can hardly have too many of them. Of course it is necessary to consider the favorite perfume of the recipient in preparing them.

To make the gift attractive, a flowered box, decorated with the blossoms which is to scent the sachets, should be procured. The envelopes must fit this box. The envelopes should be in a suitable shade. For instance, the violet flowered box might be filled with violet colored envelopes filled with violet scented cotton and tied with violet flowered ribbon. The rose flowered box with rose sachets could have delicate gray envelopes tied with gray and rose flowered ribbon. Flower seals may also be used to seal the envelopes, or if not then they should be sealed with gold seals or tied with gold cord and sealed in the colors. It is possible also—and not difficult—to make the envelopes of the flowered paper, wall paper in a fine grade or other flowered paper being possible.

New Designs in Work Bags.

THE newest thing in workbags is developed from a yard square of finely dotted white Swiss muslin, lined with a delicate shade of pink, blue, green, mauve or yellow China silk, so placed that its four corners come between instead of beneath the muslin corners, thus leaving the latter semi-transparent. The eight deep points thus formed are finished with hemstitching bordered with Valenciennes, Cluny or some inexpensive white lace, and at their base the two materials are caught together and shirred to accommodate double draw strings of one-half inch satin ribbon, matching the shade of the lining. When these strings are drawn taut the cluster of eight deep points forms a flower petal appearance that is most attractive.

A collapsible dressing bag that is well adapted for travelling is made of six half yard strips of wide taffeta ribbon joined with cable cording and shirred to a circular cardboard bottom. A satin lining is tacked to the seams of the ribbon panels and the sections thus formed make convenient pockets. Each receptacle has its individual baby ribbon drawstring, and a wider ribbon at the top of the bag pulls it together.

Slipper bags are made of six half yard strips of satin, taffeta or ribbon, with gracefully rounded points that project over the shirring casing at the top. These points are lace edged or herringbone embroidered and faced with plain silk or with all-over muslin embroidery. Small pockets set on the outer side of each panel are for handkerchiefs, talcum powder, vanity mirror and manicure tools.

Model opera bags recently sent over from Paris are of taupe and tan colored ottoman silk, lined with matching satin. The lower edge of each side of the bag is ornamented with small flowers done in vari-tinted baby ribbon, and above is set a small medallion lithograph done on silk and framed in gold braiding. The top of the bag is gathered into an inch wide band of gold embroidery, the bottom is finished with gold fringe and the sides are laced together with gold cordage similar to that employed for the handle.

Another type of opera bag, or "opera bon bon," as it is termed in Paris, is made of wool satin and has flat sides slightly wider at the bottom than at the top, where they are set plainly into a broad band of fancy silver or gold braid. V-shaped gussets join the two side sections, which have centre ornaments of hand painted medallions, after Watteau, done on silk and framed in tinsel braid. The remaining surface of the sides is decorated with silk and tinsel embroidered butterflies and flowers.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"THE color of the ears is a faithful barometer of the physical condition," observed the April Grandmother, as she patiently sipped a cup of hot water. "A disturbed state of the stomach, for instance, is nearly always indicated by a fiery tint in the ears, and whenever my own look unduly flushed and burn unpleasantly I begin to irrigate my system.

"Crimson ears can usually be bleached by dieting, or at least by eliminating from the regular menu such Satanic concoctions as pickles and gravies, and by always refraining from eating very hot and very cold foods in rapid succession such as taking ice cream immediately after soup, as I have frequently seen done by girls and even women of mature years when lunching at a restaurant.

"Ashen colored ears indicate an anaemic condition, usually due to malnutrition which also may be traced to faults of diet. Of late years too many young girls have adopted the fad of getting along with the Continental breakfast of a cup of coffee and a roll instead of beginning the day with some fruit, a cereal, an egg and a glass of milk—none too much fuel with which to fire the brain engine that is taken into the classroom are mornings of each week. The girl who foolishly persists in eating a light breakfast will soon lose flesh, and hollows will form about her ears that will leave their traces in ugly furrows which will show clearly even after other flesh has been accumulated.

"The complexion of the ears should receive quite as much attention as does the cuticle of the face. The girl who is careful not to allow the wind to blow too roughly upon her cheeks, nose and lips should remember that the ears chap and burn and tan quite as readily as do the hands and the face, and that the veil should be so arranged as to protect properly the ears from the effects of sun and wind.

"If a girl has what may be termed an inclosure ear moderately sized and of nondescript shape she should do her utmost to keep it plump and to make delicately pink by occasionally pinching the lobes so that aroused circulation will give them a lifelike appearance.

"Ears that are outstanding and prominent may be rendered less aggressive by always tying a broad ribbon about the head when sleeping and as often as convenient during the day. After a time the ears will lie more closely to the head and if kept delicately pink and healthful looking will pass muster. Ears that are exceptionally large and awkward in shape should be hidden as much as possible by contriving the hair so that it will grow luxuriantly about them.

"It is useless as well as dangerous to attempt to alter the shape of the ear, which may readily be permanently injured by charlatans who profess to make over the human features. When washing them morning and night they should be tenderly handled, taking care to keep the inner and outer edges free from grime and an accumulation of soap. Under no circumstances should any hard instrument be used on the cavities, which may be kept free from wax and dust by gently sopping them with tepid water. A sudden deluge of cold water injected into the ear may permanently injure the hearing, and whenever there is the slightest indication of soreness about that portion of the anatomy the family physician should be promptly consulted.

"Deafness is frequently due to neglect of what seems an insignificant matter, and there is scarcely any physical defect which puts a girl at so great a disadvantage when in society or renders her more liable to accident when on the street.

"While there does not seem to be any good reason why well set and well shaped ears are not common among women, the fact is so undeniable that any girl who possesses a pretty pair of them should make the most of this exceptional beauty point or points by keeping them in a healthy condition."

Handsome Combination Belts for School Wear

SOME fa[illegible]g and novel belts have been [illegible]opted by the school girl as an accompaniment of the tailored shirt waist and skirt. These novel accessories are composed of a fringe, which includes a dozen or more quarter inch leather or suede thongs, mounted in girdle form on jewelled metal supports, with a handsome clasp at the front, from which the long thongs fall in sash ends. Occasionally purses are used in combination with these belts, and these also have the fringed decoration.

"Aboriginal" belts also come in the narrowest widths of double faced satin ribbon and fancy cords, a number of such strips being mounted in girdle form on boned or metal supports and the ends threaded through clasp slides, which may be adjusted at any desired angle. Picturesque girdle belts are made of half-inch fancy braids, showing interweavings of metal in many shades and designs. They are mounted with novel slides and buckles of antique gold filigree or intermingling bronzed metal, green silver and old gold, through which the ends of the braids are drawn.

Straight belts are of suede in the new pastel shades, some of them showing embossed patterns and ornaments of oblong pieces, in gilt or silver. One novelty has precious metal squares riveted at intervals along its entire length. The same idea is occasionally employed in connection with patent leather, morocco, sealskin and corded silk, for heavy metal effects in belts are now extremely popular, the gold and silver tints uniting readily with various colors and materials.

The tints of the topaz, garnet and amethyst, of jade, lapis lazuli and almost every variety of semi-precious stone are duplicated in the coloring of suede, sealskin, morocco and leather belts, some of which are fully five inches broad. They are studded with steel nailheads and trimmed with tiny straps of a contrasting pelt, and frequently the fine and coarse skins are interwoven similarly to fancy basketry braiding. Nailheads also appear on the leather straps decorating the serviceable elastic belts, which may be readily adapted to any figure, and on the wide belts of metallic tissue in black, white and colors which fasten at one side beneath a large rosette.

Fringe on Veils.

THE craze for fringe has reached veils and all the big new ones are heavily fringed, sometimes with one row and sometimes with two. If the trailing ends of the longest ruffle is studded with clusters of fringe having precisely the same look. On the finer mesh veils which cover a wide range of color, the fringe matches in shade.

THE DOCTOR SAID "I CAN'T HELP YOU"

Buffered 10 Months with Kidney Complaint. Gin Pills Cured.

Dunvegan, Inverness Co.

I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

BILL WAS SENT BACK AGAIN

Opposition Is Shown to Canada Life Measure in Commons.

PREMIER BACK IN HOUSE

Sufficiency of Notice of Proposed Act Is Questioned and It Is Again Referred to Standing Orders Committee—Hon. Mr. Fielding Favors Bill But Recommends Deliberate Action In the Matter.

Ottawa, March 23.—The effects of the Conservative caucus were reflected in the attitude adopted by the Opposition when the bill of the Canada Life Assurance Co. to declare that the intention of the act of 1879 was to allow the company to deduct interest on capital before calculating the 90 per cent. profits to be distributed among the shareholders, was attacked by the Opposition yesterday, and was finally sent back to the standing orders committee for an enquiry as to the sufficiency of the notice given.

Mr. Turriff, Liberal, of Saskatchewan, joined the Opposition in opposing the principle of the bill.

During the discussion Senator Cox sat in the gallery, and while the point with regard to the reference back was being debated, Mr. Clarke, who had charge of the bill, left his seat to consult with the head of the insurance company. On his return to the floor, he agreed to the delay.

When the bill was called Mr. Lennox asked for the opinion of the Minister of Justice, which was promised when the bill was last before the House. It was a matter of importance to many people in this country to know whether it was legal to make this legislation retroactive. Thirty-five thousand policyholders in Canada were interested.

Mr. Clarke of Essex protested that this question did not arrive on the first clause, which ought to be passed. Finally Mr. Aylesworth arose. He scarcely knew upon which point his opinion was desired, he said, not knowing what legal question arose. As to the necessity for this legislation, it might be that there was none, while it might be that under the statute of 1879 the company, by the wording of the act, was not legally entitled to deduct interest on capital before calculating the ninety per cent. "profits" to be distributed among policyholders. That was his view, and the legal representatives of the company had agree with his interpretation. Hence this bill, which was, of course, retroactive. For himself, he was prepared to support the bill as it simply set at rest any doubts as to the legality of the operations of 30 years, for which period the policyholders had slept on their rights. So long as no litigation was on foot the bill simply meant the interpretation of a statute.

Mr. Borden emphasized the objection of insufficiency of notice, pointing out that there was nothing in the advertisement to show that it was intended to declare that "profits" to be divided among policyholders should not include profits from the company's investments of capital.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier suggested that this point be reserved until the fourth clause was reached.

Mr. Northrup also supported the motion for delay. The promoter of the bill had declared before the banking and commerce committee that the bill was not retroactive. Now the Minister of Justice said it was.

Mr. Foster also counselled reconsideration.

Mr. Fielding agreed that in a matter affecting so many policyholders deliberate action was advisable. Moreover, if the legislation was not proper, it should not pass. Speaking for himself, however, he thought the bill a good one. For 30 years it had been the practice of the company to deduct the profits accruing upon the capital before dividing profits between shareholders and policyholders.

It was the practice of companies generally both here and in England, and it had been specifically incorporated in the new insurance bill. That bill, however, would not be retroactive, so that the bill now under consideration was necessary. It was under this practice that the shareholders had put in $875,000 of new capital.

The G T P. loan resolution upon which the bill will be founded will not be taken up till Tuesday of next week. The Government has promised the Opposition considerable information in connection with the road's finances before the matter is brought up in the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in the House in the afternoon, but rested at home last night.

WHITLA BOY RETURNED.

Kidnappers Send Stolen Lad Back to His Father.

Cleveland, O., March 23.—Little Willie Whitla, who has caused his parents great anxiety and the police of the entire country worry since he was kidnapped from school in Sharon, Pa., last Thursday, was returned to his father at the Hollenden Hotel here last night at 8.30 p.m.

In compliance with an agreement entered into between the boy's father and an agent of the kidnappers here yesterday, the boy was placed on a street car on the outskirts of the city and started to the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock. Two boys, G. W. Ramsay and Edward Mahoney, recognized the lad on the car and taking him in charge, conducted him to his father, who was in waiting according to a preagranged plan which he had followed at the dictation of the kidnappers.

The boy wandered about the hotel lobby unannounced for several minutes asking bellboys for his father before the latter knew his son was in the big foyer. The moment Mr. Whitla heard that a strange boy was in the hotel sauntering about in aimless fashion, he rushed across the lobby, grasped him in his arms and smothered his face with kisses.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Evening Bulletin made its first appearance yesterday at Prince Rupert.

The C.P.R. has arranged a meeting with its mechanics at Winnipeg to hear the proposals of the men.

C.P.R. officials emphatically deny the reported resignation of Robert Kerr, passenger traffic manager.

The C.P.R. is negotiating for an elevator site at Vancouver in connection with its plans to ship wheat via the Pacific.

The Railway Commission will take up the telephone rates as soon as it finishes with the express rates investigation.

The hot-heads among the French strikers are attempting to humiliate the Government by forcing a public confession of weakness.

The minority report on the Payne tariff bill presented to Congress at Washington yesterday describes the bill as crude, indefinite, sectional and prohibitive.

J. L. Wright has appeared before the Sarnia council with a proposition for a railway from St. Mary's to Sarnia to connect with the C.P.R. line from Woodstock to Port Burwell.

Must Muzzle Dogs.

Simcoe, Ont., March 23.—Rabies has again broken out in Simcoe. A small black dog belonging to Frank La Fortune, a liveryman, showing signs of having been affected, was destroyed Friday, and one belonging to F. R. Pursel, was shot Saturday.

It appears that La Fortune's dog bit a lad about 11 years of age, named Gurling, on Thursday, and it has been thought advisable to have the boy taken to the Pasteur Institute at New York. At a special meeting of the town council, held at noon yesterday, it was decided to assist in the expenses of sending the boy.

Mayor Sihler has issued a proclamation that all dogs must be muzzled for two months.

Broker Arrested.

Toronto, March 23.—Charged with conspiracy to defraud the public by influencing the price of Gowganda stocks through illegal means, William Joel, broker, room 121 Confederation Life Building, and living at the Broadview Hotel, at Broadview and Queen streets, was arrested by Detective Kennedy at his office at 4 o'clock yesterday.

It is alleged that Joel is the moving figure in the Elkhardt Proprietary Silver Mines, and the Gowganda Premier Silver Mines, of which he is listed as a director.

May Not Cut Off.

St. Catharines, Ont., March 23.—That the city license commissioners may not accede to the request of the people of this city, as expressed in a majority vote, that seven licenses be be cut off this year, seems evident. It is, however, quite probable that the number will be reduced by three or four, at least, according to a statement made to a deputation from the Citizens' League, by the chairman, J. D. Chaplin.

Silver Dart Again.

Halifax, March 23. J. A. D. McCurdy, in the Silver Dart, made two successful flights on the ice at Baddeck yesterday morning, covering a distance of about six miles in eight minutes.

Mr. J. T. Baldwin, chief engineer of the association, also made a flight in the Silver Dart yesterday, but as the wind was puffy at the time, Mr. Baldwin shut off power and glided to the ice.

Banwell on Parole.

Kingston, March 23—It was made known yesterday that George Banwell, former Crown Bank felon, had been released on parole from prison. He was let out on St. Patrick's Day and had served all but two months of his four-year term, less the six months deduction for good conduct. As a result he is not entirely free, as for the next twelve months he will be watched and have to report. He left prison in good health and returned to Toronto.

Another man named Kew, sentenced to life at Toronto several years ago, was let out on ticket-of-leave, and John Houghton of Toronto was let out on good behavior, after serving three years on a five-year term for highway robbery.

Firemen Knocked Out.

Toronto, March 23.—For the first time since the second fire of a week ago Sunday in the Crown Coal Co. yards, at the foot of West Market street, no firemen were at work on the coal piles last night, although two lines of hose were left.

The fire has been in many respects the most stubborn and the most dangerous the fire department have ever had to contend with. Three firemen are in hospital, another one ill at his home and others have suffered more or less serious illness as a result of the blaze, due principally to the noxious gases which the blazing coal has originated. In addition numerous of the laborers who have been employed in shifting the coal in the pile which was first on fire have been affected.

All Over In a Day.

Richmond, Va., March 23.—Arthelius Christian, a negro, who, in Botetourt County, on Feb. 18, waylaid and then stabbed to death a young white girl, was electrocuted in the penitentiary yesterday. Christian was indicted, tried and convicted within 24 hours after his capture.

Crime at North Bay.

North Bay, March 23.—Two men attempted to force an entrance to the residence of J. R. Moffatt, manager of the Bank of Ottawa, here, on Sunday night about 9 o'clock. As Mrs. Moffatt was leaving the house Saturday night, a man stepped out of the shadow and struck at her with a sandbag. She dodged the blow, and escaped her assailant.

Two men were found in a C.P.R. passenger coach, which they had unlocked, having a set of skeleton keys in their possession. One made his escape.

Airship Carried Twenty-Six.

Berlin, March 23.—Soaring like a mighty bird, Count Zeppelin's dirigible airship, Sunday, created a world's record for weight carried in cruising the sky. The huge dirigible ascended from its quarters at Lake Constance bearing Count Zeppelin, ten aeronauts of the German army and 15 soldiers. The flight covered 150 miles and the airship was in air four hours.

$100,000 For Secret Service.

New York, March 23.—The police commissioner, Bingham, has asked the board of aldermen for a special appropriation of $100,000 to pay the expenses of a secret investigation became known yesterday. It is believed the fund if obtained will be used to continue the work on which Lieut. Petrosino was engaged in Italy when he was assassinated.

To Balloon Across Continent.

Boston, March 23.—A balloon journey from the Pacific to the Atlantic Oceans, across the breadth of the United States, has been practically assured for the near future by the announcement that the Aero Club of Seattle, Washington, will finance such a journey, to be undertaken by Henry Helm Clayton of the Blue Hill Observatory.

Woman to Be Electrocuted.

Albany, N.Y., March 23.—Governor Hughes announced yesterday that he had denied the application for executive clemency in the case of Mrs. Mary Farmer, under sentence of death for murder.

Home Boy's Fortune.

Waterborough, Queen's, N.B., March 23.—Eleven or twelve months ago Thomas W. Parsons came to this province, a lad from the Middlemore Home School, Birmingham, England, and was domiciled with Stephen Yeamans, Newcastle, and later with Dr. Earle. A few days ago he received word that by the death of an uncle in England he was heir to the sum of at least $20,000.

Chinese Smuggler Sentenced.

Buffalo, N.Y., March 23.—Riley, one of the three Chinese smugglers whose boats were wrecked on the breakwater in November last, and six Chinamen were drowned, pleaded guilty yesterday to smuggling Chinamen and was sentenced to one year and one day in the Erie County Penitentiary, the maximum penalty.

New U.S. Solicitor-General.

Washington, D.C., March 23.—President Taft late yesterday announced the appointment of Lloyd Bowers of Chicago, to be Solicitor-General of the United States.

Mr. Bowers is general counsel for the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad.

Perils of the Sea.

Boston, March 23.—Two hundred and twenty-one persons perished by shipwreck, and 89 vessels met with disaster off the New England and British North American coasts during the fall and winter season of 1908-09, which ended on Sunday night.

Reservists Want Grant.

Ottawa, March 23.—The third special service battalion Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, who served at Halifax during the Boer war, are seeking a similar Government grant to that given to those who served at the front.

"Truth" Criticizes Mr. Earle's "Our Schools and Teachers"

Peterborough, March 21st, 1909.
The Editor, Daily Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Though fighting shy, ordinarily, of newspaper discussion of a sacred subject, I feel constrained to offer a few critical remarks on Mr Barton Earle's second article on "Our Schools and Teachers."

In the first place, he treats the Bible as an ordinary book. If it is, then the statement in it that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God" is fallacious and misleading, and the words, "holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" mean nothing at all.

I quite agree with Mr. Earle that "the difficulty is to find out what is taught," in the Bible and that "all attempts to solve the problems that concern the soul by mere intellectual efforts will necessarily prove failures. Pilate's peevish question, "What is Truth?" has rolled on down through the centuries till, to-day, it is louder and more insistent than ever. Please note that Pilate did not wait for the answer to his question, and thus it is with many today. "They love darkness rather than light." I like Mr. Earle's fine broad spirit of religious liberty when he writes, "I positively refuse to accept dogmatic teaching on any subject whatever."

Just here, if you, Mr. Editor, will kindly permit, I would like to quote, "in extenso," from a little book now before me and but recently acquired. Paul writes: "Which things also we speak, not in words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Spirit teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them for they are spiritually discerned." Often people imagine that they are obeying Paul's words to the letter when they use marginal references and various concordances more or less complicated. But that is not what the apostle means by, "comparing spiritual things with spiritual." The liberal meaning of the words he wrote is: "Combining spiritual things with spiritual words." That is to say, not only did the Holy Spirit teach Paul the great truths He would have him utter, but He supplied him with the words which fittingly give expression to these truths.

Therefore, not only do we require to know exactly what these words are, but we need the power of the Spirit to discern the truths of which these words are but an expression, for it pertains to the nature of all things earthly to be imperfect, and the special imperfection of language is that it is capable of more meanings than one. A speaker may desire to make himself clear on a certain point, but when his speech appears in cold type, without the guidance of his voice and facial expression, his readers are often in danger of misunderstanding him. Suppose he be Prime Minister and it is necessary that his meaning should be clear, what ought his readers to do? Apply to the speaker of course. In the case of an author should a discussion arise as to what is his meaning in a certain important passage of his book, what is the best thing to do? Apply to the author of course.

If Paul were the real author of the books that bear his name in the New Testament, such a simple method would be inadmissable for he is dead. But the true Author is the Holy Spirit, and He is present. Nay, His very bought of a tree that stretched over a • • • • • A shield hung from the bough of a trees that stretched over a fountain. Two knights approaching from opposite directions stopped to refresh themselves and their steeds at the fountain. Says the one to the other, "I wonder who left this golden shield hanging here?" To which the other replied, "I, too, wonder; but please observe that the shield is not golden but silvern." And it was only the timeous discovery that the shield was golden on one side and silvern on the other that saved these two knights from shedding each other's blood.

It is well to remember this traditional illustration of the fact that every truth has more than one side to it, for in (1) I dwelt on the necessity of knowing the very letter, and in (2) of being instructed by the Spirit. And I would say again both are necessary, for before the Spirit can teach me the truths hidden under the letter it is absolutely necessary that I should know the letter under which the divine truths lie hidden, for it is by the Spirit that the letter and the truth have been combined."

One more point, Mr. Editor, and I have done. In connection with the statement that He, (Jesus), "did not, by death, redeem mankind from the consequences, which have no existence, of a fall, which never happened," I would respectfully submit that "God created man upright, but he has sought out many inventions"; also, that "Christ," the great antitype of all the types, "by the grace of God, tasted death for every man." And what about the statement that the "Blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanseth us from all sin?"

Jew and Gentile alike will be held to account for that awful tragedy enacted nearly two thousand years ago on the middle Cross on Calvary, "when Christ, the Mighty Maker, died, for man, His creatures's sin." Do we not read "then the band, (Roman soldiers) and the captain, (Roman also) and the officers of the Jews took Jesus and bound Him."

Dear Sir, I am,
Yours, etc.,
TRUTH.

HARRY DARRELL FOUND.

Toronto Man Is Discovered Safe In Detroit.

Toronto, March 23.—"He just got a sudden idea that he was tired of the whole thing," said E. C. Wedd, speaking of his brother-in-law, Harry Darrell, whom he saw in the Burns Hotel, Detroit, Sunday.

Mr. Darrell disappeared on the afternoon of Jan. 15, and for a time it was thought, as he evidently intended it should be, that he had been drowned in the bay. As a matter of fact he took a train to Chicago and immediately secured a position with a produce company by whom he is now employed as a salesman in and about Detroit. He has changed his name and is known in Detroit as "Harry Douglas."

E. C. Wedd, his brother-in-law, received word Saturday from a friend of his who met Darrell in Detroit and to whom Harry admitted his identity. Mr. Wedd immediately informed Mrs. Darrell that her husband had been found. Mrs. Darrell was overjoyed at the news.

Mr. Wedd set out for Detroit and spent Sunday with Harry, who talked freely, saying he was well, though just a bit homesick. He said that he did not think of coming to Toronto immediately, nor does Mrs. Darrell intend going to Detroit just now. He seems a bit hazy in his mind about his leaving the city in so mysterious a way, and will only say that as business was so bad and showed no sign of improving he just "lit out."

Friends intend spending considerable time in Detroit in the near future with the hope of persuading him to return to Toronto, which they think can be done in the course of time.

Other instances are recalled in which he is credited with having been lost for days and months. One time he turned up in Switzerland, another time it was learned he had spent several days in a cottage on the island. He has always been of an exceedingly reckless temperament. In boating or sailing he would court danger and Conservatives are leading in three other constituencies, and are probably elected.

Edmonton, Alta., March 23.—At midnight returns showed the return of the Rutherford Liberal Government almost unanimously. It beats even the Whitney record in Ontario.

It looks as though the Conservatives have failed to get more than four seats at most. Only two are certain. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, is one of Calgary's two members, but Hon. W. T. Cushing led the way. Hoodley in Okotoks is also returned. In the last Legislature of 33 the Conservatives had but two, and Robertson, one of them, is among the fallen.

The Socialists have elected one man and in Red Deer Mitchener, Independent Conservative, has defeated J. T. Moore, the veteran Liberal campaigner. In Macleod, O'Neil, Conservative, is reported to be in the lead. No returns worth while have come in from Claresholm. The platform adopted by the Conservative party at Red Deer was in the main followed, but was very large forgotten in the criticisms offered the Government on its railway policy and particularly of the sharpness with which they called on the elections after dissolving the House. The Government pinned its faith on its record of administration, the railway policy and its solicitation on behalf of the workingmen.

At Calgary, owing to the split in the vote, there was opportunity for both parties to have celebrations. Hon. W. H. Cushing was escorted around the city and made a speech thanking his supporters for reelection. R. B. Bennett also expressed appreciation of the work of the Opposition. Large crowds of enthusiastic party men followed the successful candidates around the city and cheered their approval. The latest revised figures are: Cushing 2,456, Bennett 2,416, Egbert 1,842, Blow 1,831, Howells 675.

Members Of The Legislature Getting After The Motorists

Toronto, March 23.—Regulating the speed of automobiles and imprisonment of serious offenders contributed largely to the discussion in the Legislature yesterday.

J. J. Craig, the member for East Wellington, in moving the second reading of his bill, admitted that the automobile was here to stay, and probably only 10 per cent. of the motorists had caused the antagonism. He wished the county councils given the right to order automobiles off the highways certain days in the week, and the penalty for a third conviction to be imprisonment without the option of a fine, and the motor to be impounded for three months. He felt that the counties which maintained a good system of roads should have some control over them.

W. K. McNaught concurred in all that Mr. Craig had said, but felt that the proposed regulation was too radical. There were several similar bills before the House, and he suggested that they be sent to a special committee.

Hon. A. G. MacKay was in favor of improvement and cancellation of license to drive. The objection, however, to the bill was that motorists might pass through several counties in one day.

George Gooderham spoke for those who had used automobiles ever since they had been introduced into Canada, and thought that this Legislature should be guided by the experience of older countries.

Hon. W. J. Hanna said their was no objection to sending these bills to a special committee provided the committee would not deal with the question as a new matter, and apply itself directly to the rule for regulation. It was fair to say that the present statute was very complete and was frequently referred to in the United States.

The Premier agreed to the second reading, the bill to be sent to a special committee to be named later.

W. K. McNaught's bill to amend the Ontario Railway Act by enabling conductors to remain inside of cars not provided with rear-end vestibules was sent to the legal committee.

Several bills to incorporate railway companies were passed through the committee stage.

The Minister of Education's bill respecting compulsory school attendance was amended in committee. Considerable discussion arose on the point when children are absent receiving religious instruction, but the Premier felt that no anomaly would be found to exist in the working of the act.

J. C. Elliott has introduced a bill to refer disputes concerning the maintenance and construction of bridges between township and municipalities to the county judge.

J. McEwing seeks to amend the Assessment Act by equalizing the business assessment in towns.

Other bils introduced were: An act to amend the Municipal Act, Hon. Dr. Reaume; an act respecting the Department of Education, Hon. Dr. Pyne; an act to amend the supplementary Revenue Act (1907). Hon. F. Cochrane; an act to amend the act respecting Burlington Beach, Hon. F. Cochrane; an act to amend the Free Grants and Homestead Act, Hon. F. Cochrane; an act to amend the law respecting mine accidents and the operation of mines, Hon. F. Cochrane.

Russian Prince Dead.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—Prince Michael Hilkoff (Khilkoff), a member of the Council of the Empire and formerly Minister of Communications, died suddenly on Sunday. He was present at the inaugural meeting of the Russo-British chamber of commerce, when he fainted. The prince was removed to his residence, but did not regain consciousness.

Prince Hilkoff was well known in the United States, where he secured his railway training. To him belongs the credit of getting the maximum amount of work out of the Siberian Railway during the war with Manchuria.

A Kidnapper's Remorse?

Los Angeles, Calif., March 23.—Mystery surrounds the motive for the following personal advertisement in a newspaper:

"Would like to communicate with people who had girl by the name of Pearl stolen in Chicago 18 years ago. Address P. O. Box 441."

Gilbert Woodill of this city admits that he inserted the advertisement, but refuses further information.

Pleased With Idea.

London, March 23.—Lord Crewe has expressed to Premier Ward his appreciation of New Zealand's offer of battleships, which he has communicated to the King, the Premier and the Admiralty.

At a dinner at Sydney, Australia, four citizens offered to contribute $175,000 if it was decided to present Britain with a Dreadnought by public subscription.

No Obstacles For Road.

Galt, March 23.—Engineers surveying the route of the Hamilton, Galt, Guelph Electric Road (Patterson project) are here and say no great obstacles are found. Construction work commences at once. Mayor Patterson and G. R. Barrie, a leading farmer, have been chosen valuators of land taken for the right of way.

Defence Hints at Plot.

North Bay, March 23.—The case of Edgar Cahill was taken up in the High Court yesterday, the charge being theft of money and forgery of payee's name at Elk Lake postoffice. T. M. McGarry defended and A. E. H. Creswick was crown prosecutor.

The chief witnesses for the prosecution were Postoffice Inspector Bolduc, who swore that accused admitted to him that he cashed the order in question, and Alonze Payne, handwriting expert of Ottawa, who gave his opinion that the writing on the forged order, and the writing of accused bore the same characteristics. Judge Latchford charged in favor of prisoner and the jury acquitted him. Cahill is barely 20 years of age, and was assistant postmaster at Elk Lake. His own straightforward evidence helped his case. The defence rested strongly on lack of evidence and more than hinted at a plot, in which the accused was to be sacrificed to ulterior motives.

Two Lads Drown.

Hamilton, March 23.—Albert Harvey, aged 11, and William Gould, aged 9, adopted sons of Mr. Baker, Tintern, about eight miles south of Beamsville, were drowned on Saturday in the Twenty Mile river, while attempting to save their dog from drowning.

Young Man's Suicide.

Kingston, March 23.—"I have done it." In these dramatic words William Blakely of Sharbot Lake, aged 22, announced to his brother that he had made a successful attempt to take his life by swallowing a two-ounce vial of carbolic acid.

Sues For Loss by Quarantine.

Kingston, March 23.—The proprietor of the Iroquois Hotel, which was quarantined last fall, on account of the smallpox scare, is billing the city for about $400 damages by the loss of trade during the time the hotel was closed.

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY MARCH 23 1909

WILL DRILL ON MONDAY

Officers of 57th Regiment Decide Upon Change of Day of Weekly Drill From Tuesday to Monday.

TO BE IN NEW ARMOURIES.

It is altogether likely that the moving over of the 57th Regiment from their old quarters to the new armouries will take place on the opening drill night, remarked a prominent military man to an Examiner reporter this morning. The drill season opens on the first Monday in April. The change from Tuesday to Monday being decided upon last night at a meeting of the officers of the regiment. It is expected that the armouries will be ready then as it was intimated some weeks ago that there would be no drills held in the old shed.

The moving of the accoutrements is all done by the men, there being no carter employed when a regiment moves. Everything will be transferred to the new building in one march, the work being carried out according to military order.

ITALIAN GRAND OPERA IN "CARMEN" FRIDAY NIGHT

Manager F. M. Norcross of the Royal Italian Grand Opera Company is in the city to-day arranging for the return date of this attraction. As Manager Turner of the Grand has had a number of applications from his patrons to have the Company present Carmen in four acts, this will be produced with the same principals, chorus, scenic accessories and the excellent orchestra of twenty-five specially engaged musicians. Mr. Norcross says the subscription list seems to warrant a capacity house. This is posibly the last opportunity the people of Peterborough will have to witness grand opera given in its entirety. The reputation of excellency this Company gained here during their last visit is proof enough that the opera will be given with the same effect and finish. Mr. Norcross leaves to-night for Quebec, where the Company produces eight different operas in one week.

ADDRESS ON ASTRONOMY OF TENNYSON TO-NIGHT

An interesting evening is expected at the meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Royal Astronomical Society to-night, when the speaker will be Mr. John A. Paterson, K.C., of Toronto, who will address the society on "The Astronomy of Tennyson." Mr. Paterson, who is well known throughout Ontario not only because of his law business in Toronto, but also because of his connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement, is an enthusiastic astronomer and in his trip to Europe last year visited some of the famous observatories on the other side of the Atlantic. An enjoyable evening may be expected, and there will no doubt be a large number on hand to hear Mr. Paterson.

A SMALL BLAZE AT PETER HAMILTON'S

A blaze that might have resulted in much damage being done had it not been noticed when it was started in the roof of the Peter Hamilton Co's. foundry last evening about five minutes to seven. A spark from the smokestack was the cause. The brigade was called, but the fire was extinguished by a couple of pails of water without the assistance of the firemen. The damage done was slight.

THREE LIVES WERE LOST IN BAD FIRE WHICH TOTALLY DESTROYED WINDSOR HOTEL, CORNWALL, TO-DAY

THE DEAD.—E. Duquette, a carpenter, of Winchester, Ont; George Hagley, Philadelphia, Pa.; John Callon, a cooper employed by the Cornwall Brewing Company.

THE INJURED.— — St.Clair, back injured, cuts on head and feet; —— Bessener, broken legs, internal injuries; A. McMillan, A. Rice, W. Mooney, Mrs. King.

Cornwall, March 23.—Three lives were lost and several other people were seriously injured in a fire which destroyed the Windsor Hotel here early this morning. The flames spread so quickly through the building that three of the inmates were unable to make their escape from the burning building, and were burned to death, while others escaped in their night clothes by jumping from the upper windows. It was while making their escape in this way that Messrs. St. Clair and Bessener were injured so severely. The latter is very badly hurt and may not survive.

There were thirty people in the hotel and all might have lost their lives had not the alarm been given by a dog. As it was there was a scene that will not soon be forgotten. The guests and employees of the hotel got out as best they could, and most of them fortunately escaped uninjured, although they lost everything they had with them. Three, however, were unable to make their escape and it is supposed that they were overcome with smoke, before they could reach a position of safety.

The building which was managed by Mr. Alex. Laplante, was gutted, and the loss will be considerable.

SMALL BOYS ARE AFRAID OF WILD CATS AND SHUN FORMER HAUNTS

The small boys who have been in the habit of going out to the winter green patch on Saturday afternoon could not be induced to go past the city's limit since the report has been spread that there are wildcats a few miles out on the C.P.R.tracks. In their imaginations they picture themselves suddenly confronted with one of these terrible animals while looking for the dainty wintergreens, and they further see themselves being scratched and eaten up with no one near to lend a helping hand. Parents who have been fearing that their hopefuls have been getting into mischief on Saturday afternoons need not fear in the future as the most daring will not attempt to go out to the haunts of these wildcats.

CITY FATHERS PREPARING TO ENTERTAIN PRESS ASSOCIATION

The visit of the Canadian Press Association is being recognized by the city fathers as an event of more than usual importance, and arrangements are being made to adequately receive them. A special train will bring the newspaper men to the city at 10.15 o'clock. The train will be run into the Canadian General Electric Company's yards and these buildings will be inspected. The Cordage Company's plant will also be seen in operation from 12 to 1 o'clock, and the machinery will be kept in operation until that time. Luncheon will be had at the three hotels, the Oriental, National and Snowden House. In the afternoon the lift lock will be visited and afterwards the visitors will leave the city for their homes. It has been suggested that the merchants make the streets as decorative as they can, as this will be one of the best advertisements Peterborough ever received and the cost is practically nothing. They will return to their homes and this city will be written up in reference to the visit. The Aldermen will meet the special train at one of the stations between here and Toronto for the purpose of meeting the visitors.

THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL IS NOW PRACTICALLY ASSURED THIS YEAR

The Isolation Hospital question is apparently receiving real attention at last. The Property Committee has at last taken hold of the thing seriously and are going to call for tenders very shortly.

Alderman Bradburn informed the Property Committee [illegible] committee must [illegible] an Isolation Hospital and take it up at once. The city must have some place to take patients suffering from contagious diseases. There have been many cases of scarlet fever in the city this year and many of them among the working people and they are at great loss. The men not only lose their wages by being locked up in their house but they are under great expense as well. It is a different matter when fever breaks out in a family where a nurse can be secured and the patient isolated in the house.

The Board of Health has had plans prepared by Mr. Blackwell for a hospital. These plans provided for a three storey building with basement.

The plans for the hospital were carefully considered and it was decided that the chairman secure specifications from Mr. Blackwell and then call for tenders. A motion to this effect was passed.

It is the intention to build the hospital on the city's farm.

YOUNG MAN WAS FINED TWO DOLLARS

A young man was fined two dollars at the police court this morning. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty to the drunk p[illegible] but positively denied that he was disorderly. His Worship imposed the fine for being drunk and allowed the disorderly offence to go unpunished.

ON A VISIT TO THE CITY

Mr. E. C. Zuppinger, of Noted Firm of Engravers in London, Eng., Here---Guest At Hotel National.

MAKING TOUR THROUGH CANADA

Mr. C. Zuppinger, a member of the firm of noted engravers by that name in London, England, was in the city to-day, registered at the Hotel National.

Mr. Zuppinger, although having only reached Peterborough this morning, expressed himself as being favourably impressed with what he had seen of it. Mr. Zuppinger is on a pleasure trip, and has been travelling through Western Canada and the United States, visiting the many places of interest. Of course he was attracted to this city on hearing of the highest lift lock in the world being situated here. He visited the locks this afternoon.

He will spend a few days here before proceeding to St. John's, from where he will said for England.

$50 FOR INFORMATION RE FALSE ALARMS

The city has decided to increase its offer of twenty-five dollars to fifty dollars for the information which will lead to the conviction of any person who has sent in a false alarm to the fire department. This was determined upon last night, it being thought that if the offer would be any inducement it was worth while, providing it led to a conviction.

Mr. J. J. Gillman, who has been conducting the summer resort at Jubilee Point, has put in a big supply of ice for next summer and from all accounts there will be enough ice to meet every demand of the summer. Last summer, owing to the existing conditions, Mr. Gillman did not secure a supply and during the tourist season he had to bring his ice down from the city. Mr. Dan McAllister is reported having filled three ice houses at Jubilee and everything in this respect is ready for a good season.

TWO YOUTHS CHARGED WITH THEFT OF CARDS

Two youths about fourteen years of age were charged with stealing a number of Easter post cards from Mr. A. H. Stratton's bookstore yesterday afternoon. They pleaded not guilty and as their parents and the Solicitor of the Children's Aid Society were not present, the case was enlarged until four o'clock this afternoon.

FRED SIMPSON TALKS OF HIS CONTEST WITH SHRUBB AND HIS PROSPECTS FOR FUTURE RACES

Fred Simpson was in town to-day on his way home to Hiawatha, where he will spend a few days before returning to resume training for his next race. Speaking of his contest with Shrubb to the Examiner, Fred said that he was very much disappointed over the race or rather over the fact that he was in such a condition that he could not do justice to himself.

"I was so choked up with a cold in the bronchial tubes," he said, "that I could breath only with the greatest difficulty and I could hardly finish the race so hard was it for me to run. Why twelve miles is nothing but a sprint for me when I am right, yet I was more nearly in than I have ever been at twentyfive miles. I have not been well for the past two weeks and we tried to postpone the race, but it was not possible owing to the fact that Shrubb has a race in Ottawa this week and the big American Marathon comes the week after. My time was very slow for ten miles, but had I been racing Shrubb the night I broke the records, it would have been a very different proposition."

Fred has not given up hope of being allowed to start in the American Derby, which will be held at the Polo Grounds, New York, on April 3, although the papers state that the entries will be confined to five or at the outside six.

"I think my chances of being one of the number are good," he remarked to-day, "and I am keeping in shape for it anyway. I have a race in Brantford next week and I have yet two races with Shrubb, who guaranteed me two matches at 15 and 20 miles.

RESIDENTS OF EAST CITY WILL BE GIVEN TWO MAIL DELIVERIES A DAY

Mr. Durstan, Post Office Inspector for this district, is in the city in connection with the changing of the mail carriers' system of delivery. Residents of east city will now have two services a day, whereas in the past they have had only the one, the postman in that section of the city doing north of Hunter street in the morning and the south end in the afternoon.

The change has necessitated the appointment of an extra mail carrier, but the better service will be greatly appreciated by the people on the East side.

HELD INTERESTING MEETING YESTERDAY

Debate by Members of the Collegiate Philomathean Society—A good Programme.

The regular meting of the Collegiate Philomatheon Society was held yesterday evening in the Assembly Hall. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes which were approved and signed.

The programme proper commenced with a delightful violin solo by Mr. Roy Rankin. This was followed by a debate between Forms I B and I A: "Resolved That the Uncivilized Man is as Happy as the Civilized." Form IB, which supported the affirmative, was seriously handicapped by the illness of the two members who were to have spoken, but Miss Carveth and Mr. B. Lees, who kindly took the position at the last moment acquitted themselves very creditably. The speakers from I A. Miss Shearer and Mr. Langford were both very good, and presented excellent material in their speeches. As was only to be expected the negative won.

The rest of the programme consisted of a vocal solo by Miss F. Routley, a very interesting reading by Mr. B. Hamilton, and brilliantly rendered piano solo by Miss O. Letellier. The meeting was criticized by Mr. Harvey, and closed in the usual manner.

REV. MR. McLENNAN AT SPRINGVILLE

Norwood Divine Pleased the Congregation With His Singing.

Rev. Geo. McLennan, of Norwood, occupied the pulpit of the Springville Presbyterian church on Sunday and demonstrated his versatility by singing three solos. In the morning he rendered "The Homeland" and in the evening "The Sparrows" and "Oh, What a Change." Mr. McLennan has a splendid voice and his solos were greatly appreciated by the congregation. It is likely that Rev. Mr. Thompson of Hastings, will be the preacher at Springville on Sunday next.

WEDDING BELLS

MORROW—JOHN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Thomas Jobe, 51 Ware street, when his daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. John Morrow, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of George St. Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Morrow. The bride looked charming in an Empire gown of white taffeta silk. She wore the conventional bridal veil and carried white roses. She was assisted by Miss Ella Morrow, who was becomingly attired in a dress of ecru pongee silk. She carried pink roses.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed on the young couple the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow left on the 4.3[illegible] train for Toronto and points west.

MAYOR RUSH CALLED UPON FOR THE SELECTION OF THE MARKET CLERK

With the aldermen equally divided on the question of retaining ex-Ald. George Ball as Market Clerk for the coming year Mayor Rush found it his duty to cast the deciding vote and Mr. Ball remains in the position which he has held during the past year. The Property Committee, in their report, presented the result of the tenders they had received, and had recommended that Mr. Robert Bradburn be appointed to the clerkship of the market, his tenders being the highest, $1,015.00. Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Duncan, moved that the committee's report be adopted. A discussion commenced by Ald. Phelan was entered upon with the above result.

Ald. Phelan thought that Mr. Ball was hardly receiving fair treatment. He had resigned his place on the Council to accept the position as Market Clerk, and as far as was known he had given good satisfaction and Mr. Ball should be given a little consideration. Ald. Phelan had not spoken to the Market Clerk about the matter, but he thought good service had been rendered, and it was a short call that was now being given.

Ald. Bradburn stated that the Market receipts to the present and estimated accordingly to March 31st, were $1,479.33. The cost to the city, including the Clerk's salary, amounted to $839.30, leaving the city's net receipts at $656.00. The highest tender was $1,015, letting the market to the tenderer meant a saving of $359 over the past year.

Ald. Butler was in favour of continuing the market with Mr. Ball as clerk. The farmers had gained more confidence during the past year than in any other for some years past and he knew of instances where goods which were formerly weighed at Ballachbro were now being weighed on the city's scales.

Ald. Duncan said that a fair deal should be given to everybody. Mr. Ball had the chance to submit a tender, but he did not do so. Ald. Duncan was considering the question from a business standpoint, and from the viewpoint of a ratepayer. The man who secured the position by tender would endeavour to encourage them to attend the market, whereas Mr. Ball was drawing a salary and was indifferent.

"What was the use of advertising for tenders if we are not going to make use of them?" he asked.

Ald. Metheral was also of the opinion that as a matter of business the report of the committee should be adopted.

The Report.

The committee's report was as follows:

1. We received the following tender for the market tolls and charges for the year beginning April 1st.

A. S. Maguire, $900.
W. A. Stabler, $950.
Jas. McGibbon, $951.
Jas. Girson, $925.
Robert Bradburn, $1,015.
Alexander Northey, $1,000.

We recommend that the tender of Robert Bradburn be accepted.

We recommend that this committee be authorized to ask for tenders for the erection of a building for an isolation hospital in accordance with the plans made by Mr. W. Blackwell, and sent to the Council by the Board of Health.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALD. BRADBURN,
Chairman.

Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald. Butler, moved in amendment, that Mr. Ball be retained. The amendment lost, only four supporting it, as follows: Ald. Phelan, Butler, Gillespie, and Duffus.

Re-Introduced.

A few minutes later Ald. Duffus, after the matter had been apparently settled, stated that all had not voted and he asked that the ayes and nays be taken. Ald. Morrow remarked that he had not voted. He had understood that tenders were being asked for, but that an appointment was not to be made. Mr. Ball had been a member of the Council and had given up his business to accept the position of Sanitary Inspector. This office was not found and Mr. Ball was made Market Clerk. From every account, he had given good satisfaction and now, without any notice he was being discharged. Hence Ald. Morrow stated that he had not voted.

The result of the ensuing vote for the amendment that Mr. Ball be retained resulted as follows:

Ayes—Ald. Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Gillespie, Buller and Duffus.

Nays — Ald. Metheral, Turner, Bradburn, Morgan, Duncan, and Hicks.

The Mayor cast his vote with the ayes.

THE MARKET TOLLS

From the point of view of the city's larger interest the decision to retain the collection of the market tolls in the hands of the city is a proper one. It may be that the city treasury will not receive quite so much revenue; but the gain in other respects will more than counterbalance this. Our merchants, business men, and the patrons of the market will receive much more than two or three hundred dollars' benefit from the more friendly relation that will exist between the farmers and the city people by the city itself collecting the tolls. As before pointed out the city collector does not exact the last pound of flesh—the uttermost farthing—and the result will be as it has been the past year, a more friendly feeling between the farmers and the city. There is reason for the assertion that the farming community are well pleased with the city's administration of the market. There has been less of dispute and friction, an almost entire absence of police court litigation, altogether the conditions are much more harmonious and comfortable and both city and country are the gainers. It has also been pointed out that under the lease plan the lessor, as a matter of business, is justified in collecting to the last penny and exacting the letter of his rights. Naturally the farmers will meet him in the same spirit, and the sufferers will not be the lessor, but the citizens generally, the purchasers of produce on the market, and to probably a much greater extent than the small difference in the amount of revenue involved.

The construction of a new waterworks dam at a cost of $120,000 will not add a cent to the general tax rate.

ALBERTA ELECTIONS.

The Liberal Government of Alberta must have well administered its trust and merited the sweeping renewal of public confidence it received in the general elections yesterday. It comes back with an undiminished strength of support in the new parliament. In the first general election, in 1905, there were 25 Liberals and two Conservatives returned, and after four years of excellent and progressive administration, yesterday, with additional seats created in the interim, there were returned 28 Liberals, two Conservatives and two Independents.

Amongst the Liberals elected was Mr. W. A. Buchanan, editor of the Lethbridge Herald, an old Peterborough boy, to whom The Examiner extends cordial congratulations, in which his many friends in Peterborough and district will join.

Alberta had 10,000 population in 1871; now the population is 250,000—or twenty-five fold increase in a generation.

A SPLENDID OPENING.

The reports of the survey engineers of the eastern division of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway add further testimony in disproof of the assertion made by Conservative critics and Little Canadians that the Port Arthur-Moncton section would pass through a sterile country that would not stand development and consequently would not furnish paying traffic. In his speech in reference to Government railways recently made in Parliament Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, quoted extensively from these reports. While not referring to minerals they show that the railway will traverse large areas of arable land—arable clay—and that between Lake Nepigon in the West and La Tugue in the East there is as much land capable of agricultural development as is embraced in the now settled portions of older Ontario. Summarized generally, the reports show that along the line of the railway in district "C," commencing about four miles east of the Bell River, Quebec, and extending to the western boundary of that province, a distance of about 100 miles, is an area of about 3,712,000 acres, of which, it is said, 2,500,000 acres will make good farming land, while most of the rest of the area can probably be drained so as to make it fertile. The whole territory is well watered, being interspersed with fine lakes and rivers. The land is described as a good clay soil, easily drained, and there is reason to believe that the arable area extends much farther north than is now shown.

In district "D," which commences with the eastern boundary of Ontario and extends westward to the 74th mile, or mile 185 on the map, there are about 1,344,000 acres of arable land fit for cultivation upon clearing. From mile 185 on the map to mile 285 there is an immense tract equal to any agricultural land in Canada, being a succession of long ridges interspersed with swamps which can be readily drained. The country is well watered and has an abundance of good fuel. There is an area of 7,500 square miles, 6,000 of which, or 3,800,000 acres, are considered good arable land. The country is covered with small spruce, balsam, and white birch, with some occasional clumps of white pine.

The valley of the Missanabie River is said to contain 500,000 acres of useful land, 300,000 of medium quality and the balance suitable for pasture, besides being well wooded. There is another large area of tributary good land, which will require drainage, as the country to the south is flatter and contains many swamps, with low clay ridges, but all with a substratum of clay. From mile 325 to mile 365 there is arable land, comprising about 1,000,000 acres. The soil is good sandy loam, well watered and timbered with small spruce, birch and balsam. From mile 355 west to mile 475 the reports show the arable land area to be much more restricted, being confined to the valleys of the large rivers. It is estimated, however, that there are 600,000 acres in this district. Thus the opening of the Grand Trunk Pacific through Ontario and Quebec will render accessible and subject to settlement and cultivation possibilities, some ten million acres of arable land, not to speak of mineral and forest resources brought within development by transportation facilities. This constitutes a splendid opening.

Of Canada's sixty-three millions of occupied area, thirty millions were improved when the 1901 census was taken.

BOOM PETERBOROUGH!

Under the heading "Boom Brantford" the Expositor has an article dealing with the manufacturing features of that city. It reproduces a map prepared—mark this—under the auspices of the Board of Trade, showing the city as a distributing centre; and it also publishes interviews with manufacturers already located in Brantford, showing the advantages which the city has to offer other manufacturers, who are in search of a new location. The opinions expressed are analyzed, and several advantages of Brantford as an industrial centre are thus indicated:

"The first is the almost entire immunity from industrial strikes which Brantford enjoys, there not having been more than half-a-dozen such occurrences in the past quarter of a century. The fact proves that Brantford employers as a rule, are disposed to treat their employees with the utmost consideration, while harmony is undoubtedly further promoted by the fact that we have a very superior class of mechanics, a large percentage of whom own their own homes and are permanently located here.

The second is that the numerous and varied lines of industry carried on ensures a ready supply of help when needed.

The third is that the cost of labour here is less than in larger cities, and household expenses are correspondingly lower.

The fourth is cheap rates of power, with every prospect of still cheaper rates in the immediate future.

The fifth is that our shipping facilities are among the best, and are constantly being improved. We have already two great steam railway systems, with the promised advent in the near future of a third while two electric systems, with extensive ramifications, make it possible to reach cheaply and expeditiously the extensive district of which this is the natural centre.

The sixth is that this is practically the centre of the agricultural implement industry in Canada, and that the growth of the West ensures a corresponding development not only of these industries, but of all cognate industries. There are no industries looking to the great West as a market but would find Brantford an advantageous centre from which to distribute their goods.

Add to the above special advantages from a manufacturing point of view, the more general advantages of natural beauty of location, good water, unrivalled schools, central geographical position, cheap insurance rates, efficient fire and police forces, and a model Ontario population, and it would seem as if nothing more could be desired.

Nearly all these advantageous conditions boasted by Brantford are possessed by Peterborough and some of them in a greater degree. Where Brantford has an advantage, if any, is in the energy and enterprise of the Board of Trade and City Council shown by the vigorous publicity campaign that is being waged. Our own Board of Trade and City Council may be doing a good deal to bring new industrial establishments to Peterborough, but it would seem that one of the most important means, the publicity department, is not receiving any too much attention. Our most prosperous merchants find extensive advertising a paying investment. Advertising the manufacturing advantages of Peterborough would on the same principle be also a paying investment; for Peterborough's possibilities as a manufacturing centre are of the most important, superior in some ways to any place in Canada. From 1901 to 1906, the output of manufactured articles in Peterborough's industries increased from $3,789,164 to $11,566,805, thus beating any city in Canada in the industrial race. Is not a city with such a record, implying corresponding potentialities, worth booming, worth advertising worth making its advantages known broadcast throughout the world?

In 1907-8 Canada exported to Great Britain, the United States and other countries, home-manufactured products to the value of $25,507,124.

THE AMERICAN TARIFF.

(Montreal Herald.)

There are clauses in the new American tariff which, off hand, one would say, might give occasion for considerable disturbance in other parts of the world. Most notable of these is the section which ordains that "the minimum rates are applied to all goods imported from any country which gives the United States as good terms by way of tariff as that given to any other nation," and which makes the maximum tariff apply, conversely, to all countries which do not treat American exports as well as others.

This is an overt demand for the good old Cobden device of most-favoured nation treatment, the importance of which in Great Britain's experience cannot be easily overestimated. It appears to be believed that, at present, only Great Britain could qualify, for Great Britain admits the goods of all countries on equal terms, and, nearly all the protectionist countries have agreements, the benefits of which do not apply to the United States. There are specific agreements between some of these countries and the United States, but these are to be denounced at once, and when that has been done the least the United States will accept is the most any other country gets. It is quite possible, but not certain, that this event may interfere with the final ratification of the Franco-Canadian trade convention. If upon examination it shall be shown that Great Britain is entitled to the advantage of a twenty per cent. lower tariff than most of its competitors in the American market, probably the news would be received in England with wailing and gnashing of teeth, considering in what quarter competition is most active. And it is even quite possible that tariff reformers would hesitate to offer special terms to Canada and other colonies if that meant the automatic transfer of British exports to the States to the maximum duty column. And no doubt there will be some searching in the Ottawa departments, too, to see to what extent we may be penalized for adhering to the British preference. What is apparent, in the midst of much that is doubtful, is that our American friends are now turning in earnest to the conquest of foreign trade, and that they are prepared to show their good faith by materially reducing many duties.

For Canada the position appears to be bettered in respect of some important items of commerce. In sole leather, in hides, in lumber, in coal, in pulp, and in paper Canada can secure great trade openings if she wants them at the price, which as to the most important of them is reciprocal free entry and no export tax. Naturally, earnest consideration will be given. What would happen if here was to be reciprocal free trade in agricultural implements is not very clear; there is always this, however, that some of the largest Canadian establishments, are branches of American establishments and such things as immunity from competition in given districts have already been heard of, unprejudiced by a pretty high tariff wall. There will be ample time to study the bearings of this apparently friendly legislation, or at least the kind of legislation which in other lays would have been found very gratifying, before the new tariff bill has taken its way through the two Houses of Congress.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mr. Foster's reproach to Hon. Mr. Templeman for being defeated in the general election and having to have a seat provided for him, was doubly unfortunate. Mr. Templeman lost his election through an election forgery, the most disgraceful political trick in the history of Canadian politics; then he should remember that he was "turned down" in his own province and not a seat—would have him—he had to seek election in a "safe" constituency, where the electors would elect almost any candidate bearing the Conservative party label.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, in speaking in the House last Friday uttered a concise and great truth when, in discussing the two-cent a mile passenger rate, he said:

"We forget often that the railways in this country are of as much importance to the country as this House itself is; the country cannot prosper without the railways. We are partners in the railways and, while I believe in making them live up to their contracts and give the people a good service at a minimum price, we must not run away with the idea that every time we attack a railway we are doing something for the country, while the fact is we may be injuring the country in pursuing such a course."

DRINK PLENTY OF GOOD WATER

Also Valuable Recipe to Relieve Kidney Trouble Anyone Can Prepare

TRY THIS AT YOUR HOME

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

Stop loading your system with medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water waggon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

To cure rheumatism you must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions you can do no better than take the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often.

This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

The Magnet as a Detective.

In America the magnet has come rather extensively into use in the handling of iron and steel castings. Suspended from a locomotive crane, it can also be used for collecting scraps of metal from floors and yards. Large amounts are said to be saved in this way. And as the magnet moves over the ground it may bring to light pieces which have mysteriously disappeared—concealed, it may be, by employees to hide blunders in their work. Some years ago in England the magnet was found useful in a somewhat similar way in the detection of fraud. Manufacturers of bone manure found that they were buying old iron along with the bones. Collectors found that it was profitable to insert bits of old metal in the larger bones and thus increase the weight. So the manufacturers provided themselves with a powerful magnetic apparatus under which all the bones were passed before being weighed. As the bones were slid along a broad groove a large one would suddenly jump up and cling to the wall where the magnet was concealed. On examination it would be found to contain perhaps a rusty old poker in place of marrow.—London Globe.

Carving a Hippopotamus.

To cut up a hippopotamus is no easy task. In some places the hide is almost two and a half inches thick, and before you have got through a hand's breadth your knife has completely lost its edge and requires to be resharpened. The head and the feet are put on one side to be preserved as trophies of the chase, while the remainder of the flesh is cut into long, thin strips, which, after they have been dried by hanging them on the tree branches, will keep good for a very long time. The ivory of the teeth and tusks, which is of very fine quality, used to be employed almost exclusively in the manufacture of false teeth. Nowadays, says the Wide World Magazine, it is turned to all the purposes of ordinary ivory. As for the hide, cut into strips it is made into sticks, which are as good defensive weapons as one could wish to possess. Treated with oil, they become transparent as tortoise shell and look quite pretty. Out of hippopotamus hide bullock drivers likewise make thongs for their whips which are positively everlasting and fetch relatively speaking quite a good price.

A Squid in Hawaii.

In discovering the failings or eccentricities of a person Hawaiians not only show perspicacity, but an aptness in applying a nickname to the one possessing such characteristics. The politician who changes his faith too often is called a squid (octopus). One species of this animal is caught by the aid of a torchlight in shallow water. While a bag net is held some distance in front of it, so that it can conveniently run into it and be caught, it is prodded behind by the fisherman's foot. Sometimes the squid will go directly into the trap, but often it will run forward, with every indication of being enmeshed, to a point within two feet of the net, when it will suddenly turn about and go back to its starting place. Then it is likely to describe a right, left or oblique angle, always contrary to the fisherman's desire. So in Hawaiian metaphor the politician or candidate who switches from the straight track is a squid.—"Paradise of the Pacific."

INDIAN WAS NOT IN CONDITION TO DO ANY JUSTICE TO HIMSELF PRESS COMMENTS ON THE RACE

The Toronto press comments on the big race are interesting. Lou Marsh says in the Star :—

Four thousand people saw Alfred Shrubb, the great English runner, make a monkey of Fred Simpson, the Ojibway thunderbolt, in a 12-mile race at the Armouries Saturday night. The tiny white man beat the big rangy redskin 5 3-4 laps in distance, and 3.44 in time, and 3,900 of those who saw the trouncing administered went away telling each other "Simpson's finish," "a second rater," "who said he was a runner," "back to the sawmills," "that Rivordale trial was faked."

Only here and there a discerning spectator recognized the real condition of affairs and gave the redskin credit for running a plucky race against overwhelming odds.

Simpson met the daddy of them all at 12 miles—his own favourite distance—took a trouncing, and the unthinking public will always say "Yes! Simpson, the man Shrubb made look like a selling plater."

There are two good reasons for Simpson's defeat. The paramount one is that Simpson's distance is about 20 miles, and that he was a starter in a race he had no chance to win, even if he were in the pink of condition. The second reason is that the redskin's lungs were congested with a severe cold, and he lacked the snap and ginger of an athlete in condition to do his best, even out of his distance.

Ran a Game Race

Simpson really ran a game race. He laid off the dizzy pace of the peerless Shrubb, and then came back at him several times between the sixth and the 10th mile, hoping against hope that the Englishman had tired and could be yet run into the ground. Only once did his spurt hold Shrubb, but the Englishman simply glued on, and when the Indian's strength failed, loosened up and went by in a tantalizing, heart-breaking style.

The story of the race is told in a paragraph. Shrubb set out at a 4.49 4-5 clip, and Simpson went back steadily after the first two laps. In five laps the little English thoroughbred had half a lap. It was three-quarters of a lap at the mile, and a lap later he was in behind the Indian taking his pace. For a mile he ambled in behind the gaunt Ojibway, and then shot by and running in grand form, made it two laps in four miles. At four miles the redskin braced up and tried Shrubb out for a mile, but Shrubb only laughed and hung on. At five miles Shrubb pulled away.

Fair Five-mile Time

26.33 4-5. At seven miles Shrubb had 3 1-1 laps. Then real enthusiasm was awakened when the Indian made his effort. He suddenly loosened up and for a while crept up. Shrubb, out in front, was legging it along around a 5.05 clip. For a while the Indian made ground. Once he cut the lead almost down to three laps. The crowd was on its feet cheering like mad. For half a mile the Indian gained. For another half he held his own, and then the Indian weakened and Shrubb sprinted and made it four laps.

At ten miles, Shrubb cut loose a classy sprint and made it five laps even. In the final sprint to the tape Shrubb, running tirelessly and spiritedly, made it 5 3-4 laps.

A Fast Track

The race was done in fairly good time. The track was fast and Shrubb was fully three minutes behind the time he said he would make over it. The Shrubb-Dorando 12 mile time at Buffalo was 1.06.22 2-5, a few seconds faster.

The race was fairly well conducted. The crowd was handled in excellent style. The race was started at the advertised hour. Those inside the enclosure were kept in their seats and all on the ground floor had a good view of the race.

To sum the race up in a paragraph, a sick runner out of his distance met a champion of champions in the pink and on his own mark.

A week's postponement would have made it a better race, but the result would have been the same, though the margin would have been less. Simpson can run the distance in 1.05, but if he had to Shrubb would do 1.04. Shrubb showed the Toronto crowd what a real 12-mile runner looks like.

The News has the following :—

Poor Simpson!

The Peterborough Indian went up against the greatest mile distance runner in the world, Alfred Shrubb, in a twelve mile race at the Armouries on Saturday night and the little Englishman won as he pleased.

Shrubb led all the way from the first crack of the pistol, and altogether he passed the Ojibway thunderbolt no less than six times, winning with a great burst of speed during the last mile, in 1.06.33. Simpson loped in after Alfred, finishing the twelve miles, picking his way through the mob which had got beyond the control of the officials.

The time of the race was very fast. Shrubb was never pressed. If he had been forced to extend himself there is no telling what time would have been made, as the little English champion seemed to be as sprightly as ever, and on the last track that was especially prepared for this event, a record would undoubtedly have been made.

Simpson sprinted only once—in the seventh mile—but it was a weak attempt. He reduced Shrubb's big lead by about 15 yards but the crowd were ever watchful, and when they saw this slight reduction they cheered the Indian on. Shrubb responded with a spurt, however, and widened the margin, soon putting more laps between Simpson and himself.

Alfred Was the Fresher

The Indian ran his own race. He never attempted to keep up to or chase the Britisher. If he ever imagined that Shrubb was going to tire or slacken his pace after the first few miles he was badly fooled. Simpson never had a chance in the world to wear Alfred down, because the latter was by far the fresher of the two at the finish, while the Indian did not seem to run strongly at any stage owing to a bad cold with which he was suffering.

His long loping stride made a big contrast to Shrubb's choppy gait. Fred never changed this swinging motion of his at any time, and really ran as if he were going it alone. One thing noticed by the crowd was that Simpson runs the same in a race as he would in an unpaced trial. Seemingly he never paid the slightest attention to his opponent, who romped away to his heart's content. The Indian finished with the same lengthy stride with which he had started out, and his steady race was admired by many.

To all appearances, Shrubb enjoyed the whole affair. The little man ran as if his sole enjoyment in life was to rip off a few miles around a track. He was as gay as a young colt, kicking his heels, and after it was all over Alfie made a 100 yard dash to his dressing room—something which opened the eyes of the spectators and caused them to appreciate his class. The Indian never changed the expression on his face, looking neither to the right nor to the left of him, but kept steadily plugging away.

Simpson Breathing Bad

In one way Simpson didn't run like a man whose special distance is the full Marathon, and yet again if the same two had been in a 26 mile race there is a possibility that the Indian might have won, if he could have lasted the whole route. Shrubb fell before Longboat in their New York Marathon in just such manner. Tom kept right at it with an easy pace, while the Britisher tore off the laps, but as everybody knows the man from over the seas killed himself. But the question is could Simpson have gone much further last night? His lungs and throat were ready in bad condition, but his legs were sound. His finish was not marked by any half raising half mile sprint such as Dorando pulled off in his 15 mile engagement in Buffalo last month. Simpson just managed to finish, and his wind was all to the bad.

Tom Eck realized the Indian's condition and actually wanted the race postponed a week, but this was impossible, and so Eck tried to get him into as good shape as possible. If Simpson had been sound there is no doubt that the time would have been much faster.

No Dramatic Scene

Mrs. Simpson arrived in Toronto from Hiawatha just before the race, and was present. But there was no dramatic scene such as has characterized one or two of Longboat's famous Marathons.

Simpson Couldn't Train

Seen before the race, Simpson was as cool as a cucumber, but even while he talked, he occasionally coughed, which he often did during the race, itself. Simpson was disappointed, Eck was disappointed and Shrubb was disappointed at the turn of affairs. None of those on the inside expected the Indian to make a good showing. Eck had done all in his power to break up the trouble, which was a bronchial affection, but without avail. Fred could not train because just as soon as the cold air would strike his lungs he was worse, and if he became overheated he also felt the after effects. So all he could do was to go for long walks and do gymnastic stunts indoors. Shrubb meanwhile pulled off a five mile jog every day—sometimes oftener — and took a ten mile walk whenever the weather permitted. Shrubb never for one moment treated his opponent lightly and trained conscientiously all the time.

On Saturday afternoon the English champion took a spin around the track to try it, covering about twelve laps, while Simpson also had a light workout a few hours before the race. Both were well satisfied with the track, which was similar to the one at Madison Square Garden, being exactly the same size. The tracks at New York and Buffalo have been much thicker, however, than this one, which was made of clay and sand mixed.

Mob Storms the Armouries

When the race was drawing to a close, preparations were made for the rush to the exits. Hardly had the doors been touched when the crowd outside became a mob, and at once they swarmed into the big building, packed as it was already. The outsiders swept aside all barricades, and tossed the soldiers and police aside like tenpins.

All around the track at that moment everyone was on tiptoe to see Shrubb going his last few laps like greased lightning, and the mob surged in behind, forcing the people in over the flimsy rope barriers and on to the track. The soldiers tried to force the crowd back, but on they came, scarcely noticing the runners as they tried to pick their way through. Shrubb found it comparatively easy and the last lap saw him tearing off a beautiful sprint, but after that it was only with the greatest difficulty that the Hiawatha Indian was able to finish at all.

The poor fellow was almost knocked down twice, and had to step over ropes and posts which had been thrown over the track. All this while pandemonium reigned. Excited men jostled each other and cheered, throwing their hats up in the air and waving British flags, but many a one gave an Indian call to the poor, lone, crushed, defeated runner, who was fighting his way to the end. Little they seemed to care for the big fellow in the blue jersey, and one thoughtless fellow actually threw a ball of crumpled-up paper at him striking him on the shoulder.

Simpson Comes In

Finally the crowd realized the situation and gave way to allow Simpson to finish. He gamely stuck to his job and crossed the finishing line without sprinting.

GRITS AND TORIES PLAY BIG GAME AT P.B.C. ALLEYS TO-NIGHT

The greatest interest is being taken in to-night's battle between the Grits and Tories at the P.B.C. alleys which promises to be the biggest event of the kind ever pulled off on the local drives. Both sides are supremely confident of victory, but whichever wins it is certain that some tall rolling will be done. The match will start sharp at 8 o'clock and three games will be played, the total pinnage to count. The teams will be as follows :—

Grits.—Geo. Cairns, Herb. Martin, Geo. Sutherland, R. M. Glover and Graham Ferguson.

Tories.—W. McIlroy, Jack Connors, Ernie Bruce, W. Wareham and J. Pollard.

The public is cordially invited to attend the game, and seats will be provided in the gallery for the fans.

The high scoring bee seems to have stung the local rollers for fair, and if the boom keeps up all week as it started in yesterday, there will be a record broken in point of two hundred scores. Yesterday there were no less than nine made, of which W. McIlroy's 231 was high. George Cairns had three in the blue ribbon class, while others who passed the double century mark were N. Perry, Fred McFadden, Herb Martin and F. D. Craig.

Mr. Gray, the commercial man who, up to Saturday, had held the alley record for three consecutive games, was in town last night and hooked up with Martin and Cairns in an exciting series of games, in which some uniformly high scoring was done, five 200-scores being thrown in during the evening.

By the way, McIlroy won the box of cigars for the best score last week. He and Harvey Staunton had tied with 248 and they rolled off yesterday, the Pacific man capturing the weeds.

Immediately afterward Hurtubise of Peterborough, and Hawkey of Kingston, met in the heavyweight class. After struggling about five minutes, a foul was declared in favour of Hawkey, on account of biting. Hurtubise refused to allow the foul, and refused to continue the match if Hawkey was allowed the advantage. A draw was declared by Referee Cartwright.

Reynard's Cunning.

While crossing an old field waist high with withered mullein stalks, goldenrod and other weeds I noticed a dog within forty feet. He was partly hidden by the grasses, but appeared to be a young, reddish brown setter, pottering along, smelling at this clump and that bunch of weeds and gradually circling behind me. In a few minutes I heard a yell, "There goes a fox." Sure enough, over the top of a neighboring hill a hundred yards away went my "dog." It was a shrewd piece of work on his part to throw me off my guard by seeming indifferent and when behind me and out of sight to streak it for cover. I had probably disturbed him during his afternoon siesta. Many a fox have I hunted and killed, but this one fooled me completely. It forms a very pleasant recollection as an instance of brute sagacity.—Forest and Stream.

WHERE LIFE IS CHEAP.

Human Beings Are of Very Little Account in Canton.

In Canton I met for the second time a talented young Swedish civil engineer who had crossed the Pacific with me in search of a job, writes L. K. Friedman in the Chicago News. He was sanguine as to his future then; he was in the dumps now.

He had just laid before one of the chief officials of the place, to whom he came armed with a letter of introduction, plans for installing a modern sewerage system in Canton. "Your people," he said to the mandarin, "die off like flies every time the plague strikes you here. Your mortality rate, to one coming from the sanitary cities of America or Europe, is appalling. Let me cut it down for you and put it on a par with that of the first centers of the world."

Then the mandarin, so the young engineer said, leaned far back in his chair, stared at him with a surprised air and remarked scornfully, but quietly: "Young man, why did you come all these thousands of miles to Canton for the sake of carrying to us such mad ideas? Take them back to Sweden with you. Let us rest in peace in China and go our own way undisturbed by these silly newfangled ideas. Build modern sewerage systems in Sweden to your heart's content, ten in every city for all we care. We will have none of them in Canton."

When the engineer, crestfallen and bewildered, asked why, the answer was at once forthcoming: "There are too many people living in Canton now. We shouldn't know what to do with more if we had them. Our people, as it is, are finding it hard enough to make a living."

This mandarin's attitude sums up in a way at once amusing and illuminative the oriental attitude toward life and the living.

Nothing seems cheaper in the orient than life, and, as a matter of fact, little else is so cheap. When you pass through the labyrinth of streets that make up Canton, packed almost to suffocation with human beings, you begin to understand why so little value is placed on life. Your understanding of the situation grows clearer when you realize the battle-like competition going on here from early morning until late at night for the few handfuls of rice and millet that sustain the existence of each of this swarming mass.

An Operating Room Hero.

President Fallieres' first list of decorations for the year included the name of one man who is little known. This was a young physician named Louis Bozy, who lost an eye in the discharge of his duty. Dr. Bozy while acting as assistant to an operating surgeon in one of the Paris hospitals had an eye injured through a drop of poisonous matter coming in contact with it. He knew that an antidote must be applied immediately, but by doing this he would have left the chief surgeon unattended and remained at his post with his eye uncared for until the operation was completed. In consequence of his heroism he lost an eye and was confined to a hospital for a long time. President Fallieres in conferring the decoration said that a wound received by a physician in the discharge of his duty was as honorable as one received on the battlefield.

Gathering Ammunition.

"What makes you think our new congressman is going to be so successful as a speechmaker?" said one constituent.

"Because," answered the other, "whenever he hears a story that strikes him as funny he goes into the hall and makes a note of it in his memorandum book."—Washington Star.

One Way of Putting It.

"Although he goes to the club every night, he's always happy when it's time to go home."

"In other words, he doesn't go home till he's happy. Is that it?"—Exchange.

PROOF THAT NO ONE CAN DOUBT

That Dodd's Kidney Pills Always Cure Rheumatism.

Conclusive Evidence Given by Durham Brown, of Brantford, Ont.—How and Why the Cure is Effected.

Conclusive Evidence Given by Durham Brown, of Brantford, Ont.—How and Why the Cure is Effected.

Brantford, Ont., March 22. (Special).—That Rheumatism is caused by diseased Kidneys and that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure both the sick Kidneys and the Rheumatism is again proved in the case of Mr. Durham Brown, of No. 2 Spring Street, this city.

"I was troubled with Backache and other well-known symptoms of Kidney Disease," Mr. Brown states. "I also suffered from Rheumatism in my right side and hip to the extent that I was always while at my work in agonizing pain.

"After taking one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I found an improvement and after taking six boxes I found both by Kidney Disease and Rheumatism entirely cured."

Mr. Brown's is only one of many cases in which it has been proved beyond a doubt that the natural way to cure Rheumatism is to remove the cause. The cause of Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood which crystallizes at the muscles and joints. Well Kidneys strain the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make well Kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism.

ALD. J. R. METHERAL REFERS TO THE OLD FIRE BRIGADE

Tells of How Money Given to Them Was Taken Care Of—Answer to "Fair Play."

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I saw a contribution in your paper signed "Fair Play" in which the writer tells Alderman Morgan to ask me what happened the benefits given to the old Fire Brigade. I am not the least bit sorry that the writer has asked this question, and I hope he will make the fullest enquiries about the facts.

When the old Brigade received any contributions from parties whose property we had helped to protect they were generally sent to the Chief and were handed over by him to the Treasurer of the Brigade, by whom they wer duly acknowledged. Into the same fund were paid in the fines imposed by the Brigade on members who were absent from fires or meetings, and no money was paid out of these funds except by a majority vote of the Brigade. Every cent was promptly accounted for, and it is to be remembered that the Brigade was then a volunteer one and that the men were not paid to give their whole time to such service. I might add that during my connection for over twenty years with the volunteer Brigade I never knew of any moneys of the Brigade being misappropriated.

I think Alderman Morgan's motion to compel all such gifts to be paid into the City Treasurer or other city official appointed by the Council and held by him in trust for the Brigade was quite right.

Yours truly,

J. R. METHERAL.

EXCELLENT ICE FOR SKATERS AT BROCK STREET RINK

In spite of the fact that it is now the fourth week of March, there is still excellent skating at Brock St. rink, in fact the ice is better now than it was a month ago. The weather is just cold enough at night to allow the rink to be flooded and the result is that Caretaker Thirlbeck has a splendid sheet of ice available for the skaters, and they knowing that the present conditions are not liable to last much longer are taking full advantage of the opportunity. The rink was closed at this time last year, having been shut down a year from last Saturday.

WORK THAT WEAKENS

Booth's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service For People Who Work In Peterborough

Many Peterborough people work every day in some strained unnatural position, bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting waggons or cars, bending over heavy house work, lifting, reaching, pulling, all these strains tend to weary, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Peterborough cures prove it.

Mrs. W Huycke, of 31 Louis street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—Mr. Huycke had frequently suffered with backache. At times the pains in the small of the back would become so severe that he would be unable to straighten himself up with out much suffering. He could not stoop or lift anything of consequence and his general health had been run down for some long time. He had tried a number of different remedies, but did not find relief until on advice of a friend, he procured Booth's Kidney Pills at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy and commenced treatment. He soon found relief. The pains left his back and he strengthened. He has had no return of the trouble since and speaks very highly of Booth's Kidney Pills.

Council Decides That City's Rate Of Taxation For 1909 Shall Remain At 19 1-2 Mills

Stand Made by Four Aldermen to Get a Twenty Mill Rate Was of No Avail—The Twenty-five Dollars Goes to Firemen's Fund—Debate on the Radial Railway Question.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

At a special meeting of the Council last night it was decided to keep the rate of taxation at 19½ mills as the Finance Committee had reported. Alderman Hicks made a strong plea that it be raised to 20 mills and was supported by Aldermen Metheral, Turner and Gillespie.

All the members of the council were present with Mayor Rush in the chair. The regular preliminary business was performed but the communications were left over until the next regular meeting

Finance Report

The following is the report of the Finance Committee, its adoption being moved by Aldermen Morrow and Phelan.

1. We recommend that in view of the opinion received from the City Solicitor in regard to the request of the Council to the Peterborough City Trust to reduce their demand for this year by $8,500, the By-law passed at the last meeting of the Council levying rates for this year be amended to make the appropriations for the departments as originally drafted by this committee and the rate 19½ mills.

2. We recommend that the rate By-law be further amended by repealing the clause which required the taxes for City, Public Schools Collegiate Institute and Separate School purposes to be set out separately, and that it be provided as an illustration that there be printed on each tax bill the amount of taxes payable on each $1,000 of assessment for general city purposes and for school purposes respectively.

3. We received from Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., a copy of a Bill before the Legislature to amend the Municipal Act regarding the license fees, and we recommend that Mr. Bradburn be asked to use his influence to have the maximum license fee for billiard tables not less than $40 for the first table and $20 for each additional table.

4. We recommend that the City Solicitor be instructed not to have the school debenture By-laws confirmed by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board and that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue cheques to the City Solicitor for the fees payable for the purpose of having the other debenture By-laws confirmed by that Board.

5. We instructed the City Solicitor to prepare a By-law to authorize the issue of debentures for $2,000 to pay for concrete crossings constructed in 1908, and a balance on concrete crossings constructed in 1907.

Alderman Metheral did not think that debentures should be issued for $2,000. Let it be taken from current account. The system of selling debentures for small amounts led to extravagance. Alderman Turner was in favour of increasing the rate to 20 mills.

Alderman Morrow stated in answer to Alderman Hicks that if the estimates were not overdrawn, a balance of over $4,000 would remain. Alderman Hicks did not like this close margin and moved that the rate be 20 mills and that the whole deficit for last year be provided for. This amendment was defeated, being supported by Aldermen Hicks, Metheral, Turner and Gillespie. Alderman Morrow's report carried as read.

Alderman Hicks Persistent.

When the by-law covering clause 5 was presented, Alderman Hicks moved, seconded by Alderman Turner, that the rate be increased to 20 mills. Alderman Duffus and Morgan urged that it be left at 19½ mills. Alderman Hicks stated that last year's deficit should be cleaned up and the finances be put in a good condition. He did not think it was safe to go under 20 mills. The municipal machinery might have to be brought to a sudden stop and it was better and safer to have a little surplus which if not needed for any of the appropriations could be applied to the overdraft. Alderman Morrow stated that he intended to keep a close watch on the expenses and appropriations would not be allowed to be overdrawn.

This second attempt to secure a 20 mill rate failed like the first. Alderman Hicks and those supporting him explained that it was for safety's sake that they pressed the matter and in order that the debt incurred last year be wiped off during 1909.

Manufacturers' Committee

The following report of the Manufacturers' Committee was adopted on motion of Aldermen Gillespie and Turner.

That this Committee be authorized to take up the matter of freight rates with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways and it necessary to bring the subject before the Board of Railway Commissioners, and that the Board of Trade be asked to cooperate with this Committee in the matter.

An Incident

Alderman Metheral asked Alderman Buller to prove or retract the statement he had made that he (Alderman Metheral) was an agitator in fire hall affairs and was causing trouble. Alderman Buller stated that it was an every day occurrence for men to meet in Alderman Metheral's shop, and that fire hall matters were discussed. Alderman Metheral replied that nothing had been said until Alderman Buller had made the above statement.

Disposal of the $25

The disposal of the $25.00 received by Chief Howard from the C.P.R. was another topic of discussion. Alderman Buller stated that it had been received by the Chief to be used in a fireman's benefit fund. The Chief was holding it until such were formed. The men had wanted to divide it among themselves for spending money but he would not allow this. He would return it to Mr. Oborne if the fund were not formed. Moved by Aldermen Phelan and Hicks, that the money be left to chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, who is to be trustee for a firemen's benefit fund. The expense of covering the pool table in the hall will be met with this money and a donation Mayor Rush has offered.

Street Railway Again

Alderman McIntyre stirred up the coals of the Street Railway Co. matter. He wanted some guarantee that the work would be commenced this year. It was explained to him that he could not secure anything in the form of a guarantee. Alderman Morgan said that Alderman Phelan and Alderman Bradburn were indirectly interested in the P.R.R. Co., the former through his position with the Otonabee Navigation Co. and the latter through his brother, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P. Both these men denied the statements made by Alderman Morgan. Alderman Duffus wanted a start made this year in the city or on some section of the road. Alderman Gillespie explained that there were only two alternatives, either accept the offer of the company or oppose their extension. The Council had endeavoured to secure a guarantee that the work would be begun this year, but it was impossible to get it. Alderman McIntyre and Alderman Duncan proposed a motion and in the midst of much talk Alderman Morrow told his colleagues that the question was out of order as the committee already formed would do all they could in the matter. The meeting was abruptly adjourned. Alderman Duncan and Alderman Hicks, however, had Aldermen Duffus and Morgan added to the committee.

Asks Why Music Should Not Be Taught In Public Schools

Correspondent Thinks It Is a Subject That Should Be Given Greater Attention—Points Out Advantages But Is Not Sure That It Is Practical.

ASKS FOR INFORMATION.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Now that the subject of education is being discussed in your columns there is one branch that has always impressed me with its advantages if it could be practically taught in our public schools. I refer to an elementary musical education. Here is a subject which if the child is in the least adapted to will be of service to him through his entire life. The most important question that looms up as an obstacle is "Is it practical?" Can it be taught in the schools? It is alas too true that home conditions, in most cases, are such that the child cannot be instructed in even the rudiments of music. The children of wealthier parents receive more attention in this regard, but even with this class the conditions are not what they should be. In some cases the parents are negligent and careless, they are indifferent about the musical education of their boy or girl. I may say that the girls are not overlooked as much as the boys, but even they should be given more opportunities. There are parents who try to do their duty in this respect, but for reasons which I will not take up your space to mention the course of study is after a time discontinued.

Lack of ability is a very poor excuse. Better would it be to say lack of application and lack of encouragement from the teachers and in the home. After a musical show has appeared at the Opera House there is scarcely one out of a hundred of the audience who cannot remember one or more of the songs or at least the choruses. And if you will observe more closely you will find that the music is remembered best by the boys from the gallery. I hope you will permit me, Mr. Editor, to apply the word music to the variety to which I refer. I am confident that the chief reason for the popularity of these musical shows is the fact that they are musical. Some persons who never see the inside of an Opera House from season to season would like us to believe that a lower motive influences the youth but at the summer band concerts the environment of the stage is removed but the music is there and the same delight in hearing it is manifest. Now, if these young people can whistle the airs or sing the songs, there is no need of me saying that they are musically inclined. My opinion is that hundreds of people in this city, old as well as young, are musically starved. In a factory or on the street the day following a musical show's appearance here, you will hear practically all the music that was played the night before.

This is surely one strong proof that an inbred taste for music is latent in, I would say, nine out of every ten children. Music is taught in some form to the kindergarten class. I am told, but I am ignorant of its extent. If there is one organization at the Collegiate of which I am proud it is the Orchestra, and every person connected with the institution should do all in their power to strengthen it, and to encourage the pupils in their good work. When I heard them last there were about ten players. Is this not a point to ponder on. Out of three hundred pupils only ten in the orchestra, only three per cent. The chorus is more appropriate in its strength, but only nine or ten in the orchestra. It is most creditable to the Principal that he has encouraged these young musicians, and one can scarcely tell what the future will do in providing a stronger orchestra and a more general knowledge of music.

Now, Mr. Editor, if from indifference or negligence of parents, or from their inability to give their children music lessons these children are going out into life without a knowledge of music, surely our educationalists can make some provision in the public schools. I do not need to point out the influence of music on the character of the individual, nor to quote Shakespeare's opinion, but I firmly believe that music is one of the greatest assets religion has to-day. Considering the enjoyment obtained together with these points the importance of this subject ought to be evident to everybody. I could go into further detail upon what the schools could do in laying the foundation of a musical education which could be built up outside the schools, but if the question is impracticable which I do not think it is, there is no need of me saying anything further, but I would like to get the opinion of some of our prominent educationalists on this subject. School influence is now being talked of and this is an influence which will have a lifelong effect and will make better men and women if there is more of it provided in the schools.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

A Believer in Music's Power.

What The Laymen's Missionary Movement Actually Aims At

Very Instructive Address by Mr. Armstrong at Opening of Conference at St. Andrew's Church This Morning—Presbytery Representatives Are in the City.

TO-NIGHT AT ST. PAUL'S.

An important conference was begun at St. Andrew's Church this morning and will be continued throughout the entire day concluding at St. Paul's Church this evening to which everyone is invited. This is a conference of the Presbytery of Peterborough to consider the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Delegates were present from many towns and a large number of Peterborough people were present, everyone manifesting an interest in the discussions and addresses.

Sheriff Hall presided at this morning's meeting, the most important feature of which was an address by Mr. A. E. Armstrong, Associate Secretary of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church. He gave a very comprehensive review of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The Address

The two topics demanding most attention were the Laymen's Missionary Movement itself and the great duty of the Christian Church and therefore the call of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Armstrong referred to the beginning of the Laymen's Movement and also the formation of the first Foreign Mission Board, resulting from the celebrated Hay Stack Prayer meeting. In Canada the Laymen's Missionary Movement includes all the missionary work of the Christian Church at home and abroad. The movement does not get a dollar, therefore they will not have the handling of the money. It is simply a movement to inspire men and to inform them regarding the work they ought to do and as men they should see that their respective congregations do their duty in this regard. The money will flow through the regular church channels as in the past and will be handled by the regular missionary societies. The difference, Mr. Armstrong stated, was that the Laymen's Movement was aiming at greater efforts, broader interest in the missionary work and an awakening to the real duty of the Christian people in spreading the Gospel of Christ. It has spread throughout Canada and the United States and is being incepted in other countries.

The movement is not visionary but rests on a strong and sane basis and has at its head some of the most prominent men of the Dominion. It is a movement that should command the attention of men everywhere, particularly from the character of the men who are now connected with it. Men have had their whole conception of the church's duty in the world transformed. They are beginning to entertain a broader idea of Christianity and realize that the joy and happiness accompanying the Gospel of Christ should be spread throughout the whole world. The character of our laws and our people will depend upon the manner in which the minds of the incoming people are moulded. It will not be long, Mr. Armstrong said, before Canada will have its greater population West of the Great Lakes. Our government will in future years be in the hands of the people who are not now living in this country. It is therefore necessary that the work of home missions should be widely extended.

The missionaries in China, and these countries are not propagating Presbyterianism or Episcopalianism, but they are spreading Christianity. Our home religions may not be suited to the Japanese or Chinese. The Presbyterian Church has accepted the duty of evangelizing twelve million people.

Mr. P. W. Anderson, M.A., of Toronto, Secretary of the Canadian Branch of the Laymen's Missionary Movement arrived at noon from Toronto, to take part in the day's proceedings.

"FROM OLIVET TO CALVARY."

What will undoubtedly prove the greatest Easter musical event for Peterborough and adjacent counties, will be the rendition, in Norwood, on Good Friday evening, of Maunder's beautiful cantata "From Olivet to Calvary," by a picked chorus of forty-five voices, under the conduction of Mr. Hermes W. Nicoll. That the choir is numerically strong is self evident, but more than that the fine interpretation, the clear enunciation, and the earnestness and enthusiasm of the whole body, is in even greater evidence. Each member is of musical temperament, devoted to the art, and, under the capable direction of Mr. Nicoll, the fusion has resulted in a chorus well balanced and blended.

Eminent Soloists

In addition to the choir, Mr. Nicoll has, at a heavy expense, engaged two eminent Toronto soloists, Mr. Sherlock (tenor) and Mr. Ed. Barton (basso). Their reputation is continental; the robust and powerful, yet perfectly modulated voice of Mr. Barton having the approval of not only American, but European critics. Mr. Sherlock is perhaps better known as the conduct of the Toronto Oratorical Society, in which capacity he has guided three hundred voices through the grand and intricate scores of the Messiah, Creation, Elijah, and other masterpieces.

A Beautiful Theme

A brief resume of "Olivet to Calvary" recalls simply and reverently the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the steep of Olivet, the lament over the beautiful city, the scene of the Temple, and the lonely walk back over the Mount at night, form the chief features of the first part. Part II opens with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes His disciples' feet, and gives to His friends the new commandment of love for one another as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infinite pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the sudden appearance of the hostile crowd, Jesus forsaken by His disciples, His utter loneliness among ruthless foes, the tumult before Pilate in the Judgment Hall, the Passage of the Cross, the tragedy and triumph of Calvary. At the close of the Lenten season, when the mind is particularly susceptible to a work of this nature, the sublime theme of our Lord's crucifixion, intensified by the well-adapted and soul-stirring music, will impress itself indelibly on those who avail themselves of hearing this really grand work.

Splendid Chorus

Great and pleasing as the cantata may be, its beauty will be enhanced by the excellent quality of this selected choir, the conscientious thoroughness of the rehearsing, and the musical ability of the conductor, Mr. Nicoll. Even with finer interpretation to be gained from further rehearsals, the work of the chorus is already admirable. Following the baton of the conductor, they attack such parts as the vehemence of the mob in the crucifixion scene with such sforzando and spontaneous vigour as to thrill the auditor, while in such pianissimo and tender passages as "Droop, Sacred Head" the utter earthly loneliness of the Saviour is made deeply apparent. It is easy to predict an audience swayed with the deepest feelings—both in ecstatic exuberance and keenest sorrow—on Good Friday night.

From the present outlook, it seems certain that the generous and enthusiastic manner in which this chorus has devoted itself, will result in such a rendition of this beautiful work as will compare equally with such productions in our larger cities.

A CROWN OF GLORY.

As Well as a Mark of Beauty is Luxurious Hair.

It has been truly said that the crowning glory of our race is a luxuriant head of hair.

It used to be thought that this was one of the blessings which the gods bestow capriciously, and it is only recently that scientists have discovered that its beauty is dependent upon the absence of a minute germ which flourishes in the hair follicles, where it destroys the life of the hair.

To restore this life and kill the germs, which cause the mischief is the mission of Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide surely kills the germs, and is the best hair dressing on the market.

It contains no grease or oil, neither will it stain or dye.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

For sale by McDermid and Jury, Druggists, also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

Detective Wells Criticizes Administration Of Justice

The Examiner has received from Mr. W. J. Wells, detective, well known in Peterborough from his official connection with the Hill tragedy in Dummer, in 1905, the subjoined copy of an open letter to the Premier of Ontario:

Hon. J. P. Whitney,
Prime Minister of Ontario,
Toronto, Ont.

Sir:—Press despatches here state that the body of the late Ethel Kinrade had to be exhumed at Hamilton, for complete examination. This same despatch also states that the doctors, in their first examination, merely ascertained the cause of death. It is hoped that the assassin of this unfortunate girl may yet be apprehended and brought to trial, it would have been expected that the Crown would have seen, before the body was buried, that a complete and thorough post-mortem examination had been made, so as to be in a position to present their case, if necessary, in a thorough and complete manner.

Right here I ask the question: Why was this girl's body allowed to be buried without a complete post-mortem examination having been made? Who is responsible for this error, and who has again been asleep at the switch? I would remind you, sir, that under your alleged up-to-date business and progressive administration, no less than three bodies of murdered victims have had to be exhumed since you came into power. In the Gow manslaughter case at Peterborough, the man's body had to be exhumed three weeks after burial, no post-mortem examination having been previously ordered by your Government. In the Burton murder mystery, because your officials blundered, the body had to be exhumed. Now in this most recent case we find that the body of this unfortunate girl had also to be taken up to secure evidence which should have been secured before she had ever been buried. This is not a very good record of progression and up-to-date business methods, since you have been in power. The work may be the work of your officials, nevertheless the responsibility is yours and it remains to be seen how much longer the people of Ontario will endorse you and your Government in such a class of work.

Yours truly,
H. J. WELLS,
Ontario People's Detective.

NOSE BROKEN BY FLYING SLAB FROM SAWMILL AT WORK

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, March 23.—Mr. Nathan Payne met with a very painful accident on Friday morning. While leading a cow along the road the animal became unmanageable and in his attempt to control it Mr. Payne was thrown on the ice with the result that his collar-bone was fractured. The patient was waited upon by Dr. Munro, and though suffering considerably is doing nicely.

It was a very narrow escape that Mr. Stewart Murphy had on Wednesday of last week, when he was struck on the nose by a slab, flying from the saw at his mill on the — concession. Had he been hit on the forehead there is little doubt that it would have proven fatal; as it was his nose was broken.

REGULAR MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE OF KNOX CHURCH

At the Literary evning of the Knox Church Young Peoples' Society, Mr. R F McWilliams favoured the society with a lecture on the History of Canada. First the speaker touched upon the military rule, after the defeat of the French, by the English. The laws, and controversies between the two races for a long time took place. The rebellion of 1837 was touched upon. The Confederation of Canada was fully given, how that the Imperial Parliament passed it in 1867, although some of the provinces were somewhat inclined against it. Sir John A. Macdonald must be remembered as one that stayed by the bringing about of the Confederation, with six other prominent men. Sir John Cartier and Dr. Tupper (now Sir Charles) were in favour of this union. Many other points of interest were touched upon. Mr. Roy Laing moved a motion of thanks to Mr. McWilliams for interesting lecture. It was seconded by Mr. Ken Denoon. Next Monday, March 29th, Mr. A. C. Davenport will speak on "Life Lessons from the Psalms."

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir: — Last night while two young ladies were returning up Simcoe street to George street, from a dressmaking class at the Y.M.C.A., some very insulting things were said to them. It is a wonder some of our sharp policemen do not take a walk down that way. They are good with their "Move On" when loafers are standing in the door ways on George street, but one can put up with all kinds of insults within a few feet of the main street, and our policemen know nothing of it.

Thanking you for your space in the paper,

We remain,
TWO GIRLS.

MORE LIGHT WANTED

Peterborough, March 22, 1909.

Dear Editor,—I saw in your paper of the 20th inst., where a woman was fined $5.00 for going out of a house that was placarded for scarlet fever. Now why should this woman be treated so and others allowed to go out among the public and nothing said or done about it. Now just ask the police about the case from the South End, what was done with the men who came out daily, or the man of Dublin St., who did likewise, or the man on Aylmer St., who I see going out every day, and mingling with the public. Now Sir, I for one think that when a house is placarded for fever of any kind, that the occupants of said houses, should be made stay in, for why, can we expect to keep fever from spreading when the inmates of placarded houses are allowed to go and come as they like. Who knows what precaution is taken in homes of such fevers. Now Sir, I think it rests on the shoulders of our doctors and police to see that the law in regard to infectious diseases are carried out to the point.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 22.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending March 20 were 1023 cattle, 43 sheep and lambs, 1667 hogs and 201 calves. The offerings of the market this morning for local consumption consisted of 750 cattle, 25 sheep and lambs, 750 hogs and 50 calves.

There were no new developments in the market for cattle, prices being much the same as they were last Wednesday, notwithstanding the fact that supplies were smaller than a week ago, but they were quite ample to fill all requirements, as the demand from both local and outside buyers were somewhat limited and there was no demand from exporters on account of the weaker cable advices received from Liverpool and London on Saturday, consequently trade on the whole was rather slow. Full car loads of choice steers weighing 1250 lbs., sold at $5.40 and odd mail lots, at $5.75, while the range was from $5.25 to $5.75 per cwt. Good cattle rought 5c to 5¼c; fair, 4½c to 4¾c; medium, 4c to 4¼c, and common, from 2½c to 3½c per lb. The market for sheep and lambs was quiet, on account of the continued light receipts and prices were unchanged. The demand was fairly good and sales of yearling lambs were made at 6½c to 6¾c for choice stock and at 5½c to 6c for good, while sheep brought 3½c to 4¼c per lb. The supply of calves was small, which met with a good demand at prices ranging from $3.50 to $10 each, according to size and quality.

Owing to the smaller receipts of hogs a stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices scored an advance of 10c per cwt. The demand was good from packers and an active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $7.25 to $7.40 per cwt., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, March 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 3200 head; slow and steady to 10c lower; prime steers, $5.50 to $5.75; two loads fancy, $7; shipping, $5.25 to $5.40; butchers', $5 to $5.25; heifers, $4 to $5; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3.50 to $5.25; fresh cows and springers, fair demand and steady; $25 to $55.

Veals—Receipts, 1200 head; active and steady, $7 to $8.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 13,600 head; active and steady; heavy and mixed, $7.20 to $7.30; yorkers, $7 to $7.25; pigs, $6.65 to $6.80; roughs, $6 to $6.40; stags, $4.50 to $5; dairies, $6.20 to $7.20.

His Belief.

A drunken carter came into a carriage of the Greenock train and sat opposite a clergyman who was reading his paper. Recognizing the profession of his vis-a-vis, the carter in a little while leaned forward and in a maudlin way remarked, "I don't believe there's ony heaven."

The clergyman paid no heed.

"Do ye hear me?" persisted the carter. "I don't believe there's ony heaven."

Still the clergyman remained silent behind his newspaper.

The carter, shouting his confession this time loudly, said, "I tell ye to your face, and you're a minister, that I don't believe there's ony heaven."

"Very well," said the clergyman, "if you do not believe there is a heaven go elsewhere, but please go quietly."—London Graphic.

One of the Lucky Ones.

A lady of title, an ardent motorist, is very unfortunate in the matter of spills. The other day, by no means for the first time, an engineer came to do various repairs to the motor.

The little girl of the house watched and then remarked:

"I think mamma's very unlucky with her motor, don't you?"

"Unlucky, did ye say?" replied the mechanic. "Why, no; not particularly unlucky. Her ladyship's alive, ain't she?"

"Yes, of course she is," said the girl.

"Well," was the rejoinder, with an expressive shake of the head, "lots of our customers ain't."

His Plausible Excuse.

Magistrate—This affair looks to me more like a common dog fight than a case of assault and battery. You claim that this man assaulted you and that you did not even try to defend yourself, yet he bears the marks of your teeth in three places. How do you account for that?

Plaintiff—Well, it was jest like this. He hurt me so when he was a-poundin' of me that I had ter have sumthin' ter bite on, or I couldn't 'a' stood it.—Los Angeles Times.

East Indian Proverbs.

An old English proverb: "Cut your coat according to your cloth." The following is a similar proverb in India: "Look at your bed before stretching your legs on it." "Don't ask for sauce in a free boarding house," is another Indian proverb which is something like the English proverb, "Beggars must not be choosers."

A Person of Note.

Colonel White—Your son is quite a singer, isn't he, Rusenbark? Brother Rusenbark—Yassah! Yassah! 'Bleeged to yo' for axin'. Dat boy, sah, am suttingly de most malodorous cullud pusson in dis whole town.—Puck.

ASKING THE SPIRITS

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Ghosts!" repeated Paul Orford, with a smile. "To be sure there are ghosts. I have a personal acquaintance with half a dozen. I was one once. That was when the dramatic club put on 'Hamlet.'"

"Now you are frivolous," reproved Lucy. "It is a very serious matter to penetrate the veil that separates the present from the future and cross to that other shore. Mrs. Glendis says that we each should seek to test our mediumistic powers."

"There is one thing I like about ghosts," said Paul.

"What's that?" asked Lucy quickly as he paused.

"Their answers generally are yes and no," explained Paul meaningly. For nearly a year he had been trying to pin Lucy down to a definite acceptance or dismissal of his suit, but that tactful yet uncertain minded young woman would say him neither "yea" nor "nay," preferring to enjoy the greater freedom of action which is the privilege of the unengaged, while at the same time she held Orford her slave.

"Ghosts say lots more than that," insisted Lucy. "Mme. Goya was telling all about it. You start with the alphabet, and when you come to the right letter they give a rap, and in that way they spell out words. Mme. Goya says that it is the duty of every earnest thinker to develop mediumistic powers, because we never can tell whether we have the gift until we try to develop."

"She's right," declared Paul, with a greater interest than he had previously shown in the discussion. "Do you know I have thought for some time that I could develop along those lines with the proper sympathetic support?"

"You must join our circle," invited Lucy beamingly. She had been growing angry at Paul's covert sneers at Mme. Goya and Mrs. Glendis.

The latter had brought the adept to the attention of the Tuesday dancing class and had turned that select little company into a "circle."

The young man found it more interesting to sit in the darkness of the development room and hold hands, for there were times when something sent thrills through the investigators and caused the more timid among the girls to clutch more tightly the arms of their escorts.

Paul was not a member of the dancing class in spite of his devotion to Lucy, and he rather resented these seances.

"I think," suggested Paul, "that it might be well to try me out before I seek to display my powers in public. It will be an hour before your mother gets back from the Bradleys, and your father is too busy with that new book he borrowed to interrupt. Suppose we hold a sitting now?"

"I never heard of a sitting with only two," objected Lucy. "Even with the fifteen or twenty of our circle we get scarcely any return yet, and I do not believe that the two of us could get any response at all."

"We can try it," pleaded Paul. "We cannot do more than fail, and there might come some slight indication that one or the other had mysterious power."

"Yes, we can try it," assented Lucy brightly, glad to see Paul's interest. "Of course you must promise that if there is no development you will not be discouraged."

"I'll promise that," assented Paul promptly. "I'll not be discouraged."

"Then we'll try," agreed Lucy as she cleared the magazines and books from a light table and brought it into the center of the room. She placed chairs on opposite sides, disregarding Paul's suggestion that they be placed side by side, and then, turning down the light, she took her place in one seat and called to him to take the other.

"They almost always sing," she began uncertainly.

"Then we'll sing," assented Paul. "We'll follow all the process."

His hands closed over Lucy's, resting on the table, and softly Lucy sang one of the songs approved by her circle.

"Now you must keep very still," she whispered. "Just concentrate on the desire to obtain a communication. It may be some time before we feel any response."

"That's all right," was the ready reply. "I'd be willing to wait hours to absolutely make certain."

"You don't have to hold my hands so tight," suggested Lucy. "Just rest your finger tips on mine to complete the circuit."

"This is better," objected Paul, with truth. "We establish a better contact or whatever you call it."

"Don't talk any more," cautioned Lucy. "The spirits won't come while you are talking."

Paul subsided into silence. It was very pleasant sitting there in the half light with Lucy's hands in his own in the soft gloom he could just make out the oval of her face and catch faintly the eager gleam in her blue eyes. He was willing to experiment along these lines forever.

Outdoors the rain beat against the plate glass of the windows with a sharp rattle that added to the comfortable feeling of those within, and apart from that only the crackle of coal in the grate broke the silence.

For twenty minutes no sign came, and then there was heard a succession of sharp raps that caused Lucy to clutch Paul's hands in tighter clasp and somewhat shook his own placidity.

The trial had been an excuse for holding Lucy's hands. He had not expected any manifestation.

"Did you do that?" she whispered.

"On my word, no," he replied. "You didn't tap with your foot, did you?"

Lucy shook her head. "I wouldn't cheat," she insisted reproachfully. "This is not a thing to make a jest of."

"Are the spirits present?" asked Paul, raising his voice slightly. And the response was a series of brisk raps.

"That is more than the proper number," objected Paul. "One is 'no,' and three is 'yes.'"

"I suppose that a lot means underscore marks," suggested Lucy. "Ask something else."

"Are you willing to answer me?" demanded Paul, and the three raps made an affirmative.

"May I ask some personal questions?" Again the three raps.

"I want to know if Lucy and I are to be married?" explained Paul. And Lucy gasped at this impertinence toward the spirits.

"They won't answer that," she insisted in a whisper, but the three raps came loud and clear, and, with a little cry, Lucy sprang to her feet and turned on the gas.

"You were cheating," she cried. "You were kicking the table leg."

"See for yourself," he retorted, turning the light table so that she might see that there were no scratches on the polished legs. "I am more mystified than you are. There must be something in it, after all."

"There must be," she assented softly.

"And you will accept their decree?" he asked. "You will marry me?"

"I suppose that I must, since it is the will of those 'over there,'" assented the girl. "I meant to some time, anyhow," she added half defiantly as Paul caught her in his arms, and the world beyond was forgotten in the joy of the life right here.

Late that evening Paul smoked his good night cigar in the comfort of the big armchair. At his feet lay Bunch, the English bulldog that was Paul's constant companion. Bunch was fast asleep on a rug, but he roused when his master stirred.

"Bunch," cried the jubilant Orford, "there was something in it, after all. I thought that spirit thing was largely a matter of imagination, but I'm certain that Lucy did not do the rapping, and I know that I didn't. It was a clear case of spirits."

Bunch blinked an intelligent eye and wagged his stumpy tail in assent. Paul started as the familiar rapping came again. Bunch's tail was pounding against the hardwood parquet border.

"So you were the ghost. You wagged your tail when we asked questions because you thought we were talking to you?"

Bunch's stumpy caudal appendage made answer again, and Paul's face was wreathed in smiles.

"We must never tell Lucy," he cautioned, and Bunch, almost asleep, made an instinctive effort to reply. Feebly the tail wavered, and only once did it strike against the floor.

"That's 'no,' and that goes," assented Paul. "You're all right, Bunch." And Bunch solemnly rapped out "Yes."

Chinese Maritime Mottoes.

John Henry Grey in his "China" tells of the mottoes which decorate a Chinese vessel.

On the masts of the seagoing junks are fastened strips of red paper inscribed with Chinese characters. Some of the mottoes follow:

"The mast is as a general commanding 10,000 soldiers."

"From every side of the compass may fair winds blow."

"May this mast scorn tempests from whatever quarter of the heavens they may come."

On the poop a pavilion is built, and over its doorway is a chance for more mottoes.

"May the wind not cause angry waters to rise." "May this vessel brave the storms of a hundred years."

There is always a shrine on board, and here the Chinese gods are appealed to.

"Wherever this ship may sail, grant her a prosperous voyage." "Enable us by trading to acquire wealth."

The very names of the junks would bring good luck if superstition could weave an actual fortune—Good Success, Golden Profits, Never Ending Gains.

Didn't Fall Quick Enough.

In a room on the top floor of a large factory a boy was amusing himself by going through the bayonet exercise with a long handled brush in lieu of a rifle. His boss, coming quickly upon him, gave him a box on the ear for wasting his time.

The sudden blow caused the lad to lose his balance and fall down the hoist shaft; but, fortunately, he kept his hold on the brush, the handle of which, getting across the shaft, broke his fall and enabled him to grasp the chain, down which he slid in safety.

The boss was horrified at the effect of his action and rushed breathless and gasping with fear down the eight flights of stairs to the basement, expecting to find a mangled body for which he would have to account.

He was, however, just in time to see the lad drop on his feet unharmed; so, recovering his self possession and his breath, he exclaimed:

"Want to be a soldier, eh? Well, you're too slow for that. Why, man, I can walk down all those stairs quicker than you can fall down the hoist shaft."—London Answers.

Why $15,000 Power By-law Should Be Supported By The Ratepayers Of The City

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—We wish, on behalf of the Special Power Committee of the City Council, to explain to the electors the position in regard to the by-law to authorize the borrowing of $15,000, which is to be voted upon on March 30th. This sum is intended for the purpose of paying for the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race and power house for developing electrical power at the eastern end of the proposed new waterworks dam, leaving the matter for providing money for purchasing the machinery for the power house to a future time, but making provision to have everything ready for the installation of the machinery when it is purchased.

The Water Commissioners having come to the conclusion that it is necessary to build a new concrete dam at the water works property, asked the Council to submit a by-law to the electors for that purpose, which the Council has done. At the same time the Commissioners informed the Council that when the new dam is completed there will be 1,200 horse power available there and that of this 500 horse power will be enough to supply the needs of the water works department. This would leave 700 horse power that would be available for other purposes, and the Council is of opinion that it would not be good business to have this quantity of power running to waste and that steps should be taken towards developing it so that it could be utilized in the interests of the city.

One way in which this power could be used would be to utilize it to supply the street lighting. At present the city pays nearly $9,000 a year for street lighting. This contract will not expire for nearly five years yet, so that the city cannot count upon doing its own lighting sooner than that. But it will not do to wait until the contract expires before taking action towards being ready to do that work when the time comes. It will take two or three years to complete the work of building the new dam, pumping station, power house, etc., so that when the work is completed there will be from two to two and a half years left in which to install the electrical machinery. The would, no doubt, leave time enough to erect the power house and do the work that it is intended to do under the authority of the by-law which is now submitted to the electors. But when the unwatering is done and the machinery and appliances are on the ground for the purpose of constructing the dam, the foundations, forebays, wheel pits, tail race, etc., for the power house can be constructed much more cheaply than if that work is left to be done some time in the future after the work on the dam is completed. The estimate of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Montreal, the Water Commissioners' engineer, is that this power house, etc., work will cost $15,000, the amount stated in the by-law. The interest on that sum will be $637.50 a year, so that if the power house should be completed two years before it is required it would cost $1,275.00 for interest for those two years, but it is believed that more than that will be saved on the cost of the work by having the plans made out and the work done at the same time as the dam is being constructed.

While the water works department reserves 500 horse power, the street lighting will take from 200 to 300 horse power, which will leave 400 to 500 horse power still available. If a market for this power is found as for instance by the location of a new factory here, another By-law could be submitted and the electrical machinery could be put in at once, and the whole cost of the two years interest would not have to be charged against the saving of having the power house, etc., constructed at the same time as the dam.

By going on with the work the City will be ready in ample time to do its own street lighting when the contract expires, it will save money by doing it while the dam is being constructed, and may gain a great deal by being in a position to furnish power to some good industry.

These are some of the considerations which have influenced the Committee and the Council to ask the ratepayers to approve of the By-law authorizing the issue of debentures for $15,000, and if they are good business reasons, as we believe they are, we hope the ratepayers will vote for the By-law.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed)
H. RUSH,
Mayor.

Chairman Power Committee.

Interesting Happenings In Havelock During The Week

Havelock, March 23. — On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. W. Holcombe tendered a reception to their son and his bride (Mr. and Mrs. Carman Holcombe), who have just returned from their wedding tour. About fifty guests were present and a most delightful event it proved to be. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with Chinese lanterns and cut flowers. A sumptuous repast was served in the dining room, also becomingly adorned, and the tables were a scene of beauty to the eye, laden with the daintiest of dainties. Music and games of various kinds were indulged in until the wee small hours.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Inkster, Mrs. Archer and Miss Tisdall, of Marmora, and Mr. Allie Archer, of St. Catharines.

PIMPLES, BLOTCHES AND SORES

Zam-Buk's Purifying Action on the Skin —Interesting Cure of Chronic Case

It is just at this season that pimples, blotches, sores, scrofulous ailments, and eruptions generally make themselves most felt. Zam-Buk will be found of wonderful use wherever there are skin eruptions, or deep-seated ulcerations.

Mr Geo Holden, of 108, Manitoba Street, St. Thomas (Ont.), says:—"My left cheek broke out in a mass of red, watery pimples, which gradually spread over all the lower part of my face and neck and kept getting more inflamed and troublesome until they developed into a mass of running sores and scabs. In the meantime I had been using one remedy after another, but instead of checking this disease, it grew worse. I happened to hear a report about Zam-Buk and straightway obtained a box. The first application checked the itching to a certain extent and encouraged me to persevere with the balm. In a week's time this wonderful ointment had worked like magic; cleaning out the sores, healing them up, and banishing the unsightly scabs. I kept on applying it, however, for a few days longer until I was positive of a cure, and my face was smooth and free from all traces of pimples or eruption."

Pimples, blotches, and irritating rashes on the face and other parts of the body indicate a disturbance of the functions of the skin. Impure matter which the blood should discharge by means of the skin is allowed to remain, the process of "exhalation" is interrupted, and just where the bad matter collects, there pimples, ulcers, and sores quickly appear.

To remove the impurities the pores must be opened and the skin made to athlete by vigorous application of Zam-Buk morning and night. Zam-Buk balm stimulates the functions of the skin by the penetration of its refined herbal essences, and thus reaches the root of the disease, which can't be done simply by the use of internal medicine.

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, ringworm ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad legs, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, scalds, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c per box, or post paid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1909.

When the Sun Came Out.

By ELLIOT WALKER.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"It may be cold and cloudy, but the view is a great, soft toned picture," mused Edwina, gazing from an open space halfway up Partridge mountain. "My mood is just right to appreciate such a wild, gray day. It takes me ont of myself."

She sighed, shaking her head resolutely, then braced against a sudden sweep of bitter wind, feeling a tingle of defiance in confronting the howling gust.

Her laugh, reckless, unmirthful, echoed along its hoarse trail. "Sunshine!" she cried. "Bah, I like this better! It puts in one's soul a sense of strength, ambition to overcome obstacles, to rise above foolish grieving. That's what I want."

She clung to a sapling, bending with its sway, closing her eyes, drinking in deep drafts of the invigorating air, whose frosty breath stung her cheeks to a glory of color.

"Come!" rang her voice. "Come on, old Boreas! Swing me! Pelt me! Help me!"

There was a wildness in her supplication, a beseeching note. Edwina Surrey, throwing herself to nature's rough embrace, had much to forget.

A shout—that of a panting man and alarmingly near—caused the girl to turn in sudden dismay.

"Coming! Here's help!"

Swish! Whir! Like a swift, enveloping sheet the snow was upon her, blinding her now wide opened eyes, choking back her startled exclamation.

A dense, thickening, whirling mantle, it swept from the lowering heavens, searching every leafless brown bush and gray rock crevice with white, relentless fingers.

Edwina could not see. She heard a crashing through the brush, an irritated mutter. "Where in blazes is the creature? Ow, my shin!" and then louder: "Hello! What's the trouble?"

The girl grasped her little tree, tightening her lips.

"It's Ham," she swallowed. "Oh, he mustn't find me."

But Hamilton Knight stumbled into the open. His eyes were keen. In three seconds he had reached the shrinking figure.

"My good woman," he began, "don't be afraid of me. I heard you calling for assistance."

He bent nearer, brushing the snow from his eyes, and a prolonged "Whew!" broke from his pursed lips.

Edwina straightened up, facing him defiantly.

"You are mistaken, Mr. Knight," in an acid voice, somewhat shaky. "I am quite capable of caring for myself."

"Then why did you call, Edwina?"

"I didn't. I was only singing."

"Singing! Well—I—swear!"

"Will you please go?"

"And leave you here? No, I will not. It's the nastiest first of the season storm I ever saw, and it has come to stay awhile. What business have you in this lonesome hole anyway?"

"None of yours. I guess I can walk where I please. You've no right"—

The man interrupted her coolly.

"Be sensible, Edwina. This is a bad fix, and we must get out of it. All my strength and wits will be needed to find a way down to the road. I see you are warmly clad. That's good. I'm dressed for tramping, so we can push along without picking a path. Regard me as you like—stranger, St. Bernard dog, pious monk, any old thing—but be sensible. That's all."

"You may know best," the girl shivered a bit. "Personally I don't mind a snow flurry."

Knight shrugged. His features set anxiously as he peered here and there.

"It doesn't let up at all," said he "Do you know just how you got to this spot?"

"Oh, I merely kept going!" carelessly.

"Hum! So did I. We'll break our necks attempting to go straight down. There must be paths and wood roads we can strike by keeping along the side. That is best, I think. If the sun would only come out and clear up things!"

"Pshaw! We will have no trouble. Go ahead."

She spoke in that tone of polite resignation which hints at hope of early deliverance from forced escort. The man stamped, evidently nettled.

"Cold feet?" asked Edwina in simulated sympathy.

"No. Come along."

For a few minutes it was not hard traveling. The girl pushed on behind the tall figure, half smiling to her thought of annoying him, unconsciously admiring the broad back and strong steps of this lately discarded lover.

It had been a bitter quarrel, lasting about four minutes, with a dogged silence worse than words on the part of the recreant Hamilton and an outpouring of recrimination from Edwina, of which she still felt proud.

Mr. Knight had kissed Lillian Carey. Miss Carey had returned the salutation with interest. Hattie Benson had seen them and promptly reported. Lillian went to Springfield that evening. Knight refused to explain, assuming an air of injury.

He received his dismissal with a sulky snort. The rest of the unhappy matter went as such things go with proud hearts—long walks in solitary affliction and complete indifference—externally.

Now, treading in Knight's big footsteps, the girl's soul rankled at the necessity of his help. He should be shown his place in her regard at every opportunity.

It angered her to note her inability to go faster. Surely he need not take such strides. The going was becoming more fatiguing.

Edwina's toes ached; her fingers were numb; she kept slipping; the snow sifted down her neck and blew in her eyes. Her knees commenced to wabble. Knight plowed ahead, occasionally halting for the lagging feet, then striding on.

"Mr. Knight!" Edwina was three yards in the rear and breathing fast.

He did not seem to hear.

"Ham!"

The man stopped. She caught up and smiled dolefully.

"Getting tired?" he puffed. "It's a trifle rough, and we are among some mean rocks. I declare, Edwina, I'm puzzled!"

"No—not lost?"

"Oh, no! I don't know where I am, that's all. It's nothing. We'll land somewhere. Say, your teeth are chattering. It can't be you mind this little tramp! Brace a bit, and we'll get over that bowlder."

"Ham—I—never can climb it. I—I've sort of given out. This—this horrid snow"— The words faltered to a shaking whisper and broke in a sob.

"Curse my carelessness!" cried the man, seizing her hands. "Why, you are half frozen, child. I'm warm enough. I'll have to set you right and be quick about it." He dragged off her damp gloves.

Edwina was conscious of being rubbed, kneaded, shaken, jounced, hugged, slapped and generally stirred in an agitating process that presently sent a glow of warmth through every vein.

She did not protest. In fact, her submission to this treatment was amazingly tractable. Circulation seemed more important than dignity, and, after all, it was only Ham.

But when he exclaimed, "There, how's that?" and kissed her she shrank away in indignant remonstrance.

"How dare you? It was a mean advantage."

"I forgot. Naturally when a chap has been engaged to a girl for months he forgets." His reply was not apologetic. Edwina frowned severely.

"All that is past," she said. "I'll thank you to recover your bearings."

"Up we go, then, to the top of this rock and try for a glimpse over the trees. It's pretty steep, but not bad footing. Give me your little fist."

A scramble, a haul, and they stood on a level stone backed by a hump of granite. Knight steadied her as the snow eddied about their heads, mocking their straining eyes.

"No use," observed Hamilton, attempting a laugh. "The best I can do is to wrap you up in my coat, leave you in a snug corner and dig directly down to—somewhere." He began unbuttoning his heavy reefer, adding: "I'll find a house, get help and be right back. Answer my calls and be a brave girl."

Edwina stared at him in silent dismay.

"Before I start, dear," he said huskily, "I'm going to break a solemn promise. Next week," he hesitated, then went on impulsively—"next Wednesday I could tell. Lillian Carey is engaged to my brother Bob—and—that—was—why I've had some tough days, Edwina."

The girl's arms reached for him. She cried out wildly. He clasped her close, his face bent to the nestling head, and for a long minute both forgot the peril, the estrangement, everything save the sudden joy of understanding.

A rift broke in the clouds. The snow ceased. A streak of blue sky widened. Below their perch, only a hundred yards distant, the highway showed clearly in a growing light, with dotting houses lifting shining white roofs.

Edwina raised here eyes and blinked in a dazzling shaft of radiance.

"Ham!" she cried joyously. "Quick! Look, dear. The sun has come out."

A Canine Actor.

In those days (in 1876) I was always accompanied by a favorite and beautiful old collie called Smut, which I took to rehearsals. It followed me everywhere, even on the stage during the actual performance of the play. Night after night Smut performed his part in an admirable and irreproachable manner, lying down at my feet while I sat under a tree taking part in a dialogue with one of the characters. On a hot, sultry night in July, however (for the play enjoyed an exceptionally long run), Smut became bored, thinking, no doubt, that the play had had its day and that it was now the dog's turn. He advanced quite quietly to the center of the stage with an almost managerial sense of his own importance, sat down in a dignified manner on his haunches and yawned in full view of the audience with the sublime indifference of a dramatic critic. The audience were naturally amused. Encouraged by the success of his unconscious efforts, Smut went from bad to worse by snapping up a passing fly, which he swallowed with the enjoyment of a gourmet, inevitably spoiling the quiet scene on which we were engaged.

This terminated his engagement as an actor.—John Hare in Strand Magazine.

She Rose to the Occasion.

"That's a nice looking chap at the next table," said the young man who was treating his best girl to a lobster supper. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"Yes, indeed," laughed the pretty girl.

"Well—er—I think I'll ask him to join us."

"Oh, this is so sudden!"

"What's so sudden?"

"Why, why, that's our young minister."—Chicago News.

Titled Lady Novelists.

Lady Trowbridge is one of the titled authors of England whose novels have attained great popularity. Another society woman who has written novels of note is Lady Helen Forbes, a sister of the Duchess of Sutherland, who has also produced some very creditable volumes. The Duchess of Leeds, Lady Henry Somerset, Lady Cromartie and Lady Napier of Magdala have all helped to swell the total number of titled lady novelists.—Argonaut.

Barefooted Lad Became Professor.

Mr. Samuel Kinnear, "the father of the Edinburgh printing trade," whose death at the age of ninety-three is just announced, spent the greater part of his life in Blackwood's famous printing house. In the old days, when a poor lad went to Edinburgh, he made a point of calling upon someone from his own county for assistance. Mr. Kinnear's father was aroused by a gentle tap at his door, and on opening it he found a barefooted boy standing outside. The lad had tramped all the way from Galloway. Mr. Kinnear befriended the boy and secured him a position as an apprentice to an Edinburgh bookseller. His good offices were not misplaced, for that boy prospered and became Dr. Murray, Professor of Oriental Languages in Edinburgh University.

Manna.

The manna of commerce comes chiefly from Sicily. It is a sweet substance obtained from a small tree known as the manna ash. This tree can be grown as far north as England, but in that country it yields no manna and is cultivated for ornament only. The manna is formed from the sap. The trees are ready to be tapped at the age of eight years, when the stems have a diameter of about three inches.

800-Year-Old Industry.

Saltmaking by the evaporation of sea water has been carried on at Maldon, Essex, England, ever since the time of the Domesday survey. The Town Council has just granted permission for the borough arms to be placed on all packages of salt sent from the town.

Woman's World

TO BE OPENED IN APRIL.

D. A. R. Hopes to Hold Next Convention in Continental Hall.

Memorial Continental hall, which the Daughters of the American Revolution began to plan and work for eighteen years ago, when the society was formed, will be finished in April. Opposite the public park known as the White House lot, in Washington, it stands, south of the Corcoran Art gallery and not far from the historic mall and the Washington monument. It is said to be the greatest memorial building ever erected by women. It is of marble, colonial in style, of course, and facing the new bureau of American republics. On the south side are thirteen fluted monolithic shafts rising in a semicircle to the roof, a perpetual memorial to the thirteen original colonies. The broad flight of steps which leads to the entrance is flanked on either side by three massive columns. On the north is a broad marble terrace.

The daughters have worked hard to collect the money for this building.

D. A. R. MEMORIAL CONTINENTAL HALL.

More than $300,000 in hard cash has been raised in the eighteen years since the project was formed. Over $100,000 was raised during the last three years. By a resolution of the Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution a loan of $200,000 was negotiated, and, unless something unexpected happens to prevent, the society will meet in April in a completed building. That meeting will mark the completion of the second term of Mrs. Donald McLean's presidency of the national society and the fulfillment of her ardent work for Continental hall.

The auditorium of the hall will seat about 2,000 persons. Here the annual congress of the Daughters will convene. Besides, it is hoped that the place will become a center for musical, literary and educational interests in Washington. The building will have a fireproof museum and a library. Historic bits of marble and wood will be wrought into the walls. The cost of the ground and building when completed will be about $500,000. Besides the auditorium, museum and library, there will be a board room, dining room, children's room, committee rooms, kitchen, serving rooms, storerooms, etc.

Facial Massage.

Persons who declare that facial massage harms the muscles and tissues fail to understand the method of operation, which is to stimulate the infinite number of fibers and tiny muscles beneath the skin. Unless they are strengthened in this fashion they become flabby with weakness of age, just as all muscles are affected when a woman is no longer young. The purpose of facial massage is to prevent sagging, but unless it is properly done it damages the skin by stretching it. Continued rubbing over and over the surface may stretch the flesh just as rubbing over the scalp will tangle the hair. Scalp massage consists in keeping the fingers stationary and moving the scalp over the skull, not the hair over the scalp. In precisely the same way the skin of the face should be held firm while tissues are exercised. This consists merely in holding the fingers stationary during the treatment, bending them at the first joint. When one spot has been done the fingers are lifted and placed in another, repeating this all over the face. To let the fingers slide around accomplishes nothing beyond the likelihood of stretching the skin. After any massage astringents should be considered a necessary application, for by the use of one any chance of causing fine surface wrinkles is eliminated, and the complexion is given added tone and firmness. Cold water is an excellent tonic, but it must be cold and used plentifully.

Other astringents, such as alcoholic preparations, in the way of toilet waters are good, and to get the most benefit for the smallest price one of these may be patted over the skin after a good application with water. A weak solution of spirits of camphor is beneficial, and camphor water is even better. Tincture of benzoin is another of which so small a quantity is required that the cost is slight. Twelve drops in an ordinary basin of water is quite enough. An ounce of the tincture of benzoin to half a pint of pure alcohol is one of the best astringent applications that can be made, using the liquid not oftener than twice a day, letting it dry on the skin.

Facial massage should never be given until the skin has been well soaked in hot water. So thorough should be the preliminary bath that all the fine pores are opened and the skin softened. This makes the rubbing far more efficacious and the application of an astringent more than ever necessary.

And Yet They Talk!

A number of young married women have formed a little sewing circle to meet at each other's house during Lent. They will sew for the poor and at the close of the afternoon gather round the tea table.

There is but one restriction to these gatherings. The members have stern

ONE ON THE DOCTORS.

Madame J. Rioux, St. Helen, Que., says:—"Fruit-a-tives cured me of severe Liver Disease. Neither doctors nor any other remedy did me any good, but Fruit-a-tives promptly cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure Liver Trouble, Biliousness and Constipation because they act directly on the liver. They stimulate the secretion of Bile, which decreases the quantity of blood in the liver and thus relieves the Congestion or Biliousness. With plenty of Bile to move the Bowels, there is an end to the Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a disordered liver.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—prepared by a newly discovered process, and combined with valuable tonics and antiseptics. They are, without doubt, the most popular remedy in Canada to-day.

ly forbidden the three D's, and conversation which touches on dress, domestics or disease is strictly tabooed.

To keep the matrons from straying back into familiar conversational paths a fine of 10 cents for each offense is imposed upon every one indulging in those enthralling topics.

The proceeds of the fines are to be devoted to a charity yet to be voted upon. At the first meeting it looked as if they could endow a hospital bed, but at the next one fines had lessened marvelously, nor had the members turned deaf mutes.

To relieve the strain part of the afternoon was devoted to reading some interesting topic of the day, which was later discussed.

Similar vows against the three D's would be excellent Lenten discipline for many women, either in clubs or alone. To realize how large a part of daily conversation is occupied by these three topics one need only decide to cut them out.

Clever Announcement Party.

The girl who wishes to announce her engagement to a few intimate friends before it is formally announced can find no better way than this. The guests should be invited to an informal luncheon. If forgetmenots are obtainable, they should be used for the centerpiece, but otherwise any flower that is preferred may be used for decorating. Small glass candlesticks may be placed at each cover shaded with a shade of soft blue. Under each napkin place a little ring box containing an imitation diamond ring. These rings may be purchased inexpensively. The place cards may be decorated with little Cupids. After the guests have found their places they will unfold their napkins only to discover the rings, which they will immediately put on. If they do not discover that the engaged girl has on a "real" ring, a gentle hint may be given them.

"Wives Slaves Like Horses."

In a public discussion on the question "Is the Wife Supported by Her Husband?" Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman said:

"Many wives are like horses in that they are supported as the farmer supports his horse—by giving it as much food as he thinks necessary. Many of the horses have found that they do not get as much food as they did when in their natural state they roamed the meadows before man enslaved them."

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw said:

"In this semi-civilized country there are thirty-eight states in which the title to the children rests not in their mother, but in their father. Women cannot legally possess children, and in many of the states they can't own clothes. Their clothing belongs to their husbands. The more work a woman does in a home the less money her husband gives her."

Red Cheeks Without Rouge.

If you want to look very pretty and have red cheeks for some festivity, you can do this. Rub cold cream into the face, always with an upward, rotary movement. Wipe that off, rub in more and wipe it off again. Then wash the face with hot water. Then dash cold water over it and dry it thoroughly with a soft towel. To add the final touch take a small piece of ice, cover with a towel and rub gently three or four times over the cheek bones. This gives a color which will last for hours and is really a mild form of a Turkish bath for the face. Many ladies before going out use leather sponges, rubbing the cheeks first with warm water, then hot water, and dry thoroughly. This gives a lovely color.

"Hush Money" at the Opera.

There are a number of singers belonging to the Metropolitan Opera House company who, although they are retained merely for cases of emergency, are nevertheless guaranteed a certain amount of pay. Thus, supposing that their price per performance is $500, they each get, say, $5,000 for the season, even if they do not sing at all.

Some wag at the opera house has invented a most appropriate name for the salaries paid out to these silent song birds.

He calls it "hush money."—New York Times.

MRS. POTTER'S ADVICE.

Valuable Aids For Acquiring the New Directoire Figure.

"If you wish to acquire the directoire figure, as of course every up to date woman does, diet yourself, eliminating all starchy foods, pastries and sweets from your meals," says Mrs. James Brown Potter. "My advice to those who wish to become slender, though fat, is to tub daily.

"I am a great believer in the morning bath, not cold, but tepid, for, though it in itself will not reduce flesh, daily bathing tends to strengthen the constitution, and this is most desirable when trying to take off fat. When the circulation has been stimulated by the bath throw a warm dressing gown around yourself, stand in a well aired room and go through these exercises:

"Draw in the muscles of the abdomen, inhale a deep breath and raise your arms above your head until the thumbs meet, bending body backward as far as possible. Recover pose and as you exhale bring the arms down in a sweeping curve forward until the finger tips touch the floor. Repeat six times.

"With arms hanging limply from the shoulders bend the body sideways as far as possible, first to left and then to the right. Repeat ten times.

"With arms in the same position, feet planted firmly on the floor, twist the body as far as you can, turn it from right to left, and vice versa. This is especially good for reducing the hips. Repeat twenty times.

"Lie flat on your back, either on floor or couch. Without bending knees lift the legs till the feet are straight up, raising arms at the same time. Do this with the breath exhaled and inhale deeply as you lower them. Repeat six times.

"These exercises if consistently done both morning and evening will help any woman in acquiring the fashionable directoire figure."

A feature especially emphasized by the manufacturers is the fact that the stand may be entirely taken down for shipment, thus effecting a great saving in transportation charges.

The Swaffham Tinker and His Dog.

Two quaint figures are carved on the two top pews and reading desk of Swaffham church. According to legend, a tinker had a dream bidding him go to London bridge and a stranger would reveal to him how to find a pot of money. So off he went with his dog, and at the bridge a stranger stopped him, saying, "Last night I had a dream bidding me go to Swaffham and dig in such and such a place and there find a pot of money, but I don't believe in dreams." Then back went the tinker, dug for and found the pot as described and also an inscription bidding him dig deeper, which he did, and found another, and with them restored Swaffham church. The carvings were put up to perpetuate his memory.—London Strand.

A Regimental Custom.

A peculiar custom obtains in the Twelth lancers—the playing of the Vesper hymn, the Spanish chant and the Russian national hymn every night of the year after the "last post" has sounded. It is said that the playing of the Vesper hymn originated in one of the officers' wives presenting the regiment with a new set of instruments on condition that the hymn was played every night after the "last post." The playing of the Spanish chant is declared to be a penance for sacking of a convent during the peninsular war. No reason is assigned for the playing of the Russian national anthem.—London Tit-Bits.

IN WILD THIBET.

Dr. Sven Hedin on His Adventures In the Forbidden Land.

Dr. Sven Hedin had an enthusiastic welcome at the Queen's Hall, London, a short time ago, when he rose to tell the adventurous story of his long journeyings in the wilds of Thibet. Hanging behind him, in diagrammatic form, were the fruits of his travels—a colored map of Thibet, lined with horizontal mountain ranges. Before Dr. Sven Hedin went exploring a large part of that territory was blank on the map—or, worse still, was marked with inaccurate detail. The meeting was arranged by the Royal Geographical Society. Lord Morley, the Secretary of State for India, was present at the head of a distinguished company, for the exploration of Thibet means more to India than to any other country. Like most successful explorers, Dr. Sven Hedin shows no traces of his hardships. A keen, trim, clean-built man of average size, with a bright complexion, sleek, black hair, and gold-rimmed spectacles, he might have been about to lecture on butterflies so far as his appearance was any guide. He spoke very fluently, with abundant gestures, and his attractive broken English gave point to his merry little jokes and his occasional freshets of eloquent word-painting.

"The whole of Thibet is like a sea," he said, "the gigantic waves of which, driven up by northern or southern winds, have been changed into stone in the moment of their worst fury." He began to cross that sea of mountains in August, 1906, with a caravan of 25 men and 130 ponies and mules. Of the animals only six survived. From the very first the officials tried to head him back, and the various ruses by which he outwitted them made an interesting story. On the edge of the great unknown territory he tried in vain to get permission to travel. "I endeavored to demoralize the Garpun in the most horrible way. We said that when our animals died we had been obliged to bury some precious boxes in the east, and that we wanted them again. It was, of course, a formidable lie, for we had not lost so much as a box of matches; but the Garpun replied that it was more important to him not to lose his own head than for us to find our lost boxes. He refused bribes. He threatened to send armed men after us if I went eastwards without permission."

In the end, by pretending to go somewhere else, the explorer penetrated the Forbidden Country, and there, on the desolate mountain tops, with the temperature at the freezing point of mercury, he made observations of the new-old country which is to go on the maps as Trans-Himalaya. Here is a typical picture: "We passed an abandoned man who had got both hands and feet frozen on the Karakorum; the fingers were literally falling off. He said he was creeping down to Sheyok. We gave him bread, flour, matches, and some rupees. In the nights the moonshine was brilliant, the mountains stood like black coffins on both sides of the valley, with the blinding white snowfields over them. A lonely raven followed us for a month. I hate them; they only wait for somebody to be left behind."

Quaint tales of that wild, romantic land were told. "What are you?" a man was asked. "A robber!" he proudly replied. "And I," said his chief, "am the father of all the Thibetan robbers." "The Lopliks called me Padishahim, or your Majesty. The people of Bongba addressed me as Rinpotche, or your Holiness—and that, I thought, was a little too much!" They came to a mountain monastery, with 60 monks and 70 nuns, all dwelling in very nice and comfortable black tents. They met a Pun on the road, traveling with a village of tents, 100 persons, 400 yaks, and a great and picturesque escort of armed men. "The Pun has two younger brothers, and all three have two wives together; that means two-thirds of a wife each, which I think is a rather funny invention!"

Dickens' Mustache.

Among some stories told by W. P. Frith, the Royal academician, who is ninety years of age, is the following concerning Charles Dickens: Frith many years ago was commissioned to paint a portrait of the novelist. "There was a hitch about the first sitting," says the monagenarian. "Dickens had started growing a mustache, which was considered almost a crime in those days. The delay in the sittings continued, and one morning, when we expected to find Dickens had relented and had shaved off his mustache, to our dismay he had started growing more hair on his chin. Landseer called that morning, and he gave a great start when he saw Dickens' face. Dickens then took the bull by the horns. 'I say, old fellow, you don't seem to notice this,' he said, pointing to his mustache. 'Oh, yes, I do,' was the reply. 'It enables me to see less of you, and that's an advantage.'"—London Tit-Bits.

Over Herculaneum.

Herculaneum lies under the modern villages of Portici and Resina. In attempting to excavate the buried city the Italian government is encountering the problem of the property rights of the people who live on the modern level. The legal theory is that a landowner owns an inverted pyramid whose apex is the center of the earth—everything under him is his. But who inherits the property rights of the subsoil town which was buried 2,000 years ago? A law is pending to take by right of eminent domain the ground from under the Resina landowners, or at least the treasures it may conceal.—Youth's Companion.

RETRACTION BY DR. CARMAN

Head of Methodists Withdraws Criticisms of Jackson.

DOVE ALIGHTS ON CHURCH

All Is Peace Again In Methodist Ranks After Meeting In Which Recent Controversy Is Healed Up—Victoria University Takes Stand For Independent Opinions on All Religious Matters.

Toronto, March 24.—Yesterday was indeed laden with surprises for the Methodist Church in Canada. The first came when the faculty of Victoria University had decided unanimously to issue a declaration of independence of thought and freedom of speech and to stand or fall with Rev. George Jackson.

The second came when the meeting of the board of regents called by the chairman, Rev. Dr. Carman, last night adopted the faculty's declaration and ordered it published in the official church organ as the new declaration of principles, practically a new theological creed, signed by the chairman, "A. Carman" himself.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was one absolutely unanimous. Rev. George Jackson's statement of views both then and as previously published were concurred in by every member of the faculty without the slightest dissent.

The board promptly took up the matter of the Carman-Jackson controversy, but the angel of peace hovered over the gathering to such an extent that each side appeared to outrival the other in its desire to extend the olive branch.

The chancellor presented the report of the meeting of the faculty, which endorsed their new colleague, Rev. George Jackson.

When it had been read Rev. Dr. Carman so stirred the hearts of the regents by his declaration that his statements in regard to "Brother Jackson" were not intended to be personal that a member of the board started singing a verse of the hymn, "Blessed be the Tie that Binds," and the verse was sung through by the other members who heartily joined in.

Dr. Carman's declaration of fraternal feeling towards Rev. George Jackson cleared the path for the withdrawal by the superintendent of his strictures on that minister and it only remained for the findings of the board to be placed in the form of the following resolutions, which were signed by Dr. Carman and Chancellor Burwash:

Resolved, that the report of the president of the university in reference to the recent theological controversies be received and adopted by this board as a statement of the position of Victoria University in the matter; and

Further Resolved, that it is considered desirable that whatever has been written of a personal character calculated to wound the feelings of brethren or interfere with their work be withdrawn, and

Further Resolved that the report of the president and the resolution of the Faculty of Theology be published in The Christian Guardian and in the secular press accompanied by a copy of this resolution, the resolution to be certified by the chairman and secretary of the board.

At a meeting of the Faculty of Theology of Victoria University, held in the president's office a 3.30 p.m., a statement was issued in which the following statement was made regarding the creation story in dispute:

We further believe and teach that in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth, that all their order and perfection are the work of His wisdom, goodness and power; that He created man in His own image after His likeness, a responsible moral being; that man fell into sin; that sin is not a stage in the process of development, but a moral act by which a man forsakes the right and does the wrong; that by sin man's nature has been changed for the worse, so that according to our seventh article he is very far gone from original righteousness and of his own nature inclined to evil and that continually; that redemption from sin is only through the atonement of our Lord Jesus Christ, from whom the whole Old Testament dispensation was both preparation and prophecy and in whom the Old Testament has its complete fulfilment.

These doctrines have been the fundamentals of our teaching for the past 38 years and these are the truths which we find taught in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments.

Proof Wanted.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a good trade in milkers and springers, at steady prices, which ranged from $35 to $66, with two or three choice heavy cows at $70 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts were larger, which caused the market to be a little easier at $3 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep and lambs were a little bit easier, on account of there being a few more offered. It does not take a large number at the present high prices to satisfy the demand, as mutton and lamb have got to the price where the general public cannot afford to buy. Sheep, $4.50 to $5 for ewes, rams, $3.50 to $4.25; lambs grain fed, $7.25 to $7.75 per cwt., lambs common, $5 to $6 per cwt.

Hogs.

Farthest South.

London, March 24.—The polar regions are gradually yielding up their secrets to human perseverance and determination. Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton of the British navy, who left his permanent quarters last autumn for a dash to the pole, having succeeded, after an arduous sledge journey of 1,708 miles, occupying 126 days, in reaching within 111 miles of the south pole, or 354 miles nearer than attained by the Discovery expedition, of which he was an officer. The British flag was left flying.

His expedition, which sailed early in 1908, reached New Zealand yesterday.

Inquiry Ends.

St. Thomas, March 24.—The Ontario Government's investigation into the administration of the license law in East Elgin and the official acts of License Inspector Andrews was concluded yesterday afternoon, Commissioner Endo Saunders of Toronto presiding. No judgment was given, the commissioner promising to make his report later.

Child Burned to Death.

Toronto, March 24.—Two-year-old Loreen McCulloch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCulloch of 84 Harvard avenue, was so severely burned yesterday that she died in the afternoon at the Sick Children's Hospital.

Her mother was upstairs completing her toilet, after having lighted the fire, when Loreen attempted to accelerate the speed of the flames.

In some way she caught fire. She screamed, the mother raced downstairs, picked her up in her arms, ran upstairs and assisted by her husband extinguished the flames.

Mr. McCulloch is a Canadian Pacific Railway telegraph operator. Loreen was one of a pair of twins.

Big Fire at Victoria.

Victoria, B.C., March 23.—Fire yesterday morning caused the loss of over $150,000, mostly covered by insurance.

The buildings destroyed are the Pacific Club and nearly all structures of that block, bounded by Fort, Broad and Broughton streets, mostly owned by F. B. Pemberton.

The cause of the fire which originated in rear of John Gilbert's plumbing shop, is not known, but at 3.30 that place was doomed. The Pacific Club was unoccupied, the firemen, fearing that servants might still have been there, fought their way in and made careful search. Water pressure was poor.

Church Expels Father Murri.

Rome, March 24.—The supreme congregation of the holy office has issued a major excommunication against Father Romolo Murri, leader of the Catholic Democrats, who was elected to the Chamber of Deputies at the last general elections as a Christian Democrat. The excommunication deprives the priest of all ecclesiastical communion, being equivalent to an anthema, which is pronounced upon the greatest offenders only.

Father Romolo Murri was suspended in 1907 "ad divinis" by the Pope for disobedience of papal instructions regarding the behavior of the clergy.

Scottish Marriage Custom.

Many quaint marriage customs still survive in some old English and Scottish families. One notable tradition of this sort still kept green by the Dukes of Atholl and their heirs says The London Lady's Realm, is that of the bridegroom carrying the bride across the threshhold of Blair Castle, it being in accord with an ancient tradition that it is unlucky for the first time to walk in the ordinary way. This is only one of the many quaint old feudal customs that are observed upon this estate, which the Duke of Atholl holds from the crown by one of those strange tenures which are occasionally to be found in Great Britain. Upon fear of forfeiture the owner has to present his sovereign with a white rose whenever he or she visits the castle.

London's County Hall.

The magnificent new London (Eng.) County Hall will be built on five and a half acres of land between Belvedere road and the Thames, almost opposite the Houses of Parliament. The building will cost about $4,000,000, while an embankment on the Thames faced with granite, will cost over $500,000. The new hall will accommodate the London County Council staff of 2,500 persons. At present these are located in twenty-eight separate buildings.

Saved By His Oilskins.

When the inquest on William Jordan, one of the victims in the explosion disaster on the ketch Good Hope, off Canso, opened and adjourned recently at Yarmouth the coroner mentioned that the survivor had been kept afloat by the oilskins he was wearing.

COUNTERFEIT COINS.

Forged Money Is Worth as Much as the Genuine.

The unusual occurrence of a counterfeit coin bringing far more than the value it was originally intended to represent by its makers took place recently, when a curious Spanish doubloon of Charles IV. of Spain, dated 1801, was sold for £12 at a sale of old coins at the Collectors' Club in New York.

The coin was of excellent workmanship, and there was really no striking difference between it and the genuine. But instead of being struck in gold it was composed of platinum of the purest quality, which had been gilded. The intrinsic value of the Spanish doubloon in gold is just over £3. The platinum counterfeit weighs 420 grains, which, at the prevailing market rate, would give this piece an intrinsic value of about £3 10s.

Platinum was a favorite metal with counterfeiters some years ago, when its intrinsic value was about 25s. or 30s. an ounce. Many spurious $10 and $20 United States gold pieces were turned out, chiefly composed of this metal. The coins of Great Britain were also tampered with in the same manner.

Spanish coins have been much counterfeited, perhaps more than the coins of any other country. Even at the present time Spain is redeeming counterfeit five-peseta pieces. These coins were made by private persons and were equal to the regular Government coins in point of fineness and weight, the manufacturers being satisfied with the seigniorage or difference between the face value of the coin and its value in bullion silver.

So difficult are these illegal coins to distinguish from the genuine that the Government has authorized their redemption at bullion value. It is said that but little distinction has been made in Spain between the regular issues and the counterfeits, the two issues being accepted freely everywhere, and it is declared that it is not at all unlikely that a fair proportion of the 600,000,000 five-peseta pieces held in reserve by the Bank of Spain is made up of the counterfeit coin.

Some years ago when silver had a much higher value than at present a counterfeit Mexican dollar came into the possession of the United States assayers at the Philadelphia mint. They assayed the coin and found it to be worth intrinsically about 6s. It seems that the mine from which the counterfeiters got their metal produced silver that was very strong in gold. Thus the forgers lost money by making counterfeits.

Wedding Ring Story.

It was the habit of Rev. James Spurgeon, grandfather of the great preacher of that name, to pray each evening under a certain oak tree in a secluded wood in Honeywood park. One night he dreamed, the story goes, that Satan appeared and threatened to tear him in pieces if he followed his accustomed route to the tree. There was another path by which he might go in safety. Remembering his dream, Spurgean felt sorely tempted the next night to take the route in which Satan was not. But this would be to capitulate. Trembling in every limb he made his way by the path in which the danger lay. He reached his goal in safety and in prayer and song returned thanks for delivery from peril. When his prayer had ended he rose to return. In his path lay a piece of solid gold "as large as a curtain ring." All inquiry failing to discover an owner, he retained it and when he married had his wife's wedding ring made from his curious find.

Pawnbrokers' Shops.

Pawnbrokers' shops were first established from motives of charity in the fifteenth century. Their object was to lend money to the poor upon pledges without interest. They were first supported by voluntary contributions, but it became necessary to charge interest upon the money loaned. These banks were first called "montes pietatis," the word "mont" being applied to any pecuniary fund, and it is possible that "pietatis" was added to give it an air of religion and so obtain larger subscriptions. The "montes pietatis" were also called "Lombards," from the name of the original money lenders, the Lombards, who came to London in the reign of Edward I. and established themselves in the street which bears their name and which, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth was the handsomest street in London.—London Home Notes.

CONTINENTS TO RENT

PLENTY OF UNEXPLORED LAND STILL ON THE GLOBE.

In Southern Arabia Is the Dahkna Where There Are 400,000 Square Miles of Land Not Worth Fifty Dollars—Thibet Also Has a Forgotten Land—Interior of South America Still Awaits White Man.

It is odd that so much fuss is made about the North and South Poles, as if they were the only places on this globe that man cannot reach. There is still enough unexplored land in the world to make a new continent, if lumped together.

For instance, within ten days' journey from London, by modern express routes, there is a tract of country the the size of Germany, France and Holland combined, and as unknown as the mountains of the moon. It occupies nearly the whole of central Southern Arabia.

This pleasing district is known as the Dahkna, or the "Dwelling of the Void," and consists of what Lord Salisbury once politely referred to as "chiefly light soil," when he was speaking of the French possessions in Africa. It is a mighty waste of sand, with not a single river—as far as can be judged—in over 400,000 square miles.

Compared with this country, the Sahara is a pleasant and fruitful tract. It defies even the Arab and the camel. It is unlikely that the whole 400,000 square miles is worth a ten-pound note. However, a plucky Englishman—Mr. Bury—is preparing to make an attempt to penetrate into the interior this year.

Another wholly unknown tract of country—one that is likely to show its future explorers more profit than the last mentioned—is to be found in Thibet, along the Lower Brahmaputra, and is about the size of the United Kingdom. Of course, Central Thibet, Lhassa, and so forth are mere "tripper" districts now, since the British expedition to the Secret City. But the southeastern part of the country has yet to see a white man's face. According to the newspapers, however, "an adventurous Englishman, carrying his life in his hands," is now starting to try his luck in the district.

The principal products of this mysterious country, according to rumors collected from hill tribesmen around the outskirts, are yaks, by way of live stock, onyx, agate, and other semi-precious stones, gold-dust, and some very choice and ingenious methods of torture.

The priestly Lamas of the rest of Thibet shun this region, which they say is inhabited by low people, who live by trading among each other, and whom they call Wahats. But they admit the superiority of the Wahats' tortures, and respect Wahats as experts in that line. Indeed, the Lamas confess that their own little experiments, formerly made on travelers who tried to get into Lhassa, were taught them by Wahats who had strayed out of the unexplored territory.

It seems quaint that any part of the British Empire should remain untraversed by white men. Indeed, it is necessary to rush the next item into print, in order to include it; for, although unexplored at present, it will not be so much longer. No less than three expeditions are starting to penetrate the unknown parts of New Guinea, but up till now nothing can be recorded about the district, except by guesswork, and any surprise may await the explorers.

The coast is comparatively civilized, and the British portion is administered by the crown. Certain parts of the hinterland, too, are well known—so much so that the Birds of Paradise which once swarmed in one or two tracts have been nearly exterminated by skin-collectors employed by Paris and London millinery firms.

Large portions of the interior, however, are still jealously preserved by

RHEUMATISM IN THE SYSTEM

SIX YEARS CURED IN SIX DAYS

TO MFRS. "NERVILINE."

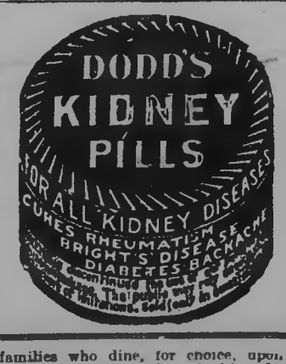
"The suffering I endured for six years with Rheumatism is beyond description. Every time I was exposed to cold or dampness meant that I had to go to bed. My muscles stiffened, my joints swelled, and any attempt at action brought on excruciating agonies. The pain shifted from one part to another and I was scarcely ever free from misery and sleeplessness. I took all kinds of liquid medicines, but they nearly all depressed my heart and I had to stop them. Then I was told of the wonderful power of Nerviline.

Nerviline

"If Nerviline had been made specially for my case it couldn't have been more successful. It sank right into the core of the painful part, gave me ease, allowed me to sleep, gave me the use of my arms and limbs—in fact, made a new man of me. I urge all Rheumatics to use Nerviline."

A. E. TRAYONER.
"Justice of the Peace, Lancaster."

The most wonderful pain-subduing substance in the world are in Nerviline—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly sciatica, lumbago, or rheumatism are cured by Nerviline—seems almost magical the way it will cure a cold or sore throat. When the chest is sore and it hurts to draw a long breath, one rubbing with Nerviline is sufficient. So highly valued is Nerviline by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains, and minor ailments of every kind. Large 25c bottles are sold by all dealers.



families who dine, for choice, upon each other. In spite of this, the whole island is divided between the British, German, and Dutch nations.

Perhaps, on the whole, the finest place to get absolutely lost in is the interior of South America, where 300,000 square miles or so are still waiting for the first white man's foot to intrude on any one of them. Most of this lies around the watershed of the Upper Amazon and its tributaries. Many of the names politely ascribed by the atlas to the rivers and mountains here are efforts of imagination. Only a small number have really been reached or surveyed.

As two-thirds of the whole region is impenetrable forest, it is not a place to take casual strolls in; and over a dozen expeditions have either failed, been lost completely, or wiped out by accidents of travel, in the past forty years.

The principal joys that await forthcoming expeditions are fever of a very malignant sort, armies of ants that can decimate a baggage-train, and even overwhelm and eat its proprietors, impassable cypress-swamps, and snake-bite. The latter commodity cannot be equalled anywhere else—there is no place on the globe where deadly snakes swarm to such an extent, and hardly any of them permit the least hope of life after a bite.

The fer-de-lance, water-mocassin, and a dozen others are particularly plentiful; and, by the way of variety, the anaconda, champion of the world in the constricting and bone-smashing line, is abundant in the forests. Even the natives—mainly harmless forest Indians—have no notion of the way about, but all places are alike to them.

It is curious to think that in the Himalayas themselves, on the doorstep of India, and no very great way from Simla, there is a district across the border that is still unexplored, though as large as any three English counties, and nothing is known of the hill-tribes that inhabit it except by rumor.

As Others See Us.

A Wireless Message.

A man whose soldier son had recently been sent abroad was met one day by an inquisitive acquaintance, who inquired how the lad was getting on.

"Oh, fine," replied the father. "I got a wireless message from him this morning."

"But I didn't know that Marconi's system would carry so far," said the acquaintance.

"Marconi didn't have anything to do with it," was the reply. "It came by post."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Lockout.

"I must tell you the joke on me," said a business woman who "keeps bach" in a cunning little apartment. "Last week I invited two friends for luncheon. As I have just an hour at noon I got everything ready before I left in the morning that could be prepared and set on the ice. I made a lovely salad, a dessert, prepared for toasted muffins and tea and set my table in all its glory, even buying some flowers for a centerpiece. My guests met me at the office and we went to the apartment. What do you think I had done? Left my keys inside and locked the door!

"There was absolutely no way for us to get in. The janitor had a pass key, but he was away. All the windows on the fire escapes were locked, and no other key in the building fitted. There was nothing to do but take my guests to a restaurant. Then I found that I had not even brought my purse from the office, never dreaming that I should need it. I had to ask my guests for money to pay for the luncheon, and, as it happened, they only had a quarter each above their carfare. We went to the cheapest place we could find and had sandwiches and coffee. Wasn't that funny?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Accommodating.

"Some years ago," says a Boston lawyer, "a man in Nantucket was tried for a petty offense and sentenced to four months in jail. A few days after the trial the judge who had imposed sentence, in company with the sheriff, was on his way to the Boston boat, when they passed a man busily engaged in sawing wood.

"The man stopped his work, touched his hat politely and said, 'Good morning, your honor.'

"The judge, after a careful survey of the man's face, asked:

"'Isn't that the man I sentenced to jail a few days ago?'

"'Yes,' replied the sheriff, with some hesitation, 'that's the man. The fact is, judge, we—er—we don't happen to have anybody else in jail just now, so we thought it would be a sort of useless expense to hire some one to keep the jail four months just for this one man. So I gave him the jail key and told him it would be all right if he'd sleep there o' nights.'"—Harper's Weekly.

Great Britain's Flags.

All the flags for British ships of war, except the royal standards, are made in the Government dockyards, and the enormous number required may be judged from the fact that at Chatham alone about 18,000 flags are made in a year.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

A dainty corset bag can be made of white linen, with the top buttonholed in rather large scallops. Below the scallops work a row of long eyelets and through these run white ribbon in a twisted cord and tassels. The initials or monogram should be embroidered in white about the center of the bag.

Although it is almost impossible to draw wool through the eye of an ordinary needle, however large the latter may be, the needle can sometimes be threaded with fine wool if cotton is used as a "decoy." Both ends of a piece of cotton should be passed through the eye until only a short loop remains, the end of the wool being then run through the loop and the whole gently pulled through the eye of the needle.

Magazine covers are made from heavy linens and craftsman's canvas. For the postcard albums the latter fabric is preferred. Both materials can be had in a variety of colors, and an applique of cretonne is a popular form of decoration. Book covers in a cool gray linen adorned with a spray of purple orchids cut from cretonne are pretty, and so are those in terra cotta craftsman's canvas, displaying a swastika cross cut from cretonne in dull oriental colorings.

To make a dainty powder bag get a piece of thin flowered ribbon three-quarters of a yard long and about six inches wide. Cover a round disk about the size of the top of a tumbler with pink silk for the bottom of the bag and gather the ribbon to it and put a drawstring at the top. Place it in the powder puff. Next comes the clever idea of gluing to the bottom of the bag on the outside a small round mirror of exact size as the bottom of the bag; then cover the edge of the bag with a double ruffle of narrow ribbon, a narrow piece gathered through the center, and the lower ruffle will cover the edge of the glass, making a pretty finish.

The Right to Kill.

Considerable excitement has been aroused in Paris by the question raised by Dr. Bosredon of Brive and taken up by his Paris colleagues whether a doctor has a right under certain circumstances to take a man's life.

Dr. Bosredon was the first medical man who arrived on the scene of the railway accident in Brive tunnel. The stoker of the engine, a man named Lefort, was caught under the wreck and slowly burned to death.

"When I reached him," writes Dr. Bosredon, "the man was screaming with agony and begged me to kill him. There was no possible hope of saving his life. He was slowly being burned to death, and his body was horribly crushed.

"I considered that my conscience permitted me to put an end to his agony and asked a gendarme for his revolver. He said that he had none, and the stoker was slowly burned to death instead of being put out of his pain there and then."—London Express.

Are Women Less Honest Than Men?

"Are women less honest than men?" This palpitating question has become one of the great subjects of discussion in Paris, thanks to a symposium in La Revue.

There is not one dares openly to affirm that woman is dishonest. Anatole France, the master of contemporary French literature, questions whether man is so virtuous that he should desire to weigh himself in the balance against woman. And he speaks of masculine arrogance and ferocity and brutality. And so woman, according to the judgment of Paris, is not more dishonest than man. Whence sprang that legend that she was?—Paris Letter to Pall Mall Gazette.

The Paris Executioner.

Deibler 2d, the Paris executioner, is the son and successor of Deibler 1st. He had a long experience under his father, whose tenure of office was one of the most continuous on record and included a voyage with the "bois de justice" to Corsica, whence, it was threatened, he was never to return. Deibler 1st entered upon his duties not very long after the war of 1870. His predecessor was Roche, the "lightning operator," who boasted that his time was always well under twenty seconds.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

Don't Talk About It.

When we have a grievance it is so tempting to go and talk it over with friend or relative.

Tempting, yes; wise, no.

For, as a rule, we are so keen in the irritation of the moment for sympathy that the temptation to "paint with a big brush" is almost irresistible.

And later—well, later probably we find that there were extenuating circumstances; the culprit was not so black as we had fancied, and in our penitence we would give a great deal to be able to recall the unjust things that we said, for rest assured we will always be reminded of them by the person in whom we confided.

Feather In Cap of Suffragettes.

An interesting fact in connection with the English suffragette movement is that there are fourteen women who are said to be entitled, through rank, to sit in the English house of lords. They do not use their privilege because they do not wish to. Among these women who may take their seats some time in the future if the suffrage plank wins are Lady de Ros, Lady Kinloss, Lady Beaumont, Baroness Clifton and Baroness Wentworth.

She Knew.

Little Girl—If I were a teacher I'd make everybody behave.

Auntie—How would you accomplish that?

Little Girl—Very easy. When girls were bad I'd tell them they didn't look pretty, and when little boys were bad I'd make them sit with the girls, and when big boys were bad I would not let them sit with the girls.

Nothing else is so contagious as enthusiasm. It is the real allegory of the lute of Orpheus. It moves stone. It charms brutes. Enthusiasm is the genius of sincerity, and truth accomplishes no victory without it.—Bulwer Lytton.

The Wrong End.

In a little town in Indiana amusement was caused recently by two young women who drove up to the watering trough on the public square to water their horse. The rein was tight, and, although the horse made many efforts to get his mouth into the trough, he could not. The women stood bewildered until one hit upon the trouble, she thought. She unbuckled the crupper.—Puck.

No Graft In School Books.

Regina, March 24.—In an address on the royal commission investigating the Morang school book contract, Hon. Mr. Haultain exonerated the Commissioner of Education of any charge of personal graft, and declared that the charge of permitting unreasonable profits not justified in the face of the evidence.

But he stated the contract was an improper one, and that an equally good and slightly cheaper book could have been obtained if the commissioner had collected all the information available and made a proper use thereof.

Two New Planets.

Paris, March 24.—The Astronomer Gaillot announces the discovery of two new planets situated beyond Neptune, which is the outermost known planet of the solar system. He estimated that one of the planets was four times and the other six times the distance of earth from the sun, or 4,185,000,000 and 5,580,000,000 miles respectively.

Demand a Subway.

Kingston, March 24.—The proposition to place an overhead bridge over the G.T.R. tracks at Montreal road, in place of a subway, has caused no end of a row, and both the city and county will demand a subway.

A Pulpwood "Boom" Town.

St. John's, Nfld., March 24.—What was several months ago a tract of virgin wilderness in the central section of Newfoundland, is to-day, because of the scarcity of pulpwood in the United States, a town of nearly 2,000 inhabitants. Within fifty square miles of territory, there has been laid out a dam 1,000 feet wide, capable of storing 100,000,000,000 feet of logs. Two separate railroad lines, a power station of 45,000 horse-power capacity, a private telephone system and nearly 400 attractive and serviceable houses.

Roosevelt Has Sailed.

New York, March 24.—Theodore Roosevelt sailed yesterday on the first stage of his journey to the wilds of East Africa in search of the big game in which this region abounds. From his country home at Oyster Bay to the steamship dock in Hoboken, the ex-President's route resembled a triumphant march. At the dock, the crush was tremendous. The Italian Chamber of Commerce of New York presented him with a bronze shield as a testimonial of the U. S. assistance to the earthquake victims.

Wetaskiwin, Alta., March 24.—William Brush was found dead at his home near Millet by some neighbors, and his mother was found about a quarter of a mile from the house, also dead. It is thought she died from exposure in going for help, she being over 82 years old.

Clothiers and Furnishers to Men Who Know

The Power Contracts are Discussed By Legislature

Toronto, March 24.—Sir James Whitney returned to the attack on Henry O'Brien, K.C., The Law Journal and the Toronto Electric Light Co., in the Legislature yesterday, on the committee stage of the H. E. P. commission bill validating the by-laws.

Mr. O'Brien was sitting under the gallery and heard the Premier's scathing references.

Sir James ran over the history of the power scheme and then set out to give "a word or two" on the attack made on the Government. If these attacks had been made openly and fairly they could have been met, but such was not the case.

"I can say very positively, on the authority of one of these gentlemen, at the time the vote was taken they offered $1,000 for one page of a newspaper for their purpose," he declared. This was an indication of the action of these gentlemen and the financial responsibility they undertook. It was men who were directors in the Electric Light Co. who had done these things.

"I never said the directors of the Toronto Electric Light Co. met as such, but I do say that gentlemen who are directors of this company, and of this I am now complaining, have spent large sums of money sending out absurd, scurrilous and false circulars from the city of Ottawa, in the name of the Economic Society, attacking the Government of Ontario and the Hydro-Power Commission in a most reckless and abandoned manner. I say they have hired writers to villify and discredit the Government and the people of the Province of Ontario, and I do not hesitate to characterize it as discreditable to these gentlemen as citizens of the Province of Ontario, as residents of this city and as individuals.

"I desire to call attention to the bill which is on the order paper. Last year a bill was passed to validate the contracts between the Hydro-Electric Commission and certain municipalities. There was a general approval expressed in this House regarding that bill. Since that bill was passed certain actions at law have commenced.

"Besides that, no reputable newspaper in this province objects to this bill. More than that, the organ of the great Reform party in the Province of Ontario is in favor of this statute, and has published an editorial expressing confidence that Sir James Whitney and his Ministers would let no quibble stand in the way of the power policy.

"Now, we have the opinion of one of the ablest judges in Ontario that there was a defect in the statute passed last session. We have in addition the resolutions of the municipalities, and we have this expression of opinion from the organ of the Opposition endorsing the proposition and expressing confidence in the action of the Government."

"I rise to correct the position taken by the Premier," said Hon. A. G. MacKay on the conclusion of Sir James' remarks.

"One year ago when the bill of 1908 came up I suggested that the better course was to submit the question again to the people. Possibly if that suggestion had been adopted, all this litigation might have been avoided."

He observes that Hamilton had dropped out; that Ingersoll had added 500 horse-power; that Stratford powers had been varied; that the municipalities had in the aggregate taken 3,100 horse-power less than was at first announced; that Stratford prices had been increased $2, while Hespeler was unchanged.

Hon. Mr. Beck explained that as the contracts cost $539.000 less than the estimate there was no need to charge the first figures.

Sections were added to the bill validating the contracts with the F. W. McGuigan Co., the Canadian Westinghouse, and the Canadian General Electric Co. Mr. MacKay asked for copies of the contracts and Sir James undertook to produce them when ready, or if not ready in time to withdraw the clause.

A second new clause giving the H. E. P. Commission power to expropriate easements was also introduced.

The rest of the afternoon was spent on the bill for the better administration of justice. W. F. Nickle summed up the result on the declaration that the people wanted good law and cheap law. A number of speakers took part in the technical discussion.

Canal Estimates Attacked By Opposition At Ottawa

Ottawa, March 24.—The harmony of the Opposition is such that they cannot even agree upon a description for the Newmarket Canal. Yesterday they spent the better part of the session in an effort to find one suitable to their own taste, with results that revealed a wonderful diversity of opinion. Captain Wallace, who moved a resolution condemning the expenditure on the canal, regarded the work as a scandal. Dr. Sproule characterized it as a farce, not worthy of a moment's consideration, while Major Currie saw in it nothing more than a vote-catcher. "A white elephant" was the phrase applied to it by another member of the Opposition, and several treated it as a matter of grave moment. The only point upon which the party led by Mr. Borden seemed to be at one was that the canal should not be proceeded with.

Tom Wallace (Centre York) opened the discussion. He urged that when the revenues were decreasing and the necessary expenditures increasing it was time to dispense with useless public works such as the Newmarket Canal. This was an "absolute waste of public money." So far there had been expended on the section from Holland Landing to Newmarket $200,000 and the estimated cost was about a million dollars, although it had been difficult to obtain accurate information.

He moved the following amendment:

"That the original estimate of the cost of the proposed canal between Newmarket and Lake Simcoe, in the riding of North York, was less than $300,000, but that estimate has now been increased to nearly $1,000,000, which latter sum, according to the engineer's report, does not include the proposed expenditure for conservation of water south of Newmarket.

"That the total cost of the said canal when completed is as yet unestimated, and can only be conjectured.

That the said canal when so completed will be practically useless.

"That the expenditure thereon is wholly improvident and unwarranted, and constitutes a wanton misuse and waste of public money."

The Minister of Railways, replying, said he proposed to talk on the canals of the world in general to show their importance with regard to the question of transportation.

What followed from Mr. Graham was a mass of figures concerning canals and locks generally. For instance, on the Trent Canal there was 20 dams.

Getting to the Newmarket Canal and the jokes cracked at its expense, he thought it would be made as "sufficient" as the Erie, which carried the grain of western states to the seaboard.

Mr. Graham switched to the joke about the absence of a supply of water wherewith to operate the canal, figuring that some of the great canals of the world were supplied by pumps from artesian wells.

According to the report of one engineer, supplies of water were available to lock through 4,407 vessels, or 20 a day, for seven months a year.

Mr. Aylesworth read a report from The Mail to the effect that Haughton Lennox, M.P., had accompanied the North York delegation and had "endorsed" the project in a speech.

Mr. Lennox denied this. He had attended at the request of Sir William Mulock, but the statement that he had made a speech endorsing it was "wholly untrue."

A decided refusal for Manitoba was the result of the conference yesterday between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Colin Campbell.

The Prime Minister refused to treat with the delegates on the basis of financial terms proportionate to the terms given Saskatchewan and Alberta, or control of lands such as Ontario enjoys, and the conference therefore came to an abrupt end.

Conservatives and the Navy.

Ottawa, March 24.—A Conservative caucus yesterday morning decided to support a resolution notice of which has been given by Hon. Geo. E. Foster, which declares that in view of the great resources, the environment and geographical position of Canada, she should no longer delay in assuming a share of the burden incident to the protection of her coast line and seaports.

Cataract Contract Holds.

Brantford, March 24.—Announcement has been made here through W. S. Brewster, M.P.P., that the retroactive clause in Hon. Adam Beck's bill requiring a vote of ratepayers on the recent five-year contract between Brantford and the Cataract company, will not be operative as far as this city is concerned.

Strange Disappearance.

London, March 24.—The police, both county and city, are endeavoring to locate a stranger who drove to the Saddler Hotel, at the corner of Talbot and York streets, on Saturday night, tied his horse to the barn and then disappeared. The stranger is thought to be named M. Cole.

Dead Babe Under Bed.

Port Arthur, March 24.—The body of a newly-born babe was found under a bed at the Western Hotel. When Dr. Pratt was called to attend a young woman she claimed she found it dead. Others disclaimed all knowledge of the affair. Coroner Brown has ordered an inquest.

Agreed to Kill Children.

Buchanan, Sask., March 24.—A rumor is being investigated here that a ten-year-old Galician girl fled from home and told the neighbors that she had overheard her mother telling her father he must get rid of her and her four-year-old sister. The father agreed, according to the rumor, and said he would kill them and incinerate the bodies in the crude clay oven affected by these people.

A Bigamy Charge.

Brantford, March 24.—Susan Froman charged Jacob Lewis at the Police Court here yesterday with bigamy. The plaintiff married Lewis 10 years ago, knowing he had another wife, and the pair separated recently. The prisoner was admitted to bail and the case was enlarged.

Engine Boiler Explodes.

Buffalo, March 24.—Engineer H. E. Kabel and Fireman John Gost, of an east-bound Lehigh Valley freight, were almost instantly killed late yesterday near Corfu. The boiler of the engine exploded. Henry C. Meyers, a brakeman, was blown from the top of the string of cars.

Fire at Camlachie.

Camlachie, Ont., March 24.—The residence occupied by George Carson and owned by J. E. Bachlor was totally destroyed by fire last night, together with the greater part of the contents, including $70 in cash. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lamp.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER OF BROTHER

Jury Decides That North Bay Man Slew His Brother.

North Bay, March 24.—Maurice Ryan was yesterday afternoon found guilty of the charge of having murdered his brother, Joseph Ryan in November, 1907. The jury were out less than half an hour. Sentence was deferred until to-day.

The defence practically rested its case on the testimony of one witness who swore to meeting Francis Joseph Ryan and conversing with him during the February following his disappearance.

MAURICE RYAN.

Link by link Provincial Detective Greer presented a chain of evidence implicating the prisoner, who sat in the box with immovable countenance, betraying no feeling. Justice Latchford's charge to the jury was against the prisoner.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Governor Hughes last night signed a bill designating Oct. 12 as a legal holiday, to be known as "Columbus Day."

A bill making kidnapping a felony punishable only by death by hanging, has been introduced in the Pennsylvania Senate.

Earl Grey announces that the school children of New Zealand has contributed in penny subscriptions to the Quebec battlefields funds the sum of $950.

The Dominion Government will take no action at the present session in regard to the tariff questions raised by the revision in the United States.

The Commonwealth Government has decided not to offer a Dreadnought to England, preferring to adhere to her settled policy of defending Australia.

President Lewis of the United Mineworkers of America says the anthracite miners have a fund of $5,000,000 to draw on in case of a strike, while $2,000,000 more can be easily raised.

Sued For Subscription.

Windsor, March 24.—John Ruston, a well-known farmer, having promised to pay one hundred dollars as subscription to building a Methodist church at Woodslee, declined to "come across" when the building will cost about twice the original estimate, which was six thousand. He was told this was all the more reason why he should contribute and was sued in the Division Court at Belle River, judgment being reserved.

Justice Teetzel opened the Spring Assizes at Sandwich yesterday afternoon. The grand jury returned a true bill for murder against William Thompson, colored youth, who shot his father near Amherstburg. He will be tried on Thursday.

Big Seizure of Fish.

London, March 24.—Another seizure of fish was made at the Grand Trunk depot Monday night, consisting of seven boxes, weighing over 1,000 pounds. The seizure was made by Inspector Weldon, under instructions from the Department at Toronto, who wired "seize and sell."

The seizure was made on account of the fact that the boxes contained a quantity of pickerel which the shipper had no right to ship out. The rest of the shipment consisted of mullets and suckers.

The shipment was made by a man named Allen of Bothwell, and was consigned to Dixon & Co., New York.

Yankee Shoemakers Win.

London, March 24.—The long litigation which has been going on between the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Boston and the Canadian shoe manufacturers, has ended in a victory for the American company. The Canadian courts decided that the leases under which the manufacturers obtained the Boston company's machines were void and refused the company an injunction to prevent the use of the machines in contravention of the terms of the leases. The Privy Council yesterday reversed this decision, granted the company a perpetual injunction and awarded it nominal damages with costs.

Hasn't Spoken For 10 Years.

Detroit, March 24.—During the hearing of the divorce suit of Sarah and John Kasenow, whose marriage took place in London, Ont., 26 years ago, it developed that Kasenow had not spoken to his eldest daughter, now 20 years of age, since she was 10 years of age, because she had refused to consent to remain at home and keep house for him if he turned his wife out of the house. Mrs. Kasenow was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

CHARGE WAS NOT PROVEN

Case Against Hotelkeeper For Allowing Blacklisted Man To Loiter About His Hotel Was Dismissed.

POLICE COURT TO-DAY.

A local hotelkeeper was charged at the police court this morning with allowing a blacklisted man, who on Monday was convicted of being drunk, to linger and loiter about his hotel on Saturday last. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty. The prosecution was unable to furnish sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction, and His Worship dismissed the case.

P. C. Newhall said that he was on duty last Saturday afternoon. He passed defendant's hotel about ten minutes past six. He saw John Donoghue go into the bar-door. He was very drunk.

THE DREDGE HAS BEGUN WORK

The dredge, Emmerson, with the tug, Empire, commenced her season's work this morning in the reach in the Trent Canal, between Lakefield and Dam No. 2, where the channel is being deepened and the work will be carried ahead as rapidly as possible. The ice is out of the river now from Lakefield and Nassau, the channel being as clear as it is in mid summer, and the only ice in the entire stretch between this city and Lakefield is in the section from Nassau to the Lift Lock.

YOUTHS WERE ALLOWED TO GO

The two boys charged with the theft of a number of post cards from Mr. A. H. Stratton's bookstore came up before Magistrate Dumble at the police court yesterday afternoon. They were represented by Mr. E. L. Goodwill, solicitor of the Children's Aid Society. The boys were allowed to go with a warning.

REV. MR. KEITH GIVES ADDRESS ON INDIA

Rev. H. J. Keith gave an illustrated address last night on Missionary Work in India, and was heard by a fairly large gathering. The lecture was under the auspices of the Mission Band. Rev. Mr. Keith introduced his subject by giving a description of India and of its inhabitants. He was formerly a missionary in India and is thoroughly acquainted with the conditions. Mr. Keith dealt at length with the missionary forces now at work and with the results that are being achieved.

Mr. A. W. Cressman was chairman and at the close of the address a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Keith for his able address.

SPRING NUMBER OF HARDWARE AND METAL

The local hardware men have received their Spring number of "Hardware and Metal," their trade journal, published by the MacLean Publishing Co. of Toronto. It is invested with all the tones of Spring, its articles being bright, breezy, and of interest to hardware men and many of its advertisements are particularly attractive. It is a fine number throughout, and not a few of its articles might be profitably read by persons outside the craft. Mr. Weston Wrigley, the editor, has compiled a splendid Spring edition.

JAMES KENNEDY STABBED BROTHER BECAUSE HE HAD TAKEN HIS PLACE MOTHER REFUSES TO BE COMFORTED

Terrible Tragedy in a New York Home---Brothers Quarrelled Over a Situation and Mother Tried to Separate Them In Vain.

HER HANDS WERE CUT IN THE STRUGGLE.

Examiner Special.

New York, March 23.—With one son in a hospital, probably dying from stab wounds, and another in a prison cell, charged with having inflicted them, Mrs. Margaret Kennedy sat in her little home at 405 West Fifty-third street last night, refusing to be comforted. Her hands were full of slashes, received when she tried to separate the brothers, but she did not think of her own hurts.

It was a curious combination of circumstances that brought about the encounter. James Kennedy, the prisoner, is about thirty years old, and his brother, Philip, is two years younger. Both have made their living as drivers, and they lived with their mother. During a strike of teamsters recently James quit work, in obedience to orders from the union.

At that time Philip was in Philadelphia, but he returned and obtained employment at the very place his brother had left. This gave rise to arguments between them in which on several occasions Philip taunted James with the fact that he was the only one who was bringing money home.

They exchanged words on Saturday when he showed his earnings for the week, and the quarrel was renewed yesterday morning. James was in bed when it began, but, stung by his brother's reproaches, he jumped up and struck him in the face with his fist. Philip retaliated in kind, when the mother tried to part them. Both men were furious with anger and James suddenly caught up a knife.

Mrs. Kenedy tried to wrest the weapon from him and was cut severely on the hands and wrists. She then screamed for help. Policeman Finnan, of the West Forty-seventh street station, sent for an ambulance from Flower Hospital. There Dr. Schmidt found that at least one of Philip's wounds had penetrated the right lung and that he probably will die.

James Kennedy was taken to the West Forty-seventh street station and locked up on a charge of felonious assault. When told of Philip's serious condition he collapsed.

"Poor Dead Miner" Discovered To Be Worth Over Half A Million

Danville, Ill., March 24.—It has been revealed that Daniel Sheridan, aged sixty-three, a coal miner of this city, who died a few days ago apparently in poverty, was in reality a man of wealth, his property holdings now being estimated at more than $500,000.

The discovery was made when a nurse at Lakeview Hospital a few hours after Sheridan's death prepared to burn his clothing. Feeling something like paper in a vest, she began an investigation, which resulted in finding $20,000 in bills in the vest and coat. Many of the bills, which were gold certificates of $50 and $100 denominations, were badly faded.

A further investigation revealed the fact that the dead man was the owner of a 200-acre farm near Worthington, Ind., and a 600-acre farm near Cisna Park, Ill., the latter piece of ground being worth $175 an acre. It was also learned that Sheridan's relatives were all wealthy, a brother, George, who died in Central Illinois thre years ago, being worth $2,200,000.

Notwithstanding the fact that he had lived in humble quarters over a saloon on East Main street, this city, Sheridan was given a magnificent funeral, $1,800 being expended for the hand-made bronze casket in which he was buried and $300 for his burial clothing.

While not at work in the mines Sheridan had lived a life of a recluse and nothing was known concerning his past history until after his death. Robert Lynch, a wealthy cousin, who came her from Monrovia, Cal., to attend the funeral, said that Sheridan had left home thirty years ago because of an unhappy love affair and that nothing had been known of his whereabouts until word was received of his death.

Another "Indian List" Man Goes To Jail For 20 Days For Being Drunk

Thomas Quinlan, a blacklisted man was fined ten dollars at the police court this morning for being drunk on Saturday. He had no money to pay his fine and will spend the next twenty days in the county jail. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. In imposing the fine His Worship remarked that of late it was invariably the case with men brought before him for being drunk, for them to deny having been under the influence of liquor while some uninterested witness swears of having seen the accused drunk and staggering. His Worship was inclined to believe the uninterested one.

Mr. Finch Miller said that he met the prisoner on George St. Saturday afternoon. He was drunk. He stopped witness on the street and told him that he wanted to get some charity wood.

License Inspector Stewart swore that he had served hotelkeepers and liquor dealers with notices blacklisting the prisoner.

Wm. Warburton for the defence said that at 2 o'clock on Saturday he saw the prisoner and he was not drunk.

The accused went into the box and emphatically denied being drunk or having taken any liquor on Saturday. He admitted being in an hotel but was not aware that it was against the law to linger or loiter about an hotel. He did not use any bad language to Mr. Miller.

Brock Street Rink Was Closed For The Season Last Night

The Brock Street ring was closed for the season last night, which means good-bye to winter sports for the season of 1909. There is still good ice in the building, but the mild weather outside has resulted in a falling off in the attendance and it was decided to close last night. Caretaker Thirnbeck will be at the rink until Saturday night for the benefit of those who wish to remove skates and other property from the building and after that date the rink will be closed permanently.

Presented With An Umbrella By His Fellow Employees

Mr. H. T. Gillespie, who has left the office staff of the Peter Hamilton Co., to accept a position with the George Matthews Co., was presented with a gold-headed umbrella on Saturday by his fellow-workers at Hamilton's. The presentation was made by Miss Dawson and an appropriate address was read by Mr. Jas. Hamilton. The address was as follows:

To Mr. H. T. Gillespie.

Dear Friend,—We regret to hear that you are severing your connection with the old established firm of the Peter Hamilton Co., Limited, where, for eleven years, you have been a valued member of the office staff. But as each step in promotion means just as much more salary, we suppose we have no right to complain of your decision to leave us.

However, before you go the office staff wishes to testify to the high esteem in which you are held by your friends and fellow workers and present you with the accompanying token of their respect.

Wishing you all the happiness and good luck for the future, we remain

Elsie Dawson, Electa Strong, James Hamilton, James Galvin, Wm. Galbraith, A. R. Nicholas, Patrick Leahy, Fred Boland, J. C. Anderson.

Mr. Gillespie made a short speech in which he expressed thanks for the handsome gift and the kind sentiments of the address.

OLD RESIDENT OF OTONABEE IS DEAD

Keene, March 24.—The death occurred Sunday morning at the age of seventy-four of an old and highly respected resident of the township Miss Agnes Johnstone. The deceased was born in Scotland, but emigrated at an early age to Canada, and lived for some time near Grafton, moving to Otonabee about forty years ago. Miss Johnstone had been ill for some time and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by two brothers, John, of Grafton, and Adam, of Lang. Her sister, Alice, predeceased her by a couple of months.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon. Rev. D. D. McDonald, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Keene, of which the deceased had been a member, conducted the services and interment took place at Fife's cemetery.

TEACHERS' CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY

In another column is seen an advertisement of The Equitable Life Assurance Society, who are coming into the local field for insurance, in which they are offering an opportunity to school teachers in the county, to supplement their income by writing insurance for them during their spare time. There is no doubt but that an energetic school teacher could add considerably to his earnings if he was one that could sell insurance. Correspondence is solicited by Mr. C. T. Gillespie, Manager, 24 King Street, West, Toronto, when all particulars as to the engagement will be given.

REV. DR. MARSH IS NOW RECUPERATING

It was announced at the meeting of the Astronomical Society last night that Rev. Dr. Marsh was recovering favourably and would probably be able to attend the next meeting. The subject of the lecture has not yet been chosen, nor has any one particularly been secured, but it is thought that Dr. Marsh will probably accept this duty himself. Mr. Homer O. Fiske has a splendid new lantern, which will be used in future. It is portable, and will be used at the meetings of the society, wherever they are held.

CHIMNEY FIRE ON RUBIDGE ST. TO-DAY

THE MILLIONAIRE WHO PAID $10,000 FOR RETURN OF HIS KIDNAPPED SON IS NOT WORRYING OVER LOSS OF MONEY

The Money Was Left In a Store for the Emissary of the Kidnappers---Whitla Says the Police Will Have to Look for the Guilty Parties.

A SHARON MAN IS SAID TO BE SUSPECTED

Examiner Special.

Sharon, Pa., March 23.—Willie Whitla arrived here at 12:06 this afternoon. Fully 5,000 persons extended the boy a demonstrative greeting. Cheering and singing the crowd followed the boy and his father to the Whitla home.

"I am so glad to have the boy in my arms," said the father, half-smiling and half crying, "that I have given no thought to the kidnappers. That will be up to the police.

The $10,000 ransom was paid to his kidnappers in a little grocery store at East Fifty-third street and Standard avenue, an hour after noon Monday. The money was received by an ordinarily dressed workman who gave his name as Hayes.

He picked up the package filled with yellow-backed bills, smiled nonchalantly and left.

Mrs. Bernard Hendrickson, temporarily in charge of the store for her mother, Mrs. Margaret Uhle, forgot to notice which way the man went.

The man stepped into the store at noon and asked if a package had been left there for him. Mrs. Hendrickson, without noting his appearance, told him there had not been. An hour later a prosperous looking man, who said his name was Williams, came in with a small package in his pocket.

"He said he wanted to leave it for a man named Hayes," said Mrs. Hendrickson. "He asked if Hayes had been here and I said he had. Williams left the package and not two minutes later Hayes came in and asked, 'Is my package here?'

"I told him that it was and he smiled. Without another word he took it from where it lay exposed on top of the cigar case and went away."

It is reported here to-day that a Sharon man is under arrest at Cleveland in connection with the case.

Wife Of Former Football Star Deserts Him And Ends Romance

Cincinnati, March 24.—Thomas H. Graydon, the once great football player of Harvard, is now following the hum-drum, but lucrative calling of manufacturing men's shoes. He, together with every member of the large family of the late D. Thomas W. Graydon, was left a large fortune from the millions Dr. Graydon made in the patent medicine business here. This medicine business was abandoned only a few weeks ago by the successors of Dr. Graydon because the Government refused longer to allow the transmission of its advertising matter through the mails.

"Tom" Graydon was apparently in a fairly calm state of mind to-night when asked if he had anything to say regarding the suit for divorce his wife had filed in California.

"I have nothing to say," he answered courteously.

"Will you interpose an answer or defense?"

"Really, I have nothing to say."

"Have you engaged counsel in this connection?"

"I understand that it is an important matter, but I must be excused from saying anything about it. I am in the shoemaking business permanently here in my old home city and here I shall continue to live."

"When did your wife leave Cincinnati?"

"She left me to go to California last July."

"Have you heard from her since?"

"No, not directly. But I will really say nothing more on this subject."

Seven years ago Helen Beryl Whitney was a pupil at the fashionable school of the Misses Ely, on Riverside Drive and Eighty-sixth street. At the same time Thomas H. Graydon was the idol of Harvard College. He was a wonderful young football giant and his companions knew him as "Blondy." Miss Whitney and Tom Graydon met and loved. Miss Whitney's parents objected. Miss Whitney was exiled to Sharon Springs and all the youthful world read with avidity how Miss Whitney telephoned to Graydon; how Graydon appeared at the Bartram Cottage in Sharon Springs, as Miss Whitney's big brother; how the "big brother" was unmasked there because he could not conceal his extravagant effection, nor hide the lovelight in his eyes; how Miss Whitney, when the exposé came boldly declared she was going to marry Tom and she didn't care who liked it.

Then, of course, the story ran on just as the novelists would have it. The lovers surmounted all obstacles, finally eloped in June, 1903, and sent a telegram to Miss Whitney's parents in San Francisco.

G. T. R. Officials Here Yesterday Will Have Repairs Made To Bridge

Messrs. W. R. Tiffin, General Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway; E. R. Brown, Inspector of bridges, and W. Cairns, divisional foreman, were in the city yesterday afternoon. In company with Mr. J. H. Larmouth, manager of the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., they visited the Grand Trunk bridge at the Auburn power house, which is in need of repair. Mr. Tiffin assured Mr. Larmouth that the Company would make the necessary improvements.

The officials left again last evening.

Congregation To Consider The Question Of A Site For New Church

An important meeting of the congregation of Knox Church will be held this evening, when the new building site will be considered. The committee has everything arranged, and it now remains to determine on a site. It is stated that the new church will be erected on the lot at the corner of Wolfe and Reid streets, or at the corner of Wolfe and Rubidge streets. Some favour one, others are inclined to the other. Competent advice has been obtained and this will be presented to the congregation.

Druggists Have To Stamp Their Patent Medicine Packages

Peterborough druggists have received their patent medicine labels from the Government and are busy sticking one to each package of patent medicine on their shelves. They are red stamps a little wider and longer than our two cent postage stamp, and of about the same colour. They have been ordered by the Government and are a guarantee that the article in the package is harmless. It is a protection to the public, as each mixture is registered with its ingredients and any patent medicine with one of these stamps upon its wrapping may be safely used. Each druggist who manufactures any home medicine of his own must have it stamped. The law takes effect on April 1st. The druggists state that they pay two cents a hundred for the stamps.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

The Liberal Government at Ottawa evidently does not propose that civil service reform shall remain a mere theory. It is to receive practical application. The official Gazette contains the regulations governing the examinations required to be passed by candidates, to qualify them for appointment to the civil service, such appointment not to be made by ministers but by the commissioners. The statute passed at the last session of Parliament provides for the appointment of two commissioners by the governor in council and it prescribes explicitly that, with certain specified exceptions, appointments to the "inside service" shall be by "competitive examination, which shall be of such a nature as will determine the qualifications of candidates for the particular positions to which they are appointed." The regulations recently published have been framed under the authority of these enactments. Half yearly examinations will be held in May and November in the leading centres of the Dominion; in the subjects of examination the candidates will be required to come up to the ordinary pass standard of the universities; for positions requiring special expert qualification candidates must be university graduates; and candidates for the vacant positions of compiler of geographical information, junior assistant in the hydrographic survey, assistant chemist at the Experimental Farm, and draughtsman in the Mines Department must be university graduates in science, and must also write on special examination papers. To enable some pressing appointments to be made by the commissioners an interim examination will be held on the thirtieth of the present month. The selection of persons to fill vacancies must be made by the commissioners whether for permanent or for temporary duty, "on the application of the deputy head, with the approval of the head of any department." The safeguard against being burdened with incompetents is the provision that the head of a department on the report in writing of the deputy head, may at any time after two months from the date of assignment and before the expiration of six months reject any person assigned to his department," the cause of the rejection being reported by the deputy head to the commission. This amounts to placing on the commissioners full responsibility for all ordinary appointments to the inside service. In the cause of "technical" experts the commissioners may dispense with the competitive examination, but the governor in council in making such appointments is limited to his selection to those who have obtained certificates from the commission.

The provisions recited apply only to the "inside service"—the permanent departmental staffs at Ottawa. It, however, establishes a principle and paves the way for the adoption of a system of appointment which will depend upon qualification of the appointees, independently of social, political or other influence, except merit.

U. S. TARIFF AND CANADA

Being situated so conveniently to the United States, Canada naturally has a deep interest in mutual trade with our neighbours and an interest in the tariff legislation that influences that trade. The general despatches have not given us any too clear an idea of the scope and effect of the United States tariff revision bill. The editor of the Toronto Star, now in Washington, gives the following clearer idea of the probable operation of the new tariff legislation upon Canadian interests. The Star says:

The form of the bill is that of a complete new tariff of 712 items, 471 of which are dutiable, and the remainder on the free list. The duty specified is in every case the minimum duty. The maximum cost is to be generally twenty per cent. higher that the minimum, and twenty per cent. will be imposed on articles on the free list if coming from countries which do not give the United States favourable treatment.

There is difference of opinion as to what countries will obtain the minimum rate, but no uncertainty as to the position of Great Britain. The majority report, submitted by Mr. Payne, says that there was a complaint that the old law discriminated against Great Britain, while Great Britain has treated the United States with fairness and impartiality "Under a continuance of their present policy, they are entitled at once to the minimum rates under this bill."

Canada seems, also, to come under the minimum tariff, without affecting her preference to Great Britain. The maximum tariff is to be imposed only against countries which discriminate against the United States, or which fail to give the United States as good treatment as any other country. It is provided, however, that the provisions for additional duties shall not apply to cases where a preference is given by a colony to the Mother Country.

It is generally agreed that the minimum tariff represents a substantial reduction of duties, and the only disagreement is as to how many countries will come in under the minimum and how many under the maximum rate. The expectation of the framers of the bill is that the minimum tariff will generally prevail. The tariff bill is as protective in spirit as is any of its predecessors, but it shows a greater anxiety for reciprocity.

American manufacturers want foreign markets, and are willing to make concessions to obtain them.

American manufacturers may be anxious for foreign markets but to get them, they must modify the spirit they have heretofore shown to have by far the big end of the bargain. As to reciprocity; concessions will have to be made to secure it from Canada. As greatly to our advantage more unhampered trade relations with the United States would be, any proposal in that direction must come from our neighbours. This country will sympathize with the attitude of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that no more advances will come from Canada. The United States must make the advances and these, to be effective, must be of a liberality, that will make their acceptance at once consistent, with our interest and our self-respect. The United States have not now to deal with the Canada of the milder half of last century.

NOT SO SLOW.

(Scientific American.)

The recent trial of the British battleship Invincible, in which she attained under reduced power a speed of 25 knots, was followed by a power trial in November, when she steamed at the unprecedented speed of 28 knots on a continuous run of eight hours' duration. This is certainly wonderful going for a ship protected with seven inches of armour, and carrying a battery of eight 12-inch guns. It is nine knots faster than the speed of any battleship now in commission in our navy, and two knots faster than the one-mile trial speed of any swift cruiser like the Salem type. Moreover, it exceeds by two knots and 2½ knots respectively the trial speed of the Lusitania and Mauretania, which are to-day the fastest merchant vessels afloat.

THE JUDGE AND THE MAN.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

A kindly act on the part of Chief Justice Sir William Mulock has just been made known. After sentencing ex-Chief of Police Malone, of Simcoe, to life imprisonment, His Lordship sent his personal cheque for $100 to the wife of Malone and another for $50 to the wife of ex-Constable Wilkins, who is serving a five-months' sentence in the county jail.

In sentencing the two ex-constables to imprisonment, Sir William acted solely in his official capacity, acted as the official representative of the law, which must, in the interests of society, seek to stamp out crime. His judicial action did not place the Chief Justice under the slightest personal or moral obligation to the unfortunate wives of those whom he had sentenced to imprisonment.

But it was not as the judge that Sir William came to the aid of those who were left in unfortunate circumstances—it was as the man. It was not Chief Justice Sir William Mulock who sent the cheques to the wives of the convicted criminals, it was William Mulock, the man, divested of all the insignia of his lofty office.

The man will be a better man because the judge did his duty, and the judge will more efficiently discharge his duties of the bench on account of the presence beneath the judicial robes of the man

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC LOAN.

The Globe has the following succinct and precise presentation of the reasons that justify the Grand Trunk Pacific loan

While the leader of the Opposition at Ottawa is collecting his ammunition and marshalling his forces for a crusade against the financial credit and the business efficiency of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company it may serve a useful purpose to recall a few salient facts regarding the origin and evolution of the National Transcontinental Railway enterprise and the relation of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company to that great work. If Mr. Borden does not feel debarred by either principle or expediency from playing in Parliament the role of a railway-wrecker, the people of Canada should at least be in a position beforehand to appraise at its real value his laboured assault on one of the country's greater institutions and one of the greatest railways in the world.

Prior to 1903 the Grand Trunk Railway Company, with its numerous lines, was not directly connected with the rapidly developing West. It was not surprising that in that year it came before parliament with an application for permission to build from North Bay Westward and also for financial aid in the construction of its proposed western extensions. Simultaneously Parliament was asked to grant a charter and like aid to the Trans-Canada Company; which had a line projected from the Pacific to the Atlantic through the northern parts of British Columbia, Ontario, and Quebec. It was obviously the duty of the Government to make an attempt at consolidating these two schemes in some practicable way, and the present National Transcontinental Railway enterprise was the result. Briefly, it involved the incorporation of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company to construct, with financial aid from the Dominion Parliament and the Grand Trunk Company, the part of the main line from the Pacific Ocean to Winnipeg, and to operate the whole line from ocean to ocean, the part from Winnipeg to the Atlantic being constructed for the Government by a special commission and at the country's expense.

This great work was undertaken at a time when the country was prosperous and when money was easy. Had the unprecedentedly acute depression of the past few months not occurred the project would have been completed without financial embarrassment; had it never been undertaken the depression would have occurred earlier; it was staved off for a time by the heavy yearly expenditure on the work of construction. This expenditure was abnormally increased partly by the excellence of the road and partly by the rapidity with which it has been constructed. The ordinary method of building a modern railway is to construct it in the rough and give it a chance to earn the capital to perfect it, but the National Transcontinental will be from the start one of the most perfect railways in the world, with exceptionally easy curves and light grades, and with rolling stock and other equipment equal to the best. Whether the Grand Trunk Pacific Company erred in adopting this method remains to be seen, but it has certainly done nothing to justify Mr. Bordens' contemplated attempt to drive the company out of business. Fortunately there is not the slightest chance of the attempt being successful, while there is an excellent chance of its driving would-be wreckers out of public life

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The legislation proposed by one of the members from Ottawa, in the local Legislature in regard to female suffrage is a form of Fripp-ery—nominally if not otherwise.

It is a pretty open question in England, remarks the Montreal Herald, whether Dreadnought building is intended more for the defeat of Germany or for the defeat of Asquith. The latter comes first within range of the guns.

Hon Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, is of the opinion that convict labour in Ontario might be employed in building roads in the newer parts of the province. To find enforced employment for convicts is not the highest ambition; it has this effect that it displaces efforts that might be more profitably made to restore convicts to the status of good citizenship where their labour would come from personal, instead of criminal, conviction.

The Weekly Sun has this to say: "The Sun must confess to a feeling of surprise and disappointment on account of the position taken by Premier Whitney in this matter. Failure to make good his promise in regard to railway taxation was bad enough. His complete repudiation of the solemn pledge that under no circumstances would any land be granted to any railway corporation is infinitely worse. The Premier's failure, however, makes it all the more necessary that an instant, vigorous, and united protest be made in opposition to the action he is asking the Legislature to take."

The United States tariff reduction on lumber from $2.00 to $1.00 has a string tied to it, or the attempt of this kind is being made of making the reduction dependent upon Ontario's removal of the embargo on the exportation of Ontario logs in an unmanufactured state If the reduction depends upon that there will be no reduction The Ontario Government while in the possession of their senses and their patriotism will never consent to the lifting of the embargo We must keep up some sort of check on the commercial rapacity of our gentle cousins

Since the Grand Trunk Pacific project was launched the buoyant conditions in trade and finance that prevailed at the time have been greatly modified. The relative state of trade is somewhat indicated by the statement that during 1908 the total foreign trade of Great Britain and the United States showed a falling off of half a billion dollars. British imports declined $250,305,972, and her exports $237,583,437, and those of the United States fell off $306,767,577, and her exports dropped $170,118,274. With such conditions in respect of two of the greatest commercial nations exercising their influence, it is an unfavourable time for any enterprise to enter the money market as a borrower.

There is evidently a disposition, says Bystander (Mr. Goldwin Smith), to govern this Province by a rule above that of the law and higher than British right. It is curious that this should have its seat in an ostensibly Conservative quarter, while it is naturally backed by the least Conservative section of the press. How far it may go there is no saying unless the natural defenders of law and right, the legal profession, and the press in general, will find courage to show a front. We may not be long in seeing the effect on our securities and on our borrowing power. Hitherto, there has been on the part of the Government, angry language, but no explanation or defence.

OVERWORKED.

Boston Trained Nurse Seeing the Good Vinol Did Her Patients, Tried It Herself With Splendid Results.

"I was completely prostrated from overwork. I had no appetite, could not sleep, my kidneys, liver and bowels became inactive, and as I grew weaker I could not retain either medicine or food on my stomach and raised blood. The doctors said my condition was cretical.

"As I had seen Vinol prescribed for my patients with such remarkable results, I decided to try it. After the first bottle I began to improve. I continued its use, and soon began to sleep and eat well; every organ in my body was strengthened and became normal, until it seemed good to be alive and I was restored to perfect health and strength.

"I advise all my patients who need strength, rich, red blood, and flesh tissue to take Vinol, as it is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil, emulsions, or other tonics."—Elizabeth M. Cremond, Boston, Mass. For nine years a nurse in hospital and private cases.

The reason that Vinol has such power to heal and strengthen is because it contains, with tonic iron all of the curative, medicinal and strength-creating elemnts of cod liver oil.

Try Vinol—your money will be refunded if it fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets, also Payne's Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

40 MILES CLINGING TO THE REAR COACH

Belated Passenger Did Not Know That Vestibule Door Was Locked.

Bellefontaine, O., March 20.—Had he started earlier for the station or been content to wait for the next train, Wilbur Watkins, of North Lewisburg would not now be in a hospital with his life in the balance. Hanging at night on to the brass railing just outside the vestibule of the rear car of an Erie train, he almost froze to death. The temperature was 10 below zero, and when the train stopped he fell off unconscious, and physicians say he may lose one of his arms.

Watkins was at Durbin and ran to catch the train to return home. He manged to catch the back end of the rear car, but the vestibule door was closed, and before he realized that he would be unable to make any one hear, the train was going so fast that he was afraid to drop off. In this position he rode forty miles, and his face, arms and legs are all frozen as a result.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

GRITS BEAT TORIES BY 33 PINS IN A VERY SENSATIONAL FINISH

GAME WAS HOTLY CONTESTED

Talk about your garrison finishes, winning in the stretch victory at the eleventh hour and all that kind of stuff, but that Tory-Grit bowling game at the P. B. C. alleys last night had everything in that line lashed to the mast. Until the last three frames had been bowled it looked as if the Whitney policy was going to be endorsed by a substantial working majority, but the figures from the last polling places left nothing for the Tories to do but pay for the supper, which they did in good grace. Sir James Whitney McIlroy and his cabinet looked like winners all over, when the first returns were coming in and it had just reached the stage when congratulatory despatches were being prepared to send broadcast, when the cog slipped in the machine and when the smoke cleared away there was nothing left but a Liberal victory and great was the rejoicing thereat.

To get down to the figures, as the poet says, the Tories had a margin of 15 pins on the first game and followed up their successful opening by piling on 95 more in the second game. With the Grits an even one hundred behind and the Tories commencing the third game like the Chicago Bonds it looked as if the Liberal platform was going to be knocked higher than the Eiffel tower. Up to the fifth frame the Grits had apparently as little chance as the Conservatives had in Alberta the other day. But bowling, for uncertainty, has a horse race whipped into a blanc mange. Suddenly the Tories, who had been bowling with machine-like accuracy, commenced to blow, and there were splits in the cabinet as well as among the pins before the tenth frame was reached. Meanwhile the Grits had started to find the head pin, and with George Sutherland as chief walking delegate, began to call for strikes. George got his all right, putting in five in a row, which landed him the grand total of 225 pins. Graham Ferguson and Geo. Cairns were also infected with the same complaint and started to double up, while the rest of the team were stieking in spares and finally four out of the five wound up with a strike. And when all this was registered and counted up it was found that the Grits were hanging tightly to a majority on the game of 133 pins, which landed them the guineas by 33 pins—pretty close figuring in a five-man-a-side game.

Incidentally the game was one of the best played and most exciting and enjoyable contests that has ever been played on the P. B. C. alleys. There was the best of good feeling among the players and the game will long be remembered by them. So successful was the affair that it is altogether likely that another game will be pulled off in the near future, as it has leaked out that the Tories, after holding a caucus, have decided to issue a challenge to the winners, either for a supper or to provide hockey sticks for the natives of the Panama district, with the chances favouring the former.

The Tories, although defeated in the total pinnage, and that was what decided the game, are taking consolation out of the fact that they won the first two games. Joe Pollard, who was in fine form last night, was high for the game with 561 and his team mate, W. McIlroy, hung up 547. Sutherland with 545, and Cairns with 543, were top scorers for the winners, while the former had the best single score of the night, putting on 225 in his last game.

Following were the scores:

Grits—
Sutherland	149	171	225	545
Ferguson	176	127	186	489
Glover	125	174	156	455
Martin	141	147	185	473
Cairns	172	157	214	543
	763	776	966	2505
Tories—
Wareham	117	202	179	498
Bruce	120	154	153	427
Connors	151	146	152	439
Pollard	190	198	173	561
McIlroy	200	161	186	2547
	778	861	833	2472

After the game the teams adjourned to Hooper's Palm Parlours, where the Grits were the guests of the Tories at an enjoyable oyster supper, at which the game was fought over again. Mr. W. McIlroy presided, and after the repast had been done ample justice to, short speeches were made by the members of both teams, in which the players stated that they had never had a more enjoyable game. Good fellowship was the key note of the gathering and the game, and the supper which followed did much to benefit the postmie. The result of the next contest will be watched with interest.

Notes.

Jack Connors is still lamenting that he handed over that horse shoe. The Tories threaten to protest the game on the ground that the pin boys had Liberal tendencies.

Billy Wareham is still trying to dope out that 117 score in the first game.

George Sutherland got five strikes in a row in the last game, just when they were needed. As Herb Martin says: "There is some class to the Iroquois."

The Grits had 966 in the last game. A little team work helps.

"An enthusiastic bowler named Mac,
Said the Grit rollers were slack;
But that last awful frame
At the end of the game
Made him say that he'd take it all back."

ADVOCATES A LACROSSE LEAGUE

An Enthusiast Says That is the Only Way of Developing Young Material.

"Why don't you advocate a city lacrosse league," said a well-known lacrosse enthusiast to The Examiner this morning. "It is a disgrace," he went on "that in a town of this size that there should be so little interest in Canada's national game. Why, I doubt if there are a half-dozen boys in Peterboro who play lacrosse. The youngsters, as they are growing up, never seem to think of lacrosse. It is baseball everywhere and a lacrosse stick is a novelty. If we are ever to have any lacrosse we must commence and educate the young fellows to play the game and nothing will do that but a City League. The quality of lacrosse played the first year might not be of a world-startling nature, but it would be interesting and the players would soon show improvement."

BASEBALL.

It is said that there is an excellent chance of a senior City League being formed in Peterborough this season. Four teams will be entered and the plans are to play a double-header every Saturday afternoon during the season. It is thought that there will be no difficulty in securing four teams which would make a cosy little league.

• • • •

The new league proposed by Tom Flanagan does not look as if it would go through. Brantford and Hamilton have already declared against it, and there is no reason to expect that any of the other western towns will fall for the scheme with these two baseball centres out. A City League in Toronto seems all that is left for Flenagan so that Peterborough will again be face to face with the problem of what league they will play in this year. On paper the proposed league looked all right and the Peterborough baseball club would have welcomed a chance to get into such a league.

Peterborough's team of last year will be pretty well scattered this season. Catcher Jerry Edmunds will be with Winnipeg in the Northwestern League; Outfielder Connie Murphy with Edmonton in the newly organized Alberta League, and First Baseman Dave Lawson, with Cobalt in the Silver League. Pitcher Fred Clements is looking for a berth in Kingston, Ont., while the rest of the team, with the exception of Corney Burns are in Toronto.

HOW ICE PALACES EXAGGERATE IDEAS REGARDING CANADIAN WINTERS.

In a letter recently received from a gentleman who was prominently connected for many years with one of the leading universities in Canada, and who now occupies a similar position in England, the following comment is made:

"The Carnival has created some excitement in all parts of Great Britain, and the temperature in Montreal is apparently unusually low."

What better evidence is required that advertising ice palaces creates exaggerated ideas abroad regarding our winters. The present winter has been unusually moderate, yet it is not to be wondered at that the publicity given to the Carnival and ice palaces should have caused even our well informed kinsmen across the sea to imagine that we were having unusually severe weather, the necessary accompaniment, according to their minds, of ice palaces.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir:—I was glad to see a correspondent in Monday's issue of the Examiner, suggesting that the concert recently given by St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society on March 17th, entitled "True Irish Hearts," be repeated. I was in attendance on this occasion, and can say truthfully that I enjoyed the presentation of the play exceedingly, and it struck me that the labour and time taken in its preparation demanded a second appearance. Considering also the most satisfactory way in which it was played, I hope the members may be again induced to give this act to the public, when I feel their efforts will be appreciated as in the past.

Thanking you for the use of your space,

I beg to remain,
A PLEASED PATRON.

One suggestion to the Water Commissioners. When you are putting in an auxiliary plant to look into the advisability of installing an electric driven pump instead of a steam pump. I know of a town, one-half the size of Peterborough, that has the electric pump, and is successfully operated.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain

Yours truly,

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the la grippe with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. Lindsay Fair Committee Claims Credit Of Securing Attractions

The following letter appears in the Lindsay Warder, giving the Lindsay Fair Committee all the praise for securing attractions throughout this district:

To the Editor of the Warder.

Dear Sir,—There seems to be a misunderstanding between the Peterborough and Lindsay papers as to who formed the circuit for the attractions for the fairs. As president of the South Victoria Agricultural Society, I must put this right and give honour to whom honour is due.

In running our fair we appoint a committee for every department, and the first mentioned is the chairman. On the Attraction Committee are Mr. J. A. Williamson, Mr. E. Hopkins, and Mr. Carew, and Mr. Williamson and Mr. Hopkins have been on the committee for years, and it is due to these men that good attractions have been secured and due to them also that we have secured such an excellent circuit for attractions. Peterborough would not have anything to do with us until this year.

What has brought our fair to the front is the way our committees have handled their business, and people know when they come to the Lindsay fair that everything will be done to the minute.

Mr. Keith is the secretary-treasurer of the fair, and it is not his business to dictate to the directors what they shall do.

Mr. Keith and myself are the only two men who are paid and the men on the committees render their valuable services free.

JOHNSON ELLIS,
President.

WHY SUFFER?

Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome Breathe Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigour and vitality.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australia dry air treatment.

Joseph Dural, of Woodstock street, Tavistock, Ont., says: "Catarrh had given me all kinds of suffering for a long time. There was a swelling of the glands under the eyes and adjacent to my nose and the discharges would drop into my throat. I used several remedies, but never got the relief that I did from Booth's Hyomei. I have been so pleased with Hyomei results that I highly recommend its use to catarrh sufferers."

Mr. Madill, the druggist, will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh or money back. Don't delay this pleasant anti-septic treatment. Breathe in Hyomei and kill the germs.

Mr. Madill will sell you a complete Hyomei Outfit, including inhaler, for only $1.00. It is also guaranteed to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds hay fever and croup.

CHORUS GIRLS SING TO KINDLY JUDGE

Tell Magistrate Scott That "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" in Lively Chorus.

Philadelphia, March 20.—Because he discharged three chorus girls, former members of "In New York" company, who had been arrested on a charge of stealing costumes of the company, about twenty other members of the same chorus who crowded their way into the Central police station, cheered loud and long for Magistrate Scott.

As the girls filed out of the room they sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "We'd Rather Be Outside Looking In Than Inside Looking Out."

The three prisoners were Louisa Elton, Marie Ford and Mamie Stergis. In the same warrant upon which they were arrested seven other chorus girls were named, but they left the city before Detectives Johnson and Townsend, who made the arrests, reached them.

The company had been playing at the Walnut Street Theatre and it was shown that when the engagement closed on Thursday night many members of the chorus had not been fully paid for their services. Bertha C. Mack, wardrobe mistress at the theatre, testified that the three prisoners and some of the other girls took some costumes with them, because they had not received all of their salary.

SPLENDID TO USE FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Nothing Like Diapepsin to Overcome Indigestion and Fermentation of Food.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe ou call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, astritis or Catarrh of Stomach: it oesn't matter—take your stomach rouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food sourings, the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure, and fulness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of the stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take some Diapepsin.

Stanley McCormick, Son Of The Great Harvester Man, Is Insane

Family Exceedingly Wealthy and Youngest Son Married Only a Short Time Ago—Mind Is Hopelessly Unbalanced.

APPOINTING A GUARDIAN.

Examiner Special.

Chicago, March 24.—News that Stanley McCormick, youngest son of the reaper inventor, is helplessly insane and under restraint in Santa Barbara, Cal., has greatly shocked his friends here.

Stanley McCormick is thirty-five years old. He was graduated from Princeton in 1895, and was noted as an athlete. He was a star polo player at the Onwentsia Club, quite as proficient in that line as his brother Harold is in the tennis game. His estate is appraised at $12,000,000.

After leaving Princeton he went into business connected with the expansion of the harvester works. He took a leading part in the organization of the International Harvester Company with its $120,000,000 capital, of which his brother Cyrus H. is president.

In 1905 he married Katherine Wirt Dexter, of Boston, daughter of Wirt Dexter, a once noted Chicago lawyer. He had met Miss Dexter when she was a child at school in Chicago. He joined the Dexter party and travelled with it through Italy. After a brief and romantic courtship the couple were married in the fall of 1905 in Lucerne, Switzerland. The honeymoon was passed in the mountains of Switzerland and upper Italy. Several months later the couple returned to America. After a brief visit to Chicago relatives, during which young Mrs. McCormick was lavishly entertained, they made their home in Boston.

"I like Boston and its ways and people and Katherine feels at home there," McCormick told his family. "I will take care of the business at that end and live there most of the time."

After that he spent his time between Boston and a ranch which he had bought in New Mexico.

In her petition for a guardian Mrs. McCormick mentioned Mary C. McCormick a sister of her husband, as mentally incompetent. Mary is now living at Huntsville, Ala., under constant care.

LAYMEN OF PETERBORO PRESBYTERY DEEPLY INTERESTED IN MISSIONS

Stirring Address Given at Closing Meeting of Conference Last Evening at St. Paul's by Mr. M. Parkinson of Toronto.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The closing gathering of the laymen of the Presbytery of Peterborough in connection with the special conference held here yesterday took place last evening in St. Paul's church. It was largely attended and a deep interest in the missionary duties that lay before them was manifested. The address last night was delivered by Mr. Matthew Parkinson, a prominent layman of Toronto. His remarks were confined to the commission of Christ to every man to go out and evangelize the world.

The chairman was Mr. Wm. Madill who, after devotional exercises, introduced Mr. Parkinson.

Mr. Parkinson introduced his remarks by taking his hearers back to the day of Pentecost, when Christ commissioned His disciples to go into all the world and preach the Gospel. It was not seemingly possible that the litle body of men could accomplish anything. It seemed but visionary command, and that the fulfillment of it would never take place. But Christ meant that it should be carried out and the disciples began to preach. It is urgent that men of to-day should fulfil the same commission. The speaker traced the history of Christianity up to the time it was accepted in Britain, and said that the duty rested on the people of this country to carry to the heathen lands of Asia the gospel that they had received.

The truth was given to Christian men as a stewardship, with the intent that it should be imparted to those that hadn't it. When the students' volunteer movement started with the purpose in view of evangelizing the world in this generation it was thought a foolish proposition, but the speaker said that the laymen's missionary movement had taught him that it was every man's duty to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The way, he believed to do good at home was to start working with the other fellow—the man abroad.

The onus was largely upon English-speaking people to evangelize the world. The number of heathen was said to be in the neighbourhood of one thousand millions, nine hundred millions of which were British subjects to Christianize. The laymen's missionary movement did not stand for foreign missions more than those at home. Christ did not make any distinction. Canada, he believed, was face to face with a great national problem. The foreign immigration to Canada was yearly increasingly large and the duty was upon all to reach them with Christ's word, and if that was not done at once it would not be accomplished twenty-five years from now. Four hundred thousand dollars from nine thousand church members meant five dollars a year, or ten cents a week, or in other words a cigar a week. Yet, the speaker said, there were hundreds who had not self sacrifice enough to give up one cigar a week to save the world. He believed that there was presumptive evidence enough to convince any man that the world should be evangelized in this era, and if each one was fired with enough patriotism to realize his responsibilities as a British subject and as a Christian it would be accomplished. If the work was to be done in twenty-five years, in half that time the heathen countries would be able to help themselves, would have their own native preachers.

He believed that the reflex influence of the laymen's movement was greater than that of any revival ever held. He thought that it was time for Protestant denominations to unite in the work of evangelization and the laymen's movement was a strong force in bringing this union about. It had made men better and caused them to think more deeply of their obligations to God and His church.

At the conclusion of the address, those present asked questions concerning methods employed by committees of the laymen's missionary movement in reaching the people, which were answered by Mr. Parkinson.

The meeting was closed with prayer.

Astronomy Interwoven In Many Of Tennyson's Poems

Mr. J. A. Paterson Gives Scholarly Lecture on This Subject, Demonstrating Tennyson's Accurate Knowledge of Astronomy and How He Used It With Beautiful Effect In His Writings.

ONLY FAIR ATTENDANCE.

The Peterborough centre of the Royal Astronomical Society presented its members with a programme last night which was somewhat out of the ordinary, and for that reason apart from its genuine literary worth, was one of the most entertaining and delightful of the series that has been held this winter. Mr. John A. Paterson, M.A., K.C., Toronto, was the lecturer, and his treatment of the "Astronomy of Tennyson" was in every respect a gem. The only regret one could entertain after listening to his scholarly discourse was that hundreds had been present instead of the tens who barely filled the chemical room at the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. H. B. Collier presided and explained the positions of some of the stars as viewed last night. The minutes of the last meeting, as read by Miss Foy, were adopted.

Mr. Paterson dealt with Tennyson's astronomy, as is found in numerous passages of his works. He combined the beauty and power of his thought and imagination with his knowledge of science and the laws of nature, welding poetry and astronomy with sublime effect. Tennyson has an appreciative follower in Mr. Paterson, who has apparently given his works a good deal of thought and possesses an insight of the poet's feelings, which he imparted to his hearers in a manner that they had not probably thought of previously.

Tennyson lived in the golden Victorian era and was the friend of many brilliant intellects. Among his acquaintances were celebrated astronomers, who were beginning to make greater discoveries in the illimitable realm of the stars, and to probe deeper into the mysteries of the universe. Tennyson being a true poet was keenly interested in this, and acquired considerable knowledge through his personal efforts, but more extensively from his friends. His soul poetic to the highest degree was stirred to its depths as he gazed into the abyss of the heavens, and some of his finest metaphors are based on astronomical facts.

Astronomy fed the flame at the shrine of his muse and held him in awe at the greatness of God. He also realized the tiny place the earth occupied in the vast universe and speaks of it in one place as a "dusty dot." His teaching in regard to evolution is practically that found in the Nebular theory and his grand references in this connection were splendidly recited by Mr. Paterson. One of the charms of the lecture was the manner in which Mr. Paterson read portions of poems, and also his deliberation of speech, emphasizing and giving total effects enforcing the passage and clearly bringing out the meaning of the poet.

Mr. Paterson pointed out passages substantiating his statements that Tennyson had a good knowledge of astronomy. Characteristics of constellations, and many of the heavenly bodies which at his time were not widely known and no poet has dealt with astronomy as he did. He received many compliments from astronomers of his day upon the correct references he had made in his writings.

At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks was pased by Mr. D. W. Dumble and Rev. J. G. Potter to Mr. Paterson upon the comprehensive address he had given and the pleasure that had been afforded in listening to his scholarly treatment of this feature of Tennyson's works.

PRINCE RUPERT — BRITISH COLUMBIA.

In response to many enquiries from all parts of the world with regard to the new Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Prince Rupert, a comprehensive and interesting pamphlet, has been issued giving information respecting this great seaport of the Pacific. The land acquired by the Railway Company for this new city is 24,000 acres for the purpose of the townsite and the development of the port. The first subdivision of the townsite will cover an area of about 2,000 acres, and will be opened to the public and sold on or about May 1st, 1909.

The publication contains a general plan of the new townsite, and a large interesting map of the North Pacific showing Prince Rupert Harbour and vicinity.

Copies of this publication may be had for the asking by applying to J. D. McDonald, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

"Stripes" Says Paris

New Stripe Effects for Spring in Dress Fabrics

"Plain colour fabrics, and self colour stripes will have the main call, and the lustrous satin finishes will be most in demand."
—Dry Goods Review

Glance over the most beautiful and extensive displays in the largest fashion centres of America and Europe and you will see that "Dame Fashion" decrees that "stripes" in dress fabrics are to be the vogue this season. The self stripe is by far and away the most popular for Spring; in narrow, medium and wide widths. The new Directoire finished Cloths are the leading fabrics and such cloths as the Venetians, Broadcloths, Alexandrias, Herringbone Twill, Whipcords' Homespun effects, D and A Brilliantine, (new light weight material) Taffeta Cloths, etc., are strongly in demand.

The shades for Spring comprise a very pretty range of Greys (Elephant and Taupe,) light and dark Navys, Greens (Reseda the best,) also Browns. Prices 50c, 75c, $1.00. $1.25 to $2.25.

See our stock now, before the assortment is broken, and place your order with the Dressmaker as early as possible to avoid disappointment for Easter.

Settling Down

MILLINERY Openings are over and the trade is settling down to a more normal condition. The stock is at its very best now and the woman who wishes to get her Easter Hat should consider her experiences of other years in leaving the purchase until the Spring and Easter rush began, which doubtless resulted in a disappointment both for the patron and ourselves.

The creations this season are particularly beautiful and especially so when nature's own garlands are used in the decorating to a very large degree—flowers predominate with ribbons and plumes in great favour. The new shades include several tones of Taupe Grey, Wisteria, Rose and Rosewood shades, also Sapphire Blues. See the beautiful display in our Millinery Parlours now.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS TO THE PLANT OF THE CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO.

Complete Filtering Apparatus Has Been Installed As Well As Pasteurizing and Labelling Machines.

TRENT TALLEY LAGER.

The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company, with its usual enterprise is evidently determined to keep up with the march of progress and the improvements that have just been completed in the company's well equipped plant more than substantiate that opinion. In order to be in a position to satisfactorily meet competition in the line of both draught and bottle lager, the company has just finished installing a complete filtering plant purchased from the Leow Manufacturing Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the best known and most reliable manufacturers of filtering machinery in the United States. Mr. Philip Hauck, one of the American firms' experts has been here for some time superintending the erection of the filter and the apparatus is now satisfactorily installed. It makes assurance doubly sure that the Calcutt product reaches the consumer in the purest possible form. The lager is pumped through the filtering machine by means of a steam air pump, so that every gallon of the beverage is filtered before it is put on the market. As the company's ale, porter and

MR. H. CALCUTT
President of the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company.

lager are brewed from the sparkling spring water, a government analysis of which has shown it is absolutely pure, it will be seen that the Calcutt label on the bottle may be taken as a guarantee of the fact that the contents are as clean and free from every defect as the most complete system of modern machinery can provide.

The company has also added to its lager bottling department a pasteurizing machine which will make it possible for their export lager to keep in any climate, and also a labelling machine which places the labels on the bottles. Their new brand of draught lager will be labelled "Trent Valley Lager," and every bottle leaving the brewery will be so labelled.

The new brand promises to speedily become the most popular on the market. The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company has gone to considerable expense in order to be able to meet competition with any lager for sale and it deserves the success which will no doubt attend its efforts. The new name is appropriate as it keeps Peterborough before the public as the headquarters of the Trent Canal. The local trade will be pleased to learn that they can get as good if not a little better lager manufactured in Peterborough than in other place and by taking advantage of the opportunity will be helping to build up the city's industries by patronizing the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company, and thus keep their money in Peterborough.

Mr. D. H. Hummell, a practical brewer of long experience, will be in charge of the company's lager beer department.

The officers of the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company are H. Calcutt, president; H. Neil, vice-president, and Jas. Drain, secretary.

TO-DAY IN THE STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished the Examiner by J. N. Barber.)

Financial

New York, March 24.—Noon.—Ignoring lower London quotations, stocks opened firm at about last night's closing and after holding steady for a time, started upward under the lead of Reading, Union Pacific and Steel. The traction group was under pressure but showed some signs of support. Copper stocks acted well. There was a large amount of short selling in the last hour yesterday, but they have not yet had a chance to cover up. The market acted as though it had been oversold. At noon prices were at the highest for the day so far.

Stock News

Joseph says: Buy B. R. T. Hold Pacifics. Average coppers and bull C & O.

London copper metal market opened spot decline 1s 3d; futures decline 1s 3d; market firm.

Toronto, March 24.—Cobalts steady. Temiskaming strong at further advance to 140 but reacted to 136 later. Nipissing and LaRose unchanged. Beaver up; Lake in good demand.

Grain News

Liverpool close: Wheat ¾ d to 1¼d higher; corn ½d higher.

Chicago, March 24.—Wheat opened strong, influenced by higher cables and bull support. May up nearly two cents and July one. Corn and oats fractionally higher. The fact that possibilities are now overshadowing, known facts will doubtless result in higher values to-day. Until May deal is out of the road market will be influenced more by attitude of principal holders than commercial news. Can see nothing to warrant any change in corn or oats.

Montreal, March 24.—The cut in grain freight rates ordered by the Trunk Line Association of the United States will be met by the Montreal Transportation Co.

PRESENTED WITH P. C. R'S JEWEL

Court Stanley A.O.F. Remember Bro. H. Hanwell.

A very large attendance of the members of Court Stanley, A. O. F., was present at their regular meeting last evening in the S. O. E. Hall, Chief Ranger Bro. R. J. Goodenough being in the chair. Considerable business was transacted. Arrangements were made for the visit of the High Chief Ranger, Bro. W. Richards, of London. He is coming on Thursday, the 25th, and the meeting will be held in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Simcoe street, where he will address the members of the Court and the Companions, to which all visiting brethren are also invited. At the conclusion of the business a very pleasant presentation was made to Bro. H. Hanwell, P. C. R., of a P. C. R.'s Jewel, to which the brother feelingly replied, thanking the officers and members for the kindness he had received during his term of office. Bro. Huycke, the Court pianist, favoured the members with a musical selection and several songs were sung. The A. O. F. choir are practising several Forester songs under the able leadership of Bro. Geo. Record, an old-timer, of Court Stanley. The Court wishes for a good attendance of the members and Companions to welcome the High Chief Ranger on his visit here.

Presbytery Decides To Give Average Of $5.00 For Missions

The luncheon at noon yesterday in connection with the conference of the Presbytery was very novel, and had many good features which were impressively felt. Mr. Matthew Parkinson gave an address on "The Nature of the Missionary Congress and Our Relation to the movement." Mr. R. F. McWilliams was chairman. In the afternoon Mr. F. W. Anderson gave an address on "Missionary Education," and Mr. Armstrong gave the closing address.

A resolution was passed by Mr. Wm. Madill, that the offering of the Presbytery toward the Laymen's Movement Fund average $5.00, and was accepted.

CIRCUS SEASON IS AT HAND BIG SHOWS GETTING READY

As an occasional bright warm day gives us a foretaste of the approaching summer, the showman begins to feel the atmosphere of the big top about him, and the scent of the sawdust in imagination finds its way to his nostrils. It is a peculiar and a ubiquitous fascination. No one who has ever been connected with a circus for any length of time, no matter in what capacity, ever gets entirely away from the glamour, the sentiment and the poetry of it all. There is something about this nomadic institution that presents its followers from ever drifting entirely away. The sailor is always the sailor, whether on land or on sea; the newspaper man is always the newspaper man, whether preparing copy or engaged in connection pursuits; the showman is always the showman, whether he is directing some department of a manufacturing concern or whether he be engaged in some business that is entirely foreign and alien to amusements. Nowhere is discipline more rigidly observed than with a large circus; nowhere is system, method and united effort more necessary. Each part must move in harmony with every other part. From the time the trains draw into the place of exhibition and are unloaded, until the time they are loaded again and move on to the next stand, every minute is economized, every particle of time is taken account of. The canvasman, the animal attendant, the hostler, each feels himself an integral part of the immense mechanism. Every man is just as conscientious in his effort to get his work done as if he owned the show. It is the spirit that goes with the circus business. It is in fact the spirit that accompanies the soldier, the sailor, or the member of any other well disciplined organization.

The circus man is now beginning to feel uneasy. He is impatient to be back on the lot. On the 25th of March the first opening of the season will take place. Ringling Brothers' Show will make its entree into Madison Square Garden, and its initial bow to New York audiences. Following this the Barnum and Bailey show will open at the Coliseum in Chicago on April 1st. At the close of the Ringling Brothers' engagement in Madison Square Garden, the Buffalo Bill-Pawnee Bill Wild West, the Far East will take its place there. Then the openings will follow in rapid succession and the season will be in full swing. We anticipate that it will be a prosperous season. Those who are most actively conditioned, who have years of experience to reckon on, look forward to the most successful season of the decade. It is to be hoped that their prognostication will be justified by the general result.

Vitol Cured Her

For years I have been a great sufferer. Life to me was a burden, my limbs ached, I always felt tired and worn out, had no ambition. People could not sympathize with me. In fact at times they imagined it was put on, or a matter of fancy with me, but one who suffered the same as I did knows exactly what it means. I would work when I should be in bed. I was weak, seemed to be void of strength; life seemed to have left me to a certain extent. I have often felt as if I would give the world if I could feel buoyant and cheerful, really so. I often had to force what little cheerfulness I did have. I was urged to try Vitol, and, my what a change; to-day I am the woman I used to try and picture. I am happy, cheerful and strong; it seems as if I had new nerves, in fact new life. Mrs. R. Simms, Newcastle, Ont. You may be strong and healthy, and buoyant if you will take Vitol. Her husband, the late John Robson, predeceased her a number of years ago. She was a Presbyterian in religion and was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her.

The funeral will take place on Friday at two o'clock from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

We know of a number of cases of supposed consumption that have been cured by Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Wm. Madill, druggist.

Told it in Rhyme.

The late Rev. John Skinner, author of "Annals of Scottish Episcopacy," was first appointed to a charge in Montrose, whence he was removed to Banff, and ultimately to Forfar. After he had left Montrose it reached his ears that an ill natured insinuation was circulating there that he had been induced to leave this town by the temptation of a better income and of fat pork, which, it would appear, was plentiful in the locality of his new incumbency. Indignant at such an aspersion, he wrote a letter, directed to his maligners, vindicating himself sharply from it, which he showed to his grandfather, John Skinner of Langside, for his approval. The old gentleman objected to it as too lengthy and proposed the following pithy substitute:

Had Skinner been of carnal mind,
As strangely ye suppose,
Or had he even been fond of swine
He'd ne'er have left Montrose.

—"Reminiscences of Dean Ramsay."

Learning English.

The essential difference between the signification of words and terms in the English tongue which are almost the same in etymology and origin is a great element of difficulty to a foreigner who is learning the language, a fact to which a certain attache of a foreign mission at Washington recently testified.

When the budding diplomatist in question arrived at our national capital a year or two ago he soon capitulated to the charms of a young woman of the official set, and they speedily became the best of friends. A month or so ago the attache returned to this country after a lengthy leave of absence passed in his own land. About the first thing he did on reaching Washington was to send a note to the lady of his admiration, wherein, to her astonishment and indignation, he gave expression to this sentiment:

"Once more, my dear friend, I shall gaze upon your unmatched eyes"—

Ex-President Roosevelt Has Started For Land Of Big Game Objects Of His Hunting Trip

New York, March 23.—"They're off."

With the odds against his safe return, Theo. Roosevelt, only living ex-president of the United States, to-day began the first stage of his journey which, before it is ended, will carry him through the jungles of Africa, in search of the earth's largest and fiercest game.

With the sailing of the German steamer Hamburg for Naples to-day, Roosevelt, for ten years a central figure in American politics, started on what he calls his vacation. The trip wouldn't be called a vacation by those who know the country where he is going. But the former president is as buoyant and happy as a boy to-day. Certainly the experience will offer opportunity for a free exercise of his strenuous nature.

The ex-president's hunting trip is one of the most spectacular events in the career of a man whose life has seen many startling events, a man who has stepped himself from boyhood in strong, unusual, blood-stirring sensations.

That a man who has been sitting in cushioned chairs directing legislative, diplomatic and executive conduct for a nation, should throw off the protection which civilization and high station afford and throw himself into the heart of the dark continent is as startling as it is typical of the man.

He will meet the rhinoceros, the most fierce and dangerous animal in existence.

In the African lion, which, when aroused, will fight till shot to pieces, he will encounter a foe beside which hostile newspapers and warring senators will be as nothing.

The ex-president can invoke no libel suits nor claim any privileges against the elephant, which sweeps all before it, or the tropical snake, which poisons by its very breath. No official act can serve him as defence against the deadly African fever, which kills 60 per cent of the white population, the disease which carried off Livingstone, the explorer.

It will be the man Roosevelt, not the president, who must meet the dangers of darkest Africa. His own good health, his courage, quick eye, coolness, resourcefulness—these are the things he must depend upon.

And Theo. Roosevelt is a man now past middle age. Yet he calls his African trip a vacation.

From Naples Roosevelt will go by a German African steamer through the Suez Canal to Mombasa on the East African coast.

From Mombasa he will be carried to the Nairobi, 400 miles inland, by one of the most interesting railroads in the world—two streaks of rusty rails, which penetrate through swamps and deserts and wilderness, and across tropical lakes and rivers.

At Nairobi the ex-President will make camp for six months, making his headquarters at first at the African home of Wm. N. McMillan, an American millionaire of St. Louis and London who has built a magnificent villa in the heart of the jungle.

From Nairobi Roosevelt will proceed to Port Florence on Lake Victoria Nyanza, stopping to make an ascent of Mount Kenia, 74 miles north of the lake, then making his way gradually through the Uganda protectorate to the Nile River. He will be met at Khartoum on the Nile by Mrs. Roosevelt, who will accompany him through Europe.

The former president's tour will take about two years, the latter year to be spent on the European continent. He will lecture at Oxford and in French and German colleges.

One aim of Roosevelt on his trip will be to add to the collection of the Smithsonian museum in Washington, specimens of both sexes of the large animals of Africa.

Roosevelt has insisted from the first that his aim was scientific, and that his hunting trip was not for the sake of killing.

THE UNTOLD HALF.

By ARTHUR BOLTONWOOD.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

There is no particular excitement when one of the lumbering fruit boats of the Yellow Star line comes into port. There was no particular stir along the water front that biting, foggy morning in December when the Admiral Dart came wheezing up the harbor, swung into her berth at the Yellow Star docks with the aid of a couple of tugs—for the tide was running strongly—shot out her gangplank and disembarked the four passengers she carried.

She also disembarked Bobby Shacklett. But Bobby Shacklett did not come to the wharf by way of the gangplank. While the fussy little donkey engines in the sheds were puffing valiantly and swinging briskly out of the Admiral Dart's hold the many bunches of green bananas Bobby Shacklett, very thin, very pale and very much unwashed, came up from the stoke room, took a long breath of the misty air, shivered a bit—for his clothes were painfully thin and shabby—and then climbed over the rail and dropped unostentatiously to the wharf.

A couple of carriages bearing the steamer's late passengers whisked past him. Three rumbling drays went bumping past, one of the drivers shouting impolitely to Bobby to get to somewhere out of the way.

Bobby grinned. It was not a pleasant grin. He was thinking of his homecoming as he had planned it and as it had actually turned out, and comparisons, which are always odious things, were particularly so in this case.

He thrust his hand into the pocket of his ragged trousers, drew out a few pieces of silver, grinned once more, shivered again and made his way to the street.

A solitary hansom was drawn up to the curb, waiting for a chance fare. Bobby stepped over to it. The cabby surveyed him scowlingly, but Bobby, quite oblivious apparently to the dubious glances cast in his direction, climbed calmly in.

He gave an address on a certain conservative street uptown. The driver stared at him. Bobby smiled.

"Don't blame me, old chap," he said, noting the other's hesitation. "But I want to go there, strange as it may seem and incompatible as it may be with my present appearance. What's the row? Afraid I won't be good for the fare? Here you go."

He passed up the handful of silver through the trap. "Now, then, drive on," he commanded.

The whiplash sang through the air; the shambling horse lurched into a trot; the hansom rocked, and away they went through the dingy, noisy streets.

They drew up finally before an imposing house on the conservative uptown street. Bobby climbed from the hansom, and while the latter turned and went clattering away he shut his teeth grimly and mounted the brownstone steps with a light of determination in his eyes.

In response to his vigorous tug at the bell the door was opened by a statuesque butler, whose dignity stood out obtrusively all over him. He looked at the figure on the stoop and closed the door halfway.

"Well?" he said, and the manner in which he said it plainly bade the visitor begone.

"Is Miss Wadsworth in?" said Bobby quietly.

"Hi think not, sir. In fact, Hi am very sure she isn't," the butler replied.

A look came into Bobby's gray eyes—a look that had made better men than the butler quail many times before now.

"I rather think you are mistaken," said he. "I'm sure she is home, and, what is more, I am sure she will be glad to receive me. If you don't believe it, just tell her, if you will, that the general manager of the Colona Intercoast railway would like a word with her. I'd advise you to do as I say."

The butler hesitated but a second longer. The man on the stoop was looking at him with a most disconcerting determination in his bearing. The butler, unwilling, it is true, opened the door.

"Step in, sir," said he. "Hi will see."

A fire crackled cheerfully in a big fireplace at one end of the warm, dark hall. Bobby drew a chair close to it and, sitting down, held out his stiffened fingers to the grateful blaze.

Up the wide stairs creaked the butler with as much haste as his ubiquitous dignity allowed. Voices sounded above. There was a little gasp, a cry, the swish of skirts, the patter of light footsteps hurrying down the stairs.

Bobby arose from his chair just as Mary Wadsworth, more radiant, more beautiful, than ever, came running toward him.

"Bobby!" she cried, both her hands held out to him. "Bobby, I—I can't believe that it is really you and that you are back! I'm glad—oh, so glad I can't tell you properly!"

Bobby had stiffened. His face was very grave.

"Mary, please sit down for a moment," said he. "I shan't keep you long. Just a word of explanation, and perhaps even that is not needed," he added, with a lugubrious glance at his tattered raiment. "I must apologize for coming here this way, but stoking on a fruit steamer raises the very deuce with one's appearance."

She was about to say something, but he held out his hand.

"Please let me talk first," said he. "I must tell you before you say a word or else I shan't have the courage to. You see, it's all off—railroad gone up, contracts unfulfilled, and the fortune I went down there to stow away in my jeans some one else has walked off with. That's about all, except that I came back in the fruit steamer to tell you that I'm the largest, most inexcusable fizzle extant."

"That is all?" she asked suddenly. "Are you sure that is all? Do you mean to say in those few sentences you have told me everything?"

"All that you should know," said he.

She looked at him steadily, and a sudden light leaped to her eyes.

"You are telling me only half," she said.

He was silent.

"Why don't you tell me the other half?" she demanded.

"It—it wouldn't interest you," he said lamely.

She leaned toward him. "I know the other half without your telling it, you great big, generous boy," said she.

"Eh? What? What is it you know or, rather, think you know?" he asked.

"I know it all—the whole story," she declared. "I know why you are here as you are. I know it was because you shielded my brother when he—when he wasn't straight, when the gambling houses down there had done their worst for him. I know that you—you, dear, loyal Bobby Shacklett—threw everything into the balance—opportunities, contracts, everything, to save him and that now you have come back to me with your lips sealed, claiming that you have failed and offering no excuses for it."

Shacklett reddened. He smiled rather vaguely and looked decidedly embarrassed. Twice he essayed to speak and each time got no further than the initial word. The girl was watching him closely.

"It—it doesn't change things any, even if all you have said is true, and I haven't admitted yet that it is true," he said at last. "I've lost my money, and—you see that"—

"You have gained—gained something else," she whispered.

The butler was telling the pretty second girl about it below stairs.

"'Is h'arm was around her," said he disgustedly. "Think of it! And 'im nothing but a common tramp!"

The Pedigree of the Shirt.

Why does the being we call a "gentleman" wear around his neck a band of spotless whiteness and unbearable stiffness, at his wrists similar instruments of torture and before his chest a rigidly starched linen plate? No one outside of a madhouse would call these articles of apparel agreeable. There is for the custom no reason at all drawn from comfort, hygiene or usefulness. There is, however, the ghost of a dead reason. Once upon a time a "gentleman" was presumed to do no work, and he dressed to show this by putting on these visible signs that he never soiled his hands, sweated his neck or bent his noble back. It matters not that we no longer believe in this definition of a gentleman. We did believe once. Its ghost rules on. No man is bold enough to appear in society without this impossible harness. Only a professional humorist like Mark Twain or some one who wishes to pose as a mild lunatic dares rebel. Addison said that the man who would clothe himself according to common sense would find himself in jail within a week.—Frank Crane in Atlantic.

In the Heat of Battle.

There had been a hotly contested football game between the Steam Rollers of the Benjamin Franklin school and the Avalanches of the George Washington school. It was won by the Avalanches. After the game was over and the contestants had returned to their various homes one of the heroes of the winning team complained of a feeling of soreness in the lower part of his neck.

"I didn't feel it until just now," he said, "but it hurts like sixty!"

His father examined it. It began to swell and was very sore to the touch.

"I believe your collar bone is broken, my boy," said his father.

A surgeon was hastily summoned and made an examination.

"Yes," he said, "the bone is fractured. "How did it happen, Walter? Do you remember anything about it?"

"Why, yes," answered the boy. "I remember that when I tackled Skinny Morgan I fell on top of him, and I heard something crack, but I thought it was his collar bone."

Government by Veto.

A veto, used in connection with public acts, is a euphemism for smother, squelch, kill, etc. Owing to our elaborate system of vetoes our country may well be called the "veto country."

If a member of congress wishes a bill passed, it may be vetoed by the speaker.

If the speaker wishes it passed, it may be vetoed by a committee.

If the committee wishes it passed, it may be vetoed by the house.

If the house wishes it passed, it may be vetoed by the senate.

If the senate wishes it passed, it may be vetoed by the president.

If the president wishes it passed, it may be vetoed by the supreme court.

If the supreme court wishes it passed, it may be ignored and thus vetoed by any executive officer into whose hands it may fall.

If a bill succeeds in getting through all these safely, it is a good bet that it is something the people do not want.—Ellis O. Jones in Life.

The Precise Scientist.

A Pennsylvania official said of a noted Philadelphia scientist:

"He is the most exact man I ever met. He believes in nothing but proved facts. Continually he pins you down.

"One day I said to him:

"'Cannibalism—what an abomination! To eat of human flesh! Br-r-r!'

"The old scientist frowned.

"'Pardon me, but have you ever eaten of human flesh?' he said severely.

"'No,' said I.

"'Well, then,' he demanded, 'why do you speak of things that you know nothing at all about?'"—Philadelphia Record.

One Needed Rest.

"Your husband needs rest, madam," said the doctor.

"I know it!" she exclaimed triumphantly. "I've told it to him forty times a day for the last two months if I have told it to him once. I've just kept telling it to him all the time. John, how many times have I told you that you need rest?"

"On second thought," interrupted the doctor, "perhaps it would be better if you rested."

Troubled Even in Death.

"How is this? I thought you disliked your mother-in-law, and here you are carrying flowers to her grave!"

"Exactly! She hated 'em."—Journal Amusant.

FLIRTATION COST MOTORMAN $9983

He Neglected Duty Looking After the Fair Ones.

Philadelphia, March 25. — One of the largest awards of damages for personal injuries made in the courts this winter was given in Judge Willbank's court, when the jury in the suit of Mary D. Hadaway, a four year old child, and her father, John Hadaway, against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, returned a verdict to $9,983.25 in favour of the plaintiffs.

On May 1st, 1907, little Mary was crossing Twenty-fifth street, near Meredith street, when a trolley car approached, struck her and she fell under the forward wheels. As a result of her injuries her left leg had to be amputated above the knee, and her right foot was crushed so badly that she has to wear steel braces. It was testified that as the car proceeded along Twenty-fifth street the motorman's attention was attracted from his work by a number of girls standing in an alleyway, with whom he started a flirtation.

AN HONEST MESSENGER BOY WAS THE MEANS OF DETECTING SWINDLE AMOUNTING TO $75,000

Examiner Special.

New York, March 24.—A messenger boy who turned up his nose at a bribe was the means of putting the Hoboken police in touch with a $75,000 swindle, for which Fritz Marx and Leo Martin were promptly arrested

The prisoners, locked up at Hoboken police headquarters, broke down and confessed everything. They had fleeced the banking house of John Stennick & Co., Hoboken, out of $45,000 by means of false letters of credit, and would have got the balance of the $75,000 had not the trick been discovered.

Marx told the police that Martin, who was confidential secretary for Stennick & Co., had obediently turned over all the cash to him, and that he paid Martin $15 a week for doing it.

Marx said he had laid his plot to rob the banking house last fall. He made a trip to Europe early in September, and a few weeks later, Stennick & Co. wer notified by the banking house of M. Seidenburg, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, that Marx had deposited $15,000, upon which he was privileged to draw.

In a few weeks Marx appeared at Stennick's and drew out most of the money.

Begins $75,000 Swindle

The last of the $15,000 was drawn out in December, and a few days later Marx went again to Frankfort-on-the-Main. This time he obtained letter heads of the firm of Seidenburg, and in some way that he has not divulged got a paper with the signature of the president of the concern.

On the same steamer that brought Marx back to New York was a letter bearing the name of the Seidenburg concern's president, saying that Marx had fallen heir to $75,000 and that it had been deposited with Seidenburg, to be drawn against as Marx saw fit. The letter went to Stennick & Co., and soon Marx called. He wanted $25,000. John Stennick looked up the letter, decided it was all right, and paid the money through Martin.

Marx made half a dozen other visits, drawing various amounts upon the $75,000 inheritance.

Marx might have kept on until the limit was reached had he not sent word to Stennick & Co. yesterday that he wanted $10,000 at once. John Stennick thought he would first find out whether the balance of the $75,000 was still at Frankfort-on-the-Main. He wrote out a cablegram to the house of Seidenburg and sent for a messenger.

The Honest Messenger Boy

Here is where Patrick Carmody, fifteen years old, the honest messenger, comes into the limelight. Carmody shambled to Stennick's office and took the message. As he sauntered up the street to give it in at the main telegraph office Martin, who had sat beside John Stennick while the message was given to the boy, stepped up behind him.

Martin held out his hand with a bill in it

"Here's five dollars, sonny, if you'll give me that message," he whispered.

Patrick Carmody looked at him and replied:

"Gwan! I don't want nothin' like that. I gotter hand this in."

Martin pleaded with the boy until they reached the telegraph office and increased his bribe to $10. As the boy entered the office he snatched a $5 bill from Martin's hand, dashed up to the desk and threw it down, exclaiming:

"This here mutt offered me this for a bribe. Here's a message to send."

The clerk in charge sent for a policeman. Martin, taken before Chief of Police Hayes, told all about the swindle. The Seidenburg house, he said, had never had an inkling of the $75,000 transaction. The inheritance was fictitious. Marx had forged the name of the Seidenburg president to all the letters that had come to Stennick & Co. None of the letters written by John Stennick had ever reached the Seidenburg firm, Martin having turned them all over to Marx.

RYAN SENTENCED TO BE HANGED SOBBINGLY CLAIMED INNOCENCE

Examiner Special, 2:45 p.m.

North Bay, Ont., March 25th, 1909.—Judge Latchford this morning sentenced Maurice Ryan to be hanged on Thursday, June 3 next, for the murder of his brother, Francis Joseph Ryan, on or about November 18, 1907. The prisoner when asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, replied that he knew nothing of the crime. His counsel asked for a reserve case averring that the remains had not been identified conclusively. The application was refused but noted. His Lordship was visibly affected when passing sentence, while Ryan sank sobbing to his seat, but recovered composure almost immediately.

American Settlers Flocking To Western Part Of Canada

Examiner Special:

Moose Jaw, Sask., March 24.—A. C. P. R. official at this point informs your correspondent that the rush of settlers from the United States at present in progress never has been surpassed and is many times as heavy as in the spring of 1906. The Soo-Spokane train from the south carries extra cars for settlers every day. Yesterday there were so many that the train had to be run in two sections. Most of those coming bring their effects and stock with them. At North Portal yesterday there were sixty cars of settlers' effects undergoing inspection and customs examination. Considerable inspection work is being done at Moose Jaw too, and at the present time a large number of horses are held here on suspicion of glanders. Most of the settlers are going to Southern Alberta, where an American land company is operating. Very few of the Americans are homesteading. They have money and have bought land from a company directing their attention this way. None of the settlers in the present rush are locating in this district, but homesteading in the Moose Jaw district the coming season promises to be the largest ever. The movement is not expected to commence for several weeks.

WEDDING BELLS

FITZGERALD—ELLIOTT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at the home of Mr. Isaac Elliott in Smith, when his second daughter was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald, of Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cruikshanks, of Selwyn Methodist Church, in the presence of about sixty guests. The bride was becomingly attired in a Princess dress of white with trimmings of baby Irish lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Elliott, sister of the bride, wore pale blue. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Bruce Fitzgerald.

After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of. A large number of beautiful presents was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will reside in Smith.

THE INVASION SCARE

The Conservative press and Conservative politicians have lately taken on a spirit of rabid jingoism and are calling upon Canada to lay down at once several Dreadnoughts to be presented to the Mother Country. They are moved thereto by the sedulously fostered invasion scare now agitating Great Britain. If this scare does not owe its origin to political motives, what reason has it? What proof have we that, in the improbable event of Germany getting a fleet as powerful as that of Great Britain she will at once pounce upon devoted Albion? For centuries—since Trafalgar and before—Great Britain has, in the matter of fleet, immeasurably out-rivalled any two nations, yet she has never used this predominating power to harass other nations. Is there any certainty that Germany will attempt a British invasion? Germany is bowed to the earth with the burden of militarism and in adding to this a corresponding expense for naval construction the burden will weaken the country, and test the loyalty of the people to the breaking point. The German people will make any sacrifices for the safety of the Vaterland, but they will not be enthusiastic over impoverishing themselves to attack a foreign foe. England is not so weak nor defenceless, no more so relatively than she was a hundred years ago, when Napoleon, with Europe conquered, fruitlessly played the game of invasion. As to Canada's place, it is alongside the Mother Country and we can be relied upon to do our share when real danger threatens, and the other colonies may be similarly counted upon. But it does not seem to be demanded that this country should, imperil her progress and exhaust her resources in taking up the burden of militarism that is crushing the nations of Europe. Canada can do more to build up the Empire and strengthen it, by fighting the battles of peace and progress—by realizing her potentiality to become the Granary of the Empire—than by building Dreadnoughts at nine or ten million dollars each.

Peace rules the day when reason rules the mind.

IMPORTANCE OF FORESTRY

An exchange prints the following fact which constitutes an important object lesson to Canadians:

In Lower Egypt rain formerly fell very seldom. During the French occupation about 1879 it did not rain for 16 months, but since Mehemet Ali and Ibrahim Pasha completed their vast plantations the former alone planted more than 20,000,000 olive, fir, cotton, acacia, plane trees, etc., there now falls a good deal of rain.

We all of any considerable age know that our climate has undergone great changes, that snow fall and rain fall are less regular, if not less in volume and that general climatic conditions have been and are adversely affected by our sole cause—the extensive removal of forest growth. Not only are agricultural conditions in their widest sense affected, but industrial interests share the disadvantages. The natural reservoirs, the forests, being removed, the waters rush off at once; rivers and streams are at flood for a few days and then dwindle to insignificant proportions or go dry altogether. With forests acting as reservoirs the waters of spring time and after storms would be very largely retained and filter out slowly during the season producing a regular and equable flow.

The threatened crash of Canada's forest resources by the United States suggests that Canada should be on the alert in regard to the adoption of a systematic and comprehensive conservation policy, and that this should be accompanied by vigorous reforesting operations. There are vast areas, taken collectively, throughout settled Ontario which are unsuitable for profitable agricultural use. If these were planted to forest, the result would be, not only a profitable crop to the owners or the government, but a benefit to the whole community. The government may recognize these conditions, but it is at fault in not advancing beyond theoretical recognition. The time of the Legislature is occupied with the consideration of matters comparatively trivial. Something should be done of a practical nature by the Federal and Provincial Governments.

The total area of Ontario is 140 million acres, of which 96 millions are unsurveyed. 11,728,000 acres are in forest reserves and parks, and 116 million acres are still under Crown control.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

"Public Ownership is an alluring cry. Like every other subject it has two sides. While its enthusiastic advocates claim that nothing can be said against it, its opponents make out a fair case from their point of view. To show what these opponents think the following article from the Rochester Post-Express is reproduced below.

The utter failure of the postal and telegraph strike in Paris furnishes another proof of the impracticability of the theory of government ownership so dear to the doctrinaires who are infected with the microbe of socialism. The strikers sought to show that they could intimidate the government by which they were employed and compel it to yield abjectly to their demands. It appears that favouritism largely prevailed in the postal and telegraph service, owing to the corrupting influence of politics. But this state of affairs is inevitable whenever a government controls an industry or a sphere of employment. France is not the only country where the experiment of government ownership has been tried unsuccessfully. In Japan also public ownership has proved a failure. The French postal employees and telegraph operators defied the authority of the government and showed an audacious contempt for the convenience of the public. They were driven on by political demagogues to seek to tyrannize over the citizens of Paris. Their calculation was that by blockading the wires and the mails and causing a deadlock in business the French premier, M. Clemenceau, would be compelled to give way to them. Those French statesmen who sincerely believed in public ownership never anticipated that the government employees would strike. Not only did the government employees strike, but they trusted in the very fact of their positions as such to enable them to overcome the government. Their defeat is gratifying to all the friends of liberty and to all who realize the fallacious character of socialist theories.

It is easy to conceive how terrible would be the result of the ownership of the railroads of the United States by the government. In 1907, over 1,600,000 men were employed by the railroads of this country. If these employees were under the government, they would be open to the advances of every corrupt politician. They would ere long be demoralized by favouritism, and would enormously add to the unhappily too extensive area of political dishonesty in America. We know how lobbying has been carried on in Washington in the interests of postal employees and of teachers. The system of public ownership is antagonistic to individual responsibility. It has the insidious aspect to some minds of giving "the people" the ownership and control of industries. This is, indeed, the deceptive formula by which the Socialists seek to dupe the masses. They exclaim: "Why should not the people own the railroads, the telephones, the telegraphs, and all public utilities?" But the people would not own or control anything, for the professional politicians would exercise all the power, utterly regardless of the rights of individuals.

The Paris strike and its collapse will be useful. It will convince all who are sincere and who possess any reasoning faculties that the theory of government ownership is as dangerous to the public welfare as it is unworkable.

This is doubtless the extreme view, but perhaps not more extreme than the advocates of public ownership on their part entertain. In a matter like this the middle way is the safer. The Examiner has often held and still holds that public ownership of public utilities is the better if is best managed, not otherwise—in sympathy with the spirit of the couplet of Pope:

For forms of government let fools contest
Whatever is best administered is best.

Public ownership is the better perhaps if one could be assured that the management would be as effective as private or corporate management. As remarked, the middle way is the safer. In this connection Hon. Mr. Graham's proposal to place the Toronto terminal under a managerial board, is a middle way that commends itself to moderate minds. It does not remove ministerial responsibility, and it provides for the services of experts in the running of the line. While much remains human, it is inevitable that in government management of railways the political element should more or less prevail. While this element can be greatly lessened in influence as is being done in that department by placing the civil service in the hands of a non-partizan commission, the very fact of an attempt to eliminate is a practical admission that government ownership and operation necessarily involve political influences.

Canada has a greater railway mileage than Australia and New Zealand combined.

"FOR THE "LIVING WAGE."

(London Advertiser.)

The Sweated Industries Bill, introduced in the British House of Commons a few days ago, is one of the most important of the many progressive measures brought forward by the present Government. Its object is to provide for the establishment of wages boards, with power to fix a minimum rate of wages to be paid to workers in particular trades. These boards will act in districts or areas to be determined by the home office; they will be composed of an equal number (not more than five or less than three) of employers and employed, with an impartial chairman appointed by themselves or by the secretary of state; they can fix wages either for piece-work or by time, and where home workers are concerned they must fix them by piece-work. Penalties for infringement of their decisions are imposed.

At the outset the bill is to apply only to three trades—tailoring, dressmaking, and skirtmaking—in which sweating is most prevalent, although there are many model employers. But the home secretary on demand of any six persons from among either employers or employed, may appoint a wages board in any trade whatever if inquiry satisfies him that it is justifiable. It is fully expected that eventually every trade will have a wages board, and that a minimum wage will be established in each—a principle for which social reformers have been contending for many years. This minimum will not be uniform; it will differ with different districts and different trades.

The introduction of such a measure by a British Government shows how far British statesmen have travelled past the moorings of 50 or even 25 years ago. "The iron law of wages," "freedom of contract," "supply and demand"—these and other shibboleths of the orthodox economists, which were once accepted as almost Divine laws, are ignored by such legislation in favour of the more humane conception of the "living wage." Those who say the new doctrine is not economically sounder are indicting the present organization of society by ruling out the human and personal element. A wage system that takes no account of the wage-earner belongs to the cruelties of the past.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Ross, of Middlesex, has introduced into the legislature a bill which if passed into law will greatly increase the circle of activity of the motor car." One clause of the Act provides thus:

No motor vehicle shall be run or allowed to stand upon any public highway in any town, township, village or police village during the hours between six o'clock in the forenoon and nine o'clock in the afternoon on Sundays.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, who wrote asking for information on the teaching of music in the Public Schools, does not appear to be aware that the Board of Education in September, 1908, introduced the subject into all grades of the Public Schools.

The supervision of the work is in charge of a capable and talented teacher, and, considering the brief space of time during which music has been systematically taught in our schools, most gratifying results are being obtained.

A visit to any of the city schools will reveal the encouraging condition of this branch of study.

EDUCATIONIST.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Mr. Earle and "Truth" can never do any good by running in and out of Bible lessons. They are apparently half blind about dogmas and belief. It needs no common man to enlighten us on such subjects. Mr. Earle has no more knowledge of the meaning of the Bible than any other man except, perhaps, that he knows more about it than does a heathen.

Yours, etc.,

WILL APPEAR IN THEIR GOWNS

Next Sunday morning for the first time the choir of Murray Street Baptist Church will appear in their gowns and mortar boards, and they will present a very attractive appearance. The robes arrived in the city yesterday and are very satisfactory. They are made of very fine material and are well put together and reflect credit upon the W. C. Senior Tailoring Co. of Toronto. The mortar boards were imported from England. The gowns and mortar boards were presented to the choir by the Ladies' Aid Society, and the kindness and generosity of the ladies will be greatly appreciated.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto, is visiting this town and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently give up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, on Wednesday, April 7th.

...

HAD TO BE SORRY

A lady was suddenly jerked off the steps by the premature starting of a Shoreditch tramcar the other day. When the car was started the conductor was on the roof; when the lady had been picked up from the road, he came down and promptly said he was sorry. Questioned in the County Court as to why he was sorry, he said he was always sorry. It was a printed instruction of the Metropolitan Electric Tramways Company that he had to be sorry. "Does the rule say," persisted counsel, "'Fetch a cushion or a cab,' or 'See the lady taken to the hospital'?" "No," responded the conductor with the air of a Mede or a Persian of ancient days, "it simply says be sorry, and therefore I was." If the rule had said he was to grin, he would have grinned, and if it had said he was to weep, he would have wept. Now, probably, the directors of the company will summon him to a board meeting and say unto him 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant, help yourself to another gilt button."—John Bull.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Is without an Equal for COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS and all Affections of the THROAT and LUNGS.

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs and the bronchial tubes, are in the beginning but colds or coughs. Too much stress cannot be laid on this fact, and neglect to cure the cold very often causes years of suffering and in the end comes "Consumption." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth, and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe.

Mr. J. L. Purdy, Millvale, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled with a hard, dry cough for a long time, especially at night, but after having used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for a few weeks, I find my cough has left me. To any person, suffering as I did, I can say that this remedy is well worth a trial. I would not be without it in the house."

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy, it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it. Don't be humbugged into taking anything but "Dr. Woods." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.
